Index to Record and Guide

Vol. LXXXI.

For New York Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Projected Buildings.

NOS. 2077 to 2102 JANUARY—JUNE, INCLUSIVE. 1908

PREFACE.

The following is the semi-annual Index of Volume LXXXI of the Record and Guide, containing complete lists of the Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Buildings Projected in Manhattan and Bronx during the first six months of 1908. Those wishing to keep a file for permanent reference should see that all the numbers are complete and have them bound. Cost of binding, $2.50 per volume. A suitable temporary binder, holding one volume, can be obtained at the office, 11-15 East 24th st; price, one dollar.

THE KEY.

* Before any page No. indicates an Auction Sale.

† Before any page No. indicates a New Building projected.

Figures in parenthesis are leases.

Figures preceded by capital letters are mortgages, said capital letter indicating the first letter of the name of the mortgagor.

Figures without any signs whatsoever are Conveyances.

EXAMPLE.

11th st, 1st to 2d av..Z 153, M 194, V 195, Z 195, (269), M 532, P 532, (577), *622, 730, 936, B 991 (1101), W 1106, †1132.

On page *622 an auction sale will be found.

On pages 730, 936 conveyances will be found.

On pages Z 153, M 194, V 195, Z 195, M 532, P 532, B 991, W 1106 mortgages will be found.

On pages (269), (577), (1101) leases will be found.

On page †1132 will be found plans for a new building.

AUCTION SALES.

The * appearing before any number indicates the page on which to find an Auction Sale.

CONVEYANCES

are distinguished by numbers without having signs attached thereto. In many instances there will be found streets, etc., indexed under pages which, on being examined, show at once that they are not in their proper order according to our customary alphabetical and numerical arrangement. A further examination will disclose the fact that while the properties appear more prominently under the other street descriptions, they nevertheless extend to the streets, etc., indicated by the Index, and having a frontage on same have been included in the paging, and it will necessitate a somewhat more thorough search than usual to locate it. The Leases, Mortgages, Auction Sales and Projected Buildings are indexed in a similar manner to the plan followed with the Conveyances.

LEASES.

The figures in parenthesis denote that the transaction on the page given is Leasehold, an assignment of lease or a lease running for a short or long term of years. This explanation is made so that subscribers searching for transfers in fee can at once distinguish between the former and the latter without referring to the pages mentioned.

MORTGAGES.

All the mortgages are indexed against the street or avenue in which the property is located, and memoranda added to enable searchers to find the particulars in "The Record and Guide." See "Example." The streets and avenues are so subdivided that very few references are necessary. All readers of "The Record and Guide" are aware that the mortgages appear weekly in alphabetical order, so that they have, so to speak, a weekly index of mortgagors. This publication of an index against property completes the information which those interested may require.

PROJECTED BUILDINGS

are included under the same general heading, and are distinguished by the † which precedes the numbering.

Auction Sales, Conveyances, Leases, Mortgages and Projected Buildings.

BOROUGH OF MANHATTAN STREETS.

NOTE.—Longitudinal streets, roads and places, such as the Bowery, Boulevard, Broadway, etc., which run parallel with the various avenues, will be found in alphabetical order among the avenues.

THE REAL ESTATE MARKET IN 1907.

A REVIEW AND AN ANTICIPATION

THE fact that stands out most prominently in any backward glance over the real estate market during the past year is that of a substantial decline in the number of recorded real estate transactions. The diminution has been very considerable. It amounts to a very large percentage of the total number of transactions; and it just about restores the level of real estate activity to that which obtained in 1903. The flood of sales which rose gradually during 1904, which culminated in 1905, and which showed evident indications of a recession in 1906, has now finally spent its force. The transactions in Manhattan and Bronx real estate are about as numerous as they were during the early years of the great speculative movement, and a question as to the meaning of this recession is immediately suggested. Perhaps the best way to put this question will be to make an inquiry as to what year since 1900 represents the normal level of real estate activity under prevailing conditions. Is the recession which has been taking place since the winter of 1905-1906 to be considered as a low level, which will be succeeded within a few years by a revival of the excited activity of 1905? Or was the excited activity of 1905 itself the evidence of an abnormal condition, which may not occur again for a great many years?

We do not believe there is any reasonable doubt as to the way in which these questions ought to be answered. The recession which began in 1906 and which has culminated during the past year, represents merely a return to a more normal condition of real estate trading. It was the higher level of 1905 which was the product of abnormal and unstable conditions, and the lower level of the past year merely points to a restoration of a more stable set of conditions whereby the activity of the real estate market in New York is determined. To be sure, the recession has amounted in certain respects to a reaction. To be sure, the real estate market in 1907 has been gravely injured by the serious but temporary financial handicaps. To be sure, the trading in real estate, particularly during the last fall, has been reduced by the financial crisis to abnormally small proportions. Nevertheless it is unquestionably true that the level of activity which prevailed late in 1906 and early in 1907 more nearly represents the kind of a market which real estate owners and operators have a right to expect than did the swollen totals of 1905. The speculation which caused the enormous number of transactions recorded in 1905 was justified by the conditions determining values which then prevailed, but those conditions were themselves only temporary, and they were bound within a comparatively short space of time to exhaust their strength.

A brief analysis of the causes which led to the activity of 1905 will indicate their wholly temporary nature. The activity was due to an excited but legitimate speculation in tenement-house property, and in property which was available for improvement with tenement houses and the cheaper grade of flats. For a number of reasons property of this class, wherever situated in Manhattan, had undergone a substantial although by no means uniform increase in value. In the first place the new tenement-house law had caused a temporary suspension of the construction of new tenement houses which coincided with an unusually large percentage of increase in the tenement-house population. In 1904 there was almost a famine in the supply of available tenements, and this famine enabled landlords all over the city, but particularly on the East Side and in Harlem, to raise their rents. The average income afforded by ordinary tenement houses and flats was thus augmented not only by a decrease in the percentage of vacancies, but by the larger rentals which could be charged. Furthermore it was found that by means of a few alterations in the old five-story buildings their income could be substantially increased; and many speculative operators made a business of picking up such buildings and increasing their value by spending a few thousand dollars on these alterations. It so happened that the whole movement in its effect upon certain parts of the city was very much accelerated by the opening of the subway in 1904. The improved transit service afforded by the subway not only made large amounts of vacant land available for improvement, but it tended to increase the value of tenement and apartment house property along its line. The result of all these causes was a general and substantial improvement in the price of all classes of property upon which tenement and apartment-houses had been and could be built, and speculators rushed in to take advantage of this improvement. The same property frequently changed hands several times, each time at a higher value; and the number of such transactions amounted to hundreds in the course of a week. At the same time, of course, a fair amount of activity was taking place in the other lines of real estate trading—particularly in the neighborhood of Fifth Avenue, so that the volume of business was further increased by a considerable speculation in real estate available for improvement with business buildings.

As, however, the Record and Guide frequently pointed out in 1905, these conditions were peculiar and could not be expected to continue. The time would come when it would be impossible to push up any further the value of the average tenement house and flat, and when that time came the occasion for this speculative excitement would no longer exist. This time came in 1906. The increased value of such property had resulted in an enormous building movement, which converted the famine, which had existed in 1904, into an over-supply. Then the higher rents charged for tenement-house accommodations had naturally induced many families to move to other boroughs, and stimulated an excited speculation in vacant property in Brooklyn and Queens, and a rapid construction of cheap means of residence in those neighborhoods. The consequence was, of course, a rapid decline of the speculative movement in Manhattan flats and tenements, just because the conditions which made it possible no longer existed. This decline culminated in the past fall, during which period sales of this class of property have been fewer than for many years. In a short time such extreme inactivity will disappear; but it is improbable that the New York real estate market will ever witness a similar speculation in Manhattan tenement-house property. Rents cannot be pushed up any higher, because of the competition of similar accommodations in the other boroughs; and in any event it is real estate in Manhattan, used for business purposes, which has a great future, rather than real estate used for residence purposes.

With the trading in tenement-house property reduced to a normal basis, there will be no chance during an indefinitely long period for a volume of activity, such as that in 1905 and early in 1906. It was an opportunity for speculation which occurs only once in a generation, and a similar opportunity is not likely to occur in business property. A speculative movement in business property, while it offers much larger opportunities of profit on single transactions, requires so much more capital that it is necessarily restricted to a comparatively few corporations and individuals. The speculation in tenement-houses on the other hand required very little capital, and engaged the attention of thousands of small property-owners, who were familiar with local conditions and saw the chance for a profitable turn. A smaller volume of activity must, then, be definitely accepted as the probable characteristic of the real estate market for some years to come, and this smaller volume of business must be considered as an evidence, not of any depression but of the recovery by the market of an equilibrium which had been temporarily disturbed by a group of very unusual conditions.

Neither will the interests of the owner of real estate be in any way injured by a restoration in this respect of normal conditions. His interests only demand a volume of activity sufficient to absorb such offerings of real property as necessarily take place owing to the ordinary exigencies of business, and upon such a volume of activity he can most assuredly depend as soon as money can again be easily obtained on good security. The best interests of real estate demand a steady and advancing level of values rather than an enormous volume of business, and in this essential matter the outlook is as yet free from serious dangers. The diminution in activity has not been accompanied by any general or pronounced diminution in prices. Of course in certain parts of the city flats do not command as high an appraisal as they did a couple of years ago, and the same statement is true of vacant land in one or two neighborhoods which are available for improvement with flats. On Washington Heights, for instance, such is the case, and so it is in several parts of the Bronx. But as yet there has been surprisingly little liquidation, considering both the general financial strain and the decreased demand for tenement-house property. Prices have been firmly held, and if they could be firmly held during the past fall, it is difficult to understand why they should not continue to be so held. Real estate owners in this city may congratulate themselves on the fact that during a period when the value of good stocks has diminished anywhere from twenty-five to one hundred per cent., their property has remained at least stationary in value, and it has remained stationary in value in spite of the fact that the prevailing level of prices has been reached only after a prolonged period of most aggressive speculative buying which the New York real estate market has ever experienced.

Since the winter of 1900 there has been a pronounced improvement in prices in every class of real estate property in Manhattan and the Bronx. First came the apartment hotel movement, which caused persistent buying near Long Acre Square. Then business property in the financial district began to feel the effect of good times and of the increasing financial importance of New York City. There followed a similar increase in values in the more expensive residence property to the south and east of Central Park. At the same time the extraordinary expansion in prices on Fifth Avenue and its vicinity began—an expansion which has been carried further than any similar movement in any part of the city. Finally the speculation in tenement-house property in Manhattan and the Bronx set in, and engaged the money and the attention of thousands of small operators. In certain instances, such as that of the speculative buying of property available for apartment hotels, these movements only lasted for a short time; but as a rule they have all continued with greater or lesser momentum throughout the whole of this period. The net result has been increases in business property varying from 30 to 300 per cent., and increases in residence property varying from 25 to 150 per cent. The owner of New York real estate is in the majority of instances a far richer man than he was five years ago, and his greater wealth brings him in many cases a proportionately larger income.

It might naturally be supposed that a speculative movement, which has been so aggressively and so successfully carried on for a period of six years, would have resulted in some inflation of values. Such was the case in 1872, and such is generally the case under similar circumstances. There is no evidence, however, that such is the case in New York at the present time or that any similar result will follow in the near future. Liquidation is necessary only when prices have been advanced to a level which makes property unsalable, and when this advance has been carried on with too large a proportion of borrowed money. But in New York at the present time the title companies act as a powerful restraining influence, and make it difficult for an over-enthusiastic group of speculators to borrow more money than they should on the basis of an inflated level of prices. The increases in value, large as they have been, are in the enormous majority of instances justified by sound business reasons. In certain cases they represent, indeed, no proportionate earning power at the present time, but such cases are for the most part a legitimate anticipation of an increased earning power in the near future. As we have said, there is no evidence of any general inflation, and no symptoms of anything but an occasional liquidation. The increase in real estate values, unlike the increase in stock values, has been all to the good.

No doubt the foregoing statement must be taken with a few minor qualifications. In the speculative neighborhoods owners have been asking more for their holdings than they were worth, and when active business is resumed there will be little trading, unless these gentlemen are willing to accept less money. But these asking prices have never represented actual values such as those which a competent appraiser would make as the basis of a loan. Furthermore, it may be that the owners of tenements and the cheaper grades of flats will witness a certain deterioration in the value of their property, and as this possibility is the most serious threat confronting real estate in Manhattan and the Bronx, the conditions upon which their realty depends demand special consideration.

GRANITE BUILDING OF THE AMERICAN BANK NOTE CO.
Broad, Beaver and Marketfield Sts. Kirby, Petit & Green, Architects.

The prosperity of the owners of tenement-houses has depended partly upon the prosperity of the mechanic and the day laborer, and it is manifest that the recession in business will increase the number of men out of employment. The first evidence of a smaller demand for labor is the large emigration to Europe which has been taking place during the past few months, and this emigration has an immediate effect upon tenement-house renting. The number of vacancies has increased; it is more difficult to collect rents, and it is more difficult to obtain the high rents which have prevailed. This general condition will probably last for a considerable period. Nobody can say at the present time how long it will last or how acute it will be; but manifestly during next year or two there must be radical readjustment in the economic position of labor just as in the economic position of capital. The welfare of the country demands an increasing efficiency on the part of the average mechanic, and such increasing efficiency can be effected only by an increasing difficulty in obtaining employment. The owners of tenement-house property are bound to feel the effect of this process; and how serious this effect will be can be determined with some certainty during the first few months of the new year.

Besides this general condition, certain local conditions must also be taken into consideration. During the next few years the tenements and flats of Manhattan and the Bronx will have to meet a much severer competition from similar living accommodations in the other boroughs and in New Jersey. Every residential neighborhood in which New Yorkers live will, during the next few years, have the advantage of an improved transit service—excepting alone Manhattan and the Bronx. Brooklyn will be made much more accessible by the subway, the Manhattan Bridge and the terminal improvements in Manhattan. Queens will be made very much more accessible by the Belmont tunnel, the Long Island tunnels and the Blackwell's Island Bridge. New Jersey will be made much more accessible by the work which is being accomplished by the Pennsylvania and the Jersey trolley companies. The first effect of these better means of transit will be felt during the coming spring, and their effect will be increased as one tunnel and bridge after another is completed and opened for traffic. In the aggregate they will undoubtedly effect an enormous readjustment in the distribution of the population of New York—particularly in view of the fact that neither Manhattan nor the Bronx will have the advantage of any new subways during that period. Their effect will be probably to draw a certain amount of population away from Manhattan. Whether their attractive power will be sufficient actually to diminish the number of inhabitants in Manhattan, or whether they will simply draw off the yearly increase in population, remains to be seen. In any event, the owners of tenements and cheap flats in Manhattan and the Bronx should not, during the next few years, cherish great expectations. They will do well in case they can hold their own and draw out of their property a fair income. The larger proportion of their tenants will remain where they are, because the latter prefer or are obliged to live in Manhattan or the Bronx; but vacancies will be more numerous and rents may have to be shaded.

There is no reason to suppose, however, that these causes will provoke any considerable diminution in the value of tenement-house property, or any considerable liquidation. The income from tenements has of late years been very large, and it can be reduced without seriously affecting the economic position of tenements. Moreover, it must be remembered that during the whole of 1907, and during the last half of 1906, the construction of new tenements and flats did not obtain large proportions, and the effect of this restriction of building operations is already being felt. In certain neighborhoods renting conditions are better than they were a year ago. In a city which is growing in population as fast as New York, the effect of any diminution in the supply of new living accommodations is quickly felt, and the influence of this condition will be still more evident during the coming spring.

It seems, then, that the owners of real estate in Manhattan and the Bronx may regard their present situation with complacency and the future with confidence. They cannot look forward to any such degree of prosperity as that which they have enjoyed during the past six years, but they can rest assured that what they have they can keep, and that this stationary period will only be a prelude to another period of, perhaps, even greater good fortune—at least for some of them. Much, of course, will depend upon the activity of general business during the next two years—in the celerity and completeness of the recovery from the prevailing prices. But it must be remembered that even comparative business inactivity will not be wholly without certain benefits to the owner of real estate. The period of business prosperity has been on the whole a period of tight money. Large sums have been borrowed at abnormally high rates of interest, and this fact has increased very considerably the expense account of many owners of real estate. A period of comparative business inactivity should enable many owners of real estate to renew their mortgages at lower rates and thus to reduce their carrying charges. Indeed, we expect to see during the next few years a large increase in the popularity of mortgage as an investment. Such an increase can hardly take place so long as good railroad bonds and stocks command the low prices which they do at present. The first result of a more plentiful supply of money will undoubtedly be a higher level of values on the Stock Exchange. But the second result will he the investment of large sums of real estate mortgages. The ultimate effect of the crisis, and of the persistent political agitation against the railroads, will be to make cautious investors accept a lower rate of interest on mortgages as compared to railroad securities than they formerly would; if such should be the case the owners of real estate will be in a better position to borrow money on good terms than they have been for many years.

The opportunities for a profitable speculative buying of real estate will be fewer in the near futnre than they have been in the past, but there will be enough to keep the capital of the professional operators well employed. Taking a large view of the speculative landscape, its main features may be described in a comparatively few words. In Manhattan it will be business property centrally situated which will offer the best opportunities for profitable purchase. In the other boroughs the money will be made chiefly in the development of residential neighborhoods. As we have pointed out there is bound to be a great shifting population for some time to come. The bulk of the yearly increase will take up their habitations on the other side of the waters which environ Manhattan, because it will be increasingly easy for them to go to and from residences on the outskirts of the city. But the very condition which will diminish the comparative availability of Manhattan as a place of residence will contribute to its existing advantage as a place of business. Improved means of communication will merely tie Manhattan tighter to the other boroughs. The residents of those boroughs and of New Jersey, who now come very seldom to Manhattan either for business or pleasure because the transit is so inconvenient, will hereafter make the journey much more frequently; and the effect of this new condition will be very much to improve the business prosperity of all that part of the borough affected by the retail trade, the theatres and the restaurants. In the long run the influence of improved means of transit will run still deeper, in that they will increase the efficiency and probably reduce the cost of the labor, employed in New York business; but such a result is only felt slowly and almost imperceptibly. The result, which will be felt quickly and sharply, is that already indicated, of an increased dependence by the inhabitants of the suburbs upon Manhattan as a place in which to amuse themselves, to make purchases and to transact business; and the chance for profitable speculation in Manhattan real estate during the next few years lies in taking advantage of this new condition. It will affect chiefly property between Twenty-third and Fiftieth streets, Fourth and Seventh avenues, and a continuation of speculative buying in this area may be confidently anticipated.

A general speculative revival in Manhattan can hardly be anticipated until the contracts for new subways in that borough are let.

Effect of Recent Corporation Disclosures on Real Estate Values.

THE year preceding the one that has just closed will long be known and remembered as the most successful of the years of the most reckless and riotous speculation this country or any other country in the world's history has ever known. Millionaires were created at a wholesale rate until millions became a mere commonplace, and to be worth but seven figures no longer entitled the possessor to be classed among the rich. A new term had to be coined — that of multi-millionaire.

JOSEPH L. BUTTENWIESER.

The year 1907 will, on the contrary, long be known and sadly remembered as the panic year—a year of awakening and reckoning—a year of sobering up after a long debauch of intoxicating success.

In the rising tide of advancing prices, in the irresistible flood of seemingly boundless, unlimited prosperity, the old landmarks of conservatism and caution, yes of honesty too, were completely submerged if not entirely swept away. Men plunged recklessly in the hope and the belief that somehow or other they would be carried with the tide into the harbor of wealth. They were wholly unprepared for the receding tide that would naturally carry to financial destruction those who were already far beyond their proper depth.

In every line of human activity, in mining, in manufacture, in house and railroad building, in stock and land speculation, the spirit of bold adventure was rampant. In the earlier period of this speculative activity there was the underlying broad and safe foundation of a genuine demand for additional housing for the ever growing number of immigrants, who flocked to our shores in search of that wealth of opportunity which this promised land ever offers to the willing, the industrious, the wide-awake—a genuine demand for multiplied means of transportation for the ever-increasing harvests, which a fertile and comparatively virgin soil seems ever ready to yield to the honest toil and the improved implements of the American farmer and planter—a genuine demand for the manufactured articles which this enterprising country, blessed with unparalleled natural resources and with a population of indomitable energy and of enormous inventive power, produces in ever larger quantities and at ever cheaper prices—a continued and wider demand for the products of our farms, our factories, our foundries and our mines.

The danger lay, however, in the unbounded greed of the American speculator and in the rapacious and corrupt methods of corporate management. Men seemed ill-content to gather in the rich harvest which they had a right to expect to reap in one season, but they regularly wished to discount the future, to clip the coupons of unearned profits, to rob the coming years of the enjoyment of the yield which those years alone should bring. The greed of the individual has been outdone only by the rapacity and ofttimes absolutely dishonest manipulation of that soulless individual—the corporation.

Earnings, both present and prospective, real and imaginary, were capitalized without the least regard to the value of the underlying property. We were wont to talk of a 5% railroad or industrial stock as a safe investment, because perchance the stock has, during the last few years, earned 8% and has declared a dividend of only 5%, but we did not stop to ask whether the cost of the railroad, the value of the factory, the natural resources of the mine, would begin to approach the amount of the bonded indebtedness, let alone the amount of the capitalization, and whether in the coming years such earnings would be apt to increase or at least continue undiminished.

It is small wonder then that statisticians and self-constituted prophets can trace and prophesy a regularly recurring cycle of panic years. It is but natural that, where healthy growth is not permitted to take its normal course, weakness must result, reactions must set in.

It is undoubtedly true that our inelastic currency has had much to do with aggravating our financial troubles, but even if a plan of asset currency, more resilient than rubber, were to spring, full-fledged and perfect, from the master mind of some genius in finance and were to be translated into the law of our land, we would, nonetheless, continue from time to time to suffer from the effects of this method of capitalizing corporations, the best of which have as a result of recent disclosures been shown to be unduly watered and the worst of which had assets, which proved as volatile as vapor and had an existence only in the imagination of their promoters and in the prospectuses issued to tempt the unwary investor.

Confidence, however, was first undermined and the real trouble began when the life insurance companies, which had proudly boasted that they were veritable fortresses of impregnable financial strength, turned out to have been garrisoned by traitors and plunderers. Such disclosures as resulted from the insurance investigation and the revelation of wrong doing in other high places set people a-thinking. It was an awful blow to confidence and it was but natural that men should consider and look around for some absolutely safe form of investment.

They had tried stocks of every description and bonds of supposedly stable value, but they have seen them bend like a reed or break like a rotten tree in these times of financial storm. They had pinned their faith to banks and trust companies, where they had a right to expect that, in return for the slender interest they received, they might at least rest secure in the sublime conviction that their capital was absolutely safe and ready to be handed over to them whenever demanded. But here, too, they were doomed to sore disappointment and a period of distrust ensued, resulting in withdrawals of deposits and in the absolute hoarding of cash on a scale unparalleled in the history of finance and to an extent that upset the money markets of the world.

What, however, most interests us of the real estate fraternity is the question as to what effect all this high financing and the recent disturbances and upheaval will have on the real estate market. It is, indeed, difficult to prophesy the result with any degree of certainty. If the Wall Street and financial panic were to stop now, if all the effects of these wild schemes of high finance and of the widespread liquidation that ensued are now visible, I should say that this ill wind blew some one good, and "real estate" is that "some one," for it is the one asset that has thus far withstood any serious shock. It has remained firm amidst the gathering floods, proof against all financial storms, like a huge and solid rock amidst the hissing maelstrom of distrust and panic. It has proved its right to the title "Real Estate," the only "real" property that one can own and control, that men cannot multiply by fictitious means, cannot conceal, cannot steal. It is stationary, it is visible, it cannot be juggled with; it is there to be seen, to be measured, to be valued. It is natural, therefore, that men should look with ever greater favor upon real estate as the best asset and as the safest security for a loan.

Those who have funds to lend will recognize more and more the absolute security of a mortgage on well located city real estate, for the lender knows that he can watch it, appraise it, search it, and when he fails to get his regular interest payments he realizes that if the property falls to him he will become the owner of a most desirable asset. He need not worry which of a dozen or more reorganization schemes he should join, which will be least likely to exploit his asset or to attempt to absorb his little share of the mortgaged security in the interest of some rival road or mine or trust.

And the owner of well located real estate in the heart of Manhattan or along the main streets and avenues of the other boroughs knows that he owns an integral part of a rapidly growing city. He can rest assured that, while he sleeps, 4,000,000 people this year, and at least 300,000 more each succeeding year, are working to enhance the value of his piece of property by helping to increase the economic importance of the great city of which he owns a little slice. So that speaking broadly, there is only one way for the value of real estate in a great and growing city to move and that is upward, as it must needs appeal to an ever larger number of investors. Of course temporarily its value may and must be affected by that which affects the greater part of the country and of the country's activities, but it will feel such effects least and last; and in this panic, which has been severe but which I think will prove to be acute rather than chronic, real estate may escape practically unhurt and may indeed in some respects be benefitted. Men will begin more and more to recognize that they can do with their real estate what they cannot do with any other asset, be their own president, vice-president, treasurer, finance committee and board of directors. They can every day of their life look at it, watch it and judge it; they can, if they have paid for it, be sure that their dividends will not be suspended and that no one can manipulate it with yellow dog funds, so as to make their property a source of revenue and profit only to unscrupulous directors and the receivers under State and national jurisdiction. When the last word is spoken, it needs no prophetic eye to see that real estate is and will always remain an investment, to which men will turn, with ever wistful eyes, as a most coveted possession to enjoy in security during their lifetime and to hand down to their loved ones as a safe and remunerative heritage.

—Statistical Record of the Progress of the United States, 1800-1907, is the title of a publication issued by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, and while composed exclusively of columns of figures, the record of progress which it shows for the United States and its industries and commerce is extremely interesting. The merchandise imported into the country is given at $1,434,000,000 in the fiscal year 1907, against $1,227,000,000 in 1900 and $765,000,000 in 1897, having thus nearly doubled during the decade, while exports of domestic merchandise are set down at $1,854,000,000 in 1907, against $1,718,000,000 in 1906 and $1,032,000,000 in 1897. Manufacturers' crude materials imported are given at $477,000,000 in 1907, against $415,000,000 in 1906 and $196,000,000 in 1897; manufactures for further use in manufacturing, at $274,000,000, against $220,000,000 in the immediately preceding year and $88,000,000 in 1897, a decade earlier. On the export side, crude materials for use in manufacturing are given at $593,000,000 in 1907, against $500,500,000 in 1906 and $297,000,000 in 1897; manufactures for further use in manufacturing, at $259,000,000, against $226,000,000 in the immediately preceding year and $98,000,000 in 1897; and manufactures ready for consumption, $481,000,000 in 1907, against $460,000,000 in 1906 and $213,000,000 in 1897.

Mortgage Money in New York

By G. RICHARD DAVIS

New York, December 1, 1907.

THE mortgage market for the past twelve months has presented some most unusual phases. Conditions have not been favorable for the borrower. Interest rates have been high and the margin of security demanded has been steadily increasing.

When money was liberally offered for investment on bond and mortgage, the borrower could exact reasonable terms and obtain a fairly liberal loan; this year it has been all the other way, and the lender has had the upper hand.

G. RICHARD DAVIS.

In the early part of the year and up to April, money was tight and five and a half per cent. was not an unusual rate to demand. During the spring, money became easier to obtain on mortgages and a great many loans were made at four and a half and five per cent. In fact, considering the kind of property that was offered as security, rather liberal loans were made by several institutions and individuals. The advent of summer takes out of the city many of the heads of leading institutions and attorneys representing estates, and this always makes it difficult to negotiate loans during the heated term.

This year proved no exception; those who were unable to obtain the mortgage loans they desired waited patiently for the fall, hoping to borrow on better terms and more liberally than it was possible to do before. To the surprise of a number of these people, mortgage loans instead of becoming more liberal in September became more difficult to obtain. The climax came with the financial crash of October, the failure of the Knickerbocker Trust Co. making that month a turning point in a great many people's plans and financial arrangements. Interest rates leaped up. On the best of security from five to six per cent, as far as the records show (and reliable information leads me to believe that as high as seven per cent), was paid for first mortgage money. It is a long time since six per cent. has been obtainable on any first mortgage loan on Manhattan improved realty where the security was unquestioned. Then, too, a number of our very wealthy citizens found themselves embarrassed by the extreme financial conditions and were obliged to borrow on their residences in the 5th av section, and a number of gilt-edged pieces of property were mortgaged for the first time.

A greater margin of security was required than was deemed necessary a year ago on all loans, and more particularly on tenements and flats in the outlying districts. This was due partly to the questioning by real estate appraisers and experts of the stability of the present values of this latter class of property; but the principal difficulty in securing reasonable loans at reasonable rates was due to the enormous immediate demand and the unusually inadequate supply. The two principal sources on which we depend for our mortgage money are the life insurance companies and the savings banks, but for the past two months they have both almost absolutely withdrawn from the market.

The life insurance companies are required by law to loan to their policyholders, at five per cent. interest, an amount equal to their entire reserve on each policy. This has been an easy way of obtaining money at a low rate of interest for these times. It has, however, made the insurance companies shy of making commitments.

The run on the savings banks in October forced them to require sixty-day notices from their depositors of their intention to withdraw, and also forced them to make provision to meet

PROGRESS IN THE BOROUGHS.

PLANS FOR LARGE DEVELOPMENT IN BROOKLYN AND THE BRONX.

By the President of the Borough of Brooklyn.

DURING the year 1907 the development of the Borough of Brooklyn has been enormous, and the total building operations will come close to the record total of 1906. The estimated cost of new buildings for which plans are filed this year is $63,000,000 as against a similar total last year of $65,000,000. Up to the first of November the total was three million dollars ahead of the total for the first ten months of 1906, but the stringency in financial affairs affected the building operations materially, and the following months began to lose in the comparison. Builders say, however, that as soon as the currency situation allows of the expenditure of sufficient money for their purposes, the building operations will become more extensive than ever, as the demand for homes in Brooklyn has increased and the opportunities for profitable building are therefore larger than they have ever been. This is due in a considerable measure to the authorization by the Public Service Commission of the Fourth avenue subway.

HON. BIRD S. COLER.

The construction of this line, as a part of Borough President Coler's tri-borough route, will give immense stimulus to the development in all of the broad area between Atlantic and Fourth avenues and Coney Island. Beyond 36th street this development is of a residential character almost altogether. The subway will connect with the Third avenue subway in Manhattan, cross the Manhattan Bridge and proceed along Flatbush avenue and Fourth avenue to 40th street, where it will divide into two great branches, one to continue along Fourth avenue to Fort Hamilton and the other to proceed by way of New Utrecht avenue and other streets to Coney Island.

It is noticeable, however, that the increase in building operations was marked by the authorization of the contracts for the construction of this subway and at a time when it seemed very doubtful that the Public Service Commission would authorize them at all. This indicates a condition of growth which may be hampered by transit conditions but cannot be checked. Not only the section traversed by the Fourth avenue subway but other sections of the borough have shared in the development. The 28th Ward section, the South Brooklyn section, the Williamsburgh section, the Brownsville section and the Flatbush section have all grown rapidly.

In the downtown section and also in the Williamsburgh and Greenpoint sections great manufacturing institutions have been constructed, and this is true of the Red Hook Point district and of the section along the South Brooklyn shore of the Bay. The commercial development has been assisted by the construction of the great terminal yard of the Long Island R. R. at 65th street and by the efforts being made by that railroad company to conduct a through freight railroad through Brooklyn and Queens.

The people of lower South Brooklyn are much interested in the great Flushing Tunnel which is being built for the purpose of the purification of the Gowanus Canal. This will do away with a nuisance of long standing and will greatly improve real estate values in that section of the city. The tunnel will cost $750,000.

A great relief sewer for which contracts have been let during the year is expected to do away with the so-called "flooded districts" which have been one of the bad features of Brooklyn. This sewer will run from almost the Queens Borough line down through the heart of the borough and finally discharge into the river at the foot of Gold street. It will cost about two million dollars.

The establishment of an asphalt plant has enabled the city authorities to keep the streets in a better state of repair, so that Brooklyn has more pavement and better pavement than any community of any thing like its size in the country. The work is better done and more cheaply done than it was under the old contract system.

The new Manhattan Bridge is approaching completion and this and the opening of the Joralemon street subway will, within a

By the President of the Borough of the Bronx.

IN the history of the Bronx nothing more significant has happened or could have happened than the proof afforded by the events of 1907 that the growth and prosperity of the borough rests on the most solid and sure foundation. In number and value of residential and business structures, building operations for 1907 will equal similar operations for 1906. That there has been no marked recession in the progress of the Bronx during a period of financial chaos which cannot soon be forgotten, indicates the substantial character of the underlying conditions of the real estate market in the great urban territory north and east of the Harlem River. Naturally the money stringency has to some extent affected real estate operations, but the experience of 1907 in the financial world has indubitably shown that no better investment exists than in real estate properties in the Borough of the Bronx. While values have crumbled and in some cases almost disappeared in securities heretofore regarded as gilt-edged, real estate in the Bronx has stood as adamant and suffered no serious impairment either in selling price or earning power. The only effect of the panic has been to enforce the necessity of a prudent conservatism in planning new enterprises, and this is far from being injurious to the best interests of the borough.

HON. LOUIS F. HAFFEN.

As to the future, Bronxites are all optimists. Even if it is true that the nation is facing a prolonged period of industrial and financial depression, with an inevitable setback to general business, I am firmly convinced that we shall nevertheless see an active real estate market in the Bronx, with values holding their own or steadily mounting to higher figures. A curtailment in Wall street speculation will mean a large increase in funds available for real estate investment and development in our trans-Harlem borough. The history of past panics justifies the prediction that the Bronx will undergo no material or prolonged setback in its wonderful career of growth and progress. It is no theoretical forecast, that following the period of adjustment in the money market enforced by the financial convulsion of last October, the Bronx will prosper as never before. This was precisely the experience of the panic of 1893. It is inevitable that a monetary stringency such as we are now witnessing must result in the lowering of prices of commodities, including every kind of building material.

Within a few weeks, or a few months at the furthest, the banks of New York will be gorged with idle money. Low interest rates for money are certain to prevail. Cheap money and fair prices for building materials are the two factors needed to ensure a great building movement in the Bronx that will give employment to thousands of mechanics and artisans, stimulate the trade of local merchants, and create a demand for vacant lots and building sites.

The necessary population to occupy the new houses and apartments erected during this period of activity is certain to be attracted to the borough by the reasonable rents for high-class residential properties which the Bronx can always offer because of our lower land values.

TWO-FAMILY DWELLINGS.

An interesting feature of the current building operations in the Bronx is the large number of 2-family houses planned and in course of construction. There is no question but that a very considerable percentage of the population now coming to the borough favors this form of dwelling. It is doubtless true that the erection on a large scale of 1 and 2-family houses reduces the average cost of new buildings and perhaps lessens the total volume of building operations as measured in dollars. But it is also true that this class of dwelling brings to the borough a most desirable quality of new population and stimulates the upbuilding of a home community of the very highest order. The housing problem for the City of New York will be nearly solved when new rapid transit lines open to our millions the large sections of the Bronx that are peculiarly available for the erection at moderate cost of villa residences and single and 2-family houses.

WAITING FOR SUBWAYS.

The Bronx is growing in population at a remarkable rate. Each year brings a larger influx of new population than the preceding year. The present rate of growth is not less than 30,000 per annum. Even this large accession would be greater if needed means of rapid transit were provided. The most pressing problem which now confronts the business man as well as the property owner of New York is this question of urban transportation. Increased and improved transit facilities between lower Manhattan and the sparsely settled and undeveloped sections of the Bronx is the vital need of the hour. The water supply of the future is now assured, and rapid transit remains as the one problem upon the solution of which depends the growth and destiny of the metropolis.

In the Bronx great boulevards, avenues and streets are graded and ready for millions of new population. Public improvements of every sort have more than kept pace with the borough's growth. All that is lacking to add in four years a quarter of a million people to the population of the borough and $250,000,000 to the city's assessed valuation, is the commencement of construction work on subways and elevated lines which will open up the eastern and western sections of the Bronx.

TAXABLE VALUES.

I am aware that general financial conditions and the slight margin of debt limit enforces prudence as the keynote of the city's financial policy. Yet the undeniable truth is that if the City of New York can be empowered to undertake the construction of needed lines of rapid transit in the Borough of the Bronx, the new railroads will pay for themselves from the very beginning of the actual work of construction. This result automatically follows from the immediate increase in taxable values in the sections traversed by and tributary to the new lines of transit. This has been the city's experience in building the existing subway to West Farms. In a single year, in the Bronx district tributary to the West Farms subway, taxable values were augmented to the extent of one hundred million dollars. In four years, beginning with the year prior to the opening of the subway and continuing to the present time, the increase in assessed valuations in the subway district has been not less than $200,000,000.

What is the significance of such a tremendous addition in one small district less than nine square miles in extent, to the taxable value of the Bronx? Just this. That the city debt margin on which bonds are issued is increased $20,000,000, or nearly two-thirds the entire cost of subway construction from South Ferry to West Farms. Besides this large increase in debt margin, current taxes paid into the city treasury on the new assessable property values created by the subway, amount to $3,000,000 a year. Three million dollars is sufficient to pay interest at 4 per cent. on $75,000,000, an amount twice as large as the cost to the city of the existing subway.

These figures constitute a complete demonstration of the proposition that subways and elevated railroads built in the Bronx pay for themselves twice over, even including the cost of the Manhattan portion of the new railroads.

A subway from lower Manhattan, with through trains operated by "L" extensions to Wakefield and Pelham Bay Park, thereby affording transit facilities to the eastern sections of the Bronx, and an elevated railroad on Jerome av to the city line, will open to immediate settlement and improvement not nine but thirty square miles of Bronx territory. New taxable values would be created so great in amount that the augmented debt margin would more than suffice for the rapid transit bonds issued by the city to pay the cost of construction. Besides a tremendous addition to the permanent wealth of the municipality, the taxes paid each year on the new valuations would be twice as great as the interest on the bonds.

An increase of a quarter of a million people in the population of the Bronx means a much larger volume of trade for every Manhattan and Bronx merchant, and a greater demand for every kind of business and residential property in the two boroughs. From the real estate and business interests in Manhattan should come a united and persistent demand for Bronx subways and elevated railroads. They impose no financial burden whatever on the municipality. They pay for themselves twice over—first in the rental paid the city by the operating company, second in the annual taxes paid into the municipal treasury on the new property values created in the sections traversed by the rapid transit lines.

Municipal statesmanship and the future of New York both demand the speedy construction of subways and elevated railroads to connect every part of the Bronx with the financial and business sections of Manhattan. In no other way can the welfare of the City of New York be so completely conserved and its growth and greatness as a metropolis stimulated and advanced.

LOUIS F. HAFFEN.

The New York Tax Department.

THE work of the New York Tax Department has progressed smoothly during the past year, and in the main satisfactorily. Criticism must always be expected, and some criticism must always be justifiable, but we are encouraged to believe that every year brings some improvement in methods and standard of work. A large percentage of the deputies and clerks have been in the department for many years, and with added experience their work gains in precision.

HON. LAWSON PURDY.

At the request of the department certain changes were made in the law by the last Legislature, which, in time, will prove of great convenience to taxpayers. Until this year, when parcels of real property were divided after the second Monday of January, the work of apportioning the tax was imposed upon the Finance Department, but in practice it was generally necessary for the apportionment clerks of that department to consult the deputy tax commissioners in regard to the proper apportionment of the assessments on which the tax must be based. The apportionment clerks were not informed of the cases of divided parcels until the applications were made by the owners for the apportionment of the taxes in order that they might pay their bills. Therefore, a very large proportion of such applications were made early in October when the office of the Receiver of Taxes is most burdened with work, and when the temporary force of clerks is still inexperienced. The apportionment clerks in the several boroughs were obliged to consult the deputy tax commissioners, and at that season of the year the deputies were in the field assessing property and could be found at the office only one day in the week. The practical difficulties were such that it was impossible in many cases to give property owners their tax bills for months after the time when taxes became payable.

Two changes in the law were made, one of which went into practical operation this year. The duty of apportioning assessments when parcels are divided was imposed on the Tax Department, and that work has been performed and is now going on. For the first year it was expected that the new method would not work as smoothly as it will when the force is accustomed to the new duty. The Tax Department had no special appropriation to employ additional men, and for the first year the number of men who could be spared for apportionment was hardly adequate, because there was the same congestion of apportionments at one season of the year.

By another change in the law, provision was made for apportioning the assessments after the books are opened on the second Monday of January until they must close on June 1 to write up the assessment rolls. If property owners generally can be made acquainted with this provision, the work of apportionment, formerly done in October, can be performed before June 1, when the property is divided before that date. When substantially all assessments on divided parcels are apportioned up to June 1, the number of parcels on which it will be necessary to apportion taxes will be greatly reduced. The apportionment force of the Tax Department will work continuously throughout the year, and it may be found that the present small force will be adequate. In order that this change may be of the greatest benefit, it is essential that all property owners interested in divided parcels should make a request, as soon as title passes, that the assessments shall be apportioned.

Certain changes were made in the tax law affecting banks short time, do away with the miserable conditions at the Manhattan terminal of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The Williamsburgh Bridge will soon be utilized, as it should be utilized, and it will add to what it has already done to improve conditions in the Eastern District.

The opening of the Livingston st line has shortened by ten minutes the journey from Manhattan to their homes and from their homes to Manhattan of a great many residents of the borough and has relieved materially the congestion in Fulton st.

The future of Brooklyn looks very bright from every aspect. Its present population of more than a million and a half is that of a great city in itself, but the indications are that this population will be doubled in the next fifteen years. Its business interests are increasing and prospering, and I have no doubt that I shall live long enough to see it the dominant borough of Greater New York.

and trust companies. The first change will be very welcome to trust companies, and the second will probably not be so welcome. For the last six years trust companies have paid their taxes directly to the State, but were obliged to file statements with the local department to procure the cancellation of legal assessments. This was quite unnecessary, as the State has ample power to enforce the payment of taxes, and when the tax is paid to the State the trust company is not liable for local taxes except on real estate. Hereafter it will be unnecessary to assess trust companies for their personal property, locally, and they will be saved the inconvenience of making report to the local department.

The legislation of 1901 changing the law for the assessment of banks and trust companies was designed to put these institutions on the same basis, and to remove all exemptions of every kind formerly enjoyed by certain classes of bank shareholders. By defect in the law and a decision of the courts, trust companies have enjoyed an exemption from the tax imposed on their shares of bank stock. This undesigned exemption was the source of great annoyance to the Finance Department and occasioned some loss of revenue to the city. Trust companies and certain charitable institutions might make application, at any time, for the return of taxes paid upon their bank shares, and under the decision this return had to be made. The law has been so amended that all exemptions on bank shares are repealed.

The blank forms used for notifying persons assessed for personal property and for applications for the reduction of assessments of corporations were devised some years ago. Changes have been made in the law, and experience has shown the desirability of further changes in these forms. It is found, for example, that persons who apply for a reduction of their assessments very often do not know that the inquiry in regard to their affairs relates to the second Monday of January. They may appear in March quite ignorant of the condition of their property on the second Monday of January. The following paragraph has been added to the notice, which it is believed will be of assistance to the persons assessed and save time when they appear for examination:

"Bring a memorandum of assets and liabilities, as the same were on January 13, 1908. Follow form on back of notice. Do not write on notice."

The form on the back of the notice is about the same as it has been, and indicates various classes of assets and liabilities. If persons who receive notice of assessment will follow these instructions, it will save their time and reduce the possibility of their being kept waiting for others.

The new forms adopted for corporations will be easier to understand, and they will be so arranged as to show various classes of assets; the aggregate assets; the various classes of deductions; the aggregate of deductions, and the taxable balance. On the forms heretofore used there was no question the answer to which showed the amount taxable. Persons filing such statements were in doubt as to the conclusions of the department. On the new forms corporations will be required to show the taxable amount, and if the amount is not acceptable to the department, explanation will be sought from the corporation affected. Efforts are being made more nearly to conform the tentative assessments to the actual facts, thus materially reducing the number of applications for reduction upon which the department must act, and more time will be afforded for careful consideration of the applications actually filed.

In the outlying boroughs, where the value of real estate has risen with more rapidity in the last five or six years, it has been very difficult to advance the assessments rapidly enough to keep pace with the advance in value. The assessed value of real estate of the Borough of Queens was 35 per cent. higher in 1907 than in 1906. Very considerable increases were made in other sparsely settled parts of the city. It is expected that the assessments for 1908 will show a corresponding increase in these sections, in which a real increase in value has been so rapid. There is only one standard for the whole city; that standard is the standard determined by the charter. The deputies are annually instructed that their assessments must conform to the legal standard. No change was made this year in those instructions. No one should feel aggrieved if his property is assessed for the sum for which it will sell, even though it may have been increased by a very large percentage.

—The total foreign commerce of all American countries in the latest year for which statistics of the various countries are available is estimated at 5½ billions of dollars, in round terms, out of a world's total of over 27 billions of international trade. Of this total 3 billions, still speaking in round terms, is that of the United States, and 2½ billions that of the other countries of America, including in this the West India Islands. Of the imports, amounting to 2¼ billions, about one-half are those of the United States, and of the exports, amounting to 3¼ billions, over 1¾ billions are those of the United States. Considering that part of America other than the United States, the imports in the latest year for which statistics are available aggregated 1,118 million dollars, of which 407 millions, or 36½ per cent. was drawn from the United States.

Auctions of the Year.

A REVIEW of the Real Estate Market for the past year discloses the fact that it has been an exceptionally brisk year for the auctioneers.

The most notable sale of the year, in the line of improved property was the now famous Doherty estate. This sale created new values in all the sections in which the parcels were located. An instance of this was the gore piece, Nos. 1559-1563 Broadway, between 46th and 47th sts, size 23.2x71.7½, which brought $96,300, and was purchased by Messrs. Thomas J. and Michael J. Shanley, noted restaurant and real estate men.

JOSEPH P. DAY.

The sale of vacant lots occupied a conspicuous position in the past year's auction sales and was started with the most noted of the season—the now famous Ogden estate sale. This occupied four days selling; and, is considered by real estate experts to have been the largest sale of its kind in the history of city lot sales. (Amount realized, $1,700,000.) Following this was the sale of the property known as the Bailey estate tract. The Century Realty Company's offering of lots came next, and these two sales aggregated about $1,000,000. At all of these sales the buyers (in most instances) were small investors not generally known as real estate buyers.

The summer lot sales at auction were very successful this year, particularly at Belle Harbor, Ostend, Far Rockaway and Edgemere, which were the most important. The sale of the Otto Sampter estate holdings at Arverne should not be overlooked, as it was one of the most remarkable sales of the season and demonstrated that the Rockaway coast property is in great demand by people desiring to purchase four or five lots upon which to erect a summer or all-the-year residence.

A notable condition bearing upon summer sales at Far Rockaway has been had this year—in that every house that was equipped with proper heating appliances was rented for the winter before the middle of August. This leads to the statement that eventually city homes will more and more be used only during the winter months and those who can afford suburban places will get more use from them than ever before, which shows that people are becoming educated in that direction.

More than ever this year has the market been characterized by the number of voluntary offerings of property at auction, more and more demonstrating that it is possible to dispose of any amount of property at good prices by means of the auction market. Thus, it would appear that a greater number of people are coming to realize the good results that can be obtained in this way; and that the publication of the prices obtained for lots is not detrimental to the adjoining owners; and, further, the general public, who desires to become posted as to the values, may find in the statement of the results of the auction sales a very good guide as to the value of property in their neighborhood.

Many downtown parcels have been offered during the year, realizing fair prices throughout. There have not been as many foreclosures as were anticipated during the year. The financial panic (which in its far-reaching effect seems to have been greater than the sharp panic of '93) has not greatly affected the realty values, and in the midst of the panicky times successful sales of lots have been held. The David B. Cocks property of 83 lots in the neighborhood of Fordham and Woodlawn realized a higher value than the owners of the property anticipated same would bring and a better figure than they would have willingly let them sell for—the sales in every case being to people who were not known as real estate operators. Many of the buyers drawing the money from savings banks to pay for their deposits.

There is to-day a very widespread interest in auction sales and the outlook is that monetary conditions will be in a more favorable shape and that we shall have many large and successful sales during the coming year. JOSEPH P. DAY.

—The value of the mineral products of the United States for the year 1906 has recently been compiled by the United States Geological Survey. As has been customary for a number of years, the principal metallic and non-metallic products are tabulated on a large sheet, both as to the quantity produced and the market value of the product. The total estimated value of mineral products for the year 1906 was $1,902,517,000, as against $1,624,000,000 during the previous year. In the last decade production has increased over threefold, it being $640,000,000 in 1896, and in 1886 it was $434,000,000. The value of the largest single product was of pig iron, which aggregated over $600,000,000.

PUBLIC WORKS IN THE BRONX BOROUGH

Condition of the Streets—Faith in the Public Service Commission—Bright Outlook for More Dock Facilities

By HON. JOHN F. MURRAY
(Commissioner of Bronx Public Works)

THE Bronx, by reason of up-to-date improvements inaugurated on a broad and scientific scale, and carried on entirely on business lines, with a due regard for the convenience of our citizens and the progress of our borough, is an ideal borough for the investing public in connection with real estate, and notwithstanding the late financial depression, which, so far as New York County was concerned was more acute in the Bronx by reason of the suspension of the Hamilton Bank and the Knickerbocker Trust Company having branches in the borough, real estate values have not depreciated, and sales that have been made during the past two months have not shown much, if any, effect of the recent financial flurry which was so acute in the borough.

The condition of all the streets of the borough, paved, macadam and dirt, just prior to the sudden arrival of winter weather, was excellent. It was the aim of this department to so conduct our work during the summer and fall months as to have as far as possible absolutely satisfactory conditions exist in the highways when winter set in.

The natural contour of the Bronx makes it difficult and somewhat expensive regarding improvements, such as regulating and grading streets, sewers, etc., on account of the rock formation, but when the improvements are finally completed the Bronx becomes an ideal spot for homes, especially on its hillsides, and also offers convenient streets and avenues for business purposes between its hills. This natural condition of the Bronx, therefore, keeps in a measure the residential sections separate from business thoroughfares, thus making it more convenient for business and more satisfactory to home-seekers and others desiring health and high and pleasant homes.

The Bronx is the one borough in Greater New York that is self-sustaining; that is, it has paid back into the city treasury more in taxes, assessments, etc., than it has received in advance for public improvements, which, in a measure, is brought about by the borough president certifying all assessments at the proper time; in other words, keeping them up to date and thus giving the people opportunity to pay their just dues to the city. In view of the continued and steady increase of real estate values in the borough, the payment of these assessments have not been particularly onerous on property owners, as the increase in values in practically all cases more than offsets the amount of assessments paid.

By reason of the fact that that portion of the borough west of the Bronx river is now fairly well developed, so far as improvements are concerned, active and progressive work in connection with improvements will necessarily follow for the next ten years at least east of the Bronx river, and consequently some of the inconveniences of improvements experienced by our citizens in the western parts of the borough will now be transferred to the annexed territory on the east, where trunk sewers are now being constructed, and where regulating and grading work is in progress. This section east of the Bronx river is not so rocky as the portion on the western side, and consequently improvements in that section will perhaps not be so expensive as they have been on the west, although as herein stated wherever citizens in the borough have secured improvements they have at all times been given value received for their money expended.

This year the borough president has certified improvements aggregating some four millions of dollars, which means that assessment lists, so far as this borough is concerned, are up to date. Right here it may not be amiss to state that if the other outlying boroughs of Greater New York had kept their assessment lists complete up to date, thus giving their people an opportunity to pay to the city the amount they owed, there would possibly be less complaint regarding the amount of the city budget for 1908. On this score the Bronx has a clean sheet, and shows not only the efficiency of its present administration but also the desire of the people of the borough to pay the amounts due of them to the city.

So far as real estate is concerned in the Bronx, I look for a steady and healthy growth, not spasmodic, but on a foundation absolutely secure and permanent. I feel satisfied that the real estate market will in a short time show marked improvement, in view of the fact that we must within a reasonable period secure extension of our rapid transit facilities, such as the elevated on Jerome av, White Plains av, the third track on the Third av elevated to Bedford Park, and the building of the Triborough route extending from Pelham Bay Park to Coney Island. Whatever rapid transit facilities have already been given us have been amply rewarded by the great increased assessed valuation of the properties benefitted along the route, and a consequent increase of taxes therefrom which poured into the city treasury. We are therefore looking for assistance at the hands of the Public Service Commission, which as yet, however, appears to have done but little work toward the active securing of additional rapid transit facilities for this borough. My general idea of the work to be performed by this body is that the people of this borough, as well as other boroughs, would prefer to have the Commission bend its energies more toward getting additional rapid transit facilities than digging up skeletons of the past, already well known to the public, which has accomplished no particular good towards procuring additional rapid transit facilities, and in a measure has retarded the prospects of financial assistance from outside sources. What the people want is more activity, both at the hands of citizens' organizations and the Public Service Commission, toward securing additional rapid transit facilities, rather than devoting their energies to matters which seem to lead in an opposite direction. The Bronx, however, has absolute confidence in its representative on the Commission, Hon. John E. Eustis.

The new year dawns upon the Bronx in excellent healthy condition, with a population for civic pride unequalled in Greater New York—certainly not exceeded—with prospects extremely bright for the completion of necessary and important improvements for the year 1908; with a desire on the part of the administration to, as usual, make 1908 eclipse in all-round work the work of any other year in the history of the department; and with a sincere desire on the part of all concerned to make the Bronx an ideal borough of homes as well as a business centre unparalleled in Greater New York.

Another important factor pertaining to the future development of the Bronx is the bright outlook for more dock facilities on both sides of the borough. This matter is in the hands of the Commissioner of Docks and Ferries, and it is the general opinion that something tangible will be done in the matter within possibly the next year. If this borough can secure efficient dock facilities in conjunction with proposed railroad improvements already under way, its future commercial activity and prosperity is already assured. I feel that our people, especially our business interests, are not perhaps paying the attention to this question that it merits, for during my two years in official life in the borough this department has at times been sadly handicapped on account of the lack of docks on both the eastern and western shores of the borough. I feel satisfied, however, that the near future will see something tangible done in connection with better and more dock facilities, and thus add materially to the business and commercial interests of the large and growing territory north of the Harlem River.

Then, again, the Congressman from this district, Hon. Joseph H. Goulden, is making every effort possible to secure additional appropriations from this Congress, in order to deepen, widen, etc., various streams, particularly on the eastern shores of the borough, and a report recently received from him gives the encouraging news that he expects favorable action from Congress on the measures which he has introduced in that body in connection with the waterways of the Bronx. In all his efforts he has received the hearty and united support of all our citizens, and consequently good results should accrue.

We are proud of the Bronx, her rapid development, her power for good, and to all looking for a borough in Greater New York for safe investments in real estate, whether for homes or business purposes, we believe she has not an equal, and her past and present position in this connection clearly warrants this statement.

JOHN F. MURRAY,
Commissioner of Public Works, Borough of the Bronx.

December 21, 1907.

Chas. F. Noyes Company of 92 William st, Manhattan, is distributing among its friends a conveniently mounted desk calendar with space for daily memoranda. The almanac, besides giving the day of the month and week, may also be arranged to answer as a calendar and history of the year.

The New Building of the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company to be erected at 160 Broadway, and to be occupied in the Autumn of 1908, will consist of a sixteen story structure having a Broadway frontage of fifty-nine feet and a depth of over one hundred and fifteen feet, with an L eight stories in height on Maiden Lane having a frontage of twenty-one feet.

The first story of the facade will be in pink Milford granite and the next four stories in limestone.

Above the fifth story the facade will be in red brick topped by terra-cotta.

The Trust and Banking Department and the Executive Offices will occupy the first floor in connection with the Bureau of Investment, while the Closing Department will be on the second floor, immediately above the Banking Room.

The Company will occupy ten floors of this building and there will, therefore, be an opportunity for those who wish very desirable offices to secure them at this especially good location.

The plans for this building were drawn by Messrs. Clinton & Russell, Architects, and the George A. Fuller Company are the contractors.

What is New York's Future.

THE leading newspapers of this country have recently published a somewhat startling interview with Mr. James J. Hill, in which Mr. Hill makes the statement that New York City is at present enjoying the very top wave of its prominence as the metropolis of the New World, and predicts our future decline as our Nation's leading seaport. Mr. Hill gives as his reason for the foregoing, that owing to our city's excessive rents, the high price demanded for wharfage, and the exorbitant rates asked for the unloading of freight on our docks and in our terminals, that there is no longer a reasonable profit left the Railroad Companies after their paying these charges. The interview then recites, that in Mr. Hill's judgment the great trunk lines will be compelled to seek some other seaport from which to ship grain and other of the nation's exports eastward to Europe, and he strongly intimates that Montreal will be the substituted terminal.

MORTIMER M. SINGER.

Mr. Hill enjoys a position of great prominence in the Northwest, and any opinion emanating from him relative to the conditions and growth of our Western country and Canada should be given due weight, but when Mr. Hill discusses the future of New York, he is very much "off his beat," and I believe every reader of the above interview from which I have quoted will come to the conclusion, on sober consideration, that Mr. Hill's remarks need not be taken seriously.

We first of all have to consider the fundamental causes that have led to the great development and pre-eminence of New York. The city's fine physical position is one of the primary causes, located as it is at the mouth of a great river, with several other rivers and bays on all sides of the city, giving Greater New York one hundred and thirty miles of water front. Its harbor is second to none on the Atlantic, and geographically the city is situated in the heart of the Temperate Zone, which permits New York to enjoy a splendid climate—a climate without the extremes of heat which are felt further south, nor the penalties attached to the severe winters of New England. This allows New York an open waterway for the full twelve months. Any port north of Boston is frozen up and ice-bound from the middle of December until March 15. This condition being particularly acute in Montreal, which city, as we all know, is located over three hundred miles inland from the mouth of the St. Lawrence river.

We gather from these facts why it was possible that our Chamber of Commerce in its last annual report for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1907, in dealing with the exports and imports, through the Port of New York, shows total imports during the year 1906-07 of $914,918,529 against the aggregate through all the other ports of the country amounting to $676,959,769. Exports totaled $978,730,861 through the Port of New York and $1,267,261,803 from all other ports.

DISCOUNTING FUTURE NEEDS.

Quoting the old adage, "That the only way we have of judging the future is by the past," I feel most confident that this city will continue to develop and grow in every way. If as a pigmy we asserted our pre-eminence over Boston, Philadelphia and other rival cities, now that we are a giant, what is our place to be in this nation, twenty or fifty years hence? In order to keep abreast with conditions in New York City, the money expended every twelve months for improvements is almost appalling, but that this expenditure is a wise policy no one can deny. Consider our new sewerage systems, our new bridges, our new salt water supply system for street cleaning and extinguishing conflagrations, together with our new tunnels and subways. The logical result of all this is increased values in real estate; and in Manhattan Borough particularly.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company came to this city some five years ago intending to spend $100,000,000 for terminal work. They have already contracted for over $300,000,000 worth of permanent improvements, and the end as yet is not in sight. The directors of this company are able men and know what they are doing, and their company will be rewarded.

Our new water supply system is to cost almost three-quarters as much as the Panama Canal. By this system the city's water is to be brought down through pipes from the Catskill Mountains going under the Hudson River at Storm King, and thus supplying the city with the purest drinking water in an unlimited amount. This means, no doubt, higher assessments for real estate on which to pay taxes, but these improvements are wise, and as the future will show, necessary. No owner of real estate can hope for increased values and rentals unless his property is kept up-to-date and properly maintained, and this is what the various city departments are doing for New York.

THE PRESENT SITUATION.

Just now we are undergoing a period of stagnation in real estate in this city, which has been the inevitable result of several years of over-speculation, followed by a crisis in the financial world, that has caused unusual money stringency. This condition will not be permanent, I believe, as there are no serious causes at the root of the depression, today, as there were in 1893.

The weakest values I find just now are in those sections which figured the most prominently in the boom of 1904-05. This weakness in values, in my opinion, also will not long continue, as it has for some time been expected, and generally discounted by the large lenders on hond and mortgage, as well as by the strongest real estate operating firms.

MORTIMER M. SINGER.

Staten Island Real Estate Review.

IN reviewing the real estate market on Staten Island for the year just closing, the feature which most impresses the observer is the fact that the Borough of Richmond has during this year had the benefit of more actual improvements than during any previous year of its history. While there has been a great deal of speculation in outlying acreage property from which comparatively little benefit has been derived except to relieve the older class of property owners of burdens which they carried for many years of a stagnant market at a considerable cost for interest and taxes, the fact remains that a large amount of acreage, particularly along the trolley lines, has passed into the hands of outside corporations and firms who have actually improved large tracts of land, by grading and macadamizing streets, laying sidewalks, water pipes and sewers and erecting houses.

The example set by these firms has stimulated quite a number of local property owners to follow the example of newcomers. As a result the total amount of improvements has been considerable and has made available for building purposes some fine tracts of land formerly dormant for a lack of enterprise on the part of the owner. This has been more particularly the case at Fort Wadsworth, Stapleton, Tompkinsville, New Brighton, Brighton Heights, West New Brighton and Port Richmond, and along the Richmond Turnpike between St. George and Bulls Head. Simultaneous with this development, a number of local firms have entered into the speculative building business and have erected a large number of one and two family houses in almost every section of the island.

Fortunately the actual experience in this line has proven the correctness of the judgment of those engaging in this business, for most of the houses built have found ready buyers at good prices. With this encouragement, further extensive building operations are looked for during the coming season. The demand for building lots, particularly when sold on easy terms, has been very pronounced both on the part of local residents and new home seekers from Manhattan. The new Municipal Ferry to St. George, with five boats and an excellent schedule, has largely contributed to this satisfactory state of affairs, and it is expected that with the early establishment of Municipal ferries to Stapleton and Port Richmond, a further rapid development may be expected, particularly within walking distance of the ferries, so residents may have the benefit of the five-cent fare from Manhattan.

It is the general opinion of those familiar with conditions that the time would appear to have arrived for the construction of brick rows and apartment houses in the more thickly populated parts of the borough near the new ferry landing at St. George, Stapleton and Port Richmond. The industrial development has progressed very satisfactorily, resulting in a rapid increase of population employed in the fast growing industries of the borough. With exception of the temporary inactivity during the financial disturbance in October and November, the mortgage loan business has shown excellent signs of improvement, and it has been particularly encouraging to note that numerous loans have been made on Staten Island by New York lenders. The year 1907 has been an eminently satisfactory one from every point of view, and business promises to continue in the same way during 1908.

Extending the Mortgage Market.

New agencies for the sale of mortgage certificates against New York City real estate mortgages, issued by the New York Investors' Corporation, have just been opened at Hartford, Conn.; Portland, Me.; Duluth, Minn.; Manchester and Portsmouth, N. H.; Amsterdam, Auburn, Portland, Oswego, Richfield Springs, and Syracuse, N. Y. In all 34 of these agencies have been established during the year by the Title Guarantee & Trust Co. in carrying out its plan to create a great national market for New York City mortgages.

THE CONSTRUCTION OF NEW BUILDINGS IN 1907

A REVIEW AND A PROSPECT

THERE has taken place during the past year a very considerable diminution of building activity in Manhattan and the Bronx. The total amount of money spent in new construction has been, like the total volume of real estate transactions, much nearer the figures of 1903 than the figures of 1906. This decrease in building construction may be noticed in other boroughs as well as in Manhattan and the Bronx; but it has been much more pronounced in the old city of New York than it has in the neighborhood thereof. Its causes are obvious and easy to define. Of course, in any event, the financial crisis and the money stringency were bound to pare down to the lowest possible point the amount of money invested in new building, but even before the financial crisis became acute, it was apparent that the year 1907 would show a diminished volume of activity. During the two previous years the number of new tenement-houses erected in Manhattan and the Bronx had broken all previous records. The money invested in this class of building alone was larger than had been invested only a few years before in every kind and description of building. It was almost twice as large as the whole city of Chicago usually spends upon new construction. Of course such totals could only have one meaning. They were bound to result in over-production. The population of New York increases every year by about 130,000. Its builders were providing living accommodations for more than double that number of people. In any event, consequently, the pace at which new tenement-houses were being erected had to be moderated; and during the last half of 1906 the influence of these moderating conditions were written large upon the face of the returns.

It should be added, moreover, that the previous over-production of tenement-houses was not the only reason for the diminished volume of their construction. The over-production coincided with the appearance of certain conditions which placed tenements at a disadvantage compared with the cheaper grade of one and two-family dwellings. For some years the rents in tenement-house neighborhoods had been advancing; and people living in such buildings were provided with an additional inducement to seek other and pleasanter, if not cheaper, means of residence. At the same time large numbers of new suburban and semi-suburban tracts were being opened up, and quantities of small houses built. The decline in tenement and flat construction has been accompanied by enormous activity on the part of the builders of these small houses—an activity which has been as noticeable in the Bronx as it has been in Brooklyn and Queens. Consequently, however regrettable the diminished volume of tenement and cheap flat construction may be from the point of view of the Manhattan builder and dealer in building materials, it has its good side. From sanitary and social standpoints it is desirable that a larger proportion of the population of New York should occupy houses of their own rather than tenements, and fortunately it looks as if the increased economic availability of cheap private residences will become in the near future more rather than less noticeable. During the next few years large areas of cheap land on Long Island and New Jersey, which is now scarcely available for improvement, will be opened up for settlement by the new bridges and tunnels. An ever increasing proportion of the population of the greater city will desert Manhattan and live under healthier and pleasanter surroundings in these outlying districts. The next five years will undoubtedly witness an enormous and a rapid development of the suburbs and semi-suburbs—a fact which will, on the whole, increase not only the happiness of the population of New York, but also its economic efficiency.

There is one borough, however, in which the erection of private dwellings has to all appearances definitely come to an end, and that borough is Manhattan. Only a dozen years ago there were seven or eight hundred private residences erected in Manhattan every year. By 1901 this number had diminished to about one hundred. Last year the total scarcely exceeded a couple of dozen. It was expected when the subway made Washington Heights more available for residence that there would be a resumption of the speculative building of private residences in that neighborhood, but this anticipation proved to be ill-founded. A score or two of such buildings have been erected on the Heights, but the success of these operations has not been such as to encourage their imitation. Real estate has become too valuable in Manhattan to permit the speculative building of private residences on a large scale. Only comparatively rich people can afford to live in them. It is possible that when the Dyckman tract is built over, some one and two-family dwellings will be built in that neighborhood, but we doubt whether the movement will assume large proportions. The development of the Dyckman tract will be very much influenced by the development of its water front on the canal; and it is likely to be improved for the most part with tenements. It is only the higher land to the west of the tract which may be available for a different class of improvement.

We have said that only comparatively rich people can afford private residences in Manhattan, but the demand even from this source is not as large as it was. In the first place the number of people who call themselves comparatively rich has diminished considerably in the past year, and in the second place even those who remain comparatively rich are increasingly disinclined to assume the responsibility of a house in New York. They tend to pass a larger proportion of their time in the country, and when they come to the city are content with a hotel or an apartment. The consequence is that the practice of tearing down the old brown-stone, high-stoop houses on the East Side and building English basement houses in their stead has been checked. It still continues to a certain extent, but compared to previous years, very little of it has been done during 1907, and it is probable that for some years to come there will be a lull in this class of building construction. The demand for private houses is sufficiently good to keep real estate in the residential neighborhoods on the east and west sides firm. It is not, however, good enough to justify speculative building operations in such kinds of improvement.

The demand for new private houses has, undoubtedly, been diminished in 1907 by the competition of the proprietary apartment house. This class of building construction, which started in a modest way in 1901 with the construction of one building on West 67th St., has been increasing in popularity, and during the past year eight or nine companies were organized to erect such buildings. The number does not seem to be very large; but it must be remembered that each of these companies contain somewhere between twelve and twenty families, who are paying anywhere from $20,000 to $30,000 for an apartment. In the aggregate it means that some 150 people, who otherwise might have bought private houses, have been taken out of the market. It means also that about the same number of families who would have rented private houses or apartments, have taken longer or shorter leases in these new buildings. All this makes a noticeable difference in the demand for apartment houses and dwellings of a certain grade; and it will be interesting to see whether this diversion of the demand will continue. Hitherto these proprietary apartment houses have been very successful; but their success depends upon their ability to rent a considerable proportion of the buildings. It looked some months ago as if the number of the buildings was multiplying so rapidly that they would get in each other's way; but since the financial crisis the organization of new projects has been discouraged; and this fact may prove to be a blessing to some of the old ones. No doubt the proprietary apartment house has come to stay, but it has not found its proper place as yet in the building economy of New York City. Speculative builders of the more expensive grade of apartment houses would, however, do well to study the reason for the success of these buildings, for it is incontestable that the proprietor of an apartment situated therein gets more for his money than he can in a private house or in a building built under ordinary speculative conditions.

The most interesting class of building construction in New York City during 1907 has not, however, been residential buildings of any description. While the construction of tenements has been diminishing that of commercial buildings has actually shown a small increase. The decline in the total amount of money estimated to be spent upon building projects almost precisely coincides with the decrease in the estimated cost of new tenements; and the fact that the activity in the construction of business structures has not exhibited any diminution is under the circumstances very remarkable. Ever since 1901 a sum varying between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 has been spent every year upon additional accommodation for the transaction of business in Manhattan. Yet at the end of this period there is no evidence of over-production. Renting conditions have remained so favorable that speculative builders are still ready to invest large sums in loft and office buildings situated in many different parts of the city.

Quite the most interesting department of commercial building in New York continues to be that of skyscrapers. Contrary to the anticipations of a great many well-informed people, skyscrapers exhibit a tendency to become both larger and higher than ever before. Several years ago an article appeared in the Atlantic Monthly in which the writer declared that buildings over a certain height were becoming economically undesirable, and the writer could allege in support of this view many pertinent facts. In several instances low buildings had been erected on extremely expensive property in the financial district; and institutions which had erected twenty-story buildings had become much embarrassed by the necessity of buying additional adjoining property for the sake of protecting the light and air, such as it was, enjoyed by their tenants. It was predicted, consequently, that builders would see the desirability thereafter of not covering a larger plot with a lower building. Never, however, has a prediction been more completely falsified by the event. The twenty-story buildings, which formerly were considered to be the limit of desirable height, have been succeeded by buildings which have run from twenty-two up to over forty stories, and buildings of this kind have been erected not only by institutions as an advertisement, but by speculative building companies exclusively as a profitable investment. There is every evidence that the tendency in the direction of still higher office buildings is the result of economic pressure, and that, if unrestrained by legislation, it will be carried still further.

It should be remarked, however, that the builders of these modern office buildings have to learn from the mistakes of their predecessors. They are careful in buying their land to secure in advance an abundance of light and air for their prospective tenants. They buy in the first place a very large plot of ground, which is surrounded on almost every side either by streets or else by property which is under their control. The greater part of this plot is then covered with a building twenty-two or more stories high, while on the corner a tower is built running anywhere from five to twenty-five stories higher. The tower consequently is surrounded by a lower building under the same ownership, while the lower building is itself surrounded either by street or by property under the same control. This is the course which has been pursued in the case of the Metropolitan and Singer buildings and in that of the City Investing Company, and it is one which combines many economic advantages. The lower floors contain an enormous floor space which can be rented to large corporations. Such corporations have frequently been persuaded to abandon two floors in a smaller building in order to occupy one huge floor in these larger buildings, because of the increased convenience of having all their offices on the same level. The space in the towers are adapted to the needs of business firms and individuals who need less space, and are able to pay for the unusually pure air and abundant light enjoyed by such offices. Finally, the plan of these buildings, particularly in relation to the area necessarily set apart for elevators, is found to work out in a very economical manner. It will be seen, consequently, that the towers of the Metropolitan Life, the Singer, and the Coal and Iron buildings are far from being merely architectural and engineering "stunts." They are the result of the closest economic calculations and they are unquestionably the forerunners of other buildings of the same kind, provided they continue to be permitted by the building laws.

The past year has been characterized by the actual construction of loft as well as office buildings. These buildings have not been comparable in size to the fifteen-story structures which during 1906 were being erected on 5th av between 15th and 20th sts. The great majority of them have been erected on the side streets between 5th and 6th avs in the twenties. They belong to the ordinary type of eleven and twelve-story loft buildings, occupying from two to four lots, and sometimes running through from one street to another. Almost all the buildings devoted to the wholesale trade are now being erected in this particular district, and belong to this particular type of structure; and their construction has not during the past year assumed any new characteristics.

Two new and important hotels were finished in 1907, one of them situated on Broadway and belonging to the popular type, the other appealing to a more exclusive custom on 5th av. Both of them have been very successful. The Knickerbocker, on the corner of 42d st and Broadway, immediately jumped into popularity because of the excellence of its restaurant, while the Plaza has been rewarded with the patronage of many fashionable people. It may be remarked in this connection that the apartment hotel has for the time being become extinct as a type of building construction. Only a few years ago forty of these buildings were erected in one year—at a cost of over $20,000,000. In 1907 not one of them was under construction. The only hotels now erected in New York are intended for transients rather than residents; and such will continue to be the case for some time to come. Only one new hotel will be opened during the coming year of any importance, and that is the handsome extension to the Hoffman House, which is now rapidly approaching completion.

In spite of the temporary dullness, the builders and building trades of New York have no cause to regard the future with apprehension. There is no reason to suppose that they will have to face a period of stagnation or acute depression. The building business in this city, like other branches of trade all over the country, has got to go through a period of readjustment, and such a period is always difficult for individuals and firms who have been doing too large a business on too small a capital, but the people who will be embarrassed will for the most part have themselves to thank for the trouble. There will be enough business to go around, and to enable every builder and dealer who is in a state of good commercial health to live and even to thrive. No doubt business will be slack as long as the acute financial stringency lasts, but there is every prospect that by the early spring loanable capital, instead of being dear, will become comparatively cheap, and before the year is out, money may be cheaper than it has been at any time during the period of business prosperity. Moreover, it is not only money which will become cheaper. The materials which enter into building construction will decrease in price, and so in a sense will the labor necessitated thereby. We do not, indeed, anticipate any considerable reductions in wages, but the inefficient labor can be weeded out and in this way the labor cost reduced. In all these ways the expense of building will be lessened and the volume of building thereby encouraged to become larger than it otherwise would. We know that of late years many important building projects have been postponed until a period of cheaper construction should set in, and these projects will be revived as soon as that condition is satisfied.

The past year has, then, been one of steady progress in certain directions and of startling innovations and achievement in others. But it has been more remarkable for the activity of the builders of new business structures than it has been for any innovations in construction. The only important tendency to be remarked in this respect is the gradually increasing popularity of reinforced concrete construction. During the year one big monolithic building of this type has been finished in 34th st, and this building is undoubtedly the precursor of many others, particularly in case the building laws are changed so as to interfere less with the economical use of concrete. We should not be at all surprised to find that at the end of the next ten years some form of concrete construction would be employed for the majority of loft and factory buildings erected in New York. The change will be slow, because many architects still cherish doubts about the best way of using concrete, but it will be sure, because the technical methods employed in this form of construction tend every year to increase both its safety and its economy.

Special conditions in and about New York City will not discourage building. During 1905 and the first half of 1906 there was, of course, an over-production of tenement houses and cheap flats, but it must be remembered that the ill effects of this over-production have already been partly removed by the under-production of the past eighteen months. By the time the money market has assumed a normal condition, tenement house builders will be justified in resuming this class of construction to a certain extent. Some of them will do well, however, to invest their capital rather in one or two-story dwellings on the outskirts of the city, for it looks as if during the next few years the cheap dwellings will continue to gain ground at the expense of the tenement. Under the influence of improving transit conditions there will continue to be a steady emigration of population to the outlying districts, and it will be in the supplying of the demand caused by this emigration that most money will be made in the immediate future.

Neither will there be any lack of important building projects to be carried out in the business districts of Manhattan. We do not, indeed, anticipate any very large amount of new construction south of the City Hall. During the year 1908 the Singer Building, the new Coal and Iron Building, the two huge structures over the trolley terminal and several smaller buildings will all be finished; an enormous amount of rentable space will be added to the business accommodations downtown, and it is improbable that, during a period of business depression, this space will be immediately occupied. It would be too much to expect, consequently, any considerable amount of new construction during 1908 in the financial and real estate districts. But the outlook for the erection of fireproof buildings is much better further uptown. Many new projects are being announced, even under existing discouraging conditions. A large hotel is to be built over the trolley terminal near Greeley

Tenement Construction in 1907.

(With Map.)

SOME idea of the extent to which the provisions of the Tenement House Act with regard to new buildings have affected tenement conditions in this city may be gained from the fact that from the first of January, 1902, when the law went into effect, to the last week in December, 1907, a period of six years, plans were filed for the erection of 19,739 buildings, giving accommodation to 230,036 familes, or over one million persons.

Of these buildings, 4,250, or only about 22%, were planned for Manhattan, the greatest proportion being for Brooklyn, where plans were filed for 10,706 buildings during the period, or about 54% of the entire number.

In respect to number of families provided for, however, Manhattan is ahead, owing to the larger size of the buildings erected, in which the number of apartments amounted to 108,001, or one-half of the total number, while the number of apartments for Brooklyn was only 72,724, or less than one-third of the whole.

New law tenements have been erected in Manhattan, therefore, to provide for approximately 486,000 people, or nearly double the increase of the borough in population during that time. It is evident, then, that not only is the evil of the old, unimproved, unsanitary tenement kept from spreading with the increase in population, but that a population nearly equal to the increase is being housed in some other way than before, for the most part leaving tenements of the old type, which were subsequently demolished for tenements of the new type affording adequate light and ventilation.

HON. EDMOND J. BUTLER.

As is well known to readers of this paper, the amount of tenement building has varied greatly from year to year. In 1902 building was light, owing to anticipation of the law on the part of builders in 1900 and 1901. In Manhattan plans were filed for only 259 tenements in that year. In 1903, plans were filed for 459 buildings; in 1904 for 834 and in 1905 for 1,444, the largest number shown for any year during the period. In 1906 the number had dropped to 926 and for the present year to date the number is only 328.

For the first four years of the period there were similar changes for the whole city, the largest number of buildings being planned for in 1905. But in 1906 the decrease in Manhattan was accompanied by a large increase for Brooklyn, where plans were filed for 3,230 buildings. During the present year the number has decreased for Brooklyn also to 1,379 buildings.

The accompanying map giving the location of all tenements erected in Manhattan since January, 1902, indicates the localities where building has been most active.

It will be seen at a glance that the least amount of building has been on the lower west side, the greatest on the upper west side, while the distribution on the east side is more even and the total somewhat less than for the west side.

The following brief summary of buildings by localities may serve to show the significance of the map in more detail:

BUILDINGS ERECTED JANUARY 1, 1902, TO OCTOBER 1, 1907.

	Number.		Per cent.
	East Side.	West Side.	East Side	West Side.
Below 14th st.....	699	168	16	4
14th to 59th.....	218	62	5	1
59th to 72d.....	156	36	4	1
72d to 110th.....	525	234	12	6
Total.....	2,046	2,188	48	52

It is seen that the greatest amount of building for any of of these smaller districts has been within the narrow limits of 110th to 155th sts on the west side, in which nearly one-third of all buildings in the borough were erected. Add to these the 9% erected in the adjoining district to the north and 40% of the new tenements in Manhattan are accounted for.

The law, as is well known, applies not only to "tenement houses," popularly so called, but also to apartment houses of the better type, and many of the buildings erected on the upper West Side are of the latter class. A considerable number, however, are of the strictly tenement type, affording habitation to the less well-to-do.

It is interesting to trace the changes in activity in the different localities through successive years. In 1902, 39% of the buildings were erected below 14th st on the east side (101 in all), while only 38 buildings, or 15% were erected between 110th and 155th sts on the West Side, and only four above 155th st, or only 1½%. In 1903, 207 buildings, or 45% of the whole, were erected on the East Side below 14th st, while in 1904, 136 buildings and in 1905 only 82 buildings, or 16 and 6% respectively of all buildings in that year, were erected in that district. At the same time building on the west side from 110th to 155th sts increased from 75 in 1903 to 260 in 1904 and 560 in 1905, or 16, 31 and 39% of all buildings in those years respectively. Since 1905 the proportionate amount of building on the lower east side has been increasing, showing 11% for 1906 and 24% for 1907, while the west side between 110th and 155th sts shows a proportion of 29 and 34% respectively for 1906 and 1907.

There has been a steady increase for the district north of 155th st from four buildings in 1902, to 18 in 1903, 38 in 1904 and 172 in 1905, or from 1½ to 4; 4½ to 12% of all buildings. In 1906 127 buildings were planned for that district, a smaller number, but a larger proportion—14% of all buildings—while in 1907 the proportion has dropped to 6%.

It is of interest to see what types of tenements have developed under the requirements of the new law. To begin with, it may be said that the typical Manhattan tenement is built on a lot unit of 37½ or 50 feet, in itself indicating improvement in general conditions, as affording better light and ventilation than the old 25-foot unit, which was a constant temptation to the construction of long, narrow, airless, courtless houses. Only about 8% of the houses for which plans were filed in Manhattan from 1902 to 1904 employed a lot unit of 25 feet or under and from 1905 on an even smaller proportion is shown—only about 5%.

Further, the typical Manhattan tenement is six stories high, the proportion in different years ranging from 75 to 92%. Nearly all the rest are five-story buildings. In arrangement the typical tenement is built to accommodate from three to five families on a floor. The first three years show a greater proportion of three and four families to a floor, the last three years of four or five, which might be due either to increase in size of the house, or decrease in number of rooms to the apartment. Evidently the latter cause is at work, as in 1902, 35% of the apartments consisted of four rooms; 31% of five rooms; and only 12% of three rooms; in 1903 there was the same proportion of three-room apartments; four-room apartments were 42% of the whole; and only 27% were five-room apartments, while for the first three quarters of 1907, 35% were three-room apartments, 33% were four-room apartments and only 11% were five-room apartments.

Owing to the above noted division of the floor, we find in the typical Manhattan tenement few apartments with outlook both front and rear, only about 2% being of that type. On the other hand, far the greater number look out upon the street, or upon the yard, while a considerable proportion have an outlook upon a court only, varying from 6 to 16% in different years.

While the law makes no requirement as to bathing facilities, it is encouraging to find that a large proportion of the new tenements is provided with bath rooms. In only 14% of the buildings has there been no provision at all made for private baths. The proportion of apartments with baths naturally varies with the size of the apartment. For practically every apartment of five rooms or over, a private bath is provided, while about three-fourths of the four-room apartments have them. Of the two and three-room apartments, perhaps one-third have private baths.

From all the above it appears very plainly that without the present tenement house law, the greater part of a population of over one million persons in the entire city of New York, or a population one-half the size of the present borough of Manhattan, and larger than any other city in the United States except Chicago and Philadelphia, who are now housed in dwellings affording light, ventilation and sanitary conditions would have been housed in dwellings affording the insufficient light and air, the lack of means of escape in case of fire that made the old tenement unsanitary and dangerous and gave rise to the conditions that made necessary a law to prevent them.

EDMOND J. BUTLER, Commissioner.

—Exports from the United States to Cuba in the year which ends with December seem likely to exceed $50,000,000, against $46,500,000 in 1906. Imports from the island will aggregate nearly, or quite, $100,000,000, against $85,000,000 in 1906. The chief increase in imports from Cuba occurs in sugar, while leaf tobacco, the next largest value in articles imported, shows a marked decline. On the export side, the increase occurs in nearly all of the important articles sent to the island. Flour, the largest single item in point of value among the articles exported from the United States to Cuba, amounts to $2,500,000 in the nine months ending with September, 1907, against a little more than $2,000,000 in the same months of the preceding year. Iron and steel manufactures as a whole show a slight decline, the value of all products of this character exported from the United States to Cuba in the nine months ending with September being $6,200,874, against $6,528,222 in the same months of last year, the reduction occurring chiefly in rails for railroads, electrical machinery and structural iron and steel.

Superintendent Murphy's Observations.

IT will be seen by the annexed statistics that there has been a large falling off in building operations, as per plans filed with the Bureau during the eleven months ending November 30, 1907, as compared with the corresponding period during 1906. The notable reduction being in that of tenement houses, the falling off being 647 in the number proposed to be erected.

HON. EDWARD S. MURPHY.

The Building Code Revision Committee, appointed by the Board of Aldermen last spring, have made their report to the Board of Aldermen, and a new Building Code will probably be in operation during the early part of the year 1908.

During the past eleven months an unusual number of buildings have been reported as unsafe by the inspectors of the Bureau, the number being 2,002.

In 81 cases the buildings were so dangerous that, in order to preserve life and property, it was necessary to call out the "emergency crew" of the Bureau to temporarily secure them.

The Electric Sign Ordinance of the Board of Aldermen became operative on August 1, 1907. This ordinance requires that a permit therefor must be obtained from the Bureau of Buildings as to construction, and from the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity as to the electric appliances, and a further permit from the City Clerk, upon the payment of an annual license fee of ten cents for each square foot of sign space.

The number of applications filed in this Bureau for the construction of such signs from August 1, 1907, to November 30, 1907, is 4,618.

EDWARD S. MURPHY,
Superintendent of Buildings, Borough of Manhattan.

—The advent of the six-hundred foot building has called into being an important readjustment of the mechanical transit problem for skyscrapers. The result is a new type of elevator called "the traction," with power machinery located above the shaft instead in its accustomed place in the cellar. To create ample safety devices for the cars of such a system is a serious problem. Another development which has been brought about in building construction by the very tall building is a scientific treatment of foundations. The prosecution of this branch of building construction now proceeds from a corps of specialists with adequate equipment to execute as well as design foundations to support the most gigantic superstructures. Fortunately rock bottom is not beyond human reach on Manhattan Island and the stability of the building is biblically assured. And if our present development continues we shall have to go still higher to gratify our ambitions, outreaching the Tower of Babel, but without its disastrous consequences.

square. A sixteen-story building will be started in May on the site of the Fifth Avenue Hotel. One of the Vanderbilts will be erecting an office building at Park av and 34th st. The corner of Times square and 43d st will be the site of a considerable improvement. It is possible that the construction of a Hotel Ritz for New York will be started during 1908. A very fair volume of new loft buildings are already promised, and that part of 5th av devoted to the retail trade will be improved with three important buildings which have been already announced. Thus the middle district of Manhattan will be the scene of about as much building in the near future as it has in the past; and this district will continue to be active for an indefinite period. The new bridges and tunnels which will be opened up during the next few years will be of great help to the retail businesses which are carried on in the central part of Manhattan. They will help the shops, the theatres, the restaurants and the hotels. Great as have been the changes, both in real estate values and in building construction, which have been brought about in this section since 1902, they will, we believe, be eclipsed by the changes which will take place before 1913.

In regarding the outlook, consequently, the builders of New York must remember that the necessary reconstruction of the city has only just begun. A city whose increase in population amounts to over 130,000 a year must always keep its builders busy, if only because a new city as large as Buffalo or Cleveland must be erected every five years. But in the case of New York, the building demanded by the increase of its business and inhabitants is almost duplicated by the building necessitated, because of the profound internal transformation which is constantly taking place. The improvements in transit and transportation will convert a loosely connected group of boroughs into an organic city, the heart of which will be Manhattan, and the heightened activity which will be caused in the central borough by the improved means of circulation will bring about an amount of reconstruction which the labors of a whole generation will not be sufficient to complete. There will, of course, be lulls and spurts, but in times of discouragement the New York building trades must always remember that they will not be permitted a long period of idleness. The need of new construction is so great and so pressing that it is not to be denied. It will take advantage of every opportunity and overcome every obstacle.

THE GERMAN-AMERICAN INSURANCE BUILDING

Among the buildings now under construction in New York City few, if any, present more difficult and interesting conditions for the architect and contractor to meet and overcome than does the German-American Insurance Company's building at the intersection of Maiden lane and Liberty st. The triangular block upon which it stands is in the center of the insurance district, and the building has the unusual advantages of a site having full frontages on streets on three sides to give lighting opportunities which are peculiarly satisfactory.

The accompanying drawing of the completed building, of which Messrs. Hill & Stout are the architects, shows for itself how they have solved the problems presented by the unusual outline of the building site and their utilization of the possibilities of its dominant position.

The facades from the street to the fourth story level are of white, close grained granite, in bold and monumental design. Continued pilasters of dull glazed white porcelain brick form the "front" from the fourth to the seventeenth story, broken at the fifteenth floor by a granite balcony and softened by the bull-nosed reveals; the panels, repeated below the windows, are of special brick, glazed to show a finish on the sinkages. Above the seventeenth story the entire front is to be of terra cotta glazed in colors, including the overhanging cornice and its groining.

The building will possess an entrance on Liberty st and also one on Maiden lane, the elevator concourse connecting them serving also as a vestibule to the general offices of the insurance company. The vaulted ceiling is lofty, and the wall facings are of Sienna marble laid out on Gothic lines.

Of the twenty-one floors in the building, the first, third, fourth and fifth will be occupied in their entirety by the owners for the company's offices; the rest of the building will be devoted to tenants. Every office being on the street front, it has a maximum of light and air, and the illumination is further increased by the highly reflective exterior wall surface.

The mechanical equipment is complete and has been the subject of extraordinary study. Five hydraulic lifts are being installed for passenger service and an extensive system of mechanical ventilation, a complete pneumatic tube service, telegraph and telephone conduits, vacuum cleaners, etc., are included among the features of the construction.

The foundations were carried down to hard pan, about 25 ft. below tide level and about 50 ft. below curb, by caissons under air pressure and afterward keyed to form a complete cofferdam around the property. The sub-basement floor is 32 ft. below the curb.

The work of construction, which is in the hands of the Whitnew-Steen Co. as general contractors, contains fully as many problems as those the architects were called upon to meet. The excessive traffic around this locality and the extreme narrowness of the streets have been factors which have forced the builders into many novel expedients; and in spite of the fact that the enclosure walls are all practically front work the erection is proceeding on schedule time and the building will be ready for occupancy May 1, 1908, an exceedingly rapid construction.

As an indication of the value of applying system to contracting, it is of interest to note that the Whitney-Steen Co., who have spent much effort on systematizing their organization, have now under successful construction the State Arsenal and Armory at Hartford, Conn., two bank buildings in the far West, a reinforced concrete office building in Colorado, power houses for the Hudson Companies, the Masonic Temple in Brooklyn and a number of private residences in New York City and vicinity. The economical and rapid prosecution of work of such diverse nature can only be accomplished by a highly trained and specialized organization.

Statistics of Mineral Paint Production.

In 1906 the total production of natural pigments, consisting of metallic paint and mortar colors, ocher, umber, sienna, zinc white, slate, and carbonaceous shales and schists, amounted to 124,601 short tons, valued at $6,521,104, as against 125,202 short tons, valued at $6,245,173, in 1905, a decrease of 601 short tons in quantity in 1906, but an increase of $275,931 in value.

The decrease in quantity reported is due chiefly to greater care in eliminating from the statistical returns such pigments as are not manufactured directly from mineral raw materials. The production of ocher, zinc white and metallic paint showed increases in both quantity and value.

Pennsylvania leads in the production of ocher, Georgia standing second. Virginia shows a considerably increased production of ocher, and for the first time Kentucky reports an output of this material. Pennsylvania is also the largest producer of metallic paint and ground slate and shale, New York being second.

An advance chapter from "Mineral Resources of the United States, Calendar Year 1906," on the production of mineral paints, by E. C. Eckel, is now ready for distribution by the United States Geological Survey.

Vertical Transportation in New York City

By REGINALD PELHAM BOLTON, Consulting Engineer

THIS subject has, in New York City, assumed a particular importance, derived from the peculiarly severe conditions of metropolitan business life. The demand for convenient access to certain business centres, with resulting increase in land values, has brought about the development of extremely tall buildings, in which adequate means of vertical transportation is a vital necessity.

The increase, both in numbers and in dimensions of the tall building in Manhattan, so far as this century has progressed, has been extraordinarily rapid, and the most recent developments of the tower form of building have introduced a sudden addition of at least one hundred feet to previous maximum heights.

The past four years have also seen a remarkable growth of the practice of adding to the height of existing buildings without, in many cases, corresponding additions to the area.

These conditions are peculiar in their demand upon the elevator for an equivalent increase in capacity, which demand elevator designers and manufacturers have been actively engaged in meeting.

It is of general interest, as the public is more concerned in this form of transportation than in any other, to look back upon the developments of elevator construction which have accompanied the changes above described, and to observe the steps which have brought the modern appliances up to the present state of effectiveness.

As regards speed of operation, a limitation has been reached. In 1903, when the Bureau of Buildings, under the authority of the charter, laid down certain rules, a restriction was included that

"The speed of all elevators must not exceed 400 feet per minute, except that express elevators may run 600 feet per minute for that portion of the shaft in which no intermediate stops are made. Express elevators shall mean only such elevators as run 80 feet or more without stop."

This restriction is not very practical, because an "express" elevator is in no way different from a "local" machine, after it has made its "express" run; and if an inherent capacity for a speed of 600 feet per minute is not considered undesirable when an express elevator is acting as a local machine, there is no reason why it should be less desirable in a purely local machine. Moreover, to attain either specified speed with certain loads the machine must have the capacity in the lighter loads of a speed considerably in excess.

In practical operation the regulation is disregarded, and many machines are in use to-day the speeds of which are in excess of those specified.

The really essential feature to be aimed at is the ability to stop within certain distances, from certain speeds, though it does not seem to be necessary to evolve regulations covering even that feature, since the limitation of speed is really brought about by natural causes, and practical elements and considerations of economy combine to restrict those excessive speeds which at one time were commonly supposed to be the unlimited source of increase of elevator carrying capacity.

A few installations, in which speeds exceeding an average of 650 feet per minute were made, remain to-day comparatively isolated examples, and general practice has settled down to average speeds from 600 feet downwards for locals and expresses, which, with the light loads on the up travel or heavy loads on the down travel may reach respectively speeds of 700 and 800 feet per minute.

Such a natural limitation responds also to the general public aversion to rapid speeds when accompanied with sudden motion in starting or sudden stoppage, and the large increase in the number of women traveling in elevators, to whom sudden starts and stops are distressing, accounts for the general effort on the part of designers to bring about the most desirable combination of speed, start and stop, which, if combined with due regard for economy must effect a practical restriction of speed.

The mere traveling speed of any elevator is only one element in successful operation. The handling of the passengers is a feature which can only be indirectly controlled and may affect, much more than speed, the result.

Signal appliances have therefore come to be universally appreciated, and the public has become habituated to their use, with very beneficial results.

The maintenance of schedule service would be almost impossible without this adjunct to rapid operation, and it is interesting to note that improvements and developments along this line are constantly being made.

In the largest buildings the work of the car-starter becomes so complex that it is now proposed to provide him with an electrical table or panel on which will be shown the position in the hoistway of every car the operation of which is under his direction, and further to afford to him the means of communication with the operator in each car so that his orders may control the car movement. A further refinement is to provide each operator with signals showing the position of the other cars of the schedule so that he may regulate his car's operation in harmony therewith.

And further, inasmuch as any car may possibly become stalled by its "safety" appliances at some point in the shaft, it is proposed to provide an indicator of the position of each, same to be placed in the engine room, where the engineer can also keep a watch upon operation.

The method of operation of elevator plants has, during the past seven years, followed the two systems of power supply, hydraulic and electrical, on both of which considerable developments have been made, calling forth a lively competition among designers and manufacturers.

The hydraulic elevator has had two important developments, which, however, have left the standard form of cylinder machine much in its original condition of widespread popularity. Its most attached admirers appear to be the class of operating engineers who would know, if any one does, what type of machine represents the least source of anxiety and attention.

Efforts to establish a higher degree of economy have led to some important installations of the inverted plunger rope machine, this machine being a combination of the direct acting plunger and standard vertical cylinder geared hydraulic types, in which the cylinder and plunger are installed above ground and movement is transmitted to the car by means of cables. This machine, with high working pressures (averaging around 750 pounds), has shown excellent results in that direction. Of such are the large plants of the Metropolitan Life Building at No. 1 Madison av, and of the Prudential Life Building, in Newark. The system has been adopted more widely in Chicago, where the large First National Bank Building, with 20 elevators, the American Trust, Borland, Heyworth and other buildings are equipped with this type of apparatus.

The introduction of the direct plunger type into New York City has, however, brought the liveliest elements of development into the hydraulic system of operation. It being demonstrated that the necessary holes could be bored with reasonable accuracy into the rock of Manhattan, successive increases of lengths of travel were adopted which have eventually exceeded 300 feet. A very sharp difference of opinion among experts has followed upon this development, and some leading engineers and manufacturers have evidenced the sincerity of their objections to the high rise plunger machines by refusing to undertake such installations.

The public in general, looking upon the steel tube as a visible form of support under the car in which they travel, has readily adopted the view of its entire security without inquiring whether the tube is supporting the car, or, as in the case of long travel machines, is itself being supported by the car, this latter state of affairs being brought about when the combined weight of the compensating cables and the counterbalance suspended by same exceeds the weight of the car.

Nor has any accidental occurrence so far, with these admirably built machines, afforded any demonstration of the ability of the long plunger to support the sudden increase in load of car and passengers resulting from an abrupt interruption of plunger movement.

The features of its operation which relate to economy have also found advocates and equally strong critics, and perhaps will require for demonstration further practical use, particularly in the case of the high rise installations, as to the wear in the cylinders below the ground.

The method of electrical operation has also undergone important developments in the past seven years, most of which have culminated comparatively recently.

The Sprague-Pratt screw machine, in which a ball-bearing nut was given a linear movement by revolving a large steel screw through it, and the movement transmitted to the car by means of cables, was, in 1900, actively advocated and rather widely installed; it has become entirely a back number, however, its cost of maintenance being excessive.

Its speed, too, was practically limited by the excessive wear and tear resulting when car speeds exceeding 480 feet per minute were attempted. This machine had an excellent record for freedom from accidents.

The drum-electric machine has developed into a most useful and effective appliance, and its use has become extremely widespread; it being estimated that there are in this city alone fourteen or fifteen thousand in operation.

For domestic and general purposes, wherever a supply of electrical energy is available, it has rendered possible the convenience of an elevator at moderate speed with small cost and desirable compactness.

For rapid schedule work, however, it has inherent deficiencies, and its best results in such work have not exceeded a maximum car speed of 400 feet per minute.

So attractive, however, have been, and are, the possibilities of electrical operation that inventors and designers have competed to evolve new methods which would afford the desired speed with security and simplicity.

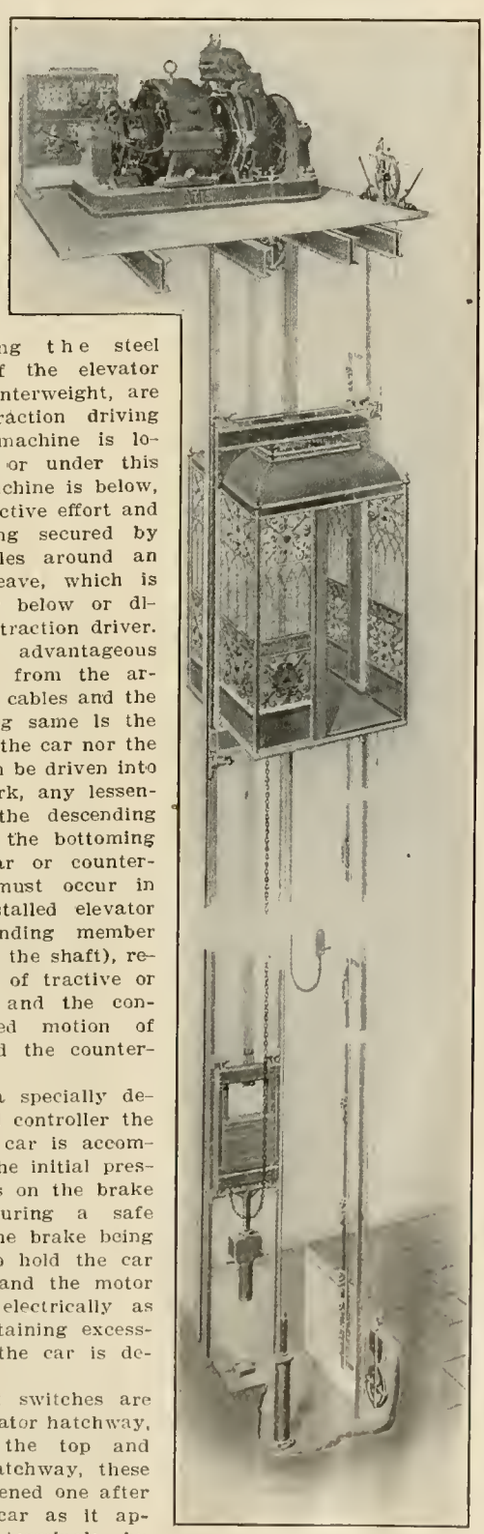
One of the earlier efforts resulted in the ingenious Frazier machine, using two variable speed motors running continuously, in opposite directions, and car movement depending upon one motor running faster than the other. This machine was tried, but abandoned, in the Arthur Building.

Other efforts resulted in various developments of the drum types, leading to the concentration of the energies of inventors upon that form of driving mechanism which is now commonly referred to as the Traction system.

The so-called Traction Electric equipment which, as one authority recently said, could more properly be described as the Adhesion Drive Elevator, has reduced the working parts of an electrically operated elevator to the simplest elements. As this type of elevator is comparatively new to the public, the following rather full description will no doubt be of interest.

The elevator engine consists essentially of a motor, a traction driving sheave and a brake pulley, together with a powerful but simple spring actuated electrically released brake, all mounted on the same cast iron bedplate.



The motor is of a very slow speed shunt wound type, especially designed to meet the requirements of elevator service. The armature shaft is extended to form the driving shaft, and in order to meet the conditions is made from forged steel of high tensile strength and is of unusually large diameter.

The traction driving sheave, over which pass the lifting cables, is mounted on the extended armatureshaft, resulting in a direct drive from the motor and the elimination of all intermediate reduction gearing, thereby insuring remarkably high efficiency.

The driving cables, connecting the steel safety frame of the elevator car and the counterweight, are led over the traction driving sheave, if the machine is located overhead, or under this sheave if the machine is below, the necessary tractive effort and proper lead being secured by passing the cables around an idler leading sheave, which is mounted directly below or directly above the traction driver. A particularly advantageous feature resulting from the arrangement of the cables and the method of driving same is the fact that neither the car nor the counterweight can be driven into the overhead work, any lessening tension on the descending cables, following the bottoming of either the car or counterweight (which must occur in any properly installed elevator before the ascending member strikes the top of the shaft), resulting in a loss of tractive or adhesive power, and the consequently arrested motion of both the car and the counterweight.

By means of a specially designed motor and controller the retarding of the car is accomplished without the initial pressure of the shoes on the brake pulley, thus insuring a safe and easy stop, the brake being applied mainly to hold the car at the landings, and the motor is so governed electrically as to prevent its attaining excessive speed when the car is descending.

Automatic limit switches are placed in the elevator hatchway, in series, near the top and bottom of the hatchway, these switches being opened one after another by the car as it approaches either terminal; by means of these the car is gradually slowed down and brought to rest at the predetermined limits of travel. The switches are independent of any devices placed upon the operating mechanism itself, and, operating with the controller, form positive means for bringing the car to rest, whether loaded or empty, at the established limits.

THE TRACTION TYPE.

An elemental feature of security of the greatest interest and importance is provided by the Otis oil cushion buffers. These are positive appliances provided as means for bringing the car to a gradual and positive stop at the extreme limits of travel beyond the terminal landings. When one of these buffers, which are located one under the car and one under the counterweight, comes into action, the result is that the weight of either the car or the counterweight is taken by the buffer, and the consequent releasing of the tension on the cables so decreases the traction of the driving sheave that even though the motor continue to run, no further motion is transmitted either to the car or to the counterweight. These buffers have been proven capable of bringing the car safely to rest from full speed.

To these advantageous features is added the simplicity in installation and economy of space, resulting from the location of the machine over the top of the hoistway, if so desired, and with the consequent reduction of working parts and friction, the operation of the machine has given remarkable demonstration of its economy.

For the purposes of providing tall buildings of the tower form with elevators which shall serve the upper floors in one continuous run from the street level this type of machine has been most opportunely developed; and it has been adopted in No. 1 Wall st, the Singer Tower, and the Metropolitan Tower, which, therefore, represent at this stage in the history of the metropolis the combination of the latest development both in the buildings which demand, and in the machinery which provides, the most up-to-date convenience for vertical transportation.

these demands by not only refusing to lend any money on bond and mortgage, but to call in a number of past due mortgage loans. This brought into the market a number of borrowers who offered first-class security and were willing to pay high rates of interest.

The demand for loans, being thus extraordinary, it was but natural that those few who had money to lend should discriminate in favor of the higher classes of property, and it is not surprising that builders who have recently completed buildings in the Washington Heights and Harlem sections found it almost impossible to obtain any loan in competition with such high-class offerings. It is surprising how few foreclosures have resulted as a sequence to the extraordinary conditions that have prevailed, which is no doubt due to the confidence of the holders of mortgages that conditions will shortly right themselves, and that mortgage investment will be deemed in the near future a safer one and certainly a less fluctuating one than the purchase of bonds.

No one can predict what the near future of the mortgage market will be. The title companies have been selling a number of guaranteed mortgages, obtaining high rates of interest and first-class security for their clients; and a number of estates, attracted by the present remunerative but conservative investment opportunities, have put out considerable money. It is the consensus of well informed opinion among the heads of several of our largest lending institutions, title companies, etc., that the acute stages of the money conditions above described have passed; and that with a return to reasonably normal conditions mortgage investment will prove more popular in the future and that interest rates will undoubtedly go down. Any rapid or immediate improvement in present conditions does not seem a conservative judgment of the situation, but that the worst is over and that conditions will slowly right themselves with proper readjustments of values and interest rates is, in my judgment, a reasonable opinion to hold.

Year's Building Material Market

REVIEW OF THE LEADING DEPARTMENTS TO THE CLOSE OF 1907

FORECASTS OF THE BUSINESS PROBABILITIES IN 1908

Trade in Masons' Materials.

THE Masons' Material trade for the past year has not been conducive to any great feeling of elation over good results, but on the contrary has tended toward the development of white hairs and wrinkles where none existed previously, over the worries and perplexities of one of the most troublesome years in my business experience, extending over forty of them.

FRANCIS N. HOWLAND.

Money conditions and the over-production of buildings in some sections during the past two years has tended to lessen building operations, so that the trade must look forward to a long spell of comparatively dull times in the building industry, and must accommodate itself to the new condition of affairs; and those who survive the ordeal of bad collections and customers failing to meet their just obligations when due, must curtail expenses, sail close to the wind as possible, and wait for the opening of a new era in building.

Many of the new firms that started out under good auspices, with the impression the boom in building operations would last indefinitely, have fallen by the wayside, and have found that something like business experience does pay in the long run, and is necessary to a successful business career.

The dealers in Masons' Materials deserve much credit for their work in the development of this great city during the past fifty years, and it is unfortunate and much to be deplored that so few of them can show good results in their property holdings and bank accounts that ought to be theirs by right of hard and continuous labor.

The Dealer stands between the Manufacturer and the Builder, and very often submits to losses, where the profits were not commensurate to the business risk taken, even though the bills had been settled, and as the Manufacturer generally receives the cash for his product in ten days, and the Dealers at the same time giving credit of months, it seems as though the hardship all falls on the Dealer.

It is a well established fact, that where manufacturers or their agents have made it a point to deal directly with the consumer, they sooner or later invariably came to grief, and were glad to get back to the old order of doing business.

It is unfortunate for the trade at large that some understanding cannot be arrived at between seller and buyer, whereby there will not be so much fluctuation in prices of material, and that refers to common brick especially. As the case stands now, there is no stability in prices, and the Dealer cannot submit prices to his Customers with any feeling of confidence that he is doing a businesslike act; on the contrary, he feels that Wall Street risks will not compare to some that he takes in trying to meet his customers' wishes.

There is no doubt in my mind that some arrangement can be made, whereby a settled price for six months or a year on common brick could be arrived at that would give the Manufacturer a fair price for his product, and allow the Dealer to get his share of profit, while the Builder on his part is satisfied at getting his material at a settled price, and knows that his competitors are not doing better. I hope some of the large purveyors of that staple article so necessary to the building up of our great, and to be, greater city, will put their minds to the problem, and try to solve it.

The trade in barrel and other material has been enormous, but of course, has fallen off on account of the conditions prevailing at present. The prices have been kept to a point satisfactory to Manufacturer, Seller and Consumer, with very slight fluctuation, and on the whole a very satisfactory condition of affairs exist.

This is a time when Seller and Buyer must stand by each other, and the Banks stand by us all, until such time as the clouds of distrust and uneasiness disappear from the business sky, and we sail along under better business conditions.

FRANCIS N. HOWLAND.

New York, Nov. 9th, 1907.

Hudson River Brick Trade.

IT is not an easy matter to tell the story of the Brick Trade of the Hudson River section for the year of 1907, as it has had such varieties of conditions presented that the most experienced have obtained new views on the possibilities of the business. The quantity of bricks held by the manufacturers at their yards along the Hudson on the opening of navigation for this year, showed largely in excess of the usual, and as building plans filed in the greater city for the preceding six months had fallen below the number and value for the corresponding time of the year before, a demand for bricks large enough to take into use this enormous quantity, before the product of 1907 would be offered on the market, was not expected by the most hopeful, so a consequent condition of unrest, and even anxiety was evident, not only among the manufacturers, but to an aggravated extent among the dealers in materials, who were already discounting the prevailing low prices when bidding for delivery of bricks to new work then slowly offering for spring contracts. With but trifling exceptions manufacturers were willing to sell at about cost, but would not make prices as low for future delivery to dealers, as the dealers were willing to speculatively make to the builders, hence the strange spectacle of bricks being offered for delivery to buildings for early spring work at lower prices than manufacturers could put them alongside the docks in the city.

WILLIAM K. HAMMOND.

On the opening of navigation all shipments were taken on arrival for immediate use, and manufacturers, believing the demand to be natural, forwarded all boats as fast as loaded, when suddenly the demand fell to comparatively nothing, as is evident from the fact that during the last four days of March 71 barge loads of brick were taken, during the next six days 111 were taken, while for the week ending April 13 but 57 were taken and a large number left unsold as surplus on a market weak to start with, and being constantly supplied thus became heavy as lead, and with prices falling so rapidly that manufacturers realized they were confronting disaster if the conditions should not improve.

Then, history repeating itself was in effect once more, and some yards which had been started up from former abandonment, remained idle; other owners were so undecided that delays in starting alarmed their old hands, who found occupation in other industries, while yet other owners started their yards at a much later time than ever before, and with a diminished daily output, unwilling to forward their stock at the smashed prices, yet obliged to forward enough to keep their storage sheds free for the new stock, and accepting with bad grace prices below cost of production, still hoped for what to them seemed to be impossible of fulfilment, a demand which would take their stock at a fair price, when suddenly, demand increased, and so rapidly that during the early part of June cargoes could not be despatched rapidly enough to supply the demand, while prices advanced from $5.00 as the low price of April, to $8.00 for a few cargoes as high price for June.

During June, July and August the daily demand exceeded the corresponding time of 1906 by 16 per cent., while the demand from January 1 to September 1 was several millions in excess of 1906. As to prices, it is probable that no period has been so unsatisfactory alike to manufacturers and dealers as during this enormous demand, for whether by reason of uncertainty of the future among those who bought, and those who sold, or of other causes, which were broadly hinted at, but not traced, prices flopped, down and up, and mostly down, uncertain from day to day, sometimes showing one dollar per thousand difference on same grades within a day or two. From September 1 the demand declined steadily, until at this writing the record is about fifty millions behind 1906, and several times that number behind the record of 1905, and prices now are not sufficient at the wholesale rate to recoup the cost of production.

The manufacturer has had a year of unrest of hard work, of production without adequate money return, and the close of the year shows the stock of brick now under storage sheds along the river nearly as large as that of last year, and produced at greater cost, because labor refused to accept a lower wage or to increase its daily product, while all other necessities for the production of brick were higher in cost than for 1906. The liability to physical injury to the laborer employed in manufacturing brick is not so great as for labor engaged in many other occupations, yet demands are constantly made upon manufacturers to make good for injuries.

These charges and costs must be borne by the product when accounted for, and if the employers of labor are to be so steadily attacked by the lawmakers, and labor fail in faithful performance, while value of products declines, results will be ruin inevitably. Unequal and oppressive laws have never benefitted a people, and it is surely reasonable for the employe to share a moderate risk with what he brings to the development of enterprises, instead of saddling the employers with liability for the acts of those who are indifferent to results and careless of conduct. To these depressing conditions is now to be added financial uncertainty, and while as yet the brick manufacturers have been touched but lightly in a direct manner by the panic, yet when tight money and lack of money affects real estate by retarding its development, so that bricks are not largely and continuously used, brick in stock will be but brick in stock, and not in process of turning into cash, which is so desirable. Yet those who observe and are best informed believe that this money squeeze will result in great advantage to real estate, as showing it to be of a positive and continuing value, and will therefore benefit brick manufacturers very materially, by demanding in the near future, for development of plans of the men who are clear eyed and far seeing, much larger quantities of brick than have ever been used before, for the reason that as the prudent owner scans the plans of the best architects he finds that bricks have come again to their own first place, as the best and cheapest building material for those who build for permanence and strength.

The Year in Fireproofing

By HENRY M. KEASBEY

THOUGH they caused losses aggregating many millions of dollars, the conflagrations at Baltimore and San Francisco yet have this to their credit, that they brought about widespread realization of the dangers and the utter folly of cheap, non-fireproofing construction. It is true—and discouraging—that in numerous instances the bitter lesson of experience is being disregarded, but it is also true that the lesson, generally speaking, has been a most valuable one to the country at large.

Here in New York, architects and builders awoke to the necessity of safety years ago, before they had to be taught by the misfortunes of the other cities. Year after year construction methods have shown steady improvement. But it is not impossible that the conflagrations of 1905 and 1906 added a still more powerful stimulus toward indestructible building and brought about improvements that might otherwise have been omitted.

In respect to activity in the construction of fireproof buildings, this last year was a most notable one for New York. It is rarely possible for any one calendar twelvemonth to claim all of a great structure, because from the beginning to completion the structure may belong to two, or even three, years. The following buildings, however, though some of them started before 1907 and some of them are not yet finished, are striking features of the year just ended:

Singer (addition).	Trinity (addition).
City Investing.	Trust Company of America.
Metropolitan Life (addition).	Hudson Companies.
Hotel Plaza.	Apthorp Apartments.
Evening Post.	No. 1 Wall Street.
United States Realty.	Consolidated Exchange.
New Mills Hotel.	Seligman.
West Street.	Royal Insurance.
German-American Insurance.	Monolith.

Lawyers' Title Insurance & Trust Co.

This group represent a decided advance in fireproofing methods. Not only in regard to materials, but also in plan, most of them conform to approved standards. It is by the continued erection of such as these that New York will approach nearer and nearer to the ideal condition of an indestructible city.

Take, for example, the Singer, since that is the most conspicuous of them all. There is no combustible matter about it. The exterior is brick. The steel frame protection, the floors and the partitions are of hollow terra cotta blocks on hollow tile, as it is known, so that the building is constructed entirely of steel and burnt clay. Altogether, more than 750,000 spuare feet of hollow tile was used in the building. The elevator shafts and stairways are enclosed, to prevent the spread of fire, feeding upon contents, which is responsible for loss in so many cases.

Next door, in the City Investing Building, 2,000,000 square feet of hollow tile will be installed before the work is done. Practically every inch of the 13,000 tons of steel will thus be protected from corrosion or fire; and the floors and rooms will be separated from one another in such a manner that fire cannot spread even if it breaks out.

Leaving the domain of office buildings, we find another example of fireproof construction in the Apthorp Apartments, erected by William Waldorf Astor, at Broadway and Seventy-ninth street. This record-breaking apartment house, with a floor area of nearly 12 acres, is as well protected against fire as the downtown skyscrapers. It has 109 commodious houses under its roof, and some one has calculated that the terra cotta partitions, if placed in line, would stretch ninety miles.

So the instances of safe construction in New York during 1907 could be multiplied. In office buildings, churches, theatres, hotels and apartments are to be seen evidences of the regard for safety and permanence. This is not to say that perfect fireproof construction is the only kind on view—for such is far from true—but there is genuine and substantial progress in the right direction.

The combination of steel and hollow tile, the tile forming protection for the steel, remains the most successful from the standpoint of safety, permanence and economy. As is well known, in excessive heat unprotected steel loses its bearing strength. The porous terra cotta, having passed through a heat of some 2,000 degrees during manufacture, forms an unbroken cover for the metal, and being a non-conductor, keeps the steel from reaching a temperature that would bring about a collapse. It has also the advantage of being relatively light, thus increasing but little the burden to be borne by the frame.

In the last two years about 28,000,000 square feet of this fireproofing product has been used in buildings in New York.

Recently concrete has come into considerable prominence as structural as well as a fireproofing material. In some ways it is very useful. In Thirty-fourth street the walls of "The Monolith" are of concrete, though the floors are of the concrete-and-hollow-tile combination type. This and similar experiments with concrete are being observed with much interest by architects and contractors.

As a whole, I believe the downtown financial district of New York presents the best example of fireproof construction found anywhere in the world. The fires in both Baltimore and San Francisco showed that skyscrapers, of which we have so many on lower Manhattan, withstood the heat and flames better than any other buildings. Every new one put up in the proper way constitutes a new barrier in the path of fire and adds to the safety of the city.

There is a tendency now, too, toward the proper protection of homes, a phase of fireproof construction that has received comparatively little attention in the past. Last year witnessed a growth of the idea that the house we sleep in, as well as those we work in, should be safe. This calls to mind the suggestion—made by Fire Chief Croker, I believe—that the fire limits of New York be extended. If this is done, it will mean that no more frame houses can be built in certain outlying sections of the city, notably in Brooklyn. Strenuous objection has been made that this would be a blow to building projects. This fear is probably unwarranted, because the price of lumber has risen so that now it costs little more to build a relatively fireproof dwelling than to build the common kind of firetrap. In fact, in the long run, the saving of maintenance, repairs and insurance would make the fireproof dwelling less expensive.

I have heard the suggestion that this theory of fire limits be applied, in more stringent form, to the financial and business districts. For instance, provide that below Fourteenth street and between certain north-and-south thoroughfares, every new building or addition shall not only have exterior walls of stone or brick, but must be of standard fireproof construction throughout. If this policy were followed and later extended, New York would gradually become a city of unburnable buildings.

The annual loss from fire in the United States is the wonder of European builders and insurance men. Over there the fire loss per capita is between 30 and 35 cents, in our country it is nearly $2. In the United States, in a normal year we put up $500,000,000 worth of buildings in a year, and lose $200,000,000 worth by fire. An expert calculated that $10,000,000 more spent on good construction in San Francisco would have reduced the loss $160,000,000.

In the long run, fire protection is vastly more economical than fire extinguishment. In New York we are justly proud of the brave and efficient men in the fire department, but no one denies that it would be much better if we had little need of their services. Europe's firefighters are far less efficient than ours, yet Europe's immunity from fire loss is far greater. It is better to keep off the small-pox by vaccination than it is to have small-pox and be treated by the best physician in the world.

Improvement, inevitably, must be slow, but it should also be steady. In this city definite steps toward a better condition are taken even now. A commission appointed in accordance with a resolution of the Board of Aldermen, is engaged in revising the city's building code. The members of the commission have heard recommendations from architects, engineers, builders and insurance men, and undoubtedly the revision will render impossible the erection of many half-safe structures, such as the present code permits. Valuable recommendations to this end have been made by the New York Board of Fire Underwriters.

One suggestion is that the requirements for the protection of steel beams be made more rigid. As the law is now, for example, the soffits of beams may be left with a thin covering of metal-lath and plaster. In a serious fire this plaster would crumble and the steel would get as hot as if there were no protection at all. Here is applicable the maxim, "A chain is as strong as its weakest link." I have in mind a downtown office building and a mercantile building under construction uptown, both of which illustrate this defect. The insurance experts hold that in a fireproof building the beams should have a protection on all sides at least two inches, but preferably four inches, thick.

This is only one of the many details that the commission must consider. With two disastrous conflagrations still fresh in the memory, the commissioners are awake to the ruin which is apt to follow bad construction, and they are equally awake to the value of the security which good construction affords. If, in other cities, similar efforts are made, we may approach the low average per capita fire loss of which European countries now boast.

Shortleaf Pine.

Shortleaf pine, used extensively for structural, finishing and building material, is found in pure and mixed stands from Staten Island, N. Y., southward to northern Florida, and southeast to the Appalachian States to northeast Texas, over southern Missouri and Kentucky and central West Virginia. The densest stands of this timber occur in southwest Arkansas and the adjacent territories of neighboring States. Northern Arkansas, southern Missouri, northeast Mississippi and northern Alabama also contain heavy stands.

Timbers of this species of pine generally contain considerable sapwood which decreases their durability when used in exposed structures. The presence of sapwood, however, facilitates their efficient treatment with creosote and other preservatives, and with the development of wood preservation the utilization of shortleaf pine for structural timbers will probably increase.

Architectural Metal Work.

THE MOST IMPORTANT RECENT IMPROVEMENTS.

I REALLY cannot add much to the statement I made last year on this subject. Architectural metal work is used more and more extensively in our large buildings and, in late years much attention has been given to the perfection of fireproof windows and doors.

Some seven years ago Mr. Geo. B. Post, architect, called my attention to the fact that something was very much needed to make buildings fireproof, namely, fireproof windows and doors. As he said, "We shall never have a thoroughly fireproof building before we get that, and, at present, there is nothing in the market fit to use for a first-class building."

N. POULSON.

The Hecla Iron Works, as well as many other concerns, has made a particular study of this matter with the result that now fireproof doors and windows are being introduced in many of our first-class buildings, and should be more so. If each main door, from the hall to an apartment, or to rooms in a hotel or to the offices in an office building, were made fireproof, then a fire could not spread from the place wherein it started, and there would never be a large fire in a building where those two protections were installed: first, to make the main doors fireproof; and, second, to have fireproof windows where they are exposed to damage from fire in neighboring buildings. If the sashes are made of metal, glazed with either electro-glazing or wire glass, both of which have been proven by tests to be excellent fire-resistants, they will be found to be even better than shutters, because they will always be in working order, whereas shutters are oftentimes left open, and therefore are not in place when needed.

This is about the most important progress made in the late years in regard to architectural metal work for buildings. I would again call attention to what I wrote last year: that is, that in the matter of architectural metal work, especially of the finer grades, it is not always to the advantage to give the contract to the lowest bidder. An ordinary builder, if he gets estimates, is likely to do this, and it would be well, therefore, if the bids for this class of work were submitted direct to the architect, or to the general contractor, and then let the owner, the architect and the general contractor decide where it would be to the best advantage to place the contract; and, as that seems to be fair all around, I do not see any objections to doing it.

N. POULSON.

The Bluestone Trade.

THE North River bluestone business during the season just closed has been fair up to this writing, with the wholesale portion of the trade particularly. They have in most instances been able to dispose of all sizes, especially the flagstone, for which the demand has been fully equal to the production at prices same as last year, and at times slightly in advance of last year's prices for this kind of stone. In other sizes, both for building and street work, prices having been practically the same as last year. The volume of business in Greater New York has not been up to the past two years, but the demand outside has kept up the business. The let up in the greater city, both in private and municipal work, has been caused by the financial situation.

C. C. BULL.

North River flag, curb, etc., keep in favor on account of their durability, as by ordinary wear they are practically indestructible, and may be relaid again and again, whenever they get out of place by frost or other causes; and a walk kept as good as new, or if taken up, can be used for other purposes, or sold for use elsewhere, which is not so of other material. the past two weeks I have seen stones which had been in use in the city streets for over forty years, being broken up to be worked over for new construction, and they were as fine as when first quarried. This applies to all North River bluestone, it being a hard stone. No matter what had been its use, when it has served out its usefulness in one place it can be made use of elsewhere.

The relations between the employers and the workmen have been very satisfactory. The unions seem to have more fully comprehended that their interest and those of their employers are so closely related that it is for their best interest to try and work amicably together, thereby furthering the best interests of both. The business outlook for the coming season is too darkened by the financial cloud at present to discern what is in store for the coming year. We have every reason, however, to expect a normal year if financial matters get back to normal in time.

There is no accumulation of stock, and on account of present financial conditions there will not be quite so much stone quarried as usual during the winter. For which reasons, we believe, with anything like normal amount of business, prices will rule about the same the coming season as during the past season. Especially as prices are as low at present as warranted or can be expected with present wage schedule. The fact being prices are now below what should be with present cost of production.

C. C. BULL.

The Fashion in Front Brick.

ALL those intimately connected with the building industry, and in general, all careful observers of the architecture of the American city, are familiar with the fact that there is a certain amount of "fashion" in the face brick which are being used for exterior construction, and that this "fashion" changes to a considerable extent from year to year. Buildings being erected today with facades of stone or suburban construction of wood, look much the same as those erected ten years ago, while brick architecture, in this country at least, has changed radically within that period.

Ten or fifteen years ago the finest fronts were constructed of red pressed brick, carefully gauged to size, shaded to one even color, laid in running bond with as narrow a mortar joint as possible usually of a red color to match the brick, the idea apparently being to secure a surface so uniform as to give the effect of a painted and ruled wall. With the discovery of clays which would burn brown, old gold, buff, gray and other light colors, and the rapid development of satisfactory brick from these materials, one color after another has sprung into favor at the partial expense of its predecessors, so that the prospective builder may now choose from nearly every color in the chromatic scale with the possible exception of blue and green, and even these colors may be obtained by the use of glazed or semi-glazed surfaces.

Simultaneously with the departure from an even smooth red color, rapid developments have taken place in the matter of the thickness, color and texture of the mortar joint, and in the style of bonding the face brick to the backing up wall, so that the construction of a brick facade today is a highly artistic proposition, capable of the best results only in the hands of a skilful architect.

It is true that many builders and owners still prefer the "painted effect" because they have not yet awakened to the beauty of artistic brickwork; this is particularly true of the speculative operator, although even in this field a change of sentiment has already taken place and is rapidly spreading; the general public also is gradually coming to an appreciation of the fact, long understood by the best architects of our country, that a brick wall to be interesting should have "life" and "texture," which can best be obtained by the use of brick varying considerably in color, laid with a wide mortar joint and preferably with header brick forming a true bond into the main wall, the whole being a frank expression of true brickwork.

There is no stronger proof that bricks possess artistic merit to a higher degree than most other exterior building materials than the rapid change in "fashion" that has taken place from year to year, and the great number of colors and textures which exist to-day, and the almost infinite variety of effects which may be produced therewith.

The dull monotonous front of bygone days was distinctly antagonistic to all nature and art, both of which abhor monotony and demand "life" as an essential element of beauty. The mountain forest with its varying shades of foliage, the sparkle of the meadow with its brilliant flowers and background of green, the ever-changing colors of the ocean, and the magnificent colors of sunset, never twice alike, are but a few illustrations of life in nature. The beautiful blending of colors is essential to the life of the artist's picture, and the symphony of beautiful tones, with the infinite variety of light and shade of the different instruments, produce the subtle charm of music.

If a brick wall, to be beautiful, must therefore have this all essential element of "life," a variety of shades must be blended together and the general tone must be selected with reference to its surroundings and the character of the building in question.

The beauty of the finished wall will be greatly enhanced if a certain measure of "texture" exists in the brick themselves. A brick with a smooth polished surface reflecting the light gives a disagreeable sheen to the wall, while a brick that is slightly rough and irregular absorbs the light and produces a certain depth of color exactly as the weave and irregularity of the threads produce the depth and richness of a beautiful fabric or tapestry. It is true that smooth light colored brick are useful in the narrow streets of our cities, because of their light-reflecting qualities, but their use is largely utilitarian rather than artistic.

The year just closed has probably seen a greater development in the use of artistic brickwork than any preceding year. The so-called Harvard brick construction, considered so radical when first used, has not only become a standard of excellence in the East, but has rapidly spread to the West and South, and the products of the New Hampshire waterstruck brick yards are finding their way into nearly every city in the Union, while innumerable yards through the Middle States are now producing red shale stretchers and dark headers for use in most beautiful Harvard brick construction.

A number of manufacturers are giving special attention to the matter of life in brickwork, and have produced brick which in the hands of skilful architects have given the most beautiful results. Among these may be mentioned the Brooklyn Academy of Music, Herts & Tallant, Architects, constructed of Sayre & Fisher's white rough textured Norman brick, with trimmings of polychrome terra cotta in rich harmonious shades. A more beautiful example of life in brickwork can hardly be imagined. The new office building of the Bush Terminal Company, at 100 Broad street, constructed of the dark rich red "Devonshire" stretchers with "Gun Metal" headers, and the new Public Bath on Elton avenue, in the Bronx, of "Caledonian" brick, in dark red, copper and blue colors, are both examples of the beautiful soft effects which may be produced by brick with an extremely rough texture, while one is reminded of a piece of rich old ivory by a distant view of the walls of rough textured "West Point" brick in gray and light brown, beautifully blended together in the new Carnegie Library at Brownsville, Lord & Hewlett, architects, and in the Hodson residence, Davidson avenue, Bronx, Mann & MacNeille, architects.

That this country is rapidly undergoing a marked change in sentiment in the matter of face brickwork is evidenced by the fact that ten years ago such brick as are now being used for the most artistic fronts would have promptly been relegated by the general public to the rough brick wall as suitable only for "backing up."

The past year has also seen a considerable change in the more standard class of face brick. The smooth, well finished repressed buff brick, which was so popular in the city two or three years ago, has been almost entirely abandoned, except for the interior lining of such buildings as power houses, and its place seems to have been largely taken by grays and reds. The cream white or gray impervious brick still holds its own for downtown buildings where the streets are narrow and light reflecting qualities are desired and cannot be surpassed for work of this character.

A demand seems to have arisen, however, for a brick which shall be still lighter in color, and if possible with a vitrified surface, and which shall be free from the somewhat unpleasant sheen of the regular enameled brick. This requirement is well met by the so-called "semi-glazed" brick, an excellent example of which may be seen in the City Investing Building, Broadway and Cortlandt street, now nearing completion.

Some two or three years ago the manufacturer was told that he had better prepare to close down his factory, as a new article had been invented, which was going to supersede the burned clay product, namely, the "sand-lime" brick. The promotors of this form of building material claimed that they could not only make a superior quality of brick of sand and lime in any desired color and at only a fraction of the cost of burned clay, but that they could make brick today which could be laid in the building tomorrow, the process of manufacture requiring only twenty-four hours' time. The claims of these promoters has, however, proved something of a boomerang, for the burned clay brick factories are still doing business, while the four or five sand-lime plants which were started in the vicinity of New York have either closed their doors or turned their products into other channels. The sand-lime brick has proved a total failure in this market, and so far as can be learned it is rapidly going out of use in other parts of the country. It is true that the sand-lime process makes a brick of reasonable strength, and so far as laboratory tests go, one which gives promise of reasonable permanence, but the colors produced are wholly uninviting to an artistic temperament, and the cost of such brick has been found to be so near that of the burned clay brick that there is no incentive for an investor to take the risk which accompanies the use of a wholly untried material. The burned clay brick has stood the test of many centuries, in fact, the oldest records of man are found to-day inscribed upon tablets of burned clay. When this assurance of permanence is coupled with most artistic colors, texture and general effect in the wall, it is easily understood why the sand-lime brick was doomed to failure.

The Portland Cement manufacturer and his associates have carried on a most vigorous campaign during the last two or three years to convince the public that the best material for the construction of buildings is reinforced concrete; that a building constructed of this material is not only more nearly fireproof than one erected of burned clay, but that it is cheaper and better generally, and they have so far convinced certain investors as to secure the construction of a large number of buildings of various character, including a number of office buildings in this city.

While there are undoubted advantages in the use of reinforced concrete for some classes of buildings, the general public is far from convinced at the present time that it is cheaper or more fireproof than a burned clay building. As to the artistic side of the proposition there can be no possible question that burned clay, with its almost infinite variety of color and texture, and with the remarkable results which can be obtained by a wide selection of bonding and mortar joint, possesses far more artistic merit than the monotonous gray which is obtained with concrete construction. The market will undoubtedly settle down to a limited use of reinforced concrete for superstructures where conditions are favorable to that class of construction, but the face brick manufacturer need have no fear that the use of his products will be seriously curtailed thereby.

In volume the face brick business has seen a serious curtailment in the year just closed, owing to the stagnation of building operations. Speculative work in Manhattan and the Bronx has been practically at a standstill during the entire year, although certain sections of Brooklyn have seen a considerable amount of building in the form of small houses, aggregating a large quantity of brick.

The prevailing colors used in speculative building operations in Manhattan and the Bronx have been Harvard brick and grays with a fair proportion of iron spots, while Brooklyn has consumed a larger proportion of iron spots, also grays, repressed red shale and a few buffs. Harvard brick have not come into general use in speculative work in Brooklyn, although in Manhattan they have been largely used. There is an indication, however, that their use will extend to Brooklyn during the coming year.

Prices have been maintained at a fairly uniform figure, notwithstanding the great diminution in business. It is true that one concern, new in the field, has seen fit to sell its product far below the market price, and to extend extraordinary terms of credit, but other than this the face brick dealers have evidently concluded that no new business would be created by a serious cut in price, and that it was much better to ask a fair profit, consistent with good service and a satisfactory product.

Considering the condition of the money market, and the great difficulty of securing cash with which to conduct business, there have been remarkably few failures among building operators; many have deemed it wiser to shut down the work entirely and wait for better times, rather than to take any risk of not being able to meet their obligations, and very few operators have undertaken any new work without seeing the money definitely in sight; as a result they have not been obliged to ask for abnormal credit.

It is needless to here discuss the general condition of the building business as other writers will undoubtedly cover this subject more thoroughly. Business is dead at the present time, but when it awakens every face brick man is justified in anticipating a fine business, as his products have come unscathed through the severest tests of time and more recently through competition with new and promising rivals and stand today without a peer as the cheapest, most durable and most artistic material for exterior building construction.

Gypsum Products.

AN active demand for gypsum products was the general condition throughout the country, but here in New York trade in plaster of various kinds followed the flag of plans filed. On the whole, plaster has had a better year than some other mason's materials because of its wider requirement, in suburban construction as well as city work—frame cottages or fireproof skyscrapers. In 1906 the gypsum production of the United States amounted to 1,540,585 short tons, valued at $1,147,129, which in quantity was more than 47 per cent., and in value of nearly 40 per cent., as compared with that of 1905. The largely increased production, which surpasses by far that of any previous year, is accounted for partly by the rapid increase in new producers, the total number of whom at the close of 1906 amounted to 74, as against 46 in 1905, a gain of 61 per cent. Since few of these, however, operated the whole year, they can not be credited with a proportionate share of the increase in production. As to relative rank among the States producing gypsum, Michigan still holds first place. New York regains second place, with Iowa a close third.

The bulk of the gypsum produced in the United States as well as in foreign countries is manufactured into the various plasters, such as plaster of Paris, stucco, cement plaster, flooring plaster, hard-finish plaster, etc. A steady increasing quantity is being used as a retarder in Portland cement. The pure white massive form, known as alabaster, is much used by sculptors for interior ornamentation.

Along with the progress in other lines of industry in recent years, plaster has had its share. The advantages in favor of hard wall plaster and wood fiber plaster are numerous. Each is light in weight, flexible and a non-conductor of sound. The manufacture of both wood fiber and hard wall plasters is in itself a rather simple operation, says an authority, but there are certain things that enter into the composition that the uninitiated are not permitted to know.

In making wood fiber plaster, the gypsum is first ground in a plaster mill, an operation that pulverizes it to an impalpaple powder. To this is then added the wood fiber, and a retarder, the latter a composition of certain chemicals, plaster of paris, etc., the formula of which no manufacturer is willing to divulge, as this is his secret that carries the charm of his industry.

When these above ingredients are properly proportioned they are put into a plaster mixer, and by this machine thoroughly mixed and ready for use. It is generally put in bags of 100 pounds each, and can be applied at once simply by the addition of sufficient water to make it work smoothly.

The gypsum which is imported into the United States comes, except a few hundred tons annually from France and the United Kingdom, almost wholly from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, and enters the ports of New England and northern Atlantic States, over one-half entering the port of New York. The following table, based upon reports of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor, shows the imports for the calendar years from 1902 to 1906, inclusive:

The New York Lumber Market.

THE condition of the lumber market in this city at present is weak. This was to have been expected, owing to the great falling off in building as compared with the two previous years. This condition will only be temporary, however. The fact that practically all the standing timber in the country is now held by private owners makes it impossible that prices could remain low for any length of time.

JOHN F. STEVES.

In Canada and in Maine and New York State the paper pulp industries have acquired all the standing spruce not previously held by lumber interests. The yellow pine holdings in the South are now all in the hands of people who have bought either to manufacture or to sell on speculation. The great forests of California, Oregon and Washington are practically held in the same way. The hardwoods and poplar of West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee are owned by manufacturers and are being rapidly depleted.

The present conditions in the building trades have lowered the prices for the moment for the stock in sight, but mills are being shut down everywhere in order to reduce the output, as manufacturers know that if thin stock will not bring satisfactory returns to-day it will take but a short time with a shortened output to bring the market into a healthy condition. We may, therefore, expect to see the present low prices prevail not longer than into next season, when a firm condition must again prevail. At the present writing the only stock that is being quoted low is material used for construction purposes. Pine, poplar and all hardwoods remaining firm.

OVER 60 per cent. of the lime used in New York City during the past year has been Rockland-Rockport, and to-day in the building material trade Rockland-Rockport Lime is considered the Standard. This reputation has been won by the quality of lime produced, which, for over a century, has given satisfaction.

The quarries are the best in the United States, the manufacturing being carried on by modern methods, backed by ample capital ($4,000,000), and to-day the equipment is such that the Company handles its own product from the quarries to the consumer. Not only has Rockland-Rockport Lime been used on some of the finest buildings, where quality and material was necessary, but on thousands of apartments and tenement houses, where economy counted.

Used on the Hotel Plaza, West Street and U. S. Express Buildings, U. S. Custom House, Police Headquarters, Astor Apartments, etc.

Rockland-Rockport LIME

HOTEL PLAZA, NEW YORK CITY. H. J. Hardenbergh, Architect

EVERY barrel of Rockland-Rockport Lime used means a saving of material and labor and better work accomplished.

For the Mason: Greater sand capacity, producing a richer mortar with better spreading and bonding properties, more bricks laid.

For the Plasterer: A scratch and brown mortar of great richness with immense sand capacity, working smoothly and easily, with great spreading qualities. A strong, hard, durable wall.

For Finishing: Doesn't shrink in stiffening, less plaster and troweling, thus reducing the danger of fire cracking. A strong, hard, white finish that is without a blemish.

Pound for pound, Rockland-Rockport Lime will do more and better work than any other lime. Rockland-Rockport Lime is the most economical factor in the building trade. Sold by the best material dealers in the following guaranteed sizes: Common, 220 and 320 pounds per barrel, Blue Label. Finishing, 200 and 350 pounds per barrel, Red label.

Rockland-Rockport quality plus quantity equals economy.

Largest Apartment House of the Year.

(With Illustrations.)

THE HENDRIK HUDSON, the largest apartment house planned during the last year, was designed to meet the very popular demand for apartments ranging in price from $1,500 to $3,000. It is cleverly arranged in apartments of seven, eight and nine rooms, with two and three baths in each apartment.

WILLIAM L. ROUSE.

The great feature of this house, aside from its architectural beauty, is the light and air given to the bedrooms. In many cases in this building the bedrooms are given a decided preference in location over the parlor and dining room in the same suite. The architects have been able to convince the owners that this seemingly rash move in an apartment building was the right one, and the result has borne them out.

The house is planned with a system of exterior courts, and all of the 132 apartments enjoy a street view. The living rooms in all cases are grouped around the foyer, and in no case is it necessary to pass a bedroom to enter a parlor or dining-room, a very important point.

The woodwork in all bedrooms except the servants' quarters is white enameled, with mahogany doors and glass knobs. The corridors are very wide and well lighted, and there is a separate entrance to each kitchen from the main corridor. Floors of the corridors are in large Welch-quarry tile and the side walls in imitation caen-stone, giving a very fireproof and substantial appearance as well as a very sanitary result.

The facade in scheme is that of an Italian villa. The materials which are limestone, brick and terra cotta, are remarkable for a harmony of color and scheme. The terra cotta is matched to the brick instead of the stone, and is topped with a broad Spanish tile roof, supported by bronze brackets which have a very pleasing bearing on the color scheme. The brick work is of Roman shape, laid up in Flemish bond with full half-inch joints, and raked out a full half inch, forming a brick mass with a very pleasing texture.

The house is uniquely situated, being at the top of a series of terraces, absolutely commanding the best view of the beautiful Hudson River and Riverside Drive. The Riverside portion of the building was opened on October 1, with 68 apartments rented out of a total of 72, the Broadway wing being in the course of construction now. The building is owned by the Hendrik Hudson Co., companion company to the Johnson-

The Largest Buildings of the Year.

(With Illustrations.)

ANY comprehensive study of the statistics of buildings in the past twelve months will show that the city is committed to "big" buildings more than ever before in its history. The City Investing Company's edifice will be ready for occupancy by May 1, 1908. It will be the largest single office building in the world, a 33-story skyscraper, providing 12 acres of rentable space. The Hudson Companies Terminal buildings will have a greater combined capacity, but as these twin structures above ground are entirely separate from the street level to the roof it is hardly fair to compare them with the City Investing Building. Along Cortlandt street the Investing building fronts 209.1¼ ft., and 105.6½ ft. on Church street, with a Broadway outlet of 37.6½ ft. It will contain 11,000,000 cubic feet, 500,000 square feet of floor space, and represent an outlay of $10,000,000. Massive in size and imposing in design, the new structure is a notable departure from the usual style of skyscraper. The architectural treatment leaves a deep recess in the face of the building, thus separating it into two wings, each of which rises to a height of 26 stories. The main structure, 33 stories high, with its ornate gables, will be a picturesque ornament to the skyline. The feature of the interior will be an arcade extending 315 feet, the whole length of the building. The arcade will be 32 feet wide and 40 feet high, with a vaulted ceiling elaborately designed in frescoes. At each end will be arched passages leading to the 21 elevators required to handle the 10,000 tenants who can be accommodated in the building.

CITY INVESTING BUILDING.

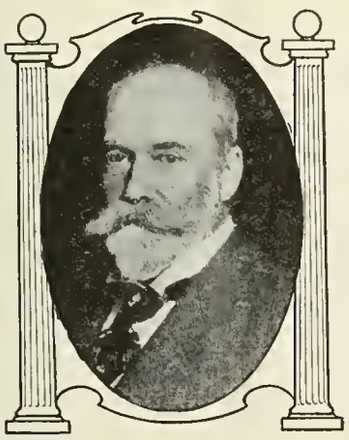
Cortlandt Street and Broadway. Hedden Const. Co., Builder. Francis H. Kimball, Architect.

MATERIAL USED IN THE CITY INVESTING BUILDING.

The weight of steel will be 13,500 tons, or 27,000,000 lbs. A rod one inch in diameter made of this steel would be 10,000,000 feet long, or about 2,000 miles long. The heaviest pieces handled through the streets were nine grillage girders 8 ft. x 1 ft. 6 in. x 40 ft., each weighing 25 tons or 50,000 lbs. The longest piece handled was 45 ft. long. Thirty thousand galvanized anchors made of six miles of iron strap were used in the stonework. Number of rivets driven in the shop, 1,220,000; number of rivets driven at the building, 250,000. Number of holes punched in metal, 4,410,000. Weight of metal punched out and thrown away, 185 tons, or 370,000 lbs. Area of the drawings showing the steel work, 8,000 sq. ft. of tracings, from which there was made 26,000 sq. ft. or two acres of blue prints. About 9,122,010 bricks have been used. This total number of bricks is made up of the following quantities: Common brick, 7,800,000; face brick, 675,550; glazed face brick, 646,461. These bricks, laid end to end, with tight joints, would reach a distance of 1,151 miles, equivalent to a distance of 150 miles greater than from New York to Chicago. There have been used 15,780 barrels of cement. This does not include the cement used in the foundation. About 353,242 bags of cement mortar have been used in the brick work, outside of cement quantities given above.

There will be approximately 2,597,675 sq. ft. of plaster in the building. The weight of this plaster is 5,750 tons. There are 34,000 ft. of corner beads; 14,839 running feet of cornice. This plastering, if spread out, would cover the area bounded by 59th st on the south, Central Park West on the east, 78th st on the north and Columbus av on the west; or it would plaster Broadway from curb to curb from the Battery to 125th st. There are 3,000 tons of terra cotta in the building. Three thousand tons would equal 750 two-horse truck loads, at four tons each, and placed end to end would reach from the City Hall up Broadway to Times Square. It contains 50% more architectural terra cotta than the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

The heating will require a total number of 2,260 radiators. There will be 25,000 electric lights, 100 miles of electric wire, 22 miles of conduit, 80 tons of copper, 17 miles of piping varying from ¼ in. to 24 ins. in diameter, 10 miles telephone conduit. The water supply is taken from the city mains in Church and Cortlandt sts and runs through the filters which have a capacity of 864,000 gallons a day. From the filters the water is led to a 10,000-gallon suction tank. There are three pumps for the plumbing system alone with a combined capacity of 4,320,000 gallons per day, enough to supply a city of 40,000 inhabitants.



The building has a greater number of elevators than any other one building in the United States, probably in the world. Seven of these elevators run as high as the 9th story; 7 run to the 17th story, and 7 run to the 26th story. For access to the highest tower portion of the building, two electric elevators run from the 26th to the 31st stories. This great "battery" of elevators equals the astonishing total of 389 single fronts, or openings, or equivalent to two elevators in a building 195 stories high.

The stairs include two continuous runs, from the basement up to the 26th floor, and separate stairs from the 26th floor to the 32d floor, a total of 60 flights.

There are approximately 1,870,000 sq. ft. of hollow tile fireproofing in the building, approximately 22,000 tons, making 5,000 truck loads, which, if all loaded at once would extend 29 miles, or from the above building to Haverstraw, N. Y. There are 110 barge loads, which would require a tow of over two miles long. It took 22,000 cubic yards of clay to manufacture this material, which would make a hole in the clay bank of 25 ft. deep, 150 ft. long and 150 ft. wide. Each block is handled approximately 26 times from clay bank to installation in the building, or the equivalent of one man handling one block 52,000,000 times.

If one man worked continuously on the marble work he could finish the work in 479 years. The marble wall lining would cover Broadway from curb to curb from 23d st to Hotel Astor, 46th st. There are 95,060 sq. ft. of floor space covered with mosaic and marble tile. There are 21,759,500 cubes of mosaic; a grand total of 8,170,000 lbs. of marble. It would make a column one foot by one foot square 98 times as high as Washington Monument. The general contract was awarded in September, 1906, to the Hedden Construction Co., No. 1 Madison av, Francis H. Kimball, 71 Broadway is the architect. Robert E. Dowling is president of the City Investing Company, A. L. Dean, vice-president, and Edward F. Clark, secretary.

THE HUDSON TERMINAL BUILDINGS.

The two 22-sty terminal buildings which the George A. Fuller Company, as general contractor of the superstructure, is erecting in Church st for the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad (taken together) will be the largest office buildings in the world. Composing the terminal they will occupy 70,000 sq. ft. of ground. The cubic area will be 14,500,000 ft. above ground and 3,650,000 cu. ft. below ground, comprising a total of 18,150,000 cu. ft. Sixteen million, three hundred thousand bricks will be used in the walls above the surface of the ground, 1,300,000 sq. ft. of tile partitions and 4,500 tons of architectural terra cotta. There will be 5,200 doors in the building, and 5,000 windows, containing 120,000 sq. ft. of glass, enough to cover three square city blocks. The amount of concrete in the floor arches alone will be 1,100,000 cu. ft., enough to pave Broadway from curb to curb one foot thick from the Battery to 42d st. There will be over half a million sq. yds. of plastering, sixteen miles of plumbing, twenty-nine miles of steam pipe, fifty-six lineal miles of wood base, sixty-five miles of picture moulding, ninety-five miles of conduits and more than one hundred and thirteen miles of wiring, or more than enough to maintain a special telegraph line between New York and Philadelphia. The lighting of the building will require 30,000 incandescent lamps, attached to 13,000 fixtures, and the 39 elevators will altogether travel 10,608 lineal feet from floor to roof, so that if they all made a complete round trip at the same time the total distance traveled would be more than four miles. The 39 elevators will be operated electrically. Twenty-two will be express cars, rising without a stop to the 11th floor. The remaining 17 will be local cars, stopping at every floor up to the 11th. These 39 elevators are expected to handle more than 20,000 persons a day. An interesting feature of the work is the monster coffer-dam that has been built under the Church st buildings. It is said to be the largest ever constructed. Messrs. Clinton & Russell are the architects.

The Hudson Companies are composed of Walter G. Oakman, president; Kenyon B. Conger, secretary; William C. Kinney, treasurer. Directors are: W. G. Oakman, W. G. McAdoo, W. B. Parsons, J. W. Simpson, W. C. Lane, F. B. Jennings, A. N. Brady, A. Freedman, G. M. Lane, C. Vanderbilt, P. Fisk, W. M. Barnum.

Anthracite Coal Production in 1906.

An advance chapter from "Mineral Resources of the United States, Calendar Year 1906," on the production of anthracite coal in 1906, prepared for the United States Geological Survey, by William W. Ruley, coal expert, is now ready for distribution, and copies may be obtained on application to the Director of the Survey at Washington, D. C.

Mr. Ruley states that the production and consumption of anthracite in 1906, amounting to 63,645,010 long tons, shows a material decrease when compared with the tonnage of 1905 (69,339,152 long tons), which was the largest on record; but in view of the reported condition of the industry at the close of December, 1905, the results for 1906 should be regarded as better than had been anticipated.

The Board of Arbitration.

THE relations between employer and employed in the New York building trades have been peaceful during the year 1907. Compared with any one of the ten preceding years the labor conditions of 1907 were ideal.

In 1903 the Building Trades Employers' Association and the unions of the building trades terminated a long reign of industrial anarchy by adopting the agreement known as the Joint Arbitration Plan. This agreement, as amended in 1905, provides for mutual government of the relations between employers and employees.

SAMUEL B. DONNELLY.

During 1907 an average of two complaints for each working day were filed in the office of the General Arbitration Board. But one strike occurred on the work of members of the Building Trades Employers' Association, and in this case the representatives of the employers and of the unions on the General Arbitration Board suspended the offending union, and no serious interruption of work occurred in the trade affected. The credit for maintaining peace is due principally to those representatives of the Employers' Association and of the Unions who have as members of the Trade Boards, General Arbitration Board and the Executive Committee exhibited the greatest degree of patience and fortitude by devoting many hours to the discussion and adjustment of complaints.

It is now possible for a building contractor to assure investors that a building can be constructed without any fear of delay through strikes, and a number of the largest and most expensive operations can be pointed to by members of the Building Trades Employers' Association as proof of the fact that this long-hoped for condition is now established.

SAMUEL B. DONNELLY.

Metal Covered Woodwork.

THE use of metal covered woodwork in high-grade buildings of every nature has come to be an established fact, and the progress made by the manufacturers in this industry during the recent past will compare favorably with any other features of up-to-date building construction.

During the busy portion of the year just past the number of mechanics employed in the manufacture and erection of this material in connection with shops located in Greater New York probably exceeded 1,500 men, in addition to the clerical and executive force required in the various plants, and the amount of capital invested is estimated to be approximately $1,000,000.

J. F. BLANCHARD.

It should be of interest to the owners of real estate in general and particularly to those engaged in erecting business properties, or who are building for investment, to know that the proper use of metal covered woodwork in their buildings can be made a positive source of perpetual income. An explanation of this statement is found in the fact that insurance interests have recognized the merit, as a fire retardent, of properly constructed work of this nature, and are making concessions in rates, that in a short time offset the difference in cost of the initial expense, thereby making an annual saving of the amount of concession after the lapse of such period. Furthermore, as the reduction of insurance rates also applies to contents of buildings, a higher rental is obtainable, and a better class of tenants.

It is also of interest to note that advancement has not only been made in the volume of manufactured product, but the improvement in character of the finished work has been very great. Manufacturers have realized the necessity of competing with cabinetmakers, in following architects' details, and their success has been marked in this particular. Necessity has proven to be the mother of invention, and new methods and new machinery combined with ingenuity and skilled workmen have made it possible to meet the most exacting demands in this particular, and in place of the crudely formed members that were considered some years ago to be the best that could be produced, we now find as sharply defined arises in moulding as any woodworker can secure—and paneling, pilasters, columns and architrave work of every description worked out to the architect's drawings in the minutest detail.

Among the recently constructed buildings of prominence in which metal covered woodwork has been used to a considerable extent might be mentioned the Plaza and the Belmont hotels. All exterior window frames and sash are covered with copper; also all elevator, dumb-waiter and stair enclosure doors. A novel feature of the interior work is an arrangement whereby in case of fire the metal covered doors enclosing the stairways throughout the building close automatically, making fireproof exits within the building, accessible to guests from various parts of each floor. The telephone booths in the Belmont are also made entirely of metal covered woodwork, bronze having been used in this instance. These two hotels are undoubtedly the best equipped buildings of their kind in the world, from a fireproof standpoint, and this result is largely due to a liberal and intelligent use of metal covered woodwork. Other buildings completed during the past year in which this material has been largely used are No. 1 Wall Street, the U. S. Realty building, the Trinity Annex, the Trust Company of America's building, the College of the City of New York, Columbia College dormitories, Royal Queens Insurance Co.'s building, Lawyers' Title Insurance and Trust building, Brooklyn, the Metropolitan Life building, Metropolitan Museum of Art, the German-American Insurance Company's building, the Tribune building, and very large contracts are now being carried out for the City Investing Company's building and the Hudson Terminal buildings, the latter being the largest in this line ever executed.

Metal covered woodwork is used very largely by the city in its school work. Every school building erected in Greater New York has all stair exits protected by metal covered doors, and this material is now being used very largely in the construction of pupils' wardrobes, teachers' lockers, book-cases, etc., thereby reducing the fire risk to a minimum. Inasmuch as the city carries no insurance on their buildings this precaution is certainly wise, and speaks loudly in praise of this product.

The use of metal covered woodwork is not, however, confined to public buildings or business properties. It is being used to a considerable extent in the finest residences and apartment houses. The Brokaw residences and the Senator Clark house on 5th avenue, also the Charles M. Schwab residence on Riverside Drive and many others throughout the city contain a large amount of this product, and of the highest type of workmanship.

It would be impossible to estimate the aggregate amount of property value (to say nothing of human lives) that has been saved from loss by fire by the use of metal covered woodwork, but the figures would certainly be startling, and as it is now quite possible to not only have every piece of exposed woodwork in a building made fireproof by this method, and still retain architectural and decorative effects, but also to have fixtures and furniture made in the same manner, the future in this industry seems assured, believing as we do that its merits are bound to be recognized and that the demands of a discriminating public for the best possible protection against the most destructive of the elements will result in a much greater and more general use of this product.

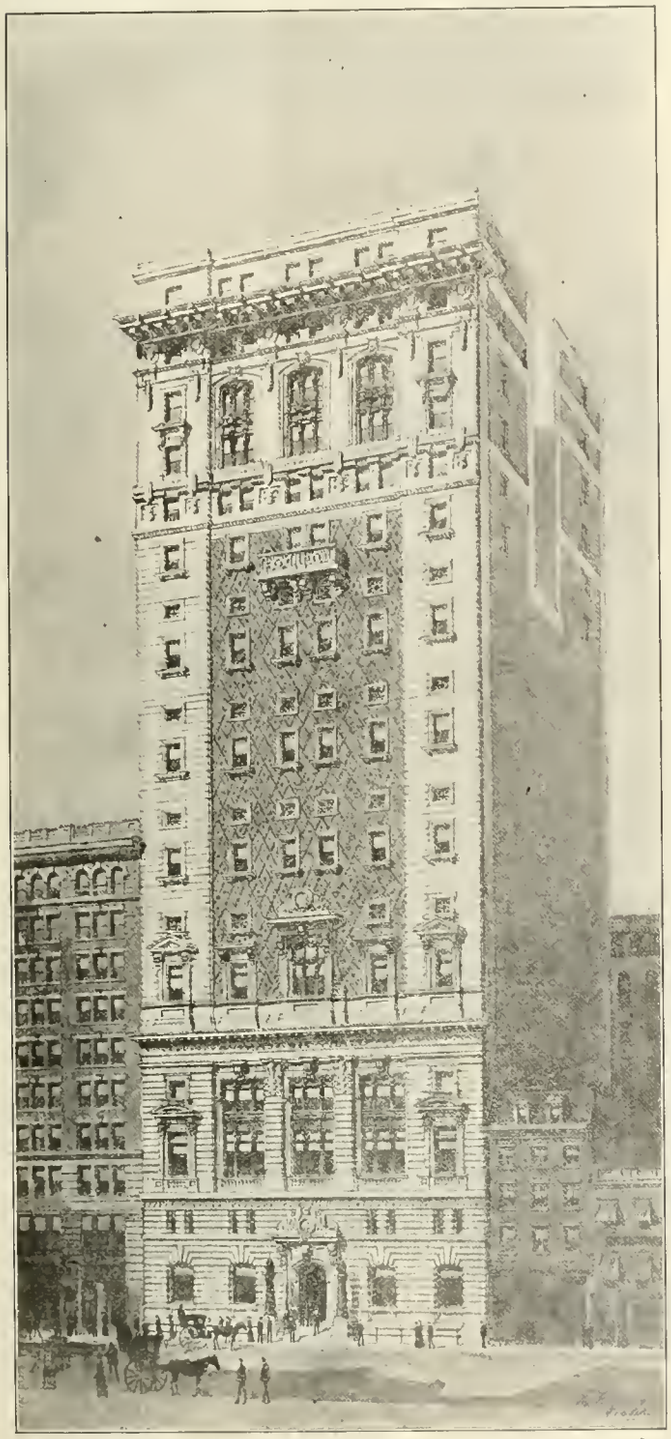
J. F. BLANCHARD.

Roofing and Sheet Metal Trade.

IN the upbuilding of a metropolis and the gigantic muncipal development we are witnessing in this great city all branches of industry are necessarily bound to develop and expand, and the ornamental sheet metal and roofing business has not failed to keep pace with the demand, because all progressive firms have been constantly installing the latest improved machinery. The uses to which architects have applied sheet metal have constantly increased, and today a sheet-metal worker is called upon to execute some of the most elaborate architectural achievements that adorn our city.

Some recent examples are, the famous Singer Building, with its sky-piercing tower, the City Investing Building, the City College, the Peirce Building, and the large terminals and ferry houses of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, New Jersey Central and Erie Railroads, the exteriors of which are all of sheet copper of a highly ornamental character, and from an artistic point of view are a decided improvement over the old type of wood construction.

The demand for hollow metal window frames and sash glazed with wire glass has increased considerably, and the fact that insurance underwriters strongly advocate their use, augurs well for their continued popularity. Metal furniture and hollow metal doors and trim have also been installed quite extensively. On account of its fireproof quality sheet metal has been constantly replacing wood and its present almost unlimited use would seem to indicate that in a very few years wood in large buildings will be a relic of the past.



In Greater New York the number of mechanics employed in the sheet metal trade is about 4,000 and the volume of business reaches into the millions. While the business of the past year has not equaled the banner year 1906, the indications are, when the drifting clouds of depression that at present obscure the financial sky have passed away, the outlook for increased activity will be most favorable.

The New Masonic Temple.

The building will occupy the property Nos. 46 to 54 West 24th street, a plot 89 ft. wide, on the south side of the street, 95 ft. east of Sixth avenue, and extending back to the present Masonic Hall property, a distance of 98 ft. 9 in., and overlapping the present hall 46 ft. The new building will be 18 stories high, counting the mezzanine stories on each lodge floor as full stories, and will reach a height of 260 ft. above the curb level. The sub-basement floor level will extend down 26 ft. 8 in. below the curb level, making a total height of 286 ft. 8 in.

The first story has a wide entrance and an entrance hall extending through its center to the rear of the building, where the elevators and staircases are located. This floor is divided into offices for the various grand lodge officers who require office space. The grand master, grand treasurer, grand secretary, and the trustees of the Masonic Hall and Asylum Fund will all have offices, placed especially to meet their various requirements. A fireproof room for the storage of grand lodge records is provided in connection with the grand secretary's office, also a safe-room for the accommodation of the various lodges meeting in the building.

On the second story will be located a large assembly hall 72x81 ft., with a clear height of 35 ft., and will be entirely free from columns. The ground floor, when fully covered with chairs, will seat 900 persons, and the gallery will hold 300 more. The Wells Bros. Company, 160 5th avenue, are the general contractors, and H. P. William R. H. Martin's New Building.

(With Illustration.)

THE new "Marbridge" Building now nearing completion at 6th av, northeast corner of 34th st, on the site of which was formerly the old Broadway Tabernacle, is regarded by many as the most valuable location in the new midtown shopping district. Mr. William R. H. Martin, of Rogers, Peet & Co., and owner of the Hotel Martinique, purchased this magnificent church property in February, 1906. It covers not only the Tabernacle site itself, fronting 98.9 feet on Broadway and 150 feet on 34th st, but also the three abutting numbers, 68, 70 and 72 West 35th st, a plot 53x98.9 feet. No authoritative announcement as to the price paid for the property was made, but it is said that the figure was in the neighborhood of $2,500,000—making the project one of the largest single transactions in the city's history.

When the Broadway Tabernacle decided to sell its property and erect its new edifice at Broadway and 56th st, it received $1,300,000 for the site, which it had bought in 1857 for $78,000. The new structure, which is sixteen stories in height, was started last spring. The first, second and third stories will be occupied by Rogers, Peet & Co., who will move from Broadway, the northeast corner 32d st, on which corner Mr. Martin is about to erect the Martinique Hotel annex. The new Marbridge Building is of the best improved fireproof construction, having facades of light limestone, light face brick and terra cotta. The enlarged plans brought the total of steel up to about 4,500 tons, for which Messrs. Post & McCord, of 44 West 23d st, had the contract. The Standard Plunger Elevator Company, No. 1 Broadway, have the contract to equip the building with fourteen elevators, of which nine are of the Standard Plunger passenger type, one combination plunger, one freight, two sidewalk and one dumb waiter elevators.

The general contract was awarded last March to Charles T. Wills, Inc., of No. 156th 5th av. C. T. Wills, Inc., also has the general contract to erect the 16-sty annex to the "Martinique," Nos. 1266 and 1268 Broadway, to cost in the neighborhood of $800,000 from plans by Henry J. Hardenbergh. The proposed addition to that hotel will mark the completion of Mr. Martin's original plans for that structure. The present hotel, a 16-sty building, occupies the plot fronting 67.10 feet at Nos. 54 to 58 West 33d st, having a depth of half the block, or 98.9 feet, with the "L" in Broadway, 39.2 feet, having a depth of 71.2 feet. The proposed improvement of the southeast corner of Broadway and 33d st, 118.6 feet on Broadway and 97.4 feet on the street, with the 20-sty hotel which Geo. B. Wilson, of Philadelphia, Pa., is to erect, will complete the block, making this the largest hotel district in Manhattan. This structure is being planned by Architect R. E. White, of Philadelphia, Pa., and is estimated to cost $2,000,000. Other contracts which it will also carry forth in 1908 are the new residence for Morris Schinasi, at Riverside drive, northeast corner 107th st, W. B. Tuthill, architect, to cost $180,000; residence for Edward S. Harkness, northeast corner 5th av and 75th st, Hale & Rogers, architects, cost $500,000.

ON THE OLD TABERNACLE SITE—MARBRIDGE BUILDING, COR. 34TH STREET AND 6TH AVENUE.
C. T. Wills, Inc., Builder. Townsend, Steinle & Haskell, Archts.

Mr. Wills is also building the Cold-Morgan extension to the Wadsworth Atheneum at Hartford, the main portion of which is to be given by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan as a memorial to his father, Mr. Junius S. Morgan, who started his and his family's successful career as a merchant in Hartford. Mr. Wills a few years ago incorporated his business with a cash capital of $500,000, taking in as a part of the corporation superintendents who had served him satisfactorily for from five to twenty-five years.

Attorney James C. Danzilo, manager of the Abruzzi Realty Co., 26 Court st, declared that among his clientele, the Italians of Brooklyn, the panic had no effect. "The Italians," said he, "are a people who patronize the savings banks rather than the more pretentious institutions. Accordingly, it was comparatively easy for them to make investments, on certified time checks, when opportunities presented."

A Remedy for Financial Ills.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I read with a good deal of pleasure the editorial in your issue of December 28, possibly because it coincided in its substance with my ideas. The one paragraph in the editorial seems to me to cover the whole cause of the financial flurry, that is, "The money which the banks of the city should have loaned into local business channels, and especially to real estate interests, was poured into Wall street instead." The State of New York, as I believe, gives to this particular location (Wall street) the privilege to loan money on call at any rate of interest that the borrower may see fit to pay. In consequence those in control of that machine are able to keep the money rates at such a high pitch that every bank in this city and outside of it, in their scramble to make a profitable showing to the stockholders, loan their money at the high rate of interest on call, without the least consideration of the business interests.

I am of the opinion that this condition would easily be righted if the Legislature of our great State of New York would take from the Wall street contingent the right to charge any more than legal rates of interest. Then the average business man would be able to borrow from his bank as he is in the habit of doing when the call rates in Wall street average two and three per cent. You speak of Canada having had nothing of this sort of financial condition the past thirty years, while we have gone through three of these disturbances, and this confirms absolutely in my mind that it is only because the Bank of England controls the money rate of that country, while in Wall street we are absolutely at the mercy of those stock jobbers and money-rate manipulators; and it is only because they are allowed to charge such abnormal rates. If it would be possible to make Wall street money lenders be satisfied with six per cent., this surplus money would flow into that channel for the use of gambling.

New York City and State being the financial centre of this country, its high rates of interest attract the money of every bank and individual throughout the country to the detriment of the business interests for its reasonable accommodations.

Taxation of Church Property.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The communication from W. S. on page 1,042 of your last week's issue, entitled "Shall Church Property Be Taxed?" is timely. The question is one that is growing in importance from day to day. For many years I have been advocating the affirmative of this question. In June, 1894, I addressed a letter on the general subject of taxation to Hon. Andrew H. Green, a member of the Constitutional Convention, which was then sitting, from which I take the following extract:

As to exemptions from direct taxes, there should be none, absolutely none, for any matter or cause, in favor of any interest whatever. Benevolent societies, churches, schools and hospitals should all be taxed and each pay its quota. The system or exemptions has become a scandal and reproach. It has grown out of all proportions, and if it were cut off absolutely and forever, neither the cause of religion nor of charity would suffer one iota. The fact that a church or a charitable society is to be subject to taxation and that taxes hereafter are to be considered in the estimate of its running expenses will be no deterrent to the formation and organization and the continued prosperity of churches and charitable societies of all kinds.

I hope this question will be discussed and that we shall have all views bearing upon it pro and con. J. C. LEVI.

A Broad View of New Building Code.

THE action of the Board of Aldermen at their meeting on the 17th of December in referring back to the Committee on Buildings the report of the Building Code Revision Commission with instructions to hold public hearings, was an eminently proper one. The subsequent vote of the committee, after the first of these hearings, to return the proposed Code to the Revision Commission with instructions that they should hold further public hearings at which suggestions for modifications might be received from the various trades and interests concerned, was equally wise. No code can be a success which does not meet the approval of those for whose use it is formulated.

Some one has said that the best Building Code could be comprehended in the six words, "All buildings must be built aright"; and while it is true that laws are made for the punishment and regulation of evil-doers, the Building Code must furnish as well an accepted standard of what is right which all may safely follow.

A code which prohibits proper construction would be almost as undesirable as one which would allow improper construction. It is perfectly clear that in the printed report of the Building Code Revision Commission as submitted to the Board of Aldermen there are certain provisions—notably those which prevent the employment of reinforced concrete construction for buildings of Class E—which are in error and which do not express the intention of the Commission. It is to be hoped, therefore, that committees representing the various interests will carefully consider, section by section, the proposed Code, as the committee of the Employers' Association is doing, and will submit promptly to the Commission their recommendations for such modifications in the Code as they may deem wise so that the Commission may make such changes therein as will conserve the public welfare and yet meet the conservative demands of the various trades and professions particularly interested.

It is to be regretted that Alderman Griffenhagen, the vice-chairman of the Building Code Revision Commission, should not have been privileged to remain in office to see the completion and adoption of the Revised Code, for which he has labored so earnestly. Mr. Griffenhagen has set a high standard for the new chairman of the Aldermanic Committee on Buildings to follow. His regular attendance at the sessions of the Commission and his manifest desire that only such regulations should prevail as should be to the best interests of the city at large, are worthy of the highest praise. Let us hope that the chairman of the Committee on Buildings of the new Board of Aldermen will set an equally high standard of performance and that with the assistance of all the different interests particularly concerned in the provisions of the Code, a Building Law may be adopted which will be as nearly ideal as may be possible in this year of grace, 1908.

Regulations for Standpipes.

The following addition to the regulations established Dec. 1, 1904, for the installation of standpipes (fire lines) in buildings of certain classes, required under the provisions of section 762 of the Greater New York charter, and Sections 102 and 109 of the Building Code, is hereby promulgated:

"In all buildings in course of erection, and which are contemplated in these regulations, the standpipe (fire line) must be carried up with each floor, after the structure reaches the seventh floor, or a height of 85 feet, and an outside Siamese connection provided in proper and accessible place, and regulation hose outlets provided on each floor above the second as the work progresses, the top level of riser to be securely capped at all times except when work on the standpipe is in progress at that point."

—The Republic Savings and Loan Association will pay to its shareholders six cents on the dollar. Referee Alexander McKinney filed his report this week in the Supreme Court of Brooklyn. This association has enrolled on its books the names of many people of moderate means who inhabit mostly the towns along the Hudson River. Many promises of large profits were extended to them and the disappointment at the failure, which occurred seven years ago, was intense. All the more so, as in many cases the loss of the money seriously embarrassed them.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

The Libman Contracting Co.'s Contracts.

The Libman Contracting Co., 1968 Broadway, has obtained the contract for the erection of a private stable at No. 482 Sterling pl, Brooklyn, from plans made by C. M. Straub, Manhattan, for Mr. Frederick Ochse, and alterations and additions to the loft building at No. 30 East 9th st, from plans by Oscar Lowinson, architect, for Messrs. S. Geismar & Co. This company reports an exceptionally good year, a few of the completed contracts having been for lofts at Canal and Chrystie sts, Buchman & Fox, architects; alteration to mercantile building, 42 West 125th st, B. W. Levitan, architect; alteration to residence at Far Rockaway, R. Seaman, architect; alteration to 7th av and 35th st, Bernstein & Bernstein, architects; alteration to No. 852 8th av, C. B. Meyers, architect.

Gramercy Park and 21st St. Not To Be Improved.

GRAMERCY PARK.—The Record and Guide was officially informed at the office of Architect Charles Buek, 500 5th av, on Friday, that the daily press report of an improvement of the southeast corner of Gramercy Park and 21st st with a 12-sty hotel structure is positively incorrect and unauthorized. This corner is now covered with a row of stone dwellings under long leaseholds, said Mr. Buek, and it would be impossible for many years to get control of the available site for such a project. It has been announced in other papers that the building would cover 5,600 square feet.

Amsterdam Av. and 167th St. Improvement.

AMSTERDAM AV.—Messrs. Sommerfeld & Steckler, 19 Union sq, have been commissioned to prepare plans for two 6-sty high-class apartment houses to be erected by Harry Lehr, 167th st and Jumel pl, at the northeast corner of Amsterdam av and 167th st and the northwest corner of 167th st and Jumel pl, on plots measuring 113.10x135.2 and 117.1x147.10 ft., to cost a total of $370,000.

General Supply and Construction Co. Get $2,000,000 Contract.

The General Supply & Construction Company, No. 43 West 34th st, Manhattan, has received the general contract to erect the 16-sty hotel building for the Audubon Hotel Company at New Orleans, La., to cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. Frank M. Andrews, of Cincinnati, is the architect.

Twenty-Seventh Street Improvement.

27TH ST.—Plans have been completed by Messrs. Waid & Willauer, 156 5th av, for remodeling and building additions to the Earlington Hotel, No. 49 West 27th st, owned by the City Investing Company, No. 111 Broadway. No contracts have yet been awarded.

Apartments, Flats and Tenements.

PRINCE ST.—P. Lauria, 244 Mott st, will erect at No. 161 Prince st a 6-sty flat building, 25x82 ft., to cost $20,000. Fredk Musty, 177 Cherry st, is preparing the plans.

17TH ST.—Bernstein & Bernstein, 24 East 23d st, are preparing plans for a 6-sty flat, 22x79 ft., for Harbater & Silk, 110 St. Marks pl, to be erected at No. 347 East 17th st, at a cost of $25,000.

117TH ST.—John C. Watson, 217 West 125th st, is preparing plans for a 6-sty 50x87.11 ft. flat building for Louisa Cloughen, 215 East 117th st, to be erected on 117th st, north side, 200 ft. south of 3d av, same to cost $40,000.

Churches.

Geo. W. Kramer, 1 Madison av, Manhattan, is preparing plans for a church for the Christian Tabernacle, Marion, Ind. Rev. J. Boyd Jones, pastor; W. S. Silvers, member of building committee, Marion, Ind.

NEW YORK AV.—The First Church of Christ Scientist, now located at Lafayette and Bedford avs, Brooklyn, is to erect at once a magnificent edifice at the southwest corner of New York av and Dean st, Brooklyn, to cost, including site and building, $163,000. The structure will cover a plot 150x100 ft. Architect, Henry Ives Cobb, 42 Broadway, Manhattan, has prepared plans. It was decided at a meeting held on Tuesday evening to begin operations immediately.

Alterations.

ESSEX ST.—Chas. Vonhaf, 248a Vernon av, Brooklyn, will improve No. 103 Essex st.

6TH ST.—C. J. Miller, 381 East 8th st, will improve No. 604 East 6th st from plans by H. Regelmann, 133 7th st.

FULTON ST.—B. E. Stern, 160 5th av, has plans for remodeling the store building No. 178 Fulton st, to cost $12,000.

1ST ST.—L. Strumph & M. Haber, 45 Attorney st, will make extensive alterations to No. 9 1st st. O. Reissmann is planning.

12TH ST.—Fred Schmidt & Co., 440 East 12th st, will make extensive improvements to No. 440 East 12th st, to cost $4,000. H. Regelmann, architect.

DELANCEY ST.—Mayer Kaplan, 124 Delancey st, will make extensive alterations to No. 124 Delancey st from plans by M. Muller, 115 Nassau st.

LEROY ST.—C. R. Fanchild, 415 Hudson st, has prepared plans for $4,000 worth of alterations to No. 108 Leroy st for C. H. Peckworth, 415 Hudson st.

10TH ST.—John Caggiano, 135th st and Canal av, has prepared plans for alterations to No. 266 East 10th st, owned by Chas. Bacigalupo, 26 Mulberry st.

Miscellaneous.

Robins & Oakman, 27 East 23d st, Manhattan, are preparing plans for a 3-sty dormitory building, 40x104 ft., for Williams College, to be erected at Williamstown, Mass., to cost about $75,000.

Marvin & Davis, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, have completed plans for the 3-sty lodge and club building, 40x78 ft., to be erected at Port Jervis, N. Y., for the Elks' Lodge, same to cost $20,000.

Architects Seymour Davis and Paul A. Davis, of Philadelphia, Pa., have been selected as associates with John F. Kelly, of Passaic, N. J., to prepare plans for the new high school to be erected at Passaic.

Estimates will be received about April 1 by Messrs. Parish & Schroeder, 5 West 31st st, Manhattan, for the geological and biological laboratory to be erected by the Princeton University at Princeton, N. J. The cost is estimated at about $400,000.

E. M. Friedman, 11 Battery place, Manhattan, has been engaged as consulting engineer by J. T. Castle, of Irvington, N. J., to superintend the purchase of equipment for a 20-ton ice plant to be erected at Irvington. The building will be 44x100 ft., and three stories high.

The Warren County Board of Freeholders, Hackettstown, N. J., has decided to erect an isolation hospital on the county almshouse farm, near here. Most of the work will be done by the inmates of the poor farm. The county will purchase machinery for making concrete blocks, and work will begin early in the spring.

Estimates Receivable.

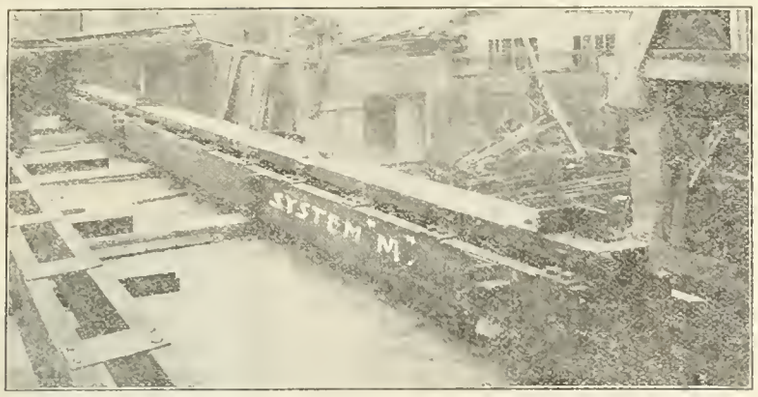
Bids will be received January 15 by Capt. Chas. T. Baker, Constr. Q. M., U. S. A., for grading and removing stonewall at Ft. Hamilton, Brooklyn.

34TH ST.—Messrs. Ludlow & Valentine, 1 East 27th st, will receive estimates about Jan. 15 for remodeling the four brick buildings, Nos. 149 to 155 East 34th st, for G. G. Moore, to cost about $30,000.

17TH ST.—Schickel & Ditmars, 18th st and 5th av, are ready for bids for an 8-sty mercantile building, 75x92 ft, to be erected at 121-125 West 17th st, for the Domestic Realty Co., 28 West 22d st.

Bids are asked until January 13 by G. C. Burnell, Construction Quartermaster, for construction, including plumbing, heating, electric wiring and electric lighting fixtures, for one double set of captains' quarters at Fort Wood, N. Y.

139TH ST.—John E. Kerby, 481 5th av, has plans ready for the 2-sty school building, 60x120 ft., to be erected at 139th st and St. Ann's av, Bronx, for the St. Luke's Roman Catholic congregation, Rev. John J. Boyle, pastor. Same to cost $45,000.



1ST AV.—Estimates will be taken by Biagio Pernetti Co., 309 East 116th st, owners, on or about January 15 for the new 4-sty brick and stone stable building, 48x90 ft., to be situated on the west side of 1st av, 50 ft. north of 114th st, same to cost about $30,000. L. F. J. Weiher, 103 East 125th st, is preparing the plans. (See issue Dec. 14, 1907.)

CHARLTON ST.—No contracts have yet been awarded for the 7-sty brick storage building, 45.7x95 ft., which the Charlton Contract Co., 110 West 34 st, will erect at Nos. 108-110 Charlton st, to cost $42,000. Two buildings will be demolished. H. E. Hartwell is president, A. G. Raff, secretary, and Robert E. Moss, 12 Elm st, engineer. H. F. Hartwell, 110 West 34th st, prepared the plans.

Contracts Awarded.

System M Column.—An independent carrier of construction loads, subsequently reinforced with concrete. Doesn't this beat rod reinforcement?

Phenomenal Development of the most "up to date" Reinforced Concrete Construction

(Patents Pending)

SOME years ago Mr. Guy B. Waite, of the Standard Concrete-Steel Company of New York, placed upon the market a new fireproof building construction designed to eliminate from steel framed and fireproofed buildings the unnecessary waste of those materials which formed the principal construction. The heavy steel frame had to carry not only the floor loads, but was burdened also with the fireproofing materials. To combine the steel work and the fireproofing so that one would assist the other is the economic problem which he has so successfully worked out in the scores of System M buildings which his company has erected.

The rod reinforced construction seemed to develop but one main point—economy—while the delays and inconvenience to other craftsmen, etc., seemed to more than offset its only claim. Bearing in mind, however, the economy of the reinforced construction and applying its principles to the old style steel frame, brought about the System M.

In this System M we find a light steel framework going up just like an old style building, but the members are all lighter, easily placed and held together. Story on story goes the frame, ahead of walls or floors. Then the wood forms are so conveniently hung from the structure itself and "wet mix" stone concrete is flowed around every beam, girder and column until a monolithic whole is the result. The steel frame that was, becomes the reinforcement to the only true fireproofing and rust resisting material, and the maximum of both economy and adaptability has been attained. So successful has been the development of System M that never a failure and hardly a valid criticism has been encountered.

The recent discussions before the Am. S. C. E. concerning the columns in the McGraw Building which were designed by Prof. Burr, and are of a type very similar to the System M columns, have induced Mr. Waite to arrange for complete tests of columns involving the principles of this construction, and the interested public is invited to follow these tests, which will be made at an early date by the faculty of Columbia University.

Reinforced Concrete Engineers and Contractors

413-17 EAST 31st STREET NEW YORK

G. Wendel, on premises, from plans by Wm. Berger, 36 East 23d st.

MANHATTAN ST.—M. Caravatta, 212 West 90th st, has the contract for improvements to the 3-sty milk dairy, 91 Manhattan st, for the McDermott Dairy Co., on premises, from plans by the Franklin Engineering Co., 346 Broadway.

CHERRY ST.—Thom & Wilson, 1123 Broadway, have awarded the general contract to William Somerville, 317 East 122d st, for the 5-sty brick and stone stable, 24x55 ft, at 48 Cherry st, for Alice Keteltas, 37 St. Mark's pl, same to cost $16,500.

WALKER ST.—The Gerstle-Frank Construction Co., 120 West 42d st, has obtained the contract for improvements to the store and loft building, No. 89 Walker st, for T. Kaughran, 62 Hamilton Terrace, from plans by Ernest A. Lynde, 120 West 42d st.

57TH ST.—W. J. Taylor, 5-7 East 42d st, is general contractor for the new studio building, 80x80 ft., which the 136 West 57th St. Co., a New York corporation, P. McL. Merrill, secretary, will erect at No. 136 West 57th st, to cost $500,000. Pollard & Steinam, 234 5th av, are the architects.

85TH ST.—The A. J. Robinson Co., 123 East 23d st, has obtained the general contract to remodel and enlarge the 4-sty residence of E. J. De Coppet, No. 314 West 85th st, from plans by Messrs. Butler & Rodman, 16 East 23d st. The improvement consists chiefly of a 1 and 4-sty side extension, 19x61.8 ft., new baths and partitions. The work will cost about $30,000.

Bids Opened.

Bids were opened on Dec. 30 by the Board of Education for furnishing a pipe organ at the Brooklyn Training School for Teachers. M. P. Moller, $6,875 (low bid). Other bidders were W. W. Kimball & Co., $10,000; J. H. & C. S. Odell Co., $7,250. The matter was laid over.

Plans Wanted.

The trustees of Boston College, Mass., have secured additional grounds and will soon ask competitive plans for a building which it is proposed erecting. Father Gasson is president of the college.

Sealed bids will be received by J. F. Klein, Board of Education, Madisonville, Ohio, for the services of an architect to make plans for a $100,000 school building. Bids must specify in per cent of cost of building the price for which such services will be furnished exclusive of superintending and separately for superintendence.

Alonzo M. Hurlock and E. J. W. Revell, Baltimore, Md., will invite competitive plans for a 9-sty fireproof apartment house, to be erected at Baltimore, at a cost of $175,000.

The city of Saginaw, Mich., will build an auditorium, to cost $100,000. Money has been partly donated by W. R. Burt and T. E. Dorr, of that city. The board of trustees is now looking for plans. W. S. Linton is chairman.

Plans are wanted by the school committee, M. J. Judge, secretary, South Hadley Falls, Mass, for an 8-room building assembly hall, a lecture room and chemical laboratory, and combination building for town and school purposes, to be in the secretary's hands not later than Feb. 21.

BUILDING NOTES

John Thatcher & Son, 60 Park av, Brooklyn, have been incorporated. They are now engaged on the Academy of Music and the Dime Savings Bank.

It is estimated that the shipments of fabricated material by the American Bridge Company during 1907 will total 650,000 tons, as compared with 577,000 tons in 1906.

Obituary.

Charles B. Hotchkiss, manufacturer of tile, No. 252 McDonough st, Brooklyn, died suddenly this week of heart disease, aged 52 years. It is said that worry over financial losses hastened his death.

Gillespie, Walsh & Gillespie to Pay All.

The building firm of Gillespie, Walsh & Gillespie, No. 1135 Broadway, contractors for the new Police Headquarters building now under course of erection at Centre, Broome, Centre Market pl and Grand sts, filed a petition in bankruptcy the past week. It is thought probable that the financial troubles of the builders will delay the final completion of the work. The business was started in 1885 by Michael H. Gillespie. Mr. William E. Walsh became a partner in 1905. William B. McNiece, 128 Broadway, attorney for the firm, when interviewed on Thursday said: "The financial troubles of the firm, resulting in bankruptcy proceedings, were brought about simply by the recent panic flurry, and more chiefly by the city holding back payments due." He said further that all creditors would receive in full every dollar due them.

Mantels, Fireplaces and Tiles.

MANTELS, fireplaces and tiles as a division of the building trades, feels the effect of the prosperous as well as the dull periods perhaps more than some of the other branches. When money is easy and investments are paying their proper returns, people will give more attention and put more money in the decoration of their homes, not only when building new ones, but also when making changes in various rooms in their old ones; and the mantel and fireplace, which is probably the most important feature of the room, is very carefully considered as to style; a little more expense is not considered in order to have the proper effect. When the dull periods come not only does the building of homes become less, but changes to old residences are not made.

JOSEPH W. LANTRY.

This business has felt the prosperous times of the past years and has therefore been able to produce better and more artistic designs than ever before; in fact, there is no branch of the building trades that has made more advancement than has the mantel, fireplace and tile industry. From the poor designs in slate and wood mantels and the old grate has come the artistic marble and wood mantels, in styles suitable for rooms furnished in any period. The fireplaces and andirons are made to match.

Wood mantels can now be selected from the showrooms of the dealers that are true copies of the old or the best designs of the new. Many architects have for some rooms preferred to select from these patterns rather than prepare sketches.

Marble and stone mantels, copies of those in the best palaces of England, France and Italy, are imported and can now be seen in some of the principal warerooms.

The annoyance and risk to the owner or architect of ordering mantels from abroad from photographs which are sometimes misleading and unsatisfactory, the uncertainty of getting the selection of marble desired, makes this innovation of having these mantels on hand where style and details and selection of marbles can be carefully considered, very advantageous. They also can be had at once and set in the house at a few days' notice. Some of the principal dealers in this city carry a larger assortment of these imported chimney pieces than can be seen in any of the shops on the other side.

Andirons in bronze, brass and wrought iron, copies of those in Versailles, Fontainebleau, the Doges and other French and Italian palaces, as well as those designed by the best American designers, are now kept on hand where they can be seen and if necessary sent to the house and put in front of the mantel to see if in complete harmony with the room before purchase is made. Many andirons and other fireplaces fixtures have been brought from abroad at considerable expense only to find that when they arrive and are placed in the room they are not in keeping and cannot be used.

Tiles can now be had with dove-tail or grip back and set on the walls and in the floors and guaranteed to stand. They are used in the kitchens, bathrooms, lavatories, etc., of our homes, and are also being specified more and more for office buildings, public schools, etc., on account of their durability and sanitary conditions.

In the hotels recently built, such as the St. Regis, Astor, Knickerbocker, Belmont, also the new Astor apartment and the new Public Library, large quantities have been or will be used. In one of these buildings there is laid over two hundred thousand square feet, and in each of the others from one hundred thousand to one hundred and fifty thousand square feet.

On account of present financial conditions the trade is quiet, but everything points to a better condition in the early spring.

JOSEPH W. LANTRY,
President of the William H. Jackson Company.

A Good Time for Friends of Building Department.

The Associated Employees of the Building Bureaus, comprising the Building Department attaches in all five boroughs of the city, have arranged to hold their annual ball and reception on the night of Jan. 21 in the Terrace Garden Opera House at Lexington av and 58th st. This event has always proven a noteworthy merrymaking in the ranks of the civil service, and its projectors are putting forth loyal and intelligent efforts to make it again an occasion that the friends of the Building Department will remember with pride and pleasure.

A special feature will be the ball room decoration after a design by Inspector Orlando C. Flynn, of Manhattan, that will be both new and elaborate. The direction of the dancing will be in the hands of Herbert W. Smith, another Manhattan attache, who is a 71st Regimeut Spanish War veteran and an expert at terpsichorean evolution. His assistant will be George L. Amouroux, one of Building Superintendent Murphy's best looking aides. Previous to the dancing there will be a vaudeville entertainment by professional talent of excellent quality and which will insure a treat to those who attend.

The proceeds from the sale of tickets will go to the relief fund of the association, and the officers are sanguine that the receipts will be large enough to insure a liberal profit to the deserving fund.

At the Christmas Eve meeting of the association the following committee of arrangements was unanimously elected: Manhattan, Engineers' Division, Archibald Schwartz; Construction Division, Messrs. Cole, Garvey, Flynn and Kerwin; Elevator Division, M. Wilson; Plumbing Division, C. Breen and T. Donoghue; Iron Division, Messrs. Ryan and Dunn, and Clerical Division, James W. Spencer, statistician of the Manhattan Bureau; Bronx borough, Messrs. Lalor and Boyle; Richmond borough, Dinnan and Silles. Delegates will also attend from the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens. The association's general officers for 1908 are: President, Thomas Linehan; vice-president, Thomas Montague; recording secretary, Albert A. Lexutt; financial secretary, Lewis F. Soich; treasurer, Timothy E. Deegan; sergeant-at-arms, William F. McEntee, and trustees, H. O. Cole, William Goldin and Richard Dunne.

The special guests will include all the Building Superintendents of the boroughs and the department heads of the municipal government.

Rockland-Rockport Lime.

The lime trade, like other lines in the material business, has felt the effects of the money market during the last few months of the year, and with weather conditions poor for building purposes in the first part of the year, there has not been as much lime consumed as during an open winter when money has been easy. Although during some of the summer months the lime trade was very active. As lime has played such an important part in the building industry of New York, we think it may be of interest to Record and Guide readers to give a short description of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., its manufacturing plant and the facilities it has for supplying the trade, especially the New York market.

Rockland-Rockport lime has been used in New York for over a hundred years, and to-day over 60 per cent. of the lime consumed is Rockland-Rockport. In Knox County, Me., are the cities of Rockland and Rockport, where the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. has its extensive plant. The quarries extend for over two miles, are 40 to 60 feet wide, about 150 feet deep. The rock runs very high in calcium oxide (96 per cent.) with less than 1 per cent. of magnesia. The rock is broken up by means of steam drilling and blasting. After the rock is picked over it is loaded into drags, hoisted to the top and dumped into cars to be hauled to the kilns which are on the water front two miles from the quarries. The hauling is done by the Lime Rock Railroad, a constituent company of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., and consists of 20 miles of track (standard gauge) 500 cars, five locomotives, a roundhouse and repair shop, where not only repairs are made but new cars built.

The cars are hauled in train loads of 30 to the kilns where by means of a trestle they are carried above the kilns so that a car load at a time may be dumped into the top of the kiln. The kilns are of modern construction, 40 to 60 feet high and 5x7 feet inside diameter.

The company has 80 kilns with an annual capacity of 3,000,000 barrels. After burning the lime is carefully picked over and packed in barrels. The barrels are filled by weight, there being a scale in front of each kiln. The cooperage plant is quite an extensive one. They have their own wood lots, where sawmills are erected and the lumber thus obtained is shipped to Rockland, where heads and staves are made by automatic machinery, as are also the barrels. The transportation of the lime is principally by water, and in barrels. The Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. has its own fleet, which consists of seven steel barges, ocean-going tug (1,000 H. P.) and a fleet of sailing vessels. The barges are worthy of mention, being of steel, 200 feet long, 40 feet wide, 19 feet in depth and a capacity of 16,000 barrels. This fleet is capable of supplying the New York market with 250,000 barrels a month. The New York office is in the Flatiron Building, Broadway and 23d st. The Rockland-Rockport Lime Co. has its own lighters in the harbor and has two yards in Brooklyn, on Newtown Creek, one at Meserole st and Morgan av, the other at Greenpoint av and Newtown Creek. Thus the company has the best of facilities for giving prompt shipments even in the busiest season.

The following brands of Rockland-Rockport lime are carried in stock by the best material dealers, and the weights are guaranteed:

No. 1 (Common), 220 lbs. per barrel. Blue Label.
Special (Common), 320 lbs. per barrel. Blue Label.
Lump (Finishing), 200 lbs. per barrel. Red Label.
Selected (Finishing), 350 lbs. per barrel. Red Label.

Every barrel has the company's trade mark stenciled on the head and staves and there is a circular in every barrel as a protection against imitators.

Cement Concrete Fireproofing.

THIS kind of fireproofing forms one of the very few subjects which has such an abundance of real truths, to prove its qualifications, that resorting to idealism is unnecessary.

Any many of ordinary intelligence who, ten years ago, was naturally opposed (on account of the general lack of knowledge) to this form of construction, but who has followed up the baptism of the material in fire and water, through which it has come out unscathed, can defend this construction with complete success.

GUY B. WAITE.

Ten years ago the public knew comparatively little of the merits of cement concrete for fireproofing purposes. There was at that time a greatly increased demand for a homogeneous fireproofing material which could be scientifically and expeditionsly made; which would become uniform throughout the floor, in irregular places as well as in square panels; which would unite with and protect all parts of steel members from rust as well as from heat; which could be designed to carry any desired load; which could be made in any shape to suit conditions; which could be made in the lightest forms to save the weight of supporting steel.

Since the New York City building laws of 1899 every form of fireproof construction made of cement concrete has had to pass very rigid tests prescribed in Sec. 106 of the law. All of the cement concrete fireproofing now installed in New York City has been subjected to the several tests and has had the approval of the Superintendent of Buildings.

The requirement of four hours of heat, much higher than ever attained in a building conflagration, followed by a regulation stream of cold water under high pressure, all on a loaded full sized floor panel; finally loaded to 600 lbs. per sq. ft., was sufficient evidence of the merits of the material, as a fireproofing, to everyone witnessing these tests.

After the fire test, and the approval of the construction, any such flooring, designed to carry more than a safe floor load of 150 lbs. per sq. ft. was subjected to a load test of ten times the safe load required. The testing of this form of construction was persistent; by the Department of Buildings; by architects, and by engineers for several years, and the success of these tests was phenomenal to all concerned.

The reports of unbiased engineers of prominence and professors in engineering colleges on the great conflagrations of recent years (principally Baltimore and San Francisco) has done much toward educating the public of the merits of cement concrete and popularizing it as a building construction. On account of the lightness of cinders and the peculiar elasticity of the concrete made from them, to expand and contract in resisting heat, the cinder concrete fireproofing has generally been used for floors between steel beams.

Great improvements in recent years in the practical manipulation, of centering, mixing, handling and reinforcing cinder concrete has greatly facilitated and cheapened its construction for this kind of floors.

It is now recognized as by far the speediest and most convenient form of floor construction. There are at present no fireproof contractors, not even those who formerly erected other kinds exclusively, who do not construct largely of this material.

It can be conservatively stated that a good majority of fireproof buildings erected in the last two years in the vicinity of New York City have had cinder concrete fireproof floors.

The indications are that in the near future cinder concrete fireproofing will be the universal standard for fireproof floors, partitions, and general protectors of steel work.

No Change in Wage Schedule Anticipated.

It is the consensus of opinion that wages of those employed in the building trades in Greater New York will suffer no reduction during 1908. According to a report in circulation this week, although settlements have not been concluded with all the unions in accordance with the arbitration plan, it is unlikely that any change in this direction will be made.

It is understood that the unions which have not succeeded in making new arrangements have not disputed with the employers on the matter of wages, but on the question of working conditions.

The following unions have a total membership of 39,100 men and have new trade agreements with the old wage conditions continued: Amalgamated Wood Workers, Bricklayers and Masons, Elevator Constructors, Tile Layers, House Shorers and Movers, Hoisting Engineers, Electrical Workers, Journeymen Steam Setters, Marble Cutters, Marble Polishers, Plain and Ornamental Operative Plasterers, Modelers, Hot and Cold Insulators and Wood Carvers.

The following unions, numbering 26,300 members, have not yet effected agreements over working conditions: Brotherhood of Carpenters, Metal Lathers, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers, Plumbers, Composition Roofers and Water Proofers, and Cement Masons.

The Brotherhood of Painters, 12,000 strong, and the United Housesmiths' and Bridgemens' Union, 5,000 membership, are not under the arbitration agreement.

Status of the Building Code Revision.

When the old Board of Aldermen adjourned, December 31, the new building code was on the table. Alderman Sullivan, the majority leader, says this action terminated the life of the commission, but he intends to move for the appointment of a new body to carry the revision farther. The text of the report follows:

The Committee on Buildings, to whom the proposed building code was referred on December 17, in conformity with the instructions of this Board, held a public hearing on Friday, December 20.

At this hearing there was a general discussion of a number of proposed changes and numerous requests were made for further public hearings at which the different provisions could be given consideration.

Your committee thereupon passed a resolution returning the new code to this Board, with the recommendation that it be referred back to the Building Code Commission, which revised same, and that said Commission be directed to hold such additional public hearings as the public may desire.

(Signed) Max S. Grifenhagen,
John J. Farrell,
John Hann,
Frank J. Dotzler,
Jacob Bartscherer,
Committee on Buildings.

Under Rule 21 consideration of this repart was deferred. Subsequently Alderman Grifenhagen moved the adoption of this report.

Alderman Kuntze moved that this report be laid on the table.

The Vice-Chairman put the question whether the Board would agree with said motion.

Still a Question for Debate.

There is still much speculation as to what effect the opening of the Battery tubes will have in alleviating the crush at the bridge, and in this connection it is being asked what effect, if any, will it exert on the value of realty in Joralemon st. It is a foregone conclusion that a large number will take the cars for Manhattan at Court sq, but whether this will materially affect property values in that vicinity is a question. In this respect the New York Herald says:

"It is a problem what the new terminal will do for this section of the borough, but it is unquestionable that it will be beneficial to a district once distinguished for its exclusive character and that later deteriorated to a tenement section. Although property values in this section are now higher than in the recent past no credit is due to local improvement or changes. Progress has been thrust upon it. The surprising feature of the situation is that it is possible to buy lots on the Heights as low as $4,000."

While it must be admitted that there are still opportunities for acquiring low priced lots in that locality, it is fast becoming known that owners are jacking up prices in anticipation of a boom in the quarter mentioned. Prominent students of conditions on the Heights predict that the long hoped for equalization in values is beginning to take place and that the days of bargain sales in that zone have passed.

Statistics of Plans Filed.

The following is a table of the new buildings and alterations projected for Manhattan and the Bronx with the estimated cost, for the past week and also for the corresponding week of 1907-1908.

	1907-1908.	1906-1907.
No. of the new buildings in Manhattan and the Bronx	30	26
Estimated cost of new buildings...	$922,600	$435,700
Total estimated cost of alterations for Manhattan and the Bronx ...	$98,525	$2,312,675

—The building trades have suffered the loss by death of two prominent men during the week, Mr. Elgar, the builder, and Mr. Barnes, the brick manufacturer. Both were successful and highly esteemed as business men, and useful citizens.

PROJECTED BUILDINGS

The first name is that of the ow'r; ar't stands for architect, m'n for mason, c'r for carpenter, and b'r for builders.

When character of roof is not mentioned, it is to be understood that the roof is to be of tin.

The Costliest Building of the Year.

THE new Plaza Hotel at 5th av and 59th st, which was completed and opened to the public the 23d of September last, in all probability is the costliest and most beautiful structure completed during the year. It stands conspicuously for beauty in exterior and interior construction, and has no superior in any country. The wreckers began their work July 1, 1905. The hotel represents a total investment of $12,500,000—of which $3,500,000 is capital stock, $5,000,000 on mortgage and $4,000,000 on short term notes.

At first it was planned to build an extension to the hotel formerly occupying this site, reinforcing the building with steel construction and carrying it up five stories more. It was believed that there was a subterranean stream running under the foundation and that it would be necessary to erect the proposed addition on piles. At a depth of some forty feet, however, solid rock was found, and all worry as to the possibility of securing a satisfactory foundation for the structure to be erected was at an end. It was then decided to demolish the old building entirely and raise the present splendid structure on the site.

HARRY S. BLACK,
President of the U. S. Realty and Improvement Co.

HENRY J. HARDENBERGH, Architect of the Plaza.

The main entrance to the hotel is through the foyer on the 59th st side, facing which are the elevators. This foyer is finished in Italian marble selected and imported for this purpose. At the left of the foyer is the cafe. This is Spanish Renaissance in style, with a wooden ceiling supported by characteristic brackets, all elaborately carved, stained and fireproofed. The door trim is of Caen stone. The tapestries which hang on the wall were designed for this room, and were executed in Europe. An attractive feature of the ground floor is the Tea-Room opposite the Plaza restaurant on the main corridor, the walls of which are entirely of Caen stone and plate glass, with columns of Fleur de Peche marble. The capitals for these columns and the metal mouldings and wreaths used on this floor were made by the Winslow Bros. Company of solid bronze. There are two dining-rooms or restaurants on this main floor, one for permanent guests and one for transient use. The decorations in these rooms and also in the bar room were carried out by Messrs. L. Alavoine & Co. The elevators, which were made by the Standard Plunger Elevator Company, consist of ten passenger cars, three sidewalk lifts and thirteen electric dumbwaiters. The principal stockholders of the hotel company are Harry S. Black, president of the U. S. Realty and Improvement Company; John W. Gates, Hallgarten & Co., bankers, and Benjamin Beinecke. The George A. Fuller Co. was the builder, and Henry J. Hardenbergh, the architect.

Weekly Mortgage Statement.

The weekly statement of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company says the mortgage market does not as yet show any signs of the abundance of money that some have predicted would be in evidence after the first of the year. Week before last there were 171 mortgages recorded in New York County. The number was thought to be law owing to the fact that it represented the completion of transactions arranged during panic week. The increase from 171 to 245 last week in New York was regarded as encouraging, especially as there was an increase in amount of very nearly one million dollars, but during the week that is past the figures have again fallen from 245 to 184. The recorded mortgages in Kings and Queens counties have declined steadily during the three weeks. There were 663 mortgages recorded in Kings and Queens counties week before last, 576 last week and 401 this week.

There is little doubt that the amount of money available for mortgages during the early part of the year will depend largely on whether or not the savings banks return to the mortgage market. All these institutions have been accumulating ready cash in order to take care of the sixty-day withdrawal notices which are beginning to fall due. Only a small number of the depositors who have given withdrawal notices have as yet availed themselves of the privilege of withdrawing the money. It is possible that some of these are awaiting the expiration of the interest period, but it is more likely that their scare is over and that the money will remain in the savings banks.

PAUL STARRETT, Builder of the Plaza.

The fact that mortgage money is worth from five to six per cent. to-day may attract a number of savings bank depositors after the first of the year to go into mortgage investment on their own behalf. It is of little importance to the general borrowing public whether the individual savings bank depositors make mortgage loans or the the banks themselves make the loans, although if the loans are made by the banks the larger borrowers will have more of a chance than they will where the loans are made by the individual depositors. Our own sales of mortgages have been less this week than for two weeks past. This is, of course, in some respects due to holiday week, for there is undoubtedly a better feeling among the clients to whom we usually sell mortgages. The mortgages we have disposed of have been sold with less effort. Those with money to invest seem to have been more sure of their own wishes in the matter. There never was a better time for those who have money to invest at a high rate of interest for three or five years. Mortgages whose security is beyond question can now be placed at rates between five and six per cent., and to those who know how safe and desirable an investment a mortgage is, the present inaction on the part of those who have money seems very short sighted.

The Week.

Many brokers are heartily glad that 1907 is past and over. It is the rare exception to find on who found it profitable. While the first months were good, business dropped off in the latter part until at the present time it is as near a standstill as possible. Those brokers who make leasing a specialty have done well. Some of the leases run up into large figures and the commission end of the transaction is well worth working for. The trouble is that during the rush period the office force in brokers' offices was augmented. Now that the dull period is here the income is small, but the expenses are as heavy as ever. Fortunately a good spring is looked for and a brisk business is anticipated. The more conservative brokers hope that it will not come with a rush, for they foresee disastrous results therefrom. They rather hope for a slower but steady, healthy, normal increase.

There were several notable sales put through during the week just past; including the n w cor of 5th av and 30th st, opposite the Holland House, an 8-sty bachelor apartment house. This deal involved a million dollars. Another deal of importance on 5th and Madison avs, 70th and 71st sts, took place. This transaction included several lots on the block on which the Lenox Library is situated. Henry C. Frick, Dave H. Morris and Otto Kahn took title. A loft building, 235 Mercer st, 25x100 and 6 stys in height, was purchased by Amanda A. Tiger, of Madison, N. J., who gave in trade 201 acres of land at Bedminster, Somerset County, New Jersey; a 6-sty elevator apartment house, 159 and 161 West 99th st, 45x100, was sold to Mr. Fisman, a lawyer, and a block front on the west side of Lexington av, between 85th and 86th sts, a 5-sty and a 7-sty apartment house, with a frontage of 204 feet, changed hands. The purchaser gave in part payment the southwest corner of Broadway and 142d st, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, 100x100. This deal is said to involve abont $600,000.

The mortgage market was quiet, only a few mortgages being recorded, and most of them of small amounts. Samuel Bowne borrowed from the Title Insurance Co., of New York, $300,000 on the property, 411 to 415 Pearl st, due January, 1911. This mortgage bears the interest rate of 5½ per cent. to Jan. 15, 1909, and thereafter 6 per cent. to due date. Mary d'A. Lilienthal gave a mortgage to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. for $65,000 at 6 per cent., due May 1, 1911, on the property situated in 73d st, north side, 205 ft. east of Park av, 26x102.

The leases reported were not as numerous as during some of the preceding weeks, but that is not to be wondered at considering that it was the second holiday week in succession.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week is 120 against 105 last week, and in the Bronx 58, as against 79 last week. The total amount involved is $3,329,263 as against $2,135,361 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 30, of which 9 were below 59th st, 13 above and 8 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

While there were about double the offerings in the auction market this week over what was put up last week, still the results were not any more satisfactory. Seventeen parcels were advertised for sale on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday last, of these two were purchased by outside bidders, ten went to the plaintiff and five were adjourned to early dates in January.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Monday the northeast corner of Willis av and Southern Boulevard, a vacant plot, 25x115 x100x irreg., was knocked down to Judge William F. Moore, for $13,500. Julius Lichtenstein, the plaintiff, bought in for $28,-509 the 4-sty flat, 498 Wendover av, 25x191x irreg.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day, on Tuesday, Joseph W. Baumann purchased 230 West 121st st, a 5-sty brick flat, 17x100, for $14,600. This house is situated 304 ft. west of 7th av. The vacant property, 100x100, on Grand av, west side, 250 ft. south of 180th st, went to the plaintiff for $11,600. At the stand of William Kennelly & Son on the same day the sale of 58 and 60 Rivington st, a 3-sty synagogue, 42x80, was adjourned to Jan. 7.

There is a general feeling among real estate men that in the course of a couple of months things will improve and a better market will be the result. At the present time the auction market is dead.

Hotel Lenox, Boston, Bought by New Yorker.

Daniel P. Ritchey sold for Henry M. Whitney and associates to Sylvanus Stokes of New York, the Hotel Lenox in Boston, Mass. This building is situated on the cor. of Exeter and Boylston sts, opposite the old Harvard Medical School and the Boston Athletic Association. It was built by Bangs & Co. about 11 years ago. It occupies the cor. of the Boston & Albany yards. The reported price is $1,150,000.

—Edmund Breese, who has played the principal part in "The Lion and the Mouse," purchased an acre plot on Avon road and Lancaster Boulevard at "Jamaica Estates" upon which he intends to erect a white concrete dwelling after the Spanish style of architecture.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Grand Street Corner Sold.

GRAND ST.—Phillips & Avery, in conjunction with S. H. Stone, sold for the Ronalds estate, the s w cor of Grand and Thompson sts, old buildings, 24x79. Mr. Chas. E. Hess is the buyer and paid $25,000 for it. Twenty thousand dollars was allowed to remain upon mortgage. The sellers were Edgar J. Phillips and Abram I. Elkus, trustees, on deed executed by Elizabeth N. Blake, Dec. 27, 1905. The new owner is going to erect a modern business buildiog on the site.

HENRY ST.—D. & W. Mullins sold for Patrick O'Keefe to Mary E. Mullins, No. 137 Henry st, a 5-sty school building, 26x100, which is leased to the Board of Education. On the other side of the street is Public School No. 2 and on the northwest cor of Rutgers st is St. Theresa's Church. The price obtained was $27,000.

MERCER ST.—Isabel J. Roberts, of Philadelphia, sold to Amenda A. Tiger, of Madison, N. J., 235 Mercer st, a 6-sty loft building, west side, 125 ft south of 3d st, 25x100. The buyer gives in part payment 201 acres of land at Bedminster, Somerset County, N. J. On the other side of Mercer st is the old Broadway Central Hotel.

PEARL ST.—Charles F. Noyes Co. sold for the Haynes Co. to a Mr. Durtos, 228 Pearl st, a 6-sty building, covering a plot of about 2,400 ft. The purchaser takes the property free and clear. It rents for a little less than $5,000 per annum. There is an elevator in the building.

14TH ST.—Mrs. Bridget Kelly and Maximilian J. Jahelkn sold 133 West 14th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 25x103.3, to Charles R. Smith. This property was bought by the sellers on July 17, 1907, at $35,000. There is a mortgage of $25,000 on the property and it is assessed at $31,000.

27TH ST.—Pocher & Co. sold for Michael Conlon to Henry Nechols and Samuel Blumenstock, 507 West 27th st, a 6-sty tenement house, 25x100, 100 ft west to 10th av. The block between 9th and 10th avs is to be used for park purposes. Public School 33 is to be the only building to be left standing.

37TH ST.—Finney & Mathews sold for a client to Joseph L Buttenwieser 221 and 223 West 37th st, two 3-sty dwellings, 35.9x98.9.

51ST ST.—Taylor Bros. sold for W. H. Burgess to S. B. French, 103 West 51st st, a 2-sty private stable, 25.5x106. Mr. Burgess purchased this property from Com. E. C. Benedict.

Irving Place Building Sold to Investor.

IRVING PL.—The Bell-Wiley Co. sold to Charles B. Halsey the 4-sty and basement building, on the s w cor of Irving pl and 19th st, known as 122 East 19th st. This building occupies a lot 25x92 on Irving pl and is just south of Gramercy Park, where the Columbia University, the Princeton, Players' and Art clubs have obtained sites. The new owner is going to make several important alterations at the expiration of the present short-term lease. The owner of the n w cor of 18th st and Irving pl recently completed plans to alter that structure into office and loft building. There have been a number of inquiries for property in this section since the Public Service Commission reported favorably upon the availability of Lexington av and Irving pl as a portion of the route of the future subway.

Million Dollar Sale on Fifth Avenue.

5TH AV.—Frederick Fox & Co. announce the sale of 284 Fifth av at the n w cor of Fifth av and 30th st. Mrs. Emily H. Moir, the seller, purchased the land, with her husband, in 1888. At that time the plot was occupied by a dwelling and Mrs. Moir paid $235,000 to John Watson for it. Herbert A. Sherman acted as broker. Mr. Moir soon after acquiring title erected the present structure, which is an 8-sty bachelor apartment house, 40x125, with stores on the ground floor. John J. Gibbons, the present purchaser, is the head of Gilman, Collamore & Co., dealers in china and glassware. They are the present tenants of the store, basement and first loft. The consideration in the deal is $1,000,000. This sale shows the growing necessity of tenants on the avenue owning their own property in every case where it is possible. The supply is getting very limited, and as soon as the present inactivity is over investors will be climbing over each other to get choice avenue property.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

73D ST.—Mrs. Selicite Clark sold through Pease & Elliman to John K. Turton, 134 East 73d st, a 3-sty high stoop dwelling, 95 ft west of Lexington av, 15x102.2. The buyer is a builder, who will remodel the structure into an American basement dwelling and put it on the market.

78TH ST.—George F. Picken sold for the estate of Charlotte Hubbschmitt, 164 East 78th st, a 5-sty double flat, 25x80x100, to a client for investment. This structure has 12 rooms and 2 baths on a floor and rents for about $3,300 a year.

Mrs. Hillenbrand Buys Apartment House.

99TH ST.—Hillenbrand & Nassoit sold for Samuel Friedelson 151 and 153 W. 99th st, a 6-sty apartment house, 40x87x100, which adjoins the Barnes Carriage Co.'s building. The buyer, Mrs. Elizabeth Hillenbrand, widow of the late Col. Joseph F. Hillenbrand, gives in part payment 433 East 86th st, a 4-sty dwelling, free and clear, 18x50x100.8, one of a row of six similar dwellings. This latter house adjoins on the east a 25-ft, 5-sty apartment and has been the residence of Mrs. Hillenbrand for 37 years.

110TH ST.—E. Califano sold for T. Bailey to E. Saggese, 326 and 328 East 110th st, a vacant plot 50x100, at present used as a coal yard. On the opposite side of the street are tanks of the Consolidated Gas Co. Jefferson Park is one block to the east.

114TH ST.—Samuel Fischer sold to Mrs. Pauline Ascher of 2 East 118th st, the two 5-sty flats, with stores, 26 and 28 East 114th st 20x50.11 and 19x100.11, respectively.

Resale of 119th Street Dwelling.

119TH ST.—George F. Picken has resold for Israel Lebowitz 153 West 119th st, a 3-sty dwelling, 20x100.11, to Julius Miller, for occupancy. This house, together with 147 and 149, were sold last week through the same broker, by Reuben W. Ross, of West Rutland, Vt., to Mr. Lebowitz. Mrs. De Savage owns 151, a similar dwelling. This house is one of a row of 20 dwellings that are built alike.

133D ST.—Harry Held sold to Samuel Krouse three 4-sty flats, 17.6x100 each, 534, 536 and 538 West 133d st. The price brought by each house was $14,000.

THE IMPROVED ANNUAL NUMBER

OF THE

Record & Guide Quarterly

For 1907

As a guide to present values and future possibilities in real estate it is as necessary as the stock ticker to a broker.

READ CAREFULLY

This number will contain the improved order of arranging records. By combining all records relating to any given property (conveyances, mortgages, leases, alterations, projected buildings or wills filed), a much clearer idea may be obtained of their relation to each other. The order followed is first GEOGRAPHICAL, and then CHRONOLOGICAL. Thus a recorded lease may precede a conveyance which may be followed by a mortgage, and that in turn by a subsequent conveyance, a building loan and plans filed.

The various records may readily be determined at a glance by their typographical differences, thus:

95th st, No 307 East, east store, &c. Ludins & Romm Realty Co to David Weiss; 4 years and 22 days, from April 8, 1907. Aug 29, 1907. 5:1558 354

RECORD AND GUIDE
Madison Square: 11-15 East 24th Street, New York City

NEW BUSINESS
Can be obtained by advertising in the
RECORD AND GUIDE.

EDGECOMBE AV.—Pocher & Co. sold for the New York Life Insurance Co to Charles Schenk, 48 Edgecombe av, 20x68, at the n e cor of 137th st. This property is a 3-sty and basement dwelling and is built to a depth of 52 ft. It is situated opposite St Nicholas Park. The New York Life purchased it under foreclosure Jan 30, 1904, and paid $15,000 for it. Mr. Schenk is also the owner of 405 East 52d st, where he resides.

LEXINGTON AV.—Max E. and Simon E. Bernheimer sold to Elias Gusseroff the 5 and 7-sty apartment houses forming the block front in the west side of Lexington av, from 85th to 86th sts, being 204.4 ft to the avenue, 35.2 ft in 86th st and 37.2 ft in 85th st. The buyer gives in payment the southwest cor of Broadway and 142d st, a 6-sty elevator apartment house, 100x100. The transaction aggregates $600,000.

Large Fifth Avenue Plot Sold.

5TH AV.—Title was taken during the week to several plots in the block bounded by 5th and Madison avs and 70th and 71st sts, sold about twelve months ago by the trustees of the New York Public Library. Henry C. Frick is the purchaser, but will not be able to get the part where the building is located, as the trustees have to retain it until the new library at 42d st and 5th av is completed. The plot 50x200.10 directly back of the library building however, is transferred to Mr. Frick. Henry D. Winans and May were the brokers. The announcement is made that Dave Hennen Morris is the buyer of the plot, 33x100.5, on the north side of 70th st, adjoining the Frick holdings. Mr. Morris takes title, as does also Otto Kahn to the corresponding plot, 75x100.5, on the south side of 71st st. Both of these sites have sidelight privileges overlooking the Frick grounds, and both will be improved with large dwellings.

BRONX.

216TH ST.—Martin Kretsch sold for Edward Hunn to M. Elliott, 171 East 216th st, a 2-sty frame house, 50x115, near White Plains rd. The buyer gave in part payment a farm comprising 130 acres at Woodstock, N. Y.

ELSMERE PL.—Warch & White sold for Gross & Herman 823 Elsmere pl, a 2-family frame house, to G. C. Weston.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The sale of the northeast cor. of Nereid and Grave avs, 50x100, has been reported.

The sale of 218 East 115th st, a 5-sty flat, 25x100.11, is reported by Mrs. John H. Boessennecker.

J. Ettlinger and a Mrs. Newman sold 305 and 307 West 127th st, two 5-sty double flats with stores, each 25x85x100.

Thomas J. Totten announces that he has opened an office at 5602 Broadway, where he will conduct a general real estate and insurance business.

The city of New York purchased the property 44 Centre st, one of the parcels to be covered by the enlarged bridge terminal. This site was transferred to the city by Eliza Guggenheimer for $40,000.

Herbert A. Sherman has been appointed agent for the St. Paul Building, 220 Broadway; the Metropolitan-Commercial Building, at the northeast corner of Broadway and Prince st, and a 10-sty building at the corner of 5th av and 19th st.

The Corporate Realty Co. has begun an action against Julius London and others to foreclose a mortgage of $90,000 on the property on the north side of 172d st 187.6 ft. west of Amsterdam av, 87.6x94. This mortgage was made June 30, 1905.

Feist M. Strauss was appointed receiver of rents of the property 1539 Av A by Justice Greenbaum, pending an action brought by Bernhard Mayer and Jonas Well against Bertha Green et al to foreclose a mortgage for $10,500. There is a prior mortgage on the property of $16,000.

Herbert Gulick, who was long associated with his brother, Ernestus Gulick, in his various real estate enterprises, has become manager of the Long Island department of the McVickar-Gaillard Realty Co. It is understood that this company will enter the field of high-class development on Long Island.

The Public Service Commission has directed its counsel, Abel E. Blackmar, to communicate with Park Commissioner Michael J. Kennedy with a view of obtaining the necessary consent to extend the borings for the Battery-Brooklyn Subway alongside Prospect Park as far as Parkside av. The new extension from the Long Island Railroad depot to Parkside av, under Flatbush and Ocean avs, two miles in length, would cost a sum closely approaching $8,000,000.

Foreclosure in West 146th Street.

Emanuel Hoffman has been appointed by Justice Greenbaum receiver of rents of the property on the north side of 146th st, 100 feet east of Eighth av, 75x99.11, pending a suit brought against Thomas J. Murtha and others, by Robert L. Luckey to foreclose three mortgages amounting to $9,150.

The New Subway Projects.

Chairman Willcox says it is the duty of the Public Service Commission to plan new subways. If there isn't enough to build them, then it is for the Board of Estimate to say so and not for this commission. This commission is not supposed to know when the debt limit has been reached. The Comptroller and the Board of Estimate attend to such things.

Mr. Willcox further says that it is absurd to say that the Broadway and Lexington av line will interfere in any way with the 4th av line. Such talk is really not worth answering. The 4th av subway has been formally approved, but it has been held up, as has been published, while the plans are redrawn. The dimensions of the tunnel are to be changed and the grades lessened. Bids will be asked for and the contracts let just as soon as the plans are ready, because the money has already been appropriated for the work. No subsequent action regarding other subways can interfere with the 4th av project.

When the plans for the Broadway and Lexington av line are ready they will be presented to the Board of Estimate. No, we will not wait for the Elsberg law to be amended, or for any action by the Legislature.

New Flooring Concern Formed.

That "hard times" are not very omnipresent is shown by the fact that a new combination of flooring manufacturers has been made, under the name of the American Hydrolith Co., of New York. The firm was recently organized to take over the contracts and business of the American Hydrolit Co., formerly at 316 West 65th st, Manhattan, and the Aristolit Flooring Co., formerly at 220 Broadway. The firm is located in a fine new factory building at 23, 25 and 27 Dean st, Brooklyn, and is filling important contracts for its fireproof flooring. Among important commissions just filled was that of the flooring of the Hoboken City Hall, and another that of the new addition to the Metropolitan Hospital on Blackwell's Island, R. F. Almiral, architect. The new firm's officials are: Richard Tjader, president; H. G. Boardman, secretary and treasurer, and Dr. G. T. Bidtel, general manager.

A Reminder.

"The Annual Record of the Assessed Valuation of Real and Personal Estate of the Boroughs of Manhattan, Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond" will be open for public inspection and correction on Jan. 13th, and will remain open up to and including March 31, 1908. During this period all applications for correction must be made.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

WATER SUPERVISION CO.

3 PARK ROW, NEW YORK

Tel., 2017 Cortlandt Send for our book "WATER TAX?"

NEW YORK, October 17, 1907

GENTLEMEN: After an experience of several months we take pleasure in stating that your service in the buildings which we have placed under your supervision has been eminently satisfactory. In some cases you have directed our attention to matters which have resulted in the saving of an amount equal to several times the annual charge for the entire building. We shall certainly continue with your company and turn over to you any other metered property that we may acquire.

Very truly yours, WEIL & MAYER

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines ar the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the correspodning date.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

"SNOW WHITE"
Portland Cement

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

THE BEST PEOPLE USE IT: C. Oliver Iselin; W. Butler Duncan, Jr.; Capt. Charles Barr; Capt. Rhodes; Capt. "Lem" Miller; Capt. Robert Wringe; Capt. Archie Hogarth; William Fife, Jr., etc.

NONALYKE preserves the famous Yachts,—Reliance, Defender; Constitution, Shamrock, etc., and adorns and preserves the walls of many famous buildings, including THE METROPOLITAN LIFE BUILDING.

C. OLIVER ISELIN says: "The Paint supplied by you is the best I have ever had."

THE IDEAL ENAMEL PAINT!

"NONALYKE" can be applied to bare wood or plaster without using White Lead, Zinc, or other primers. It makes an enamel surface which never cracks, and is impervious to germs of disease.

BLACK OR WHITE, OR COLORS

Send for samples, prices or estimates to the J. L. MITCHELL PAINT CO., 1 Madison Avenue, New York, N. Y.

MAYOR McCLELLAN'S annual message is a document which one lays down, after reading, with the feeling that the administration has the fullest appreciation of those questions which for property owners are the real issues of the day in this city, and we suppose the same could be said of all the matters considered in the pages of the message. Mr. McClellan faces with directness and fairness an unusual number of topics which have been pressing for determination; as, for example, the propriety of a change in the time of collecting taxes; the city's inability to fully collect arrears of taxes, and the constitutional limit of indebtedness, in the departments of finance; the revision of the charter; the Fifth Avenue widening; the distressing congestion in down-town streets; better sewers; street pavements and roadways; assessments for parks; and, also, transit and bridge questions, besides giving a graphic account of what is going on in all the municipal departments. Appertaining to the proposal to widen the roadway of Fifth Avenue, the Mayor is of the opinion that the time has arrived to proceed definitely in the matter, as the courts have cleared away the last legal obstacle, leaving nothing intervening but to give notice of the dooryard spaces being required for public purposes. And by order of the Mayor surveys and maps are being made to show where the encroachments are. The notice to property owners may now come at any time—by resolution of the Board of Aldermen, presumably, and particular consideration will be shown to those who will consent to remove their buildings without forcing the city into the courts. The net enlargement of the roadway will be about fifteen feet. For so many years has the probability of this action been discussed in the public journals, the subject in its various aspects ought to be familiar to everyone. In many cases the impending regulation was long ago anticipated in respect to obstructions beyond the building line, but there are instances of encroaching columns, and especially of certain architectural ornamentations, which no doubt will be the subject of future consideration with a view to leniency, seeing that while they may be misplaced they in nowise will interfere with the general plan to gain more room for vehicular traffic. Whatever objection in the nature of a general movement on the part of property owners may be interposed to the widening, it will not be on the ground that the drive is not too narrow, but rather through fear of the consequences of an inflexible interpretation of the ordinances; and hence it might be a proper proceeding to suggest to the authorities a consideration of the possibility of a moderation of lines and terms that would eliminate temporarily some of the drastic and expensive features and yet not prevent ultimately the full attainment of the object.

A RESOLUTION, assessing the costs of acquiring new public parks in accordance with the direct local benefit, instead of charging the sum to the city at large, is another important recommendation of the annual message. Forty million dollars has been the city's contribution under this head during the last five years, and the probabilities are that this will be about all for the present, or until improvements more urgently necessary for the general welfare have been provided. The expenses connected with condemnation proceedings for new parks have been enormous, over and above the value of the lands taken, and the authorities feel that with the large number of local parks that have been laid out since the consolidation, and the present need for funds in other directions being so pressing, further expenses of this character should be defrayed by the localities desiring the improvements; and coupled with this resolution will probably be, if the recommendations of the city engineers are followed, a scheme for a new and definite policy in assessing benefits and damages for all public works. The proportion of cost which the Borough of Manhattan has had to bear for many purely local improvements elsewhere has been heavy, and the taxpayers are not likely to object to the money being used for more general objects. Touching upon another matter in the message, the propriety of changing the financial calendar, it will be observed that the Mayor accepts the judgment of the Advisory Commission that the real reason for the demands for a change in the date for the collection of taxes is the large deficiency in current funds, due to the city's inability to enforce the prompt payment of taxes on real estate. The present method of providing current funds was adopted after due consideration for what the commission believes "good and sufficient reasons," and it is convinced that it is not desirable to make a change in this respect. But Mayor McClellan is satisfied that an amendment to the charter which the commission has proposed will not only be effective in collecting "all" taxes in arrears, but will also "have the effect of the Pennsylvania system, by which defects in titles to real property can be cured." The expedient referred to is to sell the lien instead of a lease, and permit the purchaser to realize upon this as he would upon a mortgage when due. Should these hopes be fulfilled the city will no longer have to worry about where the money for a municipal subway is to come from, especially as the Mayor is doubtful concerning the wisdom of changing the statutes so as to extend the constitutional debt limit.

BROOKLYN can with reason expect a new era of growth from the opening of the Battery tunnel this week, notwithstanding that in some degree the benefit has been largely anticipated during the years that the construction work has been going on. The continuous one-fare transit in actual operation from the office district of Manhattan to a high-class residential district heretofore accessible only at the cost of much personal discomfort, through the "bridge crush," is certain to start a new emigration. The expansion which Brooklyn has had in the last three or four years, in part anticipatory of this new subway extension, and in part attributable to general prosperity and natural growth, has been principally in the suburban wards not directly to be served by this subway. The Heights and the sections near the stations on the way to the terminal at Atlantic avenue have been long settled, and quite unchanged of late years in their external appearance, and probably would have seen the same rise in real estate values if the tunnel had not been building. These are the districts which will obtain the largest immediate results from this the first real consolidation since the enabling act for Greater New York. Great numbers of people already living in Brooklyn will desire to live on the line of the new subway, so they will no longer have to cross the Bridge; and there will be many doing business in our financial district to whom a residence in the Heights section of Brooklyn will be more convenient and desirable under the new circumstances than their present places of abode in this borough. No denial can be entered to this, any more than to the fact that there was a very large emigration to Brooklyn after the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge in 1883. In this connection the action of the Bronx Board of Real Estate Brokers, in issuing a call to all civic societies on the North Side to "denounce the Utilities Commission's neglect of the Bronx," is taken as highly significant of the apprehensions entertained in that quarter, though it may be, in view of the recommendation made last week by the Commission for an East Side subway, that the intentions of the body have not been understood. At any rate, fairness demands an even-handed distribution of public utilities, and the Bronx is justified in being alert at this crisis.

The Current Session of the Legislature.

THE current session of the Legislature promises to be of the utmost importance for New York City. A number of bills will come up for consideration that will profoundly affect the future of the city either for good or for ill; and property owners should be fully alive to the necessity of making their influence felt at Albany on behalf of legislation that will ameliorate some of the misfortunes and mistakes under which our municipal government is suffering. Such remedial action should not be postponed, not only because it is urgently needed, but because the session of 1908 ought to be a favorable one in which to have it passed. Governor Hughes will still be in control at Albany —perhaps for the last time. His influence can be counted on in support of all really desirable legislation, and it may be a long time before we shall have in the Governor's chair at Albany a man of such sound judgment, of such disinterested public spirit and such commanding influence.

The two matters on which it is essential to obtain favorable action are rapid transit and charter revision. Under existing laws it may be a long time before any new subway will be built in New York City, and it is plain that the city would suffer severely from the delay. Private corporations cannot at present afford to bid for subways to be leased for only twenty years; and the municipality itself cannot afford to put up the money for their construction. In case New York were able to spend $100,000,000 on new subways, the Record and Guide would be unhesitatingly in favor of their construction by the city, and, if necessary, their subsequent operation by a department of the city government. But the most superficial examination of the municipal finances discloses a total inability either to borrow the money within the constitutional debt limit or to borrow it except at an extravagant rate of interest. Until the constitutional debt limit can be modified, so as not to include expenditures on subways, and until the city has recovered its ability to borrow money at less than four per cent., the idea of a municipally constructed subway system will have to be abandoned; and the only possible alternative will have to be accepted. Private capital must be offered sufficient inducements to build new subways without calling on the city for the loan of its credit. A lease of forty years, with possibly a renewal of twenty years, should be enough for this purpose; but the city should have the right to buy the lease back, together with the equipment, at a fair valuation, before the expiration of the term. Doubtless the alienation of such a valuable privilege will mean a certain loss of money to New York, but an indefinite delay of subway construction would mean even a greater loss. Transit conditions are again becoming a hindrance to the city's growth, as they were during the ten years previous to 1904; and they must be improved with the smallest possible delay. Moreover, the necessity for such improvement is greater in Manhattan and the Bronx than in any other boroughs. These boroughs will not be directly benefited by any of the tunnels and bridges now under construction, while the effect of these improvements will be actually and largely to increase Manhattan traffic. After these tunnels and bridges are opened residents of the other boroughs and of New Jersey will come more to Manhattan than they do at present; and they will more than ever crowd its surface, elevated and sub-surface cars. With traffic increasing at its present rate the early provision of more subways is merely a matter of public safety.

The revision of the charter, which the Legislature will have to consider, is of less immediate, but perhaps of more ultimate, importance than is new legislation in respect to rapid transit. The existing charter is the best New York has ever had, but it still contains many grave defects. The principle on which it is based is correct in that its purpose is to bring about executive efficiency and responsibility, coupled with a species of board government over all questions of general policy. But the organization which it provides has in certain respects failed to realize its manifest purpose; and the great advantage of the new charter, which will be submitted to the Legislature by the Revision Commission, is that it improves the present charter without departing from the fundamental principles upon which that instrument is based. The present charter sought to concentrate power and responsibility in the hands of a few officials who could be held strictly accountable for their behavior; but it did not go far enough in this respect, and it established, in relation to certain administrative matters, an overlapping and confused distribution of authority. The experience of the past few years has shown that its weak points consisted in the powers conferred on the Board of Aldermen, in the constitution of the Board of Estimate and in the organization of the system of borough government.

In all these respects the charter revisers propose radical and well-considered alterations. The most important of these alterations concern the Board of Estimate. That body finally becomes a responsible Board of Directors, elected like the board of directors of a railroad, for the purpose of really governing the corporation. Every member of the board will be elected by the people of the whole city, and will represent in its deliberations general rather than local interests. The power of the board will be very largely increased, because if the proposed revision is approved by the Legislature, the mandatory expenditure of the city's money under State laws will become a thing of the past. Thus the board will become really responsible for the municipal budget, and cannot shift the responsibility to Albany, as it so frequently does at present. Its power, that is, will be precisely equivalent to its responsibility, and it will have to stand or fall on its record. It will constitute in every essential respect a small deliberative and legislative body, having full authority to decide vital questions of municipal policy and to raise the money necessary for the successful carrying out of its decisions, and there follows from this fact the one criticism which must be passed on the work of the Revision Commission. Inasmuch as the Board of Estimate thus becomes an authoritative governing body, its constitution as such leaves no proper place for a Board of Aldermen. The Aldermen, under such a plan of municipal organization, can have no important functions which they would not divide with the Board of Estimate, and any division of authority, just in so far as it is effective, is a serious drawback to the consistency and the efficiency of the proposed new charter. It is too bad that the revisers have yielded to the superstition which keeps alive an expensive and a positively harmful part of the old municipal organization.

Many important changes are proposed by the Charter Revision Commission in respect to the administration of the city, and all of these proposals are well considered. They would result in an increase of the Mayor's power and in a decrease of that of the Borough Presidents', and they would make for administrative efficiency. The Mayor is the man who should be completely and exclusively responsible for the economic conduct of the city's executive business, and the less this responsibility is divided the better it will be fulfilled. There is no need in this connection of dwelling on the details of the proposed redistribution of administrative power, because it is probable that the Legislature will accept recommendations of this kind with comparatively slight protest. The struggle will come over the augmentation of the power of the Board of Estimate. Every augmentation proposed will be equivalent to a self-denying ordinance on the part of the Legislature; and our Legislatures do not like the thorny path of self-denial. Yet it is essential that New York City should gain its financial independence and should in the future have the power to spend as it will the money raised by the taxation of its citizens. A necessary part of that power is the omission of bonds issued for subways from inclusion within the debt limit, as well as local option in matters of taxation. The grant of all this additional authority is a large order for any one Legislature to supply; and it is all the more essential, consequently, that New York should use all the influence it has at Albany to obtain such an increase of independence. With the help of Governor Hughes the attempt may be successful.

Brooklyn's new subway will soon have a rival. Announcement is now made by the Hudson & Manhattan Railway Company that the Hudson tunnels will be open for service between Hoboken and the station at 14th st and 6th av, Manhattan, about March 7.

The Index to Volume LXXX. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between July 1 to December 30, will be ready for delivery on Wednesday, January 15, 1908. Price, $1. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

THE REALM OF BUILDING.

The Building Code.

THERE has been no revision of New York's Building Code Code since 1899. Since that time many new materials and types of construction have come into general use and the passage of the Tenement House Act has abrogated a considerable portion of the existing ordinance. Defects in administration have also arisen which call for rectification. The continued construction of tall buildings increasing in size with each succeeding year has caused a public demand for some restriction. In comparison with the building ordinances of other cities New York's Code is antiquated. The fire loss has become something stupendous, four times greater than that in the great centers of population in Europe.

CHARLES H. ISRAELS.

In order to remedy these defects and others of a minor character a commission of experts was appointed last spring by the Committee on Buildings of the Board of Aldermen, of which Mr. Max S. Grifenhagen was Chairman, to prepare a new Code under the authority given the Board of Aldermen by the charter.

Unfortunately at the very beginning of its work political considerations caused a rather large and unwieldy number of men to be appointed to the Commission. Originally the Commission consisted of nine voting and seven advisory members. As finally organized there were thirty members and Mr. Thomas J. Brady was elected chairman. For reasons, best known to himself, the chairman paid little attention to the work done and the duties imposed upon the chairman devolved upon Alderman Griffenhagen. Mr. Brady's course was also followed by a number of the other members of the Commission, so that the completed work represents the results of the labors of but nine or ten men who considered that their appointment as members of the commission carried with it a civic obligation to give the best that was in them to the duties for which they were appointed.

All documents of such a lengthy and involved character as the Code must necessarily be compromises to a large extent, but I sincerely believe that all the men who contributed their labors to this work were actuated by no other motive than to serve the city to the best of their ability, and to produce an ordinance which would be of positive value to the metropolis for the next decade.

The details of the proposed Code and the changes from the existing law have been widely discussed in the public prints, so I shall not endeavor to enumerate these changes so much as to state briefly the reasons which guided the Commission in reaching the final result. In making this statement I, of course, express only my personal opinion, and have even taken the liberty of criticising sections which I think might have been improved.

In the opening portions of the Code it was thought wise to eliminate the section which declared that the ordinance should be "construed liberally" in view of the provisions of the Greater New York Charter, which gives the Superintendents of Buildings the utmost discretion to abrogate or change any "existing law or ordinance," including the Code itself; but it was considered important that when such changes were made or special interpretations were placed upon any section that the public was entitled to an opportunity to become conversant with these changes and interpretations to the end that all citizens should be able to act under such rulings, which, although made precedents, should not necessarily be made binding upon the action of the Superintendent of Buildings in cases which he does not consider of exactly similar intent.

It may be remembered that a commission appointed by the Mayor some years ago, of which Mr. Thomas J. Brady was chairman, and which was charged with the investigation of the causes of certain building disasters in the Bronx, reported at that time that a system of registration was necessary in this city in order to secure safe construction. The verdict of the Coroner's jury in the Orchard Street disaster of some years ago, called for a system of licensed architects. The memory of the disasters at the Ireland Building and of the Darlington were also fresh in the minds of the Commission. Together with these facts they realized that New York building was largely a speculative enterprise, and in many cases buildings were superintended by men wholly without technical training. In order to insure that the superintendence given to buildings within the city should be in the hands of competent men the system of Registered Constructors was devised, the Commission believing that it would not only prevent, to a large extent, the recurrence of such disasters as I have here enumerated, but that it would also make it possible for the inspectors of the Bureau of Buildings to adequately superintend the work, which in many cases is now impossible, as in a busy district, no matter how thorough or honest an inspector may be, he frequently finds it absolutely impossible to give any but the most superficial inspection to the many constructions under his charge. It was further provided that the man to be named in the application as registered constructor should be the one to secure the permit, even though he is not the architect, so that there could be no excuse upon his part that he was not familiar with the legal requirements of the particular building which he was called upon to superintend. At the completion of the building it was also thought wise to call upon this Registered Constructor to file an affidavit that he had "substantially complied" with the permit before the owners could receive a certificate of occupancy allowing the building to be used for the purpose for which it was built. The necessity for this certificate of occupancy was dictated by the fact that a large number of buildings are now constructed ostensibly for one purpose and used for another, as by so doing certain direct provisions of the law are easily evaded.

In the important sections devoted to "definitions," an attempt has been made to harmonize the Code with the existing Tenement House Act and the Charter and to provide a fireproof standard by adopting as far as was legally possible the requirements of the National Board of Fire Underwriters. This "standard" requirement was not due to the fact, as some newspaper correspondents have pointed out, that the work of the commission was unduly influenced by the fire insurance interests, but rather to the circumstances that a number of the members of the Commission visited the testing laboratories conducted by the fire insurance interests in Chicago and became thoroughly convinced of the thoroughness and integrity of the tests there made.

For the first time in the history of New York building ordinances "mill construction" was recognized as such and this provision allows a cheaper type of building to be erected to the height of 85 feet than is possible under the existing Code.

The fire limits as embodied in the Code are substantially the same as those now in force. The Commission, however, presented a supplementary report in which they advised that these fire limits be extended in the various boroughs with the proviso that within the area between the existing limits and the new ones proposed, frame dwelling and stables of limited height and area might still be erected. The object of this provision was to prevent the erection of a frame city in the outlying districts with its consequent great fire hazards, but at the same time to preserve to the New Yorker the few opportunities which now exist to live under his own roof rather than in a tenement or apartment. It was, however, provided that all of the frame houses permitted should have incombustible roofs, the report of the Fire Marshal having shown the great danger due to roofs of an inflammable character.

An attempt was made in the classification to improve upon the existing conditions and provisions for light and ventilation were made for buildings coming exclusively under restrictions of the Building Code, which have not heretofore existed. These provisions were largely dictated by the fact that under the existing Code a large number of blocks within the city are being solidly built up so that no one's light and ventilation is secure, thus destroying the necessary free air space absolutely required both for business and healthy living in the center of the block. It was also believed that these same restrictions would decrease the fire hazard to a considerable extent.

The provisions for height and area were naturally dictated largely by fire reasons, and the Commission felt that it had adopted a conservative course in its proposition to restrict the heights of office buildings and hotels to a cubage based upon area rather than to absolutely limit the final heights. In every case the heights and areas were beyond those which Chief Croker recommended, a course which the Commission took after due deliberation as the best compromise under the circumstances.

In this same section it is also proposed to provide a fireproof area forming a fire wall in the Borough of Manhattan below Central Park and in certain sections of Brooklyn, so as to prevent the unlimited spread of a great conflagration.

The stairway section should be considered together with that portion of the Code providing for fire towers, the object of the Commission being to provide means of escape from which would prevent the continual loss of life which the daily press records from day to day, due to insufficient means of exit. The Commission thought it best to prohibit the erection of fire escapes on new buildings except in tenements, where the authority of the Code does not reach, and instead to provide for fire towers after the manner of the Philadelphia law, as the members of the Commission believed that fire escapes of the type now erected were generally found inadequate and dangerous in time of panic, particularly when used by women and children.

The provisions for the quality of materials were considerably amplified and the methods of tests which the city should impose more thoroughly explained.

The provisions for loads on floors were altered so as to be more in accordance with modern engineering practice and were generally lessened so as to have a considerable effect in diminishing the cost of construction.

An attempt was made to devise methods of distributing loads on foundations so as to prevent the unequal distribution and settlement which has been responsible for numerous accidents in the past, and the newer methods of foundations were also recognized and regulated.

The thicknesses of walls were generally left much the same as at present, but provisions were made that buildings of certain types should be laid exclusively in cement and that the height of a wall should be measured from the top downward in order that the owner should have the benefit of the thinner of the wall section required rather than the thicker portion.

It was also provided that skeleton buildings might be built with 12-inch walls from top to bottom, thereby considerably reducing the cost of construction and providing greater rentable area on the expensive properties where such buildings are built.

One of the most important provisions made and one which should decrease the number of fires within our city to a very considerable extent is the proposal to enclose all boilers and furnaces in the lower stories of buildings within fireproof enclosures. In this same section reasonable provisions are also made for gas flues so as to avoid the troubles which have arisen in the past, by which the law has unreasonably refused to recognize the gas flue as being different from that under which an actual fire was built and which has caused a large amount of unnecessary expense and annoyance to the many builders and architects of hotels.

The fireproofing section has been subjected to considerable criticism, but the gentlemen who were responsible for framing this section justify its provisions by calling attention to the many failures in fireproofing in the recent conflagrations in San Francisco and Baltimore.

It is my opinion that the method of testing fireproof construction generally as originally proposed was rather an unfortunate one, and that it would be better to create certain standards which all fireproofing methods should be required to attain, and to do nothing which would allow any system already approved to be discriminated against.

The provision for the elimination of fireproof wood and the substitution therefor of other and more dependable non-inflammable material was determined upon after due consideration and with expert advice from sources thoroughly familiar with the tests dictating the change.

The changes in relation to skeleton construction are largely those which were dictated by the belief held by many members of the Commission that cast iron has been unduly favored in New York's laws for many years and that the provisions contained in the present Code were at variance with the best engineering practice and experience throughout the country.

In the theater section the main provisions of the existing Code were preserved and the Commission obtained advice from many experts in theatre construction outside of its own membership, before determining upon the important change that a court should not be required at the rear of the building and that the building itself could cover the entire front of a lot, provided the passages were left open to the street. Other minor changes were made, all tending towards greater safety, and preventing evasion as to the seating capacity by providing the number of square feet of floor area required for each person. With the omission of the unnecessary court at the rear, thus insuring a solid fire wall without openings instead, it is my belief that many available sites may be placed upon the market suitable for places of amusement, which have been shut out under the existing ordinance which some members of the Commission believe to have been framed for personal rather than for structural reasons.

Many of the elevator provisions, now a matter of regulation in the Bureau of Buildings, have been made part of the ordinance, which has also been made sufficiently broad to cover all sorts of mechanical amusement devices, over which the Bureau of Buildings has little, if any, jurisdiction at present.

An important provision requiring all elevators to be within a separate shaft and not allowing the stairs to be in direct communication with the shaft within the same enclosure, will unquestionably save many lives in the future, as the present system provides a smoke and fire duct directly in the center of what is frequently the main avenue of escape in case of danger.

The standpipe section is, in my opinion, unnecessarily severe on property interests, as it added to an existing retroactive section in the present Code in a manner unnecessarily severe on the owner who had already complied with one retroactive ordinance, but the intention was all in the direction of limiting the fire loss to the extent desired of the Chief of the Fire Department.

In view of the litigation now under way relative to the heights of sky signs the members of the Commission did not think it wise to limit these signs to a height to which they would naturally desire them to be placed. The Commission realized that it could not tackle this problem upon aesthetic grounds, but would have to consider it purely from a structural point of view, but they believe they have served both purposes well by attempting to prohibit in future the covering of the entire fronts of buildings such as now disfigure Broadway, and by insisting that the open area of a sky sign be at least 50%.

The court procedure was left much as it is at present, as there seemed to be some question in the mind of the counsel to the Commission as to the powers of the Board of Aldermen to dictate many of these clauses, but in view of the fact that the existing Code was made part of the Charter and that the court procedure as therein outlined received legislative sanction thereby, it was considered inadvisable to change these provisions.

Part 38 of the new Code, in relation to approved appliances and materials and pay for emergency work, was framed to meet certain abuses which have grown up in the administration of the Bureau of Buildings and which have been frequently ventilated in the public press in the past.

Many citizens who do business with the Bureau of Buildings can remember that at various times it has been the custom of the Bureau to practically dictate the use of certain sanitary or structural appliances, so that special legislation had to be obtained at Albany in order to remedy these evils.

This part of the Code now provides that each year the Superintendent of Buildings must publish a list of all appliances and materials which have passed the proper test, and must also state the circumstances under which these appliances and materials can be used. These lists must be uniform in all the boroughs and must be kept conspicuously posted in the offices of the various boroughs. If but one patented material is shown to be approved for a particular purpose the State law may then be invoked.

Provisions are also made in this section for the right of appeal on the part of an owner charged for emergency work, the necessity for which was shown in the recent investigation of the Borough President's office. No new machinery is created for the purpose, but the Board of Appeal is provided after the manner of the Boards of Survey which have worked so admirably under the existing Code.

An attempt has also been made to harmonize the Building Code with the other ordinances providing for bay windows, so as to avoid the conflict and duplication which exists under the present system.

I realize sincerely that the Code, as drawn, is not a perfect document, but I as firmly believe that it is a tremendous advance upon the existing ordinance. A large amount of criticism has been aimed against various sections which effect particular interests, but very few people have gone to the trouble to point out that in many cases the rights of property owners have been more carefully conserved than ever before, so that a man will be able to improve his holdings for many purposes at a much less cost than at present and without feeling that his costly venture may be destroyed through the ability of his neighbor to start a conflagration or to entirely close in his light and air. The tendency of all modern legislation is towards the lessening of the individual rights where they encroach upon public ones. The proposed Code is no exception to the rule. I believe that these new provisions will make the New York of the future a better and safer city, and that whether enacted as presented or with the amendments which may be necessary, that it will prove a blessing to the entire population, and that until a new crop of evils and abuses arise it will be found to meet the existing conditions, and will form a standard for much legislation of a similar character throughout the country.

—George S. Rice, former chief engineer for the Rapid Transit Commission, and as such the first engineering authority over the Battery tunnel, which was opened to traffic this week, presided at the annual banquet of the Society of Municipal Engineers at Shanley's on January 7. The society is composed of the heads and principal members of the engineering divisions in the various bureaus of the five city boroughs. About two hundred and fifty were present. Speeches were made by the Hon. H. A. Metz, Comptroller of the city of New York; Dr. H. C. Bumpus, Curator of the American Museum of Natural History; Commissioner John F. Murray of the Bureau of Public Works, of the Bronx; Street Cleaning Commissioner Crowell, Commissioner Henry S. Thompson of the Bureau of Public Works of Manhattan, Acting Borough President, and Calvin Tomkins, President of the Municipal Art Society.

The Trade in Front Brick.

MOST PEOPLE are more concerned and interested in what the future has in store than what has already passed into history. That, we know, is true of the makers and sellers of front bricks, and must be even more true of the consumers or any others to whom an article of this nature has any interest.

HERBERT D. LOUNSBURY.

Moreover, when memory is duly impregnated with ascertained facts the mind is sometimes surprisingly fertile, but when subjected to the task of prophecy it then enters upon uncharted seas of unknown area. All this uncertainty is what invests prediction with absorbing interest and creates an infinite variety of prophecies, many of which are wrong. The best for which we can hope, therefore, is that we may guess right. However, our judgment of the future can be greatly assisted by recalling conditions of the past and then making logical deductions.

For the front-brick manufacturer the year 1907 began under anomalous conditions. The two or three years immediately prior thereto had been unprecedently good and stocks in consequence had been kept low until the last quarter of 1906, when the tide began to turn, slowly, it's true, but surely, until not many weeks of 1907 had passed when a noticeably increasing supply of front bricks was apparent, doubly contributed by unabated energy on the part of old-established concerns and by newcomers as well. However, the great prosperity which the old concerns had enjoyed, and which the new ones had observed, was sufficient to sustain the faith of both that even better things were in store, and so production went on undismayed. But while the sea was smooth, the breezes light and the sun warm, the barometer was falling; not rapidly but very quietly and very steadily and unobserved by many hitherto supposed acute observers. It had become fashionable to be ultra-optimistic; it was a supposed sign of weakness to talk of business recession, to say nothing of predicting a commercial cataclysm, and we were charged with failing to comprehend the "new proportions" if our attitude was even precautionary. And so it was that for several months, until conditions became so unmistakable that no room was left for doubt, production was increasing with consumption diminishing, ruinous antipodes of a manufacturing proposition if long continued. The tide has again commenced to turn respecting manufactured stock in that it is slightly less on the whole, and very much less in some sections than it was a year ago, indicating a wholesome inclination of manufacturers to recognize demand and adjust supply accordingly. That adjustment is still in progress both through voluntary and involuntary agencies. And this brings us squarely up to the future and the question which obtrudes itself for an answer is, "What shall the harvest be?"

Of course the immutable law of supply and demand will always be potent in effecting the manufacture and sale of front bricks, and every other commodity of which the consumption is not artificially controlled. So in casting about for signs indicating what the business of 1908 may be we naturally look about to note the kind of construction now under way which has survived the blight, and the chances of resumption in other lines of building which are at present dormant. And what do we find?

We find building construction fairly active in the downtown financial district, but very stagnant uptown and in outlying districts where building is chiefly speculative. In examining the cause of this unprecedented stagnation in these usually active centres, it appears to be almost entirely an inability to command the customary financial assistance upon which almost everyone embarking in a building project must rely. This lack of available funds is primarily due to the universal dearth of liquid cash, a fashionable commercial ailment now so prevalent in all great marts of the world. But this indispensable aid is sometimes lacking, even when an epidemic is not raging as at present, caused by a vacillating policy of making loans on the part of the big banking and insurance institutions and which policy has intensified the present distress. We refer to the sudden changes and reversals of policy on the part of many loaning institutions whereby one year will find them making very liberal, even extravagant, loans to builders operating, say, in the Bronx or one of the other boroughs, and then the next year, like a bolt from the blue, entirely withdrawing from that particular district and declining all applications emanating from that section. If they would adopt a medium policy of soundness and progressive conservatism in their relations to all the boroughs instead of being too liberal to a certain section one year and unreasonably illiberal the next, it would contribute to the creation of a stability most wholesome for building construction, and which in turn would favorably affect all interested in building, which includes front-brick dealers and all others catering to building interests.

Such a policy would also have the effect of protecting legitimate and responsible builders from the ruinous competition of the irresponsible class who have nothing to lose in case of disaster, but with everything to gain in case of a lucky strike. As a result of too much liberality in the latter class in boom periods, and a disregard of the element of personal equation in making loans, which is always followed by a drastic contraction, the legitimate operator is too often subjected to insurmountable obstacles which cause him great loss even though his proposition is sound and conservative.

Our article in last year's annual number made special reference to the adaptability of front bricks to all kinds of building construction and new uses for which they are being successfully employed. It may now be of interest to record the marked tendency to a revival of the use of grays, mottleds, iron-spots and in fact all the light shades, whether their light-reflecting properties are specially needed or not. Up to that period the use of "Harvards" and the cheaper grade of wire-cut reds was steadily increasing, but a reaction set in the past year. This is traceable to their inordinate use in certain districts which has produced a monotony of color effect quite tedious to the eye and their misuse in work of cheap construction which has divested this grade of brick of the unique and attractive features which it possesses when treated artistically and used not too frequently.

Speaking generally, we are great believers in the inexorable law of average. We do not mean by this that the average will forever remain stationary, but we do believe good times and poorer times, not necessarily bad times, come in cycles recurring at fairly regular periods. And when we observe commercial activity attaining the white heat it did a short while ago, it is most wholesome for our mental and financial well-being to experience a cooling process, because to have it go any farther would bring about a molten condition. We therefore believe that the present reduced volume of business will continue for a while, but we do not believe it will be in any sense comparable with past seasons of depression.

We can state with positive assurance that the basic conditions of Greater New York are altogether favorable for a resumption of the building activity which was so pronounced up to about a year ago but which has since been steadily declining. Notwithstanding the great number of buildings erected during two years prior thereto this city does not appear to be overbuilt, and in sections offering natural advantages the demand for housing accommodations is lively and inquiry indicates that few of the buildings already erected are without a fair share of tenants. Prices on building materials have come to a lower level and nothing now seems lacking to justify the inauguration of another period of building activity except the return of a normal rate of interest, a normal supply of money, and an impartial attitude by the large lenders on real estate to any sound building project. As real estate offers exceptional advantages for the security of monetary investments, people having money to invest should regard New York real estate loans in high favor.

HERBERT D. LOUNSBURY.

What it Would Cost to Duplicate the City Hall.

If the City Hall were to be constructed anew, on exactly the same lines, and in keeping with the original plans and drawings of the architect, John McComb, Jr., who designed the edifice, what would be the cost to-day as compared with its actual cost in 1803? This is a difficult question to answer, owing to changed conditions and practice.

It is understood that the query is predicated on results rather than on methods. Present practice in some particulars, at the quarry, at the shop and on the job, is much different from what it was in Mr. McComb's era; working forces are differently organized, and a different scale of wages obtains.

The question was put to a number of architects and engineers this week, and two sets of "bids" resulted. All said it would depend whether it would be speculative or governmental work. In the former case the architect and builders would be expected to hew close to the minimum line of expense, and in the other a large allowance would have to be set down for the better quality of material and workmanship, and also for possible alterations and delays during the course of the work.

Two architects whom the Record and Guide consulted estimated that if the work were done on a speculative basis it would cost to duplicate the present edifice $500,000.

Two other architects, when asked what the work would cost under governmental supervision and requirements, guessed that may be it would cost $1,000,000.

The original cost was $200,000. In last Saturday's Evening Post there appeared an article containing copious extracts from the diary which the architect of the City Hall, Mr. McComb, kept while the building was in course of erection. This diary has been preserved with the original plans in the archives of the New York Historical Society.

The Work of the Municipal Engineer.

By ACTING BOROUGH PRESIDENT HENRY S. THOMPSON.*

FEW of the people of this city know or realize how much they owe or what a large part the municipal engineers have to do with the interior workings of the city government. Most people think the heads of departments issue orders for work that has to be done and when finished the Comptroller pays for it (which of late he does once in a while and very seldom) and that that is all. They do not know that before an order for work is given, that in pactically every instance an engineer has gone over and vized it. So much of the work of the city is technical nowadays that engineers are coming to occupy more important places every year, and for the work done and the responsibility assumed the pay is not in proportion. I can speak intelligently upon this as the head of a department, and I know how much every department head has to depend upon his engineers, and that a hearty co-operation between the head of a department and his engineers makes more than anything else for the successful conduct of the work of a department.

I believe that such being the case, and the department head of a necessity having to leave so much of the technical work to his engineers, that it is the duty of such a society as yours to establish an esprit de corp, and a standard of excellence and honesty among engineers, so that if an engineer is a member of this organization he will be known to be a man that can be relied upon, and if there is an engineer working for the city who is not a member the head of a department will know that he must ascertain the reason why. This worked out fairly will be an excellent thing, but unfairly it would soon bring discredit upon the society. I say this because politics is so apt to creep into everything connected with the city.

I think it would result in great good if the engineers doing the same work in different boroughs would have frequent meetings and arrange upon uniform plans and methods for the carrying on of their work. Not only would the specifications and work be better but the city would be benefited by not having the same things done in a half dozen different ways. If the new charter revision goes into effect this will go a long way towards making this possible.

In the last few months as the head of a department which has jurisdiction over the paving and maintenance of the streets in the Borough of Manhattan, I have learned a great deal of what I had no idea of before, and for those of you who are not connected with the highways, I thought it would be interesting for you to know what a serious proposition confronts the city at the present time as regards the keeping in repair the streets of this city. I could say a great deal about the form of contracts, and the different kinds of pavement, and the great question that our heavy and increasing traffic has to do with our pavements, but I know that time will not permit me to go into all these subjects, so I will only say a few words on the most important and interesting subject at the present time, namely, the keeping in repair of the present asphalted streets. I say asphalted streets because they constitute by far the largest number of paved streets.

The contracts entered into between the city and the asphalt companies provide that after the streets have been paved the company must keep them in repair for a certain number of years, and in default of their making repairs when notified by the city, the contracts provide that the work may be done and charged against the contractor and percentages retained by the city on the contract. This sounds very easy, but the fact of the matter is that there are practically only three asphalt companies doing business in New York City that have plants available for the laying of asphalt in this vicinity. The number of asphalted streets is now so great, and the traffic having become much heavier than was ever figured upon, thus making the necessity for constant repairs so much greater, that all of the asphalt companies are always away behind in their work, and therefore it would be a foolish proposition to give an order to one asphalt company to do the work of another, when that asphalt company is itself away behind and cannot keep up with its own work.

You will therefore see that a most serious condition of affairs exists, namely, that the city is practically in the clutches of the asphalt companies, which I have no doubt have more or less of an understanding between them.

In addition to the above state of affairs, the city has of late, owing to the stringency of the money market, practically laid itself open for a breach of contract by not paying the different asphalt companies what they are rightfully entitled to, and thus giving them the whip hand to do as much or as little work as they feel inclined. You can therefore see what a crying need this borough has for the establishment of its own asphalt plant, and what an opportunity is presented for other companies if we could only get them to come to New York. We have little hope, however, of getting any new companies here to enter this field, when the asphalt supply made necessary by the specifications approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment practically rests in the hands of a single corporation.

I could go on and tell you about the great number of cuts and openings which are made annually in our pavements, enough indeed to keep an ordinary sized plant, if the city owned one, working overtime, but I think I have stated enough to show you in what bad straits the city is at the present time to enforce its demands, and to keep the streets of this busy city in repair.

In addition to the city not properly providing for its own upkeep, another very important condition must be taken into account, namely, the going into the hands of a receiver by the New York City Railway Company. The New York City Railway Company, as you know, has to keep the pavement between its tracks and two feet either side of them in repair. To do this in many cases they have made contracts with the different asphalt companies, and they, of course, now are afraid to do the work because their chances of getting paid are very meagre, and the receivers have said, when appealed to, that they cannot help it and practically say they do not care what becomes of the pavements. Now you no doubt think the asphalt companies are more or less excusable for their failure to work, and you do not see why they do not stop entirely, and I must say in all justice to the asphalt companies, that I think they have done remarkably well, in face of all these conditions which have existed this summer and fall. The only reason for their keeping on with their work, realizing as they do that constant and continuous repair work is absolutely necessary, is that if they do stop the pavements would deteriorate so rapidly and get into such a wretched condition that the public would start such a cry against asphalt pavements that they might be shut out altogether from any future work. As regards other forms of pavements, I believe that the past policy of the city has not been broad enough in allowing other good pavements to be laid, even if they are patented. But the recent decision of the Court of Appeals in relation to patented pavements will go a long way to help us in this matter. Other cities, especially those in the West, are far ahead of us in this respect.

I wish you engineers of this society would look into these conditions about which I have spoken and devise some plan that would make for the betterment of our streets and arouse such an interest that our present form of conducting the city government could be changed and be made to run on good and sound business methods. I believe this society, whose members are the ones most intimately connected with the practical and interior working of the city departments, should be the one to suggest the changes. Your members are in every department of the city government, and are therefore especially qualified to make suggestions and recommendations, and I might say, in conclusion, that I believe in time that the different bureaus should have an engineer at their head.

New Factory Building Completed.

An interesting factory building which has just reached its final stage of construction is that of the Robert Gair Company in Washington st, near the Bridge, in Brooklyn. The structure was erected by the Turner Construction Co. (11 Broadway, Manhattan), and while begun in 1905, the entire building, which now fills out the whole city block, and contains 377,000 square feet of floor space, has just been completed by the addition of an enormous wing.

The Gair Co. manufactures paper goods, and does lithographing, printing and embossing, which processes require very heavy machinery, heavy stocks of goods, and are a great strain on flooring of any sort. The floors of the building were designed to carry a working load of 200 pounds to the square foot, but the engineers claim that in some of the machine rooms this capacity has been stretched to the startling figure of one ton to the square foot.

Reinforced concrete was the material used throughout the structure, not only for foundations and walls, but also for floors, columns, stairs and partitions. Cold water paint was used for painting the factory rooms, while in the offices of the company, which occupy the entire top floor, the ninth, special white paint was used, put directly on the cement in both cases, plastering being unnecessary. The builders say that not only is the building absolutely fireproof, but the vibration so unpleasant and injurious to the lasting qualities of manufacturing structures is neutralized. The Gair Company has been using part of the building for over a year, and evidently finds the new construction the ideal one for manufacturing purposes.

—The State Civil Service Commission will hold examinations Feb. 1 for the following positions: Bridge Designer, $1,500 to $2,100; Civil Engineering Draftsman, $4 to $5 a day; Foreman of Orchards, Geneva Experiment Station, $720; Inspector of Nurseries, Dept. of Agriculture, $1,200; Inspector of Records and Accounts, Board of Charities, $1,400; Leveler, $4.50 to $5 a day; Steam Engineer, Monroe County Service, $900. The last day for filing applications for these examinations is Jan. 25. Full information and application forms may be obtained by addressing the Chief Examiner of the Commission, at Albany, Charles S. Fowler.

Annual Building Statistics.

Manhattan.

A SYNOPSIS of the annual report of Superintendent Edward S. Murphy, of the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings, reveals that the difference of about thirty-three million dollars in the estimated cost of new buildings projected, in favor of the year 1906 over the year 1907, is represented to the extent of thirty million dollars by the falling off in tenement-house work. Another million is accounted for by fewer stables and garages, and still another million by fewer stores planned. This is almost the whole story in a few words, but it is also to be said that the year was remarkable for the amount of work laid out for office buildings, the appropriation in 1907 exceeding the record of 1906 by nearly four million dollars. To offset this increase there were fewer factories and workshops planned—also a less number of theatres, schools and churches.

The department table of comparison, as compiled by James W. Spencer, the statistician, follows:

Brooklyn's Building Statistics.

Hon. David F. Moore, Superintendent of Buildings, in his annual report submitted to Borough President Coler, makes note of the circumstance that the first half of the year under review saw a phenomenal increase in the volume of business transacted through this bureau over all previous years, the month of April alone showing $10,000,000 more business, or an increase of 100 per cent., which was even exceeded in June by $241,120, being the greatest in the history of this bureau.

"Adverse financial conditions, however, reduced building operations gradually, from time to time, until the end of the year, the total estimated cost of buildings, for which plans and specifications were filed, showing a decrease for the year of $119,304. On Oct. 1 the department still showed an increase over last year of $5,550,000, which was diminished, to the slight decrease above mentioned, during the last quarter.

"During the year there were completed in the Borough of Brooklyn 7,779 buildings (increase over preceding year, 712) at an estimated cost of $59,666,977 (increase over preceding year, $11,716,701), with accommodations for 27,004 families (increase over preceding year, 5,210), or a total of about 135,020 persons (increase over preceding year, 26,050). The average cost of each completed building was $7,674. This shows a slight increase over the previous year.

"The class of buildings which predominated in these finished structures were tenements and 2-family houses, with factories showing a decided increase.

"The greatest building activity was shown for the period in the following districts, in the order named:

"Twenty-sixth Ward (East New York), Thirtieth Ward (Bay Ridge), Thirty-first Ward (Gravesend, Sheepshead Bay, Coney Island), Sixteenth Ward (Bushwick), Twenty-ninth Ward (Flatbush).

"The details of other structures classified as 'special' that were constructed during this period is herewith given:

"'Special' Brick—5 stables, $225,000; 3 public stations, $181,000; 1 telephone exchange, $68,000; 4 railroad stations, $117,000; 10 churches, $259,000; 1 car barn, $200,000; 12 public schools, $2,105,000; 3 banks and offices, $109,000; 27 warehouses, $267,000; 1 pavilion, $40,000; 5 stores, $192,000; 4 Y. M. C. A. buildings, $490,000; 2 libraries, $101,000; 1 hospital, $200,000; 1 mission house, $35,000; 1 gas holder, $150,000; 2 armories, $795,000; 1 morgue, $10,000; 1 emergency station, $6,500. Total number, 86; total amount, $5,581,000.

"'Special' Frame—7 churches, $49,700; 1 asylum, $5,000; 3 stores, $30,000; 1 synagogue, $20,000. Total number, 12; total amount, $104,000.

"Concrete construction is also greatly increasing, and it is an acknowledged fact that this bureau has the best set of rules extant governing this class of construction."

During the year the number of applications filed totalled 4,156, and the number of buildings 8,478, the estimated cost of which was $6,415,107. Applications for alterations to buildings numbered 4,641, at an estimated cost of $6,398,631. Of 7,379 elevators inspected, 114 were found not to be in compliance with the law.

Bronx Building Record.

During 1907 the number of buildings for which plans were filed in the Bronx was 279 less than in the previous year, and the difference in estimated cost was $6,838,031. But there was a decided increase in the number of small dwellings erected and planned. During the year just closed a total of 417 small dwellings were erected, at an estimated cost of $2,822,300, as against 281 similar buildings in 1906, costing $2,176,900. Builders found a better market for dwellings than for apartment houses in the spring and summer. Apartment house construction fell off more than fifty per cent.

Country Houses of Concrete.

Based upon the affirmation, often repeated these days, that it is "the age of concrete," there is an auxiliary affirmation on the part of those who have given the matter much thought arising from experience in concrete work, that it is an age for concrete country houses. A negative support to this affirmation is the increasing scarcity and high price of lumber. Much more is to be said positively in the way of demonstration and proof of this affirmation. A concrete house possesses essential qualities of long life and safety.

We admire and look with a kind of reverence upon a country homestead that has survived a century or two; that has sheltered several generations of inmates, and around which clusters a wealth of associations. These may be deemed sentimental considerations, and they have their value. But practically a concrete house is most enduring, well nigh everlasting. There is no question of repairs. It is impervious to the elements; fire cannot destroy it, cannot even successfully attack it. But there is the comforting assurance of absolute safety to life and material treasures abiding and stored in it. Add to these a list of supplementary values. It is a house both warmer in winter and cooler in summer. It is sanitary, being free from joints, cracks and crevices; so it eliminates the secretion of filth and vermin; rats and mice are positively excluded. The use of well tried and guaranteed waterproofing overcomes porosity and assures absolute dryness.

In appearance the concrete house allows of every increasing degree of attractiveness. The plasticity of material admits of variation in form and ornamentation; supplemented, as it may be, by ornamental tile and mouldings of every description. Yet, with a sigh of relief, be it said, that a concrete house cannot be properly constructed in the gim-crack, ginger-bread styles into which other kinds of construction have commonly degenerated, particularly wooden construction. Moreover, be it noted, there is possible every variation and combination in color, apart from the natural gray color of the concrete, by the use of color in the concrete mixture, or its use in the waterproofing. In short, as to form and color concrete houses invite the highest artistic excellence.

And, finally, they can be built cheaper. They can be constructed complete and guaranteed at a cost less than any other kind of construction, barring unusual conditions of situation, as to accesibility and the like. If all this be true, in whole or in good part, is it not an age for concrete country houses? But, indeed, there are those experienced, and who have tested out the matter, who can demonstrate that all these named advantages are facts.

Points on the Material Market.

Prices on cast-iron pipe are moderating. Carload lots of 6-inch are quoted at $30 per net ton at tidewater.

The city government is getting ready for some of the projects planned for 1908 and will soon advertise for bids for about 5,000 tons of cast-iron pipe.

The hardwood output is being reduced by the mills, some of which have closed down—a curtailment which may mean stiffer prices in the spring.

A revision of the present prices of primary iron and steel products is expected presently. For the next six weeks at least the mills in the Pittsburgh districts have orders to within sixty per cent. of capacity. The reduction in sheets and tin plates will be about $2 per ton.

Statistics of exportations of American hardware and associated lines for last year reveal a continued steady growth in comparison with previous years. For ten months of 1907 the value of locks, hinges and other builders' hardware exported was $5,480,140, to compare with $5,360,894 in the corresponding period of 1906, and $4,752,695 in 1905. The value of builders' tools exported was $7,074,990 for ten months of 1907, $5,840,017 for ten months of 1906, and $4,933,413 for the same period in 1905.

During the year just ended the output of zinc ore amounted to 573,075,520 pounds, which sold for $12,521,423, an increase of 15,216,050 pounds in production and $441,821 in value over 1906. The output of lead ore in 1907 was 84,129,340 pounds, which sold for $2,898,404, an increase of 5,751,390 pounds in production, but a decrease of $150,169 in value. The total value of both ores during the past year was $15,419,827. The average price of zinc ore for 1907 was $43 per ton, against an average price of $44 per ton in 1906, but the average price of lead during the past year was only $68 per ton, against an average price of $78 per ton in 1906.

Mr. J. D. Crary, an eminent authority on metropolitan lumber trade conditions, writing in the Lumber Trade Journal, says that about six months ago or more the retailer felt it his first duty to himself to work off his stocks, yarded mostly at a high range of prices. "He was right, and he has been doing this ever since, as far as expedient, buying from hand to mouth to supply wants he could not meet from his yard, and even, in many cases, buying from his neighbors to fill out. Such retail yard stocks do not last forever after meeting such demands, and it is within the bounds of reason and the known facts to conclude that in all the consuming markets retail yard stocks have now been reduced to a virtual minimum." Mr. Crary further observes: There is a general feeling among cypress manufacturers that general building will not be as brisk as it has been, and that a curtailment of ten per cent. in the output will about balance the demand and supply.—It is as certain as anything can be in this uncertain world that there will be no ease-up in eastern spruce prices the coming year.—Hemlock is in about the same position as West Virginia spruce. The manufacturers are few, and they are able to keep the situation well in hand at all times.

New Catalogues.

WOOD WORKING MACHINERY.

Smith & Phillips Mfg. Company, 269 Desplaines st, Chicago, Ill. Two pamphlets. One pertains to a line of stair-routing machines, pulley-mortising machines, sash-grooving machines, edge jointers and shapers, box handle machines and panel raisers, and gives illustrations and prices of bits, etc. The other contains an illustrated description of the Nos. 1, 2 and 3 window frame machines for pocket cutting, pulley mortising and dadoing, giving prices of each type.

BUILDING NOTES

The Bronx is entitled to a square deal in transit arrangements.

A young mechanic, familiar with plans, desires a position as outside foreman for carpenter or cabinet work. See Wants and Offers.

Mr. Henry H. Cypher, formerly with the Eureka Fire Hose Company, No. 13 Barclay st, Manhattan, has severed his connection with that company.

Mr. F. N. Stranahan, formerly sales agent for the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co., is now general manager of the Palmer Lime & Cement Co., 149 Broadway.

Mr. Geo. G. Gleason, for many years with the Rock Plaster Co. of New York and New Jersey, has accepted the position of sales agent for the Consolidated Rosendale Cement Co., 26 Cortlandt st.

It is estimated that the main terminal building of the New York Central will take altogether something like 16,000 tons of steel. No awards have yet been made, but bids have gone in for the first 4,000 tons.

Voltax, the well-known anti-corrosive compound, manufactured by the Electric Cable Company, 17 Battery Place, New York City, has been specified by the Bridge Department for the painting of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The annual meeting of the electrical committee of the Underwriters' Electric Association is to be held March next in this city. It is stated that this meeting will be open, and that all interested are invited and requested to be present.

One of the notable gatherings in Chicago the past week was the annual convention of the district managers of the American Luxfer Prism Co., which was held during three consecutive days at the company's main offices, corner Wabash av and Madison st. Among those present was Mr. W. E. Cash of New York.

The fourth annual convention of the National Association of Cement Users will be held at the old 65th Regiment Armory in Buffalo, January 20 to 25, inclusive. The important features of the convention will be an elaborate exhibit of cement products with papers and discussions relating to cement and concrete and their many uses.

The first plans filed in 1908 for new buildings with Building Supt. Murphy were for the improvement of the parcel owned by William Waldorf Astor. The property is situated at 207 to 211 West 98th st. Mr. P. C. Long is the lessee, and he will build a 3-sty garage of reinforced concrete. It will cost $25,000. Clement B. Brun is the architect.

There was a decided increase in residential development in the northern part of Hudson county during 1907. West Hoboken has led the northern towns in this development and closely following have been North Bergen, West New York, the town of Union, Weehawken and Guttenberg. The prevailing types of buildings have been the two-family house.

The University Heights Bridge across the Harlem River was officially opened by the Mayor on Wednesday. The structure extends from East 184th st, the Bronx, across to 207th st, Manhattan, being close to the 207th st station of the subway. The length, including approaches, is 1,090 feet, the swing span, which will be operated by electricity is 265 feet long. The structure cost the city about $1,000,000.

The Nelson Iron Works, workers in structural and ornamental iron for building, Washington av and 165th st, have dissolved partnership, Mr. William Nelson retiring from the firm and from business. The remaining members of the firm Mr. John T. Treacy and Mr. John H. Stewart, have formed a new partnership under the name of "Treacy & Stewart," to continue the business at the same location. They have a large and well equipped plant, employ a large force of men and turn out work quickly.

J. Reeber's Sons, dealers in second-hand building material, at 140th st and 3d av, are enthusiastic over the future of the section in which their office is located. There has been considerable renting going on in a quiet way and the suspension of business in other sections has not as yet affected that locality. On the west side of the square at 3d av and 138th st stores that have long been vacant are now occupied; the building on the corner above is also now tenanted. In addition to this a new building is going to be erected for the North Side Board of Trade on the lower side of the square.

Hon. Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the U. S. Steel Corporation, will preside at the dinner in recognition of the American Museum of Safety Devices and Industrial Hygiene, at the Aldine Club, 111 Fifth av cor 18th st, on Wednesday evening, January 15. The dinner is in recognition of the honor of decorations bestowed by the French republic through the Minister of Public Instruction and Fine Arts on these members of the museum's board: Charles Kirchhoff (editor Iron Age), T. Commerford Martin (editor Electrical World) and Percy Stickney Grant (rector Church of the Ascension).

The Bronx Refrigerating Company, with a capital stock of $500,000, has commenced the erection of the largest cold storage warehouse in the Bronx, fronting on Westchester av, at the intersection of the Port Morris branch of the New York Central Railroad. On the Westchester av side there will be twelve stores. The building will be 214.6x110.8 ft., four stories, basement and sub-basement in height. The officers of the corporation are the following: Directors—Theodore Starrett, of the Thompson-Starrett Co.; Joseph A. Taylor, of J. A. Taylor & Co.; J. Russel Stevenson, Jr., of Philadelphia, Pa.; Lorenzo A. Haskell, of White Plains, N. Y., and William C. Heaton, of New York.

The Sandusky Portland Cement Co. of Sandusky, Ohio, manufacturers of Medusa Water-proof Compound, report that their material was used in the following work: In a cement jacket on the 850,000-gallon concrete standpipe being built at Grand Rapids, Mich.; in the tunnel work at St. Paul, done by the Twin City Rapid Transit Co.; in the Art Stove Co. and Bell Telephone Co. contracts at Detroit, Mich.; in a coal storage tank constructed by the Alger Coal Co., at Alger, Wyo.; in a concrete tank for Turner Bros.' brass works, Sycamore, Ill.; in a section of the concrete roof for the Chicago City Ry., Chicago, Ill., and by the C., M. & St. P. Ry. Co. in concrete construction work.

The John B. Rose Company, foot of West 52d st, will this year entertain the Hudson River brick manufacturers and the metropolitan dealers in brick at Orange Lake, Newburgh, instead of at the Murray Hill Lyceum in New York, as on five annual occasions. A special train will carry guests to Newburgh some summer day. Orange Lake is the choicest outing place in the Hudson valley. Gov. Odell, since he purchased the electric railroad, has built a large casino at the lakeside. Many families spend the summer in bungalows at Orange Lake. Captain John B. Rose was recently elected to the command of the Tenth Separate Company of Newburgh, of which former Railroad Commissioner Dickey was for years the captain.

The Week.

THE week just past from a private sales viewpoint was on a par with several of the preceding ones. The volume of business was small, and only a few sales where a considerable amount of money was involved were closed. A notable one, however, was the purchase of the apartment on the southeast corner of Riverside Drive and 93d st. This building is known as "Terrace Court," and was built by the West Side Construction Company (Jacob Axelrod, Pres.). It is situated on one of the choice sites on the Drive, and is in the high-class apartment section overlooking the river. William T. Evans, of Montclair, N. J., was the purchaser, and he gave in part payment the vacant block front in 175th st, between St. Nicholas and Audubon avs.

These lots are situated in the old Juvenile Asylum tract and have changed hands several times since the Washington Heights boom several years ago. Many houses have been built in this section of the Heights, and they have rented fairly well. It must be remembered that there is a subway station at 169th st and another one at 181st st, consequently they are easy of access.

The mortgage market took a new lease of life. Several large amounts of money were loaned out on realty. People of means are at last realizing that real estate mortgages are very convenient forms of investment. Many others will realize this too late, when the interest rates have gone back where they belong. The argument will probably be, "I knew that the investment was safe, but did not have the nerve."

Among the mortgages recorded during the week was one given by Timothy D. Sullivan to John E. Roosevelt, trustee, for a loan of $100,000 for 16 years, at 5½%, on part of the Gotham Theatre, on the south side of 126th st, 126 feet west of 3d av. Louis C. Raegener gave a mortgage for $75,000 on the Hotel Seville, at Madison av and 29th st, to the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. This property carries a prior mortgage of $450,000. A building loan was recorded by the City Mortgage Company, which loaned the Moorehead Realty Company $67,000 on the property, 80x100, on the south side of 149th st, 269.4 feet west of St. Ann's av.

Mrs. Russell Sage also figured largely in the mortgage market of the week. Harry F. Morse borrowed $60,000 from her at 6% for three years on 3 West 46th st; also the sum of $225,000 at 5½% on the property at 485 and 487 6th av, to the Van Schaick Realty Company for three years. Philip Braender borrowed from Mrs. Sage $250,000 on the property on the north side of 20th st, 138 feet east of 5th av, 50x irreg., for three years at 5½%. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company placed $1,250,000 on the property 18 and 20 John st, 265 feet east of Broadway, 66x irreg. The Maiden Lane Realty Company is the borrower.

Not many leases were reported and none was of special interest.

The opening of the new 207th st bridge is very important to owners of property in that section of Manhattan, as well as those having realty in that portion of the Bronx near the 184th st terminal on that side of the river. The opening of the subway extension will also have a decidedly beneficial effect on Brooklyn real estate.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week was 208, against 120 last week, and in the Bronx, 166, as against 80 last week. The total amount involved is $5,643,717, as against $3,329,263 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 20, of which 3 were below 59th st, 8 above and 9 in the Bronx. The sales reported for the corresponding week last year were 143, of which 51 were below 59th st, 67 above, and 25 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The offerings in the auction market this week were varied, but in the main the parcels went to the plaintiffs in the various actions or to parties in interest. There were no voluntary offerings.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Co. on one bid of $200,000 bought the unfinished 9-sty apartment house on the northeast corner of Park av and 83d sts. This company was the plaintiff in an action against the Hauben Realty Co. The judgment was about $345,000. This property was immediately resold, as noted in another column.

Francis Henry purchased 424 East 81st st, 25x102, a 1-sty building, which was sold in partition for $9,050; and P. A. Geohegan got 543 West 29th st, a 4-sty brick tenement, which was also a partition sale. The three 6-sty flats, 1337 to 1347 Brook av, were knocked down to the plaintiff for $39,000 over prior liens. The amount due on this property was $36,442.87; taxes and other charges, $950; subject to three prior mortgages aggregating $15,000. Catherine Rossotti purchased for $17,650 the 3-sty tenement 576 Broome st. Altogether about forty-five parcels were placed on the auction block.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day next week fourteen tenement houses will be offered at voluntary sale. One of the terms of sale is that 80% can remain on mortgage at the option of the purchaser, and can be paid in instalments if so desired. Savings bank books will be accepted. Taxes are all paid to October 1, 1908. The owners of the various parcels reserve the right to bid at this sale. Among the holdings to be offered on Jan. 15 is 520 West 39th st, a 5-sty tenement, with two stores, 25x98.9; the 5-sty brick tenement 422 West 45th st, four families on a floor, in fourteen rooms, 25x100.5; the double 5-sty tenement, with two stores, 25x100.5, at 419 West 56th st; the 5-sty brick tenement 157 West 62d st, 25x100.5, subject to a first mortgage of $17,000 at 5%, due Jan. 15, 1019, and a second mortgage of $1,500 at 5%, due Jan. 15, 1910, with the privilege of paying off on five days' notice; the flat 584 Columbus av, 27x95, subject to a mortgage of $35,000 at 5%, due March 1, 1910.

On the following day an executors' sale to close the estate of James D. Sherwood, deceased, the following pieces will be sold: The corner of Bedford and Leroy sts, known as 38 Leroy st, a 3-sty brick building, with store, 20x45; the 3½-sty private dwelling adjoining, 15x20, and the 3-sty dwelling 34 Leroy st, directly on the east. The property 445 West 23d st, belonging to the same estate, a leasehold, 23x117.6, with a 4-sty and basement dwelling, and 59 West 105th st, a 5-sty and basement brick and brownstone apartment house, double, with twelve rooms on a floor, subject to a mortgage of $16,000 at 5%, will also be disposed of among other holdings.

Large Lis Pendens Field.

Lis pendens were filed against about thirty pieces of property in the suit brought by Mrs. Hugh A. Murray against her mother, Mrs. Josephine Schmid. This property was inherited from Mr. Schmid, who died in 1889. He was the owner of the Lion Brewery. There is a fortune estimated at about $20,000,000 involved in this action.

The Index to Volume LXXX. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between July 1 to December 30, will be ready for delivery on Wednesday, January 15, 1908. Price, $1. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to every one engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

Rent Disturbances on the East Side.

Difference between landlord and tenant are not uncommon occurrenees. At the present time on the lower east side a dispute has grown to larger proportions than usual, and it will take not a little diplomacy to straighten it out satisfactorily to both sides. This so-called rent war has been aired in the daily press for some days past, and fortunately the actual conditions are not so acute as represented.

There is right on both sides. It is only fair to the owners of some of the tenement houses to say that they have acceeded to the demands of their tenants. Not for any other reason than because they realized that to a certain extent right was on the tenant's side. We hear a great deal about "the cruel and heartless landlord, who grinds the faces of the poor," but this same owner of property has, at times, his troubles with vicious tenants who maliciously destroy his property, and it is only in isolated cases that he can recover damages.

There are several causes for the present disturbance. Probably the chief reason is the greed of some of the lessee landlords. In this section there are many buildings that are leased entire to men who hold themselves liable for all repairs, taxes and all other charges, and guarantee the owner of the property a certain fixed net per cent. per annum. The natural outcome of this arrangement is that the lessee is going to get all the money out of the house possible, make as few repairs as possible, and demand the highest rent obtainable. Dissatisfaction is nearly always the result of this arrangement, for the owner sooner or later gets his property back in horrible condition. Occasionally there is an uprising on the part of the tenants while this regime is in effect. As a rule the disturbers are quickly given notice to vacate the premises, and the "incident is closed."

Tenants claim that in some of the houses that are in the present storm center they cannot get water without going for it themselves, and also that they are unsanitary. They have made complaints to the Tenement House Department as well as the Department of Health, and many violations have been placed against the properties reported. Most of the owners of realty in that district are sensible business men. They realize their position far better than any one else. They know which side of the bread is spread with jam in the form that spells income. The large majority of landlords are willing and anxious to do anything within reason for good tenants. They rarely object, especially if the proposed work will be an improvement to the house. But when a tenant is tardy with his rent and then asks unreasonable things, it is not to be wondered at that the owner is unwilling to accede to his request. The price of property on the lower east side has had such a violent advance during the past few years that the owner must receive more rent than formerly to get a reasonable income out of his holdings.

Differences like the present one usually right themselves. Violence in any form is not the means to that end. Each case must be decided on its merits. If the property is in bad condition—in the eyes of the law—it must be made right. It should not be neeessary to have street parades or mass meetings to correct the error. One thing, however, is certain, a tenant either must pay rent or move. It is the privilege of the owner of the property to have his building untenanted if he be so minded. Neither is there any law that says in what particular tenement a family shall live. All terms must be satisfactory to both parties, but should anything develop that is distasteful to either the landlord or his tenant which cannot be satisfactorily adjusted, an agreement to sever business relations is the only reasonable solution to the situation.

THE SITUATION EXPLAINED PRACTICALLY.

H. B. C. Stein, manager of the Grand st branch of the McVickar-Gaillard Realty Co., said: "The attitude of tenants in the section around this office is normal. The papers have grossly exaggerated the state of affairs in their reports. We have not made any reduction in the rents asked because we consider that we placed them at a fair figure. To be sure we have had a few tenants demand a concession in price, but in every instance we have offered them another flat which met the price they wanted to pay.

"The tenant invariably reconsidered and remained. The flat dwellers on the East Side demand improvements. They insist on having hot-water supply, ranges, gas and in some cases steam heat. As a rule they take in boarders to help them pay the rent."

"There are comparatively few cases," continued Mr. Stein, "where dispossess proceedings have reached the eviction stage. In many instanees they have paid the amount due to the Marshal plus his fee. The socialistic element is at the base of the trouble, and it has little sympathy either from the general public, the property owners or the better class of tenants. The lessee is at fault in many cases, but this is not anything new. This same state of affairs has existed for more than five years. The owner of property has the same interest in his income that a holder of Government bonds has in his coupons. He wants his interest, but does not care to jeopardize the principle."

"You may be sure," concluded Mr. Stein, "the average owner values a tenant who pays promptly. He will always meet the occupants of the building half way, and is far from being unreasonable."

THE LESSEE SYSTEM BLAMED.

Mr. George Hallock, of 401 Grand st, when asked for an opinion on the subject said: "The condition in some sections of the East Side is pretty bad, but it will straighten itself out. I am only speaking from hearsay, because I have seen very little of it. The reason that our firm has been able to keep out of the difficulty is that some time ago we adopted a plan of keeping the rents below the 'market.' The result is that we have all our rooms taken. About six months ago I went to some houses and reduced the rents fifty cents an apartment. A short time later I made another similar reduction. The result is that trouble has kept moving past our door. The lessee system is wholly at fault. This should be entirely done away unless great care is exercised and judgment shown by all parties concerned."

Mr. Charles Buerman, of 507 Grand st, takes the other side of the question: "The rents on the East Side are all out of proportion to the goods delivered. The owners were unreasonable and now they are paying the penalty. There has been a general reduction of about one dollar, and in some cases a trifle more. Two rooms that formerly rented for fourteen to fifteen dollars now bring thirteen dollars. It will not be long before this storm will have blown over."

The "Air Line" Subway Route.

OFFICIAL DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSE.

The Public Service Commission at a public hearing on the last day of 1907 approved the route for a new subway for Manhattan, which is to cost about $60,000,000. The counsel was authorized to look into the legality and feasibility of the route. The engineer was also authorized to prepare the necessary plans and papers preliminary to submitting the project to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. The route as laid out by the commission follows as direct a line as possible and in the main it is under public thoroughfares. At one point, however, just north of Tenth st it goes through private property until Irving place is reached.

The road on leaving Broadway goes under Grace Church. Grave fears are expressed that this structure may be damaged as the track level is only 26 feet below the street grade. It is a serious engineering problem, as the weight of the steeple must be taken into consideration. Undoubtedly the noise of passing trains will interfere with the church services and in all probability a decided protest will be entered by those interested in that property.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent on this holding within the past few years and it is considered one of the most complete church plants in the country. Much realty has been purchased on the Fourth av side and handsome buildings have been erected. It would certainly be exceedingly unfortunate should anything be done to injure this property. For many years New Yorkers have admired this church and the surrounding grounds, rectory and chantry. A short time since the parcel on the south, at present used by the Vienna bakery, was acquired and extensive alterations are now planned to further enhance the beauty of this spot. Should this purpose on the part of the congregation be in any way interfered with, the people of New York will raise a cry of protest that cannot go unheeded. Undoubtedly the subway plans as proposed will be modified and a different route at this point taken. The Commission is considered wise in laying out a system that will be as near an air line as possible. It is understood that the plans will be ready for advertising about March. The route as adopted by the Commission is as follows:

Whereas, In the opinion of the Commission of rapid transit system in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx should be laid out and offered for bids, and

Whereas, The rapid transit system which, in the opinion of the Commission, seems best to meet the requirements of the people of the City of New York, is one described as beginning at a point under Battery Park, running thence northerly through and under Greenwich st, Trinity place and Church st, to Vesey st, thence easterly through Vesey st to Broadway, thence northerly along and under Broadway to Canal st, where connection will be made with a crosstown line hereinafter described; thence northerly to a point near East 10th st, where the line curves generally in a northeasterly direction and under private property and across East 11th st to 4th av, East 12th st, East 13th st and East 14th st to Irving place; thence northerly along and under Irving place to Gramercy Park; thence northerly under Gramercy Park to Lexington av; thence northerly under Lexington av to the Harlem River and under the Harlem River to a point near the intersection of Park av and East 138th st, where the lines will diverge, the easterly line continuing east along East 138th st to Southern Boulevard; thence in a generally northerly direction along Southern Boulevard to Westchester av; thence in a generally northeasterly direction along Westchester av to Eastern Boulevard or Pelham Bay Park; the westerly line to begin at a point near the intersection of Park av and East 138th st and running northerly along Mott av to 151st st, thence northwesterly along 151st st to Gerard av; thence northerly along Gerard av to the intersection of Gerard av and Jerome av near Clark place, from which the line to extend northerly along and under Jerome av to Woodlawn Cemetery. Also a crosstown line on Canal st connecting at Broadway with the other parts of this system, and beginning at the intersection of Canal st and West st, and thence running easterly under Canal st, and with proper connections at Broadway, to the Manhattan Bridge approach, where connection can be made with the 4th av route in Brooklyn authorized; and

Whereas, Portions of this system have been laid out as separate routes by the former Board of Rapid Transit Railroad Commissioners and approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Mayor, and consented to by a majority in value of the owners of abutting property or by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in lieu thereof, and

Whereas, The construction of such a system will require the modification of certain of the said routes.

Now, therefore, be it resolved, That the question of the legality and feasibility of such a system be referred to the Counsel and Chief Engineer to the Commission for a report and to prepare the necessary plans and papers for submission to the Commission.

Mortgage Money in Brooklyn.

BY THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE TITLE GUARANTEE & TRUST COMPANY.

THE mortgage situation in Brooklyn for 1907 and, in fact, for the past three years, has been an exceedingly complex one and beset with difficulties for the lenders of money or those who, such as the company I represent in Brooklyn, market large amounts of mortgages. The great difficulties for the mortgage merchants during the past year have arisen from various causes—the gradual increase in the rate of interest, the various vagaries of the Mortgage Tax laws, the lack of an average mortgage market during the last five months of the year, and the great amount of capital required to finance the extraordinary construction of 1906 and 1907, and the greater amount of money necessary to handle a mortgage business in a market where property has been very active and prices have largely increased.

For the past five years—in fact, for the past seven years—interest rates have been slowly increasing. While at times there has been a temporary let-up in this increase of rate, in the main there has been a constant tendency toward the hardening of rates during all the period. This tendency is perfectly apparent from a comparison of the prices of city bonds and so-called savings bank bonds, during the past six years. Such bonds sell on the basis of their interest earning capacity, and as the rate of interest has increased, the price of these securities has decreased, with the result that the investors or owners have lost a very material part of their principal. For instance, $100,000 invested in New York City 3½ bonds on the first day of January, 1901, at 100, would now be worth $85,000—a direct loss of $15,000 on an investment of $100,000. This loss has not arisen in any measure from a depreciation in the credit of the city, but from the increased rate of interest existing almost throughout the entire world.

FRANK BAILEY.

The trustees of life insurance companies, savings banks and other funds, who were able even to a small extent to diagnose conditions as they were to be and increase their percentage of investments in bonds and mortgages from 1901 to date, are in much better position today than those who have invested in the so-called "conservative securities." The right to revise the interest on a bond or mortgage at the end of three years and the opportunity to improve the security at such a time if necessary, has enabled the mortgage investor to keep his principal intact and the income therefrom nearly up to current rates.

If you buy a bond or mortgage for three years at 4% and the rate in interest immediately increases to 4½% the loss on that mortgage can only be 1½%. Whereas if you buy a $1,000 50-year bond on a 4% basis and the rate of interest similarly increases to 4½% the loss on that bond would be $91, as there would be ½% per annum loss during each year until maturity immediately reflected in the market price of the bond.

If the statistics of the various life insurance companies are studied, it will be found that the percentage surplus of the life insurance companies from December, 1901, to December, 1906, has increased in only two cases. The two companies showing increased surplus have had a much larger proportion of their assets invested in bonds and mortgages than those companies which have used their funds in other channels, and if this comparison were brought down to the end of 1907 the mortgage investing companies would be still more conspicuous because of their greater percentage surplus. One life insurance company whose surplus has increased since 1901 has increased its mortgage investments from 37% in 1901 to 45% in 1906. Another life insurance company whose surplus has decreased within the same period has decreased its mortgage investments, and at no time has carried over 20% of its total assets in mortgages. In other words, were it proper for me to spread here for the instruction of your readers the reports of the various financial institutions of New York who are accustomed to invest in bond and mortgage, it would be clearly seen that the institutions which have favored mortgage investments are today in a much more comfortable position so far as the surplus to their policy holders is concerned, than those institutions which have considered it much easier to invest in high grade bonds and other securities that have depreciated to such an extraordinary extent in the past seven years.

The savings bank reports show the same story, for among the large New York City savings banks the two banks with the largest percentage surplus are the two banks which have favored mortgages.

It might seem as if I were writing a brief favoring mortgage investments. I do not deny in any manner or wish to disavow such a charge. The experience of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company during twenty-two years amid the mortgage field of Brooklyn has demonstrated that the mortgages on small homes there are as good security as anything purchaseable in Greater New York, either on the curb or on the great exchange. But as to the mortgage market for 1907 in Brooklyn, with the tendency towards increasing rates of interest even amid excessive pressure for money, the lending capacity of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company was about $750,000 a week until the middle of June. From June on, mortgages were not selling so well, and the investor was asking for still higher rates. When higher rates were conceded by the borrowers, it was found that there was not a sufficient amount of capital available for mortgages and the demand, of course, grew more insistent. During June and July, there was no extraordinary difficulty in arranging for mortgages at high rates, but from the first of August the condition rapidly changed, and from that time it has been beset with difficulties for the borrower. Notwithstanding those conditions and the panic following, we have since August 1 disposed of upwards of $4,800,000 of Brooklyn mortgages, and we find that the market is merely restricted and by no means closed. The rates of interest are now practically 6% on all new mortgages made in Brooklyn, and the supply of money is not sufficient.

When the trustees of the life insurance companies and savings banks finally appreciate that the investments which do not offer any speculation, the security for which they themselves can see and select on their own judgment as to value, which has the opportunity for revision of rate of interest every three years, and has during the past seven years proven to be the very best investment for other institutions, I believe that they will prefer to increase their mortgage investments rather than to again face a decrease of surplus, a condition which is now making the managers of many institutions exceedingly uncomfortable. If such a change of policy should come about in order to bring the investments in mortgages by the three greater life insurance companies in New York up to 45% of total assets, there would be available for mortgages in Greater New York not less than $350,000,000. Even if the trustees of these institutions shall remain impervious to this conclusion, which I doubt, the individual investor and the trustees of estates, who have similarly suffered, will turn their attention to mortgages, so that I cannot but believe that the supply of money for 1908 will be ample for reasonable requirements. Of course, I do not anticipate that the life insurance companies will immediately change their policy and that these large amounts of money will be at once available, but I do believe that the tendency towards mortgage investments on their part is bound to increase. In no event will money be available for any such marvelous increase in construction as has taken place in Brooklyn in the past two years, for of necessity enterprise and business must be limited by the supply of capital. The breaking of this great primary law has been one of the underlying causes of the panic.

As to the condition of the present mortgage indebtedness of this borough, that there will be some foreclosures I anticipate; that there will be any flood of foreclosures I do not expect because of the peculiar conditions which are bound to help Brooklyn. In the first place, Brooklyn is a good place in which to economize; the scale of living and the rents are very much below those of Manhattan. Secondly, the opening of the tunnel to Joralemon st, which has a carrying capacity of 25,000 an hour, occurred January 9. Third, the direct elevated connection between a large part of the borough and Delancey st, Manhattan, by direct elevated railroad over the Williamsburgh bridge, will increase the carrying capacity of that bridge by at least 25% within three months. These two improvements will help, as improved transit always does, to decrease the stagnation which might otherwise exist. A German grocer told me once that there were two classes of people who lived in Brooklyn—those who had no money, and those who wanted to economize. The latter class, which is the great class living here, are going to meet and are meeting their payments of interest and principal promptly, and I would much prefer to have my trust funds (if I ever have any) invested with the plain people on their small homes, rather than in the large apartment houses or even business buildings in other parts of the city.

The experience of 1907 and prior years has exhibited a great unwillingness on the part of large lenders to accept the small mortgages on homes, not because they consider such mortgages insecure, but because the clerks have to do a great deal more work to handle twenty mortgages of $4,000 each than one mortgage of $80,000.

I hope that as a result of the existing conditions the managers of the great trust funds, such as life insurance companies and savings banks, will come to see that part of their duty is to help and aid the thrifty people to obtain a home, and will give them the same rate of interest as the man who wishes to borrow $100,000. There never has been any disposition on the part of the great institutions to take any considerable part of these small mortgages, and I believe that such a policy is wrong and unjustifiable and inconsistent with their duty. If there is any one thing that the city of New York needs, it is a greater number of home owners, but if each home-owner must borrow where he can at any old rate, paying more interest than the fellow who wishes to borrow $100,000 or $200,000, then the managers of trust funds are not doing their duty.

We have during the past year made considerable progress in marketing our surplus of these small mortgages by combining them in bunches of $100,000 each and selling a bunch to the large investor. We have not, however, been able to supply the demand of the borrowers of $4,000 and less, much to my regret, for I believe that there is no better way in which an institution can use its funds better for borrower as well as lender than in the aid of the small home-owner. He is a good citizen. I hope the year 1908 will show a greater inclination on the part of large lenders to accept these small mortgages on Brooklyn homes.

FRANK BAILEY.

Frederick M. Burgess Opens Real Estate Office.

Frederick M. Burgess has opened a real estate office at 129 West 125th st. He will conduct a general real estate and insurance business. Mr. Burgess in speaking of this locality said: "This section in the last few years has had a big boom. Values have advanced and rightly so. The reason for this is quite apparent. This street has become the uptown business center. The amount of business done during the past twelve months is far greater than during any of the preceding years and I look for a still larger volume during the present year. Values in realty will not, in my opinion, grow less neither will there be any reduction in store rentals. The future of this section is certainly bright."

Bryan L. Kennelly on the Auction Situation.

An interesting and valuable article on the auction market of the past year, appeared in the Evening Post of December 31st last, written by Mr. Bryan L. Kennelly. He reviews the sales of importance that were held during that period. Special mention is made of the Doherty, Ogden, Benson and Bailey estate sales as well as the one of the Century Realty Co. holdings. The Albert J. Adams sale, which was held about the middle of October is reviewed, and finally the present condition of the auction mart is explained. Mr. Kennelly is pessimistic on the future as his closing words bear out. "We should have a very active real estate market at public and private sales during the coming spring."

Realty Development of Hudson County.

In a review of the previous year in Hudson County real estate the Jersey City Journal says that in every section of the county the advent of the Hudson River tunnels has been discounted, to the end that there has been a general appreciation of values and a demand for property which has been accentuated rather than diminished by the financial flurries on this side of the river. Growth in manufacturing has been mainly in lower Jersey City, in the Marion section, in Bayonne and also along the Kill von Kull in Bayonne. Residential growth has been in the sections to be directly benefited by the Hudson tunnels. Twenty millions were spent for buildings last year.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

69TH ST.—Pease & Elliman sold for Benjamin Stern, of Stern Bros., 129 West 69th st, a 4-sty and basement high stoop dwelling, 19x103.5. Mr. Stern purchased this property on Oct. 8, 1896. It is assessed at $25,000. It will be recalled that the Spencer Arms is on the southeast cor of Broadway and 69th st, and St. Stephen's Church adjoins it on the east and is directly opposite this property. There has been considerable change in the Sherman Square section since the property was purchased in 1896. Apartments and business is fast creeping into what was then a choice residential section.

Trade Two Tenements in the Eighties.

88TH ST.—Philip Shwitzer sold to Jacob Rubin and Robert Kommel 107 East 88th st, a 5-sty flathouse, 25.6x100.8 ft. In exchange Rubin & Kommel give 536 to 540 East 82d st, a 6-sty flathouse, with store, 40x102.2 ft.

148TH ST.—L. Weil & Sons sold to A. J. Hasner the 5-sty flat 204 West 148th st, 37.6x99.11. The sellers acquired title last November. The property is subject to a mortgage of $37,000. It is assessed at $35,000, of which $10,500 is on the lot. There are 17 rooms on a floor. The yearly rental is about $1,700. This is the third time this house has changed hands in seven months.

PARK AV.—A. L. Mordecai & Co. sold for the Title Guarantee and Trust Co. to the West Side Construction Co., Jacob Axelrod, president, the unfinished "Hanover" apartment house, at the northeast cor of 83d st and Park av. This is to be a 9-sty building, 76.11x110.48x irreg. The buyers will complete the house. The apartments are laid out in suites of 9 rooms and 3 baths each. The selling company acquired the property at a foreclosure sale in which it was the plaintiff. The property was put up to satisfy a judgment of about $315,000, in an action brought against the Hauben Realty Co. and others. It was knocked down at the sale on one bid of $200,000.

"Terrace Court" on Riverside Drive Sold.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—William T. Evans, of Montclair, N. J., bought from Jacob Axelrod, through Slawson & Hobbs, "Terrace Court," 200 Riverside Drive, on the southeast cor of 93d st. This building is a high-class apartment house 9 stories in height and of fireproof construction and occupies a plot 145 ft. on the drive and 117 on 93d st. There is an unexcelled view of the river from this structure. There is a terrace in front of the building, hence its name. This plot was purchased by the West End Construction Co. (Jacob Axelrod, President) from Robert A. Chesebrough on November 19, 1904, vacant. During the year following plans were filed for the present structure, to cost $350,000. George Frederick Pelham was the architect. The West End Construction Company has been identified with other properties along the drive, notably the northeast cor of 92d st. This is also a 9-sty fireproof building. Mr. Pelham was the architect and the cost was also $350,000. Adjoining "Terrace Court" on the east is the "Riverview" and the "Clarence," two 50-ft. apartment houses built to a depth of 125 ft. on a lot 143 ft. deep. In part payment Mr. Evans gave the block front vacant on 175th st, between St Nicholas and Audubon avs. This is part of the old Juvenile Asylum tract and is 134 ft. on St. Nicholas av by 350 ft. on the street by 106 ft. on Audubon av by 351 ft. on the north end. There has been considerable building on this holding since it was cut up several years ago.

ST. NICHOLAS AV.—Marks, Werdenschlag & Pett, in conjunction with M. Mendelsohn, resold for a client to Rose Opoznauer 195 St. Nicholas av, a 5-sty double flat with stores, 29x87x irreg. The same brokers sold this property for Schmerz Bros. a few weeks ago. The opposite side of the avenue is occupied by three large buildings. "The Cabonack" apartments, 118x145x irreg, is on the southeast cor of 120th st; "Hotel Crampion," 58x158x irreg, is in the middle of the block, and "The Vallamont" apartment, 59x127x irreg, on the northeast cor of 119th st.

WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.

HAMILTON PLACE.—J. P. Pearson sold through P. C. Frost, to a Mr. Daly, the 4-sty dwelling, 107 Hamilton pl, adjoining the southeast cor of 142d st, 15x54x irreg. Across the street is the 7-sty apartment house, "Kaaterskill North," built some years ago by P. H. Lynch.

BRONX.

AQUEDUCT AV.—E. Osborne Smith & Co. sold for John F. Kaiser to William Kaufman, 50x232, with a private house and stable, on the east side of Aqueduct av, north of 190th st.

CLAY AV.—J. R. Pearson sold 1062 Clay av, a 4-sty double flat, 27x100, to Mrs. Polly Spercher. P. C. Frost negotiated the deal.

EDENWALD.—The Edenwald Land Companies sold to Max S. Streizener 2 lots on Monaghau av, 250 ft. south of Jefferson av.

FRANKLIN AV.—Robert H. Weldron has sold to Sarah E. Le Compte 1390 Franklin av, a 5-sty flathouse.

HAVEMEYER AV.—Charles A. Weber sold the southwest cor of Havemeyer and Hougbton avs, Unionport, 33x105, to Mr. William Rebling.

UNION AV.—Grossman & Feldman sold to Ida Kraus the northwest cor of Union av and 168th st, a 5-sty flat, 26.6x96.3.

WASHINGTON AV.—Samuel Grodginsky sold to Abram G. Abramson 1566 and 1568 Washington av, a new 6-sty apartment house, 50x100, taking in part payment 75x80 on the west side of Crimmins av, 250 ft. south of 143d st.

WASHINGTON AV.—George Daiken sold the northwest cor of Washington av and 185th st, 100x91x irreg, vacant, to a Mr. Morris.

Third Avenue Tenement in Trade for Lots.

A. P. Gardiner leased to John P. Suerken at a net rental of $30,000 the store and basement at the northwest cor of Lafayette and Leonard sts. The lease covers a term of 10 years.

George A. Sipp leased the 5-sty building at the southeast cor of 124th st and Lexington av, 37.6x100.11, known as the Hotel Boulevard, to John R. Palmer, for 21 years, at a gross rental of about $244,000.

Richard M. Montgomery leased for the estate of C. A. Beckstein to Sir Thomas Lipton, for his tea business, the 6-sty building covering the block front in the east side of Hudson st, from Leonard to Franklin st. The structure contains 60,000 square feet of space. The Lipton office has long been at 39 Pearl st.

The International Silver Company has taken a 10-year lease to the stores in the new Goldsmiths' and Silversmiths' Building, at 15 to 19 Maiden Lane, running through to 18 to 22 John st, from the Maiden Lane Realty Co., at an aggregate rental of $140,000. The structure is now nearing completion.

Simon & Atlas have leased for Max Kobre and David Dober to Hyman Kantor the 6-sty apartment houses, with stores, comprising the block front on the east side of Lenox av, from 138th to 139th st; also 67 to 71 West 138th st, four 6-sty apartment houses, with stores, for five years; also 1280 and 1282 Amsterdam av, a 6-sty apartment house, with stores.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company just closed a 5-year lease, with 5 years' renewal option, on the quarters it occupies at Richmond, S. I., opposite the office of the County Clerk. A large reinforced concrete vault will also be built on the premises for safely housing the records. A covered passageway connects the vault with the offices. The company will also open an office at St. George, Staten Island, in the near future.

New York Real Estate Company leased for Nathalie E. Baylies to Joseph Heller the Prescott building, at the northwest cor of Broadway and Spring st, for a term of 21 years, at an aggregate rental of $700,000. The property is the old Prescott Hotel building, a 6-sty structure, occupying a plot 50x125, which was converted into an office building about 10 years ago. This is the first time in more than a hundred years that it has passed out of the control of the owners. Mr. Heller will spend about $25,000 in renovating and altering the building.

REAL ESTATE NOTES

The sale of 327 and 329 East 29th st, two 4-sty tenements, 44x98.9, has been reported.

The Title Insurance Co. assigned to Mrs. Margaret Sage a mortgage for $300,000.

Stewart Realty Company has removed its offices from the Knickerbocker Theatre building to 39 East 42d st.

A bound volume containing the Tax Commissioners quarterly reports ending Sept. 30, 1907, has just been published.

Harold Strebeigh, formerly vice-president of the Renwick C. Hurry Company, is now associated with the firm of Bloodgood & Gilbert.

Lawrence B. Elliman, of the firm of Pease & Elliman, spoke before the Real Estate School of the Y. M. C. A. on "Selling Real Estate."

A salesman with extensive experience in sales and leases on Fifth av and adjacent streets is open for engagement. See Wants and Offers.

Foreclosure proceedings involving the property 236 and 238 5th av have been begun by E. R. Rapollo against the J. C. Lyons Building and Operating Co.

Judson Realty Co. of 27 Pine st sold 54 and 56 West 3d st, a 6-sty store and loft building, 42.6x75. The sellers purchased the property at auction in 1904 for $87,500.

James W. Miller announces that he has removed his office from 2023 Broadway to 25 Pine st so he may be in the heart of the financial, real estate and insurance districts.

There is one cause mortgagors have to be thankful for and that is that renewals of mortgages are meeting with little opposition during this period of financial depression.

The Title Guarantee & Trust Co. in a statement issued last week announces that the demand for Brooklyn mortgages has increased. There is a poor market for loans in amounts over $25,000.

The members of the Board of Real Estate Brokers of Jersey City will have their annual dinner this year some time in February, at the Jersey City Club, corner of Clinton and Crescent avs.

Walter Schulze, treasurer of the West Rockaway Land Company, announces that after advertising one week he has sold $34,000 of the six per cent. bonds and mortgages which he is offering for sale.

During the early part of the week bids for a half million dollars worth of public improvements were opened at Bronx Borough Hall. The projected work includes the building of sewers, street paving and the laying of sidewalks.

The Maiden Lane Realty Company borrowed from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company $1,250,000 for 3 years at 6 per cent. on the property 18 and 20 John st and 15 to 19 Maiden lane, the new Goldsmiths' and Silversmiths' Building.

Gilman, Randall & Paterson, of 39 East 42d st say that the money market is easing up and think that things will be normal in the spring. They report that they have $300,000 to loan either in one sum or divided at reasonable rates.

Shaw & Co. deny the reported sale of 108 West 126th st, a 4-sty dwelling, 20x100. This property was transferred on July 16, 1907, to Markus Pollak, subject to a mortgage of $18,000 at 5 per cent. The building and lot are assessed at $21,000.

Justice Greenbaum of the Supreme Court appointed Henry T. Randall receiver of rents of the property at the northwest corner of West End av and 70th st, 100.5x100, pending an action brought against Arthur Casper and others by Louise Borges, to foreclose a second mortgage of $25,000.

The Chelsea Methodist Episcopal Church took title to a plot of ground on Washington Heights from the Fort Washington syndicate. This parcel is situated on the northeast corner of Fort Washington av and 178th st and is 134.5x irreg. The church, whose structure is now near the Pennsylvania terminal and the site of the new post-office building, will erect a new edifice on Washington Heights. No consideration was mentioned in the deed.

Thompson-Starrett Co. filed a mechanics' lien with the County Clerk on the property 45 to 49 John st and 3 to 5 Dutch st against the ministers, elders and deacons of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church of the City of New York as owners, the North Ward Realty Co., lessee and contractor, and the Exchange Buffet, sub-lessee. The amount claimed for labor already performed and for material already frunished is $92,675.36. The labor and material furnished consists of stone work, brick laying, floor laying and plumbing. The Dutch Church is the owner of the land and is only a nominal defendant.

In connection with its Staten Island business, the Title Guarantee & Trust Company has just closed a 5-year lease, with 5-year renewal option, on the quarters it now occupies at Richmond, S. I., opposite the office of the county clerk. The company also has another office in a nearby building, where a large force of employees has been engaged for some time on the search of all Staten Island farm and acreage records. The latter office will be given up on May 1 and the two merged, as by that time the general search will be completed. A large reinforced concrete vault will be built on the premises for safely housing the records. A covered passageway connects the vault with the offices. The plant will, in fact, represent over $25,000, while the title work now approaching completion represents nearly $20,000 additional. This company will also open an office at St. George, Staten Island, in the near future.

Legislative Digest.

An amendment to the Employers' Liability bill, introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Wagner, makes the measure more stringent and the employers' defense more difficult.

A bill drafted by President Purdy, of the New York Tax Department, and Walter Lindner, solicitor of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co., and which has received the approval of Mayor McClellan's advisory commission on finance, aims to improve the method of collecting arrears of taxes and assessments. The bill, which has not yet been introduced, includes the following provisions:

As soon as taxes, assessments and water rents are laid a lien attaches to the property in favor of the city which is prior to all other liens. When taxes or assessments are three years in arrears, or water rents four years, the lien of all arrears which shall have accrued up to the day of the first advertisement of sale will be sold at auction to the person who shall bid the lowest rate of interest not exceeding 12 per cent. Upon payment of the purchase money a conveyance of the tax lien, payable in three years, will be executed by the city to the purchaser. The city will guarantee the validity of the lien, so that the only risk taken by the purchaser will be the sufficient value of the property affected by the lien and the possible trouble of collection.

Transfers of tax liens will be registered in the office of the Collector of Assessments and Arrears and will be recordable in the office of the Register. The procedure for collection will be the same as for the collection of a mortgage. A transfer of tax lien will provide that the whole of the principal sum which the transfer of tax lien is given to secure shall become due at the option of the owner thereof, after default, in the payment of interest for thirty days or after default in the payment of any subsequently accruing tax, assessment or water rent for six months. This provision will nearly insure the continuous future payment of taxes and assessments, subsequent to the sale of a tax lien, as the owner of the property must pay or suffer the foreclosure of the tax lien.

Any person having an interest in property affected by a tax lien may discharge the same before maturity on giving thirty days' notice to the holder of the transfer thereof upon payment of the principal with interest to a date three months subsequent to the date of payment named in the notice. Tax lies will be exempt from taxation and will be made legal investments for savings banks in case they do not exceed half the assessed value of the property affected.

Dates for the Long Island Exchange.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Real Estate Exchange of Long Island will be held on Tuesday, Jan. 14, at the offices of the Exchange, 353 5th av. It is probable that Louis H. Pounds, president of the Manor Realty Company of Flatbush, will be elected president of the Exchange at the meeting, and D. Maujer McLaughlin, of the McCormick Real Estate Company, is slated for treasurer.

The annual dinner will be held at the Hotel Manhattan this Saturday evening, with President H. Stewart McKnight presiding. The list of speakers includes Louis H. Pounds, Gage E. Tarbell, Frank Bailey, Ralph Peters, president of the Long Island Railroad; Representative W. W. Cocks, and Supreme Court Justice W. W. Jaycox.

Election by the East Tremont Taxpayers.

At the regular meeting and annual election of the East Tremont Taxpayers' Association held at Klinger's Hall, Tremont and Mapes avs, Bronx, the following officers were elected: H. Mahnken, president; Philip Becker, 1st vice-president; Emil Blasius, 2d vice-president; John Vogel, treasurer; J. A. Steinmetz, secretary; James Wylie, sergeant-at-arms; Hon. A. C. Hottenroth, counsel; trustee, Charles A. Schrag; delegates—J. E. Dougherty, C. Forbach, J. W. Brauneck, Charles McRae, Chrls. McRae, Frank Becker, J. A. Warsh.

East Tremont taxpayers are cordially invited to join the organization. Meetings every fourth Friday in the month.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

Allied Real Estate Interests of the State of New York.

URING the year 1907 the work of the Allied Real Estate Interests has frequently been brought to the attention of the public and it seems hardly necessary to refer to it in detail. However, as some of the readers of the Real Estate Record and Guide may not be familiar with it, a general review of this work may be of interest to such.

The Allied Real Estate Interests is a State organization. It was first formed two years ago during the agitation against the annual mortgage tax law. As a result of the work which it then undertook, the recording tax law—the text of which was prepared by this association—was substituted for the annual mortgage tax. Our work this year in connection with mortgage taxation has been to correct certain features in the law which were left out by the Legislature in the original bill: amongst others, one permitting old mortgages to become within the operation of the statute. These amendments were drawn by the association and incorporated by the Senate Committee on Taxation in its bill amending the mortgage tax law, which bill became a law last spring.

The Law Committee of the association meets every Monday during the legislative session and examines all bills introduced in the Legislature and takes appropriate action in regard to such as affect real estate interests. This action reviewed by the board of directors, which decides upon the course to be pursued by the association in reference to legislative matters.

While the chief work of the Allied Real Estate Interests has been in connection with legislative matters, it is recognized that other important questions should receive the attention of the association, and during the past year it has taken up matters such as street encroachments, condemnation proceedings and city finances. In order not to become involved in a multiplicity of details and waste its energies by extending the same over too great an area, it was decided to undertake only such matters as affected the city at large. Its action in connection with the Riverside Drive awards resulted in reducing those awards forty per cent., thus benefitting the taxpayers in the section of the city affected.

The matter of street encroachments is one that concerns all persons owning houses with bay windows or other projections beyond the street lines. As the law now stands, such projections are illegal structures even when erected under permit from the city authorities. A bill was prepared by the Allied Real Estate Interests providing for a statute of limitations in regard to such encroachments. The effect of such a law would have been to clear up the titles of several thousand pieces of property in New York City. This bill was submitted to the Mayor and Corporation Counsel, but did not receive the support of these officials and did not pass the committee stage in the Legislature. The issue created, however, is one which must be met at the next session of the Legislature and one on which public sentiment in New York City should be crystallized.

"City finances" as used above is intended to apply to the city budget. After investigation into the methods of preparing this budget it was decided by the association that a change ought to be made in the manner in which hearings in reference thereto were held. Up to the present time the taxpayers have been heard only in reference to applications made by the various chiefs of the city departments for allowances. In view of the fact that these applications are invariably for a larger amount than the officials expect to receive, it is manifestly absurd to limit taxpayers' hearings to such applications. A strong effort was made to secure from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment a hearing on a tentative budget; that is, on the budget as approved by that board. The association was also represented before the finance committee of the Board of Aldermen in reference to a decrease in the budget for 1908, and that committee recommended to the Board of Aldermen the decrease asked for. The Board of Aldermen, however, refused to adopt the recommendation, and the city budget stands at the enormous figure of 143 millions of dollars, thirteen millions over the amount of the budget for 1907. A new system of bookkeeping in the various city departments is likely to be adopted by the city as a result of the agitation begun in reference to the city budget, and in future such budgets will be presented in a form that taxpayers and others interested therein will be able intelligibly to discuss.

Rapid transit is a subject which affects every person in New York City, either directly or indirectly. I am personally convinced that the Elsberg bill operates in the interest of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company by practically prohibiting other bidders from competing for additional subway routes. This law should be amended or repealed.

These are some of the subjects taken up and to be taken up by the Allied Real Estate Interests. It has a membership of about a thousand and in addition over twelve hundred correspondents in different parts of the State. Its value to real estate interests consists in the organization which it has perfected for concentrating and directing public interest on legislative or other matters affecting such interests.

ALLAN ROBINSON, President.

West Side Taxpayers' Association.

HE following is the reason why West Side property owners should become members of our association. Benefits and results derived from the work of the West Side Taxpayers' Association in the eventful year of 1907: It must be borne in mind that the enormous expense necessary for the maintenance of the complicated city government must be defrayed from the taxes levied upon real estate. That real estate cannot escape nor dodge taxation, that the city's budgets are constantly on the increase from year to year, imposing additional burdens and drains upon the pockets of the property owners. It must be further borne in mind that a property owner need look in vain for the assistance of his tenantry in any action undertaken by him for the betterment of his own position, is it not proper for him, the single taxpayer, to ponder and reflect how impossible it is for him to cope single handed with any situation where either arbitrary actions of the city officials or self-seeking legislators attempt to find new means for further mulcting the property owners, that the only way to meet the situations is to join an organization, that being the only means to preserve and safeguard his property rights.

Did it ever occur to you, SINGLE PROPERTY OWNER, what the united real estate interests of the city could accomplish? Here you are confronted with a condition, not a theory.

The following is some of the work accomplished by the West Side Taxpayers' Association, their board of officers, the executive committee and their delegates to the United Real Estate Owners' Association: We have attended innumerable meetings for the purpose of deliberating over the best ways and means to ward off and fight unjust legislation, and have spent our time and money for the interest of the taxpayers.

THE TENEMENT HOUSE COMMITTEE.

Our association has attended to over 200 violations sent by the department to our members during the past year, every one of which was more or less of a puzzle to the members affected, and it required the patience and time of those few members to go to the department and look after the nature of the viola- straighten out matters.

It is no easy matter to look after violations of a department that sends out 80,000 violations annually, the majority of which are trivial in their nature and yet may become cumbersome to the owner affected.

Have you any idea of the amount of needless expenses saved to the members by the faithful and laborious work of the tenement house committee?

THE COMMITTEE ON LAW AND LEGISLATION.

Have you any idea of the amount of correspondence, interviews with chairmen of committees and hearings attended to, to help towards defeating bad bills in the legislature last year?

Number 1.—The licensed engineer bill, which, if it had become a law, would have required a licensed engineer for every steam-heated flat house. The union salary which you would have been compelled to pay, would have completely absorbed the income from the premises, and it did require a tremendous amount of labor to defeat these measures. Has not your income been saved thereby?

Number 2.—The tenement house law amendments as proposed by the present Tenement House Department administration were jammed full of provisions granting further powers to the department to further harass the property owners. Do you know how much labor, time and expense it required to kill this proposed measure?

Number 3.—The several bills granting further favors to the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, as incorporated in the several Owens' bills, such as the Spuyten Duyvil and 149th st grade, and are you aware of the West Side Taxpayers' Association's long and btter fight to have the New York Central tracks removed from 11th av.

Number 4.—The bill creating a new park west of 11th av, between 38th and 42d sts was another bit of legislation intended to further loot the taxpayers' pockets in these times of our over strenuosity in city enterprises.

Number 5.—Extension of 6th and 7th avs, south of Greenwich av, was brought before the attention of our association, but after due consideration and deliberation it was thought advisable to defer said extension to a time when the city would be in better financial position to undertake the improvement, so that the burden of the expense would not fall upon the West Side taxpayers. The subsequent tight squeeze of city's finances evidenced the wisdom of such action.

WATER METER MATTER.

Number 6.—Do you remember how the Water Department swooped down upon almost every property owner and peremptorily ordered and forced installation of water meters, which if not complied with in a short time, meters were then put in by the city plumber, whose charges were three and very often four times the amount of an ordinary plumber's bill?

Do you know or have you any idea of the part the West Side Taxpayers' Association took in this gigantic fight, in which the aid of the Supreme Court had to be invoked? A fight to the finish, even the Corporation Counsel refused to appeal. This, too, was a victory of only a part of the real estate interests united. Where would the single property holder have been in this unequal fight? (Buckle down, go in and obey.)

There are numerous other minor complaints, violations and orders which have been attended to for our members.

The annual dues of the West Side Taxpayers' Association is $5. Regular business meetings are held every third Friday of each month at Nos. 265 and 267 West 34th st. Following are the officers for the year 1908: President, Frank Demuth; first vice president, Charles Hvass; second vice-president, Herman Schumacher; recording and corresponding secretary, Charles A. Schrag; treasurer, Fred Keller; financial secretary, Julius Neke.

LOUIS SCHRAG.

Opening and extending from Tremont av to Fordham road; Aqueduct av East, from West 180th st to West 184th st, and West 180th st, from Davidson av to Aqueduct av East, matter of fixing area of assessment referred to a committee consisting of the President of the Board of Aldermen, the Comptroller and the President of the Borough of the Bronx.

The University Heights Bridge.

The opening of the University Heights Bridge extending from East 184th st, Bronx, across the Harlem River to 207th st, Manhattan, which occurred on Wednesday of this week, marks an important event in the history of improvements in that section. That its presence will eventually exert a strong influence on the value of real property in the Dyckman district as well as the northerly section of Washington Heights there is little doubt. Moreover, by reason of its opening up a direct and more convenient gateway from upper Manhattan into the western Bronx property values in that quarter must similarly be benefited. In response to the strong demand for closer connection with the Broadway subway at 207th st, it is not unreasonable to assume that at an early date some satisfactory form of connecting railway will cross the span. For the present, at least, those who pass over must be content to do so either in vehicles or on foot. The cost of the strucure, including the land for approaches, will nearly equal $1,000,000.

In the Balance.

Owners of property in the vicinity of the approach to the Manhattan end of the Blackwells Island Bridge are incensed over the proposition to abandon the plan for building the $3,000,000 plaza authorized by the Board of Estimate in February, 1907. The square which it is now proposed to do without would occupy the space between 57th and 61st sts and 2d and 3d avs. The property within these bounds was to have been acquired by the municipality, and were the scheme to be carried out 2d av would be widened by about 60 feet. While there is a division of opinion respecting the plan of abandonment, many of the taxpayers contend that unless the new plaza is created the new span will fall far short of meeting expected requirements. Among others actively interested in furthering the construction of this project is the Blackwells Island Bridge Protective Association, which has already voiced its protest against the proposed action of the Board of Estimate.

LAW DEPARTMENT

What She Should Do.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you be good enough to advise me through your paper, if a widow whose husband died without having made a will, and who is survived by one child, could sell a portion of the property left by her husband; and while the proceedings are going on to clear the title of the parcel she is selling, could she not have the title of her entire holdings cleared at the same time, thereby avoiding the cost of court twice?

Answer.—The situation described is too complicated, if the child be under age, for other advice than to consult some competent attorney and be governed by his advice.

Like an Endless Chain.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Broker "A" receives from a client exclusive charge of the renting of a building and invites the co-operation of other brokers, among them Broker "B," who succeeds in finding a tenant for part of the building. After the leases are signed and Broker "B" has received his commission, this tenant comes direct to Broker "A," with whom he became acquainted through the negotiations brought about through the lease made by Broker "B," and asks for additional space in the building, which is rented to him without Broker's "B" knowledge. Will you kindly advise me whether, in your opinion, Broker "B" is entitled, either morally or legally, to any commission on the second lease?

Answer.—No; in our opinion it would create an endless chain by which every purchaser or lessor of real estate would be under a system of pradronage impossible outside of Little Italy.

Legal Interest.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly print in your next issue your answers to the following questions about which there seems to be considerable difference of opinion among lawyers and bankers: Assuming that a mortgage for $5,000 was made Jan. 10, 1900, bearing interest at 5 per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually, principal to become due Jan. 10, 1905. No principal or interest paid; notice and demand served upon mortgagor Jan. 10, 1908.

Question 1.—Calculating all interest and principal, what is the total amount due Jan. 10, 1910? Question 2.—If in arriving at your conclusion you use different rates of interest on the principal or on unpaid interest for the different periods above noted, kindly specify in detail your method of calculating? Question 3.—Do you consider the charging of simple interest on unpaid interest after same becomes due in accordance with terms of bond and mortgage a usurious act?

Answer.—Compound interest is not favored, although not strictly usurious; and hence an agreement to pay it, or for annual rests founded upon a sufficient consideration (as an extension), is not void. But an agreement to pay it which is retrospective and only founded upon moral obligation will be void. In any case, the agreement and its terms must be distinct and clear, though it need not be in writing. (Stewart vs. Petrie, 55 N. Y. 621; Young vs. Hill, 67 N. Y. 162; Phelps vs. Beardsley, 16 Week Dig. 21; see also 16 Alb. S. J. 252.)

The Man Who Wins.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A is landlord, B is prospective tenant, C is broker. C quotes property to B and gives him particulars as to price, etc., in writing, and is first broker to give B such information. B looks at property and likes it, and goes with C to A's office, and makes an offer. In preseice of C, B tells A that any broker other than C has no right to act for B in the negotiations, and to disregard all others. The price offered by B is too low for A to accept, but A tells B and C the figure which will lease the property. B asks for a week to think over the matter. In the meantime B notifies C that since he cannot get property at the figure B authorized C to bid, all negotiations through him are off. B then calls in Broker D, and through him makes the offer, which A had told B in the presence of C would be a closing price, and the deal is closed through D.

A admits now to C that morally C is entitled to the commission, but is not sure of the legal obligation, therefore holds off paying to either C or D. Who should have it?

Answer.—If acting in good faith, as the broker consummating the lease, D is certainly entitled to a commission, he having produced the lessee and consummated the deal, which C, as stated, could no longer handle. If there cannot be two commissions on one sale, C is by implication excluded from getting a second one, though had not B broken loose from him, or even if he had not gone to another broker, he, C, in our opinion, would certainly have been able successfully to claim a commission from A, or B's consummation of the lease. Apparently B has adopted the device often employed by a vendor, of conveying to a third party to avoid liability for a commission, in this case the reverse, the lessee revenging himself for some cause, on the offending C, or else favoring another broker. If the matter were an important one, and we were counsel for A, we would advise him to stand suit, and bring all parties into court to test the verities of the transaction.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

"A" (a merchant) owns a plot of land with an old building thereon. "B" (a broker) approaches "A," who wishes to lease the lot and erect a new building thereon. The rent of the lot is stated by "A" and is satisfactory to "C," who finally decides that he cannot spare the funds to erect the new building.—Later on "B" approaches "A" and says that "C" will take the lot at the rent stated, if "A" will erect a building thereon; "C" to pay an additional rental of 10% per annum on the cost of erecting the building.—"B" acts in all the negotiations and draws a lease for the lot and building and has the lease executed by both parties, "B" witnessing the signature of both parties.—Several days later, "B" sends "A" a bill for commission for renting the lot, which "A" paid. No mention is made of any further commission to be charged, and "A" says he had no fore-knowledge that such commission would be charged, and he does not capitalize the commission. Subsequently, or after the erection of the building, "B" sends "A" a bill for commission on the rental of the building, the amount of which could not be computed until the cost of construction was determined. "A" refuses to pay, on the ground that nothing was said about commission on the rental of the building. "B" holds that both lot and building were one transaction, as per the lease drawn and executed; that the bill presented was for the part then delivered, and that the subsequent bill for commission could not be rendered before, as the building was not erected and the cost of same was not known by either "A" or "B"; so that it was impossible for "B" to present bill to "A" until the cost of construction was known, so as to fix the rental which "C" was to pay.—"A" and "C" agree that "B" acted in all the negotiations. The matter was left to arbitration, each side selecting a real estate man as arbitrator. The arbitrators cannot agree, and you are requested to decide the matter.—Is "B" entitled to commission on rent of the building?

Answer—We are of the opinion that B concluded himself as to any further claim of commissions, by his first bill for same, rendered and paid, after the lease had been made and executed, and no new facts arising, not known to the parties at that time on which to base the further claim. The form of that bill, or what was said between the parties at the time of its rendering or payment, which are not before us, might influence this view however.—Ed.

Annual Gathering of Allied Associations.

Despite unfavorable weather conditions more than 800 members and guests of the United Real Estate Owners Associations attended the annual gathering of that body held on Tuesday night at the Harlem Casino, 124th st and 7th av. Among the invited guests were several representatives of the Tenement House Department, Alderman R. S. Doull, of the 11th district, William Dalton, ex-Dock Commissioner, A. N. Gitterman, of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, and others prominent in municipal and realty circles. The boxes were mainly taken by members of the board of directors. The vaudeville entertainment was under the personal supervision of James L. Barry, and much credit is due the members of the entertainment committee (Chas. H. Schnelle, Dr. Abraham Korn, William H. Mehlich and Pierre M. Clear), for their selection in this direction. One of the most pleasant occurrences of the evening was the presentation of a silver loving cup by the members of the association to ex-President Jas. L Conway. The presentation speech was delivered by President Thomas Krekeler.

The United Real Estate Owners' Association of the City of New York is now the central organization, or federation of the House and Real Estate Owners' Asso. of the 12th and 19th Wards, Taxpayers' Assoc. of the 10th, 11th and 17th Wards, West Side Taxpayers' Assoc., Real Estate Owners' Protective Assoc. of the 12th and 22d Wards, Harlem Property Owners' Asso., Taxpayers' Asso. of the 4th, 6th and 14th Wards, and the Eighteenth Ward Taxpayers' Asso. Altogether the "United Associations" represent a total membership of 6,000, and one of their chief aims is to obtain legislative relief and other benefits for the 60,000 or more property owners of New York City.

The Elsberg Law and Bronx Brokers.

The Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers has invited the Civic Associations in the Bronx and Manhattan and all persons interested in subways on the East Side of Manhattan and in the Bronx to a conference to be held at the association's hall, Morris Building, southwest corner 149th st and Third av, Tuesday, Jan. 14th, at 8 p. m. The main object is to procure subways as speedily as possible and to insist that there be no change made in the Elsberg Law. It is expected that Senator Elsberg, Frank Moss, Hamilton Holt and other prominent citizens will address the conference. Mr. Edward Polak is chairman of the Rapid Transit Committee of the association.

The Great Question of Sewage Disposal.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Your editorial of Dec. 28, 1907, on the pollution of New York Harbor and the Hudson River contains the following remark: "It has long been contended that the discharge of sewage into the Hudson from the growing cities on its banks was only sentimentally objectionable, as the disease germs contained therein were rendered innocuous by the natural action of the moving waters; but the recent investigations of the Metropolitan Sewage Commission proved conclusively that the pollution never finds its way to the sea."

Fifty years ago the Thames of London was the uncleanest, foulest river in the known world. Perhaps the harbor of Marseilles was worse, by the necessity of its position, notwithstanding the incessant dredging and all kinds of expedients to divert the city sewage. But the citizens, with immense cost, brought a mountain torrent, half the waters of the Durance, from a distance of some seventy or eighty miles, at a height of some 400 feet above the harbor, which in time was cleaned. They were Frenchmen who under-tunneled both banks of the Seine, and carried clear of Paris the contents of all its sewers. Our English cousins learned much from the clever Parisians. They did not wait, like old London, for a Plague to be stopped by a Great Fire.

New York Harbor has become a cesspool. When New York's population numbered but fifty thousand souls, water-closets were a luxury. But is not one common cesspool an evil worse than the thousands of private cesspools of old New York? They were at least closed—this one is open.

If we can drain a house we can drain a city. If we can drain a city we can drain a harbor. It requires absolutely no engineering skill to pronounce on the possibility of conveying the sewage of the Hudson in a copious parallel stream into the sea. To do less than construct one huge cloaca, air-tight, and ending in the sea, is but to blink the ultimate necessity of the case.

Unfortunately this is not the season of the year for conducting the inquiry into the ultimate healthfulness of Hudson River impurities in a satisfactory way. When the thermometer is standing at 90° in the shade and thousands of New York's residents, "within a few blocks of the river," "where the sewage conditions are the worst," are dying from intestinal diseases, will be the proper time to do something.

At the present writing we should be on our guard as to where the Hudson River ice we consume is cut. This letter may "cut no ice" in the estimation of those who, to quote from your editorial, are "like the man who will not plant a tree because he cannot live to enjoy its shade."

WALTER BEVERLEY CRANE.

Objections to the Mechanics' Lien Law.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

It has been my opinion for a long time past that it would be better for all concerned in the building materlal line if the Mechanics Lien Law were entirely abolished. It is at best a very doubtful security, and it has been proven often to have been a very dangerous remedy, for the filing of one or two liens on one day, followed by others right after, have often been the cause of a total loss to all interested, in operations which would have paid out in full but for the confusion and embarrassment precipitated by the indiscriminate filing of liens.

Too much confidence has always been had in the security afforded by the filing of a lien, and oftentimes credit has been extended because of the lien law which otherwise would have been more closely scrutinized.

So far as mechanics wages are concerned, the trades unions are ample protection to them, and it has been a long time since any loss of wages has accrued to any extent to mechanics and laborers.

It seems to me that it might be well to bring this matter to the attention of your readers for their opinions, with the view, if deemed advisable, of bringing the matter to the attention of the present Legislature.

Statistics from the Comptroller's Report.

Collections of	1906.	1905.
Taxes	$83,693,797	$86,322,380
Assessments	5,460,963	6,963,386
Water rents	10,297,568	9,570,811
Miscellaneous revenue	25,308,561	24,506,155

A reference to the payments made by the city during 1906 shows the following significant figures:

Payments for	1906.	1905.
State taxes	$903,632	$717,024
Expenses of the city government	83,145,807	75,547,301
Outlay for public undertakings	76,637,840	73,855,261
Interest on the city debt	19,038,302	16,722,595
Redemption of the city debt	128,042,569	155,788,020
Gross funded debt		735,015,765
Revenue bonds		53,646,036
Net contract liabilities		70,766,529
To lands acquired		16,202,566
Increase net bonded debt in two years		118,650,637
Increase revenue bonds and unpaid bills		11,549,036
Year's budget		143,572,266

It will be seen from these figures that there was a decided decrease in the amount collected for taxes in 1906, as compared with the previous year.

Brooklyn Subway Extension Opened.

The opening of the tunnel under the East River and the extension of the present subway system means much to Brooklyn from a real estate standpoint. The portion of the road that was opened last Thursday consists of a two-track extension from South Ferry to Borough Hall, Brooklyn. It will only be a comparatively short time before the connection with the Flatbush terminal of the Long Island Railroad will be completed.

When the bids were opened some years ago only two were found that could be considered. One for $39,300,000 by Andrew Onderdonk and the other for $35,000,000 by John B. McDonald, who acted for a syndicate. This work started March 24, 1900, and the first train was run through on October 27, 1904, about four years and seven months being the time of construction.

The first subway built in New York City was the old 4th av tunnel now used by the Metropolitan Street Railway Co. This was commenced in 1868. Mayor Abram S. Hewitt in the early part of 1888 conceived a scheme from which the present subway became a fact. In 1893 the Chamber of Commerce took the matter up and ex-Mayor Hewitt and Judge Henry R. Beekman were appointed a committee to go carefully into the matter.

A bill was drafted, voted on and eventually the building of the system was undertaken. As in all great operations that benefit a community, many hardships and privations must be endured. Several deaths (more than fifty), besides many business concerns losing thousands of dollars, must be charged on one side of the account, while on the other side must be placed the vast amount of convenience to the population in general, besides the enhancement in value of realty holdings along the route and the adjacent streets and avenues.

A great deal of time is saved in traveling between Brooklyn and Manhattan by the use of this new extension. From Borough Hall, Brooklyn, to Wall st only five minutes is consumed, reducing the time by twenty minutes, and to Fulton st the running time is a little over six minutes, as against seventeen minutes by the old method.

Realty Associates Report Prosperity.

Brooklyn's pioneer realty company, the Realty Associates, entered heartily into the celebration of the subway opening Thursday. Its building was handsomely decorated and a spirit of optimism prevailed.

Mr. Robert Wheelan, the secretary of the corporation, said:

"Business here for the past few weeks has been good. Lists of properties for sale are issued by us to brokers frequently and notice of sale promptly sent to them when any piece is sold. From the list issued a few months ago, thirty-two pieces have already been sold; most of them for cash, although the company has been at all times prepared to make terms to suit the wants of buyers. Many of these sales were made to people who had never before invested in real estate.

"Some sales of large plots of land in the West Borough Park and Ridgewood sections for immediate improvement have lately been made and negotiations for many more are now on. The question of building loans did not enter into these sales, as the builders had cash to pay for the lots and feel confident of getting loans when same are needed.

"To show how good business has averaged during the last year it is interesting to note that the sum of $27,000 was paid to brokers by our company in 1907 and the brokers should bestir themselves in this most promising year for Brooklyn real estate to double that sum. The diversified character of the properties of the company and the rosy outlook of Brooklyn's future for all sections of the borough make us hopeful for even more success during the next few months, and as we always deal through real estate brokers in making sales, the general trade will profit as well."

A Quickening in New Jersey Realty.

The repeated assurances that the tunnels under the Hudson River will be in shape for passenger traffic within the next eight weeks is already increasing real estate activity in the New Jersey suburbs. Within the twenty-mile circle the demand for all classes of realty is strong, and although trading in the main is chiefly confined to small parcels principally on the outskirts of such places as Newark, Bloomfield and the Oranges, brokers report that the inquiry for more remote property is greatly in excess of that for years. Among the recent purchases of acreage within commuting distance may be mentioned that of a 20-acre tract including a residence at Millburn. The parcel was acquired by F. A. Dillingham of Manhattan, being opposite "Pleasant Days," the country residence of Joseph P. Day, and adjoins the 60-acre tract purchased recently by Stewart Hartshorn for development.

Similar purchases are reported in the South Orange and Forest Hills sections, and enough information is now at hand to venture the prediction that nearby Jersey is about to witness the commencement of a quickening of no mean proportions.

It is the intention of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company to begin the operation of cars from Nineteenth st and Sixth av to Hoboken by Jan. 15, and from Herald Square to the Jersey terminal shortly afterwards.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., October 8, 1907

DEAR SIRS: Replying to your letter dated 5th inst. asking for any expression of opinion regarding your services, I beg to say that it has been entirely satisfactory. I consider you are filling a long felt want, especially as a means of saving owners from errors and trouble caused by water department and the carelessness of tenants. Wishing you success, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly, THOMAS J. STEWART

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagees. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when th mortgage was handed into the Registers office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded hy the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrnment as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will he found altogether at the foot of this list.

January 3, 4, 6, 7, 8 and 9.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

CONSTRUCTION NEWS.

SURF AV.—Work will be pushed on Surf av, s s, bet 16th and 17th sts, for the 1-sty brk amusement hall, 275x405, gravel roof; cost $200,000, to be erected by the Steeplechase Co., on premises, from plans by W. A. Swassey, 40 West 33d st, Manhattan.

Queens County.

LONG ISLAND CITY.—P. C. Hunter, 17 Broadway, Manhattan, is preparing plans and will receive bids about Jan. 15 for the 5-sty factory building, 175x180 ft., at Long Island City, N. Y., for J. F. Blanchard. Estimated cost is $250,000.

New York State.

ROCHESTER.—Bids are being received for a 4-sty apartment house, to be erected on East av, Rochester, from plans prepared by Leon Stern, Chamber of Commerce Building. Estimated cost, $225,000. J. S. Quicke, manager of the Security Building Co., can give further information.

SCHENECTADY.—Bids will be received during the spring on a brk and stone church for the Mount Pleasant Reformed Church of Schenectady; cost, $30,000. Architects, A. G. Lindsley & Co.—Architects A. G. Lindsley & Co. have drawn plans for a new $100,000 office building for the Schenectady Illuminating Co., and bids are being received. This will be built in the spring.

WAMPSVILLE.—The Board of Supervisors of Madison County will erect a county building here, to cost about $150,000. It will be of fireproof construction, with steam heat, and will comprise a full equipment of offices for all county purposes, as well as a jail. Plans have not been adopted.

POUGHKEEPSIE.—The Hudson River cities are all undersupplied with dwellings. The difficulty is to build within the means of the population. The men who used to be active in erecting houses report that costs are too high for speculative work. But there is a growing amount of private building, with a kindling interest in materials that make it possible to dispense with wood.

ALBANY.—Dr. E. D. McKenna will erect a 2-sty house at 535 Central av.—The Glenmore Extension Co. has awarded the contract for seven more 2-sty houses in the north end to Preston & Co., of Watervliet.—Edwin G. Day will erect a 3-sty brk shop at 805-809 Broadway.

TROY.—The building of the Harmony Knitting Co. in Waterford, recently destroyed by fire, will be rebuilt.—Foundations have been laid for a large addition to the factory of the Searle Mfg. Co.—Frank A. Doty will shortly let the contract for a new house, to be erected in 7th av, Upper Troy.

SCHENECTADY.—Many workmen have been laid off by the large works, and the builders fear to make any new move at present. But there is a large amount of private alteration work. The new county building will be erected on State st, facing Crescent park. The board of supervisors decided on this site at their last meeting and plans will be taken up at once.—Work will be started within a week or two on the new additions to the plant of the American Company.

ROME.—A committee of the Board of Supervisors has been appointed to secure plans and specifications for a hospital building to be erected at the County Home.

LIMA.—The Lima & Honeoye Electric Light & R. R. C., Lima, N. Y., will erect a power station next season, to be located in the natural gas fields, four miles south of Lima. E. D. Watkins is manager.

YONKERS.—Architect A. J. Van Suetendael has plans for four 3-sty two-family dwellings.

New Jersey.

PATERSON.—The United Ribbon Co., of 187 Ellison st, Paterson, N. J., proposes to erect a mill at Riverside this spring, ground for the purpose having been secured between Keen and Franklin sts. The property is a part of the May Vreeland estate. It is said that the structure to be erected will cost in the neighborhood of $60,000.

PRINCETON.—It is proposed to install a central heating and lighting plant next year for the Theological Seminary and to have it ready in time for the opening in September. Contract will be let late this winter or in the early spring. The Richard D. Kimball Co., 6 Beacon st, Boston, Mass., has prepared the plans and will have charge of the work.

NEWARK.—A tentative plan of the proposed new Young Women's Christian Association building has been made, showing the administration building and the two dormitories to be built at 562 Broad st, Newark, N. J. The structures, ground and furnishings will cost about $200,000, and it is hoped to raise this money in a campaign in January. Louis J. Bayard Kirkpatrick is reported interested.

JERSEY CITY.—Board of Education has adopted preliminary plans for school No. 15, as prepared by John T. Rowland, Jr., 15 Exchange place, who has been instructed to prepare the working plans.

EAST ORANGE.—Board of Education has postponed the erection of an addition to the high school, and may later on consider the erection of an entire new building.

Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN.—Allen & Williams, 82 Church st, have completed plans for an infirmary to be erected at a cost of $100,000. The building will be 265 ft. long and 2½ stys high. A steam heating plant will be installed.

Massachusetts.

HYDE PARK.—Plans are being prepared for a $60,000 electric power plant for the Becker-Brainard Milling Machine Co. in Hyde Park.

Pennsylvania.

PUNXSUTAWNEY.—Thos. W. Boyd & Co., Pittsburgh, are about to start plans for a 4-sty Y. M. C. A. building, at Punxsutawney, to cost $30,000.

NEW KENSINGTON.—Plans are being prepared by F. A. Rider for a brick cold storage plant to be built at New Kensington for the New Kensington Ice & Cold Storage Co. Estimated cost, $40,000.

DUNBAR.—A cement plant, to cost $500,000, is to be erected by the Pittsburgh Cement Corporation, capitalized at $500,000, with Alexander Gilmore as Pres.; A. L. Klouse, Treas., and J. B. Johnson, Secy.

ENOLA.—The trustees of the Presbytery of the District of Carlisle will erect a Presbyterian Church in Enola.

McKEESPORT.—Council has under consideration the erection of an infirmary to cost $50,000.

MONONGAHELA.—At Monongahela, Allegheny County, plans have been prepared by Architect F. P. Kellar, Main st, for a brk and stone school building, to cost about $60,000.

Miscellaneous.

CHARLESTON, S. C.—The Combahee Fertilizer Co. contemplates increasing its capital stock to $250,000 to erect a larger factory or an addition to its acid works. F. Q. O'Neill is President.

ST. PAUL, QUE.—A Presbyterian Church will be erected here to take the place of the one recently destroyed by fire, at a cost of about $165,000. A. J. Aubrey, 167 Church av, St. Paul, is interested.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Keiffer Bros. will rebuild the shoe factory at Canal st and Claiborne av, destroyed by fire. Estimated cost, $100,000.

NORFOLK, VA.—The Y. M. C. A. is said to be planning the erection of a new building and raising $200,000 for that purpose.

DAYTON, O.—The County Board at Dayton, O., is preparing to issue $85,000 bonds to erect an infirmary.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—W. J. Young, President Wachoria Mills, states that it is proposed to expend about $2,000,000 in building and equipment. There will be erected four buildings, one 3-sty, 125 x600 ft.; one 1-sty, 150x1,000 ft.; one 2-sty, 120x300 ft., and the fourth, 1-sty, 80x400 ft. There will be an electric power plant of 5,000 horse-power. Will not place any contracts for 90 days.

THE Parker building fire disclosed a state of affairs in connection with the fire department and the water supply not pleasant to contemplate, and which it is hoped, in behalf of the safety of property, will be corrected at the earliest moment. All other questions raised by the fire are overshadowed by the startling revelation that the fire-fighting forces of the borough are not equipped to cope with emergencies like this. The water pressure was insufficient and the hose like a staff which breaks when one leans upon it for support. Little more than the walls of the building are left in consequence, and criticisms of the building as a type of construction based upon the manner in which it withstood unaided the fierce flames that raged unchecked on all the floors in the upper half need some qualification, except as to deductions that may be drawn therefrom in favor of more recent building practise and the necessity of improving on old methods,—in respect to protecting openings by which fire may communicate from one floor to another, for example. The building was erected in accordance with the law in force at the time, which did not give as much consideration to some things as is customary now; but the general strength of the building seems to be proved. The kind of structure which could withstand the burning of such great quantities of goods all at one time in large areas, and not collapse, was not being built in the last decade. One subdivided into smaller areas by fire walls or reliable cut-offs, and with windows impregnable and interior vertical openings impassable to flames, might have resisted, and this would be one of the lessons taught by the conflagration if the shortcomings of the fire department's apparatus could be overlooked. But with these to complicate the case, it is not easy, if not impossible, to pass judgment solely upon the character of the building, especially as the firemen are understood to claim that their defeat was owing to temporarily defective facilities for fighting the fire. A more decisive defeat has never been sustained by the department, and possibly it signalizes the advent of an era in which there must be a radical improvement in means and methods if the department is to protect the city successfully. New York has depended too long solely upon portable engines, and without knowing it has become antiquated in some firemanic essentials, as will be better realized when the new high-pressure service goes into action.

THE Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers, at whose call the representatives of nineteen taxpayers' societies assembled on Tuesday evening, is opposed to changing the Elsberg law so as to extend the term of subway leases beyond twenty years with a twenty-year renewal. It stands upon the resolution of the Board of Aldermen last April, that the City should "reject all propositions save those made for construction alone," so the City may lease the subways after their completion or operate them itself. To the Bronx mind the City would have no difficulty in procuring a bidder under the City's terms for an entirely independent line through the East Side and into the Bronx, either via Lexington Ave. or First Ave., and thence by two branches, one on Jerome Ave. and the other by way of 138th St., Southern Boulevard, Westchester Ave., etc., to Pelham Bay Park. Moreover, it is argued that with the $23,000,000 which Chairman Willcox says is available for the Fourth Ave. tube in Brooklyn, added to other possible resources, there would be abundant funds with which under a fair distribution between the three boroughs to start and carry forward the construction of a tri-borough system until a constitutional amendment could be obtained permitting the enlargement of the City's borrowing capacity—by excluding from the calculation the cost of subways, for example. No money has yet actually been appropriated for the Brooklyn subway, and the Bronx interests pray that none shall be for this purpose alone, but for subway construction in all three boroughs at the same time. On some points the position of the Bronx brokers and their colleagues may not be approved, especially by those who hold different views in regard to the Elsberg law; but there will be no dissent from the main contention that public utilities should be fairly distributed and the City funds not used to benefit merely one borough and work havoc for another. The issue rises above all others at the present time, and the people of Manhattan should be more alive to it than they are. With one subway to the heart of old Brooklyn nearly finished and a third bridge in course of erection, it is felt that Brooklyn has had her fair allotment of transportation facilities under the present dispensation, and that in the next one Manhattan and the Bronx should share equally with her.

THE fate of the Belmont tunnel to Long Island City still remains in doubt, but the City authorities cannot be urged too strongly to consummate its purchase. In its present condition, even if it were in operation, the Belmont tunnel would be of very little use to its owners or to the public, whereas if it were owned by the City, and connected with the Subway, it would be both a profitable property and a great convenience to the residents of Queens. Mr. Belmont has every reason to sell, and the City has every reason to buy; and such being the case it should be easy to strike a fair bargain. Neither is the City, in the event of consummating the purchase, merely pulling Mr. Belmont's chestnuts out of the fire. No doubt the tunnel cannot be profitably operated with its existing Manhattan terminal, and no doubt in case the City does not buy, the Interborough Company will have a white elephant on its hands. But if the city took advantage of this condition to force Mr. Belmont to sell at bargain prices, it would indefinitely delay the purchase, and at the same time indefinitely postpone the advantages which its own citizens may reap therefrom. It seems scarcely worth while for the City to do an anjury to a portion of its own population for the purpose of making Mr. Belmont lose some money. The City should pay a fair price; that is, approximately what the tunnel has cost, and it should lease its purchase to the Interborough Company for the interest on the purchase price, plus a sinking fund of one per cent. There may be some difficulty in arranging the length of the lease, but under the circumstances the Belmont Company should be satisfied with a concession of twenty years with the option of a similar term at a higher rental. Of course the lease would be conditioned on a connection of the tunnel with the existway Subway at Park Ave. and 42d St. Such a connection would have to be carefully arranged, so as to avoid a conflict with the future Lexington Ave. and 3d Ave. Subways, but such arrangements should not be a difficult engineering problem. It is particularly important that the Belmont tunnel should be connected with Times Square, so that the residents of Queens will have immediate access to the theatres and the restaurants in that neighborhood. We presume that for the present the trains in the tunnel would have to be operated as shuttles, but eventually it should be possible to put on at regular intervals trains which would run as expresses from the Bridge to 42d St, and would then take their passengers under the River to Long Island City. Whenever such an arrangement is consummated it will mean millions of dollars to the owners of real estate in Queens.

Builders Have Much to Learn.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE BUILDING TRADES EMPLOYERS' ASSOCIATION.

E have just passed through a year the latter part of which was fairly active in the consumption of building materials, but with some inconvenience financially. We find ourselves just now in the face of the winter season with most of our work finished up and with an unpromising spring to come. In my experience, the misfortune of our trade is that the chance for speculation is so attractive that at stated periods there appear many persons operating and building who know little or nothing about the trade part, but are attracted by the prospects of little work and big profits. They start out with a shoestring and wind up with a deficiency. The legitimate party or the practical man goes along fairly well, notwithstanding his inexperienced opposition and, if attentive to business, after a hard year's labor, will finish up with a fair return, but to the average man hardly compensating for the time and experience devoted.

It appears to me that our calling for the immediate future will suffer from inaction; just how long it is hard to say. The year 1908 is what is known in business circles as a Presidential Year, which experience has shown us has always been what is called an Off Year, and usually a quiet one, in building lines; more from sentiment than from any real reason. However, the country has fallen into this bad habit and each fourth year affects us accordingly.

AN ARTIFICIAL CONDITION OF TRADE.

The building trade in 1908 seems to me will be an inactive one, and will not revive very quickly, unless some inducement of capital should appear in our channels. To my mind something must be done in the way of reduction of cost to make an inducement. The agreement between employers and employees, so common in almost every section of the country, is a mistake of judgment. It produces an artificial condition of trade. The right principle in the building trade should be on the same lines as the storekeepers. Supply and demand is the natural regulator, it seems to me, in all matters of trade. Combinations to force conditions are unnatural and will hardly last. There may be another side to this question of combination between employer and employee, but to my mind it is as debatable as Free Trade and Protection.

Of course there will always be some business, for there will always be some money to spend. The year 1908, I fear, is going to be a slow year for the builders and all those engaged in the building lines. I believe we all have much to learn in building matters in the way of cheapening the cost of building, thereby lessening the rent roll for the tenant. To each and every wageworker the rent is usually the first and the most expensive item in each household. The rent not only affects directly the head of the family, but touches him through all classes of storekeepers: the higher the rent the higher the price of the commodities of the storekeeper naturally must be, and so, one thing after another is more expensive, the burden of which the head of the family must bear. If we can reduce the cost of building we will be public benefactors, though perhaps not known or appreciated as such. The concrete building seems to me as a move in this direction, and unless the cost of handling this material by the employees is increased, I feel certain that it will ultimately inure to the benefit of the whole community.

Our unfortunate financial condition of the present moment, which, in my opinion, is the result principally of a lack of confidence in the public mind, if continued, will affect all those employed in the building trades for an indefinite time. I do not look for any revival in our channels until the public gets more settled on this all important question; for it seems to me there can be no revival until after confidence is restored. While my views may perhaps appear pessimistic, at the present, I will gladly return again to my usual optimistic feeling on the least little encouragement.

While the present looks blue, let us be patient and persevere with the hope of better conditions in the not very distant future.

ISAAC A. HOPPER.

The Index to Volume LXXX. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between July 1 to December 30, is now ready for delivery. Price, $1. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to everyone engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

The Parker Building Fire.

An investigation, careful and particular, is being made by the insurance companies, notably through the New York Fire Insurance Exchange, into various phases of the fire which more or less consumed the Parker Building. Mayor McClellan has also ordered an investigation of the work of the Fire Department on the occasion, with particular reference to the efficiency of the equipment. His Honor personally visited the ruins on Tuesday, and the order for the investigation followed. The same day Chief Croker and Mr. C. G. Smith, both members of the Board of Examiners of the Building Department, and also of the late Commission to Revise the Code, made a preliminary inspection.

No conflagration in years has commanded such attention to its revelations and lessons as the one which broke out in this building on Friday evening, Jan. 10, and left standing only a shattered skeleton. It was a 12-sty and basement building, 131 x150, at 225-233 4th av, at the southeast corner of Nineteenth st, erected from plans filed Aug. 9, 1899. The construction was started Sept. 22, 1899, and finished June 30, 1900. (The present building code went into effect in December, 1899.) The owner of record was Jenny Parker, the builder was the John H. Parker Construction Co., and the architect was William Birkmier. Estimated cost, $775,000. "George E. Wallace, of Rochester, N. H.," is now the owner of record, and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. holds a mortgage, bearing date Nov. 30, 1906, for $1,200,000. Before the building was erected the site was vacant, but previously had been occupied for a long period by the "Cyclorama of the Battle of Gettysburgh." Not to go minutely into the history of the site, old residents recollect that during and before the civil war, for many years, the block front on 4th st was occupied by several detached white mansions of Colonial design, one of which was the home of Mrs. Holbrook, to whom Gen. Fitz-John Porter was related.

A 12-sty and basement brick building, with a 1-sty and basement brick extension at southeast corner of building. Fronts—Stone 1st, 2d and 3d stories, brick above. Walls—Independent, curtain, with columns built in brick piers, north side brick piers 30x24, with wall between 12, south side 24, top floor 12, east side 24, top floor 12, west piers 30x24, walls 12. Parapet walls—Over 3 ft. high. Roof—Fireproof, composition covered. Two roof structures of fireproof material. Skylights—¼-in. glass on metal, in roof, on roof structures (artist's), over elevators and on extension, the latter screened. Shutters—Fronts none, rear and south side iron in part (none on those walls directly over the extension all floors). Cornice—Metal. Openings through floors—Elevators, five, 2 passenger and 3 freight; 3 elevators in 1 shaft, open to halls by grillework on 1 side, otherwise enclosed by fireproof material; 2 elevators, in 1 shaft of fireproof material, wood metal covered doors at openings faced by wood doors and wood casings outside and not properly closed in basement at motor rooms. Stairs—Of iron, open in part, from basement to 1st floor (1 flight), otherwise of iron, with stone treads and landings, enclosed by partitions of fireproof material, with large sash doors and sidelights to lofts. Floors—Double, on wood sleepers; steel skeleton construction; iron columns, steel beams and girders with terra cotta arches, filled with concreting to top and between sleepers; columns, girders and beams protected. Finish—Plastered. Interior partitions, terra cotta blocks set in part on wood flooring (1st and top floors). Height—165 feet. Area—About 17,300 square feet.

Fire appliances—2½-inch standpipe with 150 feet of 2½-inch hose connected on each floor, gravity pressure and direct connection with duplex pump, 8x7¼x10, in basement: 20 to 30 fire pails on each floor, except 48 on 2d floor (pails on 1st and 4th floors kept in safety bucket tanks); perforated pipe (not approved by this Board) in basement, outside connection to Fire Department; 2 Rex fire extinguishers each in basement, on 1st and 11th floors; special building call (No 892) to Fire Department.

We do not emphasize any of the particulars given in the foregoing report. The reader can see in what respect the prevailing practice has been changed. The fire broke out on the sixth floor, and the fire department was unable, by its own admission, to cope with it, owing to insufficient water pressure and also partly to unreliable hose, many lengths of which burst. As the streams were barely able to reach the sixth floor, the flames burned practically unhindered, communicating by the windows and interior openings to the contents of the floors above, and soon appeared above the roof. The building was heavily stored with goods and also contained machinery, including printing presses.

SUMMARY OF REPORT OF P. H. BEVIER, ENGINEER, OF THE NATIONAL FIREPROOFING COMPANY.

The building was constructed in 1899, under the old building law and not in accordance with the provisions of the present building code. It is of skeleton construction with brick and terra cotta curtain walls: Columns—Cast iron. Girders—Single I-beam, 60 lbs. 15 ft. long. Beams—12 ins., 40 lbs., 20 ft. long. Each bay is divided in three panels, two of 4 ft. 6 in. spans and the centre one of 6 ft. span. Beams are framed into the girders, centre of beam being on centre of the girder, which leaves the bottom flange of the beam 1½ ins. above the bottom flange of the girders.

FIREPROOFING.—The floor arches throughout are 8-in. semiporous, side construction, hollow tile arches, with lip skewbacks projecting 1½ ins. below the lower flanges of beams. There was no girder covering used. The soffit of the arches being 1½ ins. below the flange of the beams, the underside of

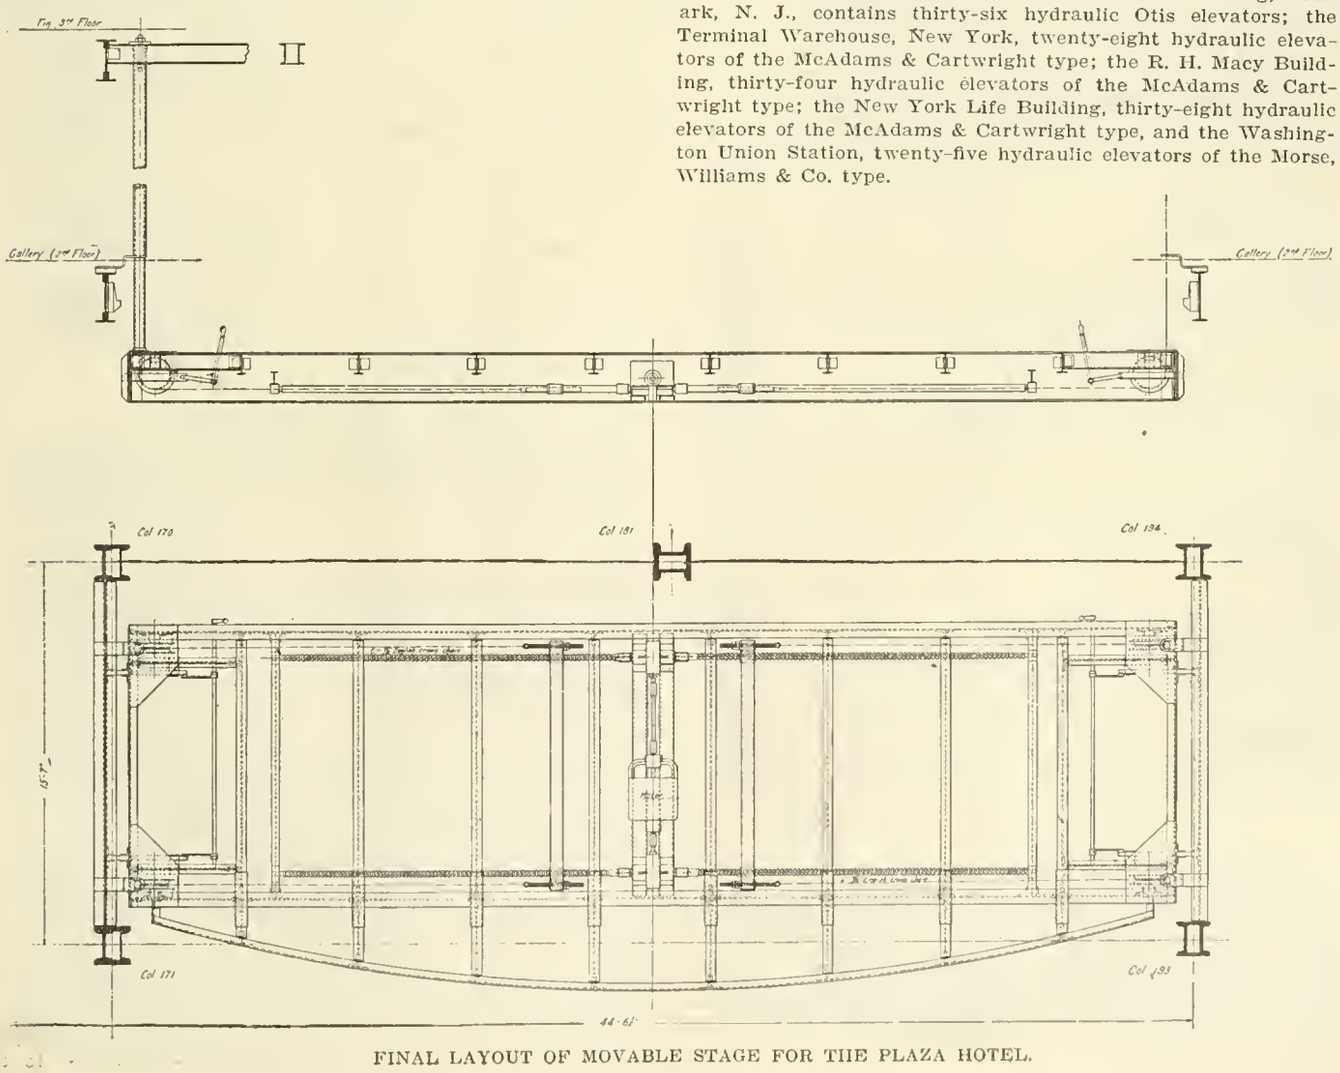
THE REALM OF BUILDING.

Plaza Hotel Moving Stage.



UNIQUE AND INTERESTING FEATURE OF A MODERN HOTEL EQUIPMENT.

The accompanying diagram shows a special arrangement of hoisting apparatus which is used to operate the movable stage at the Plaza Hotel. During recent years it has become a practice to have in all large hotels a stage upon which dramatic or musical entertainments can be given. In the Plaza Hotel this stage is in the ballroom, and when not in use as a stage it forms a gallery which in architectural finish corresponds to the gallery of the ballroom. In order not ot interfere with the architectural designs of the gallery and its surroundings, it was found desirable to conceal the machinery in the stage itself. The accompanying diagram shows the framework of the stage, which consists of two 24-in. I-beams about 45 ft. long, upon which the transverse beams carrying the floor of the stage are framed.

The motor which drives the mechanism is located upon structural ironwork suspended in the centre of the stage and is below the floor of same. This motor drives two worm gears, which are encased and which in turn drive four heavy screw shafts. Upon these screw shafts bronze nuts travel, carrying crossheads to which chains are attached. These chains pass over grooved wheels located in the corners of the platform; thence the chains extend upward and are attached to beams in the ballroom ceiling. The whole mechanism is self-contained. The traveling nuts and screws together with the worm gears form an absolutely perfect locking device. No friction brake is necessary, as the stage remains fixed at any point at which it may be stopped.

The bronze nuts contain chambers into which a mixture of graphite and grease is forced by means of compression grease cups. The worm gears are continuously lubricated in the ordinary manner. At each corner of the stage locking devices are provided, which consist of heavy steel bars that are thrown out by means of levers when the stage is at the upper point of travel. These bars engage brackets upon beams that support the galleries so that the stage in its upper position is firmly locked and forms an integral part of the gallery. The chains are concealed by large nickel plated brass tubes which have the appearance of columns. The weight of the stage is about 60,000 lbs. and the motor is 10 H. P. When in operation the mechanism is noiseless and steady.

The mechanical efficiency of the system is somewhat greater than would appear upon first inspection. This is due to the fact that the thrusting strains are balanced in every direction. The screw shafts are in tension and the pull of the crossheads balances. The thrusts of the worm shafts are similarly equalized. Thrust bearings are, however, provided for both the screw shafts and the worm shafts to take care of the difference of the load which might in some cases exist. This equipment was designed by Mr. Andrew M. Coyle and installed by the Otis Elevator Company, of New York.

FINAL LAYOUT OF MOVABLE STAGE FOR THE PLAZA HOTEL.

Large Elevator Installations.

It is interesting to speculate upon what the further development of elevator construction will bring forth in the metropolis. The demand for convenient access to our towering business buildings by means of elevator transportation, no matter what the height may be, has been a severe problem forced upon elevator designers and manufacturers to solve, recent developments in the form of the Singer and Metropolitan towers being chiefly responsible.

For the purpose of providing these tower structures with elevators that will serve the upper floors in one continuous run from the street, the Otis traction type has been employed. The Otis Elevator Company, which has supplied the elevator equipment for the Metropolitan Life Building, has now received the contract for six elevators of the traction type for the tower.

This installation, together with previous ones, will total fifty elevators, making this the largest number in operation in any one New York building. In the issue of Jan. 4 the City Investing Building was erroneously credited with the largest number. The Otis Company also has the contract to equip the Hudson Terminal buildings with fifty electric elevators. The same company also furnished the fifty-five electric elevators in the Marshall Field Building in Chicago. The Prudential Building, Newark, N. J., contains thirty-six hydraulic Otis elevators; the Terminal Warehouse, New York, twenty-eight hydraulic elevators of the McAdams & Cartwright type; the R. H. Macy Building, thirty-four hydraulic elevators of the McAdams & Cartwright type; the New York Life Building, thirty-eight hydraulic elevators of the McAdams & Cartwright type, and the Washington Union Station, twenty-five hydraulic elevators of the Morse, Williams & Co. type.

Improvements on the East Side.

The alteration of tenement houses east of Broadway, if present conditions continue, will, during 1908, exceed in volume and character those of any preceding year. Since the first of January a large number of plans have been reported underway, which will consist chiefly, with regard to school sinks removed, new toilets, installing and removing partitions and lighting of dark rooms. Architect Henry Regelmann, No. 133 7th st, is preparing alteration plans for the following locations:

Exhibition of the National Sculpture Society.

An exhibition of the National Sculpture Society, in collaboration with the Municipal Art Society of Baltimore, will be held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, in April, 1908. The exhibition will consist of original works of sculpture.

The jury consists of Carl Bitter, Daniel C. French, Charles Grafly, J. Scott Hartley, Anna V. Hyatt, Herman A. MacNeil, Bela L. Pratt, Ephraim Keyser, Isidore Konti, Lorado Taft, Adolph A. Weinman.

The Parker Building Fire.

arches were flush with the bottom flange of the girder, so the plastering was carried level across the flanges of the girders without metal lath to hold plastering in place.

All fireproof partitions were of 3-in. hollow tile blocks. The circular cast-iron columns were encased in 2-in. porous terra cotta column covering. On top of the floor arches there was a very lean cinder concrete fill.

PRESENT CONDITION OF THE BUILDING.—The brick wall and terra cotta on the 4th av side seems practically uninjured. There is some damage to terra cotta lintels on the 19th st side. The floor arches where standing are apparently in good condition, with probably five per cent. of the blocks damaged by fire and water. A number of arches have collapsed near the top of the building. In most cases the collapses were caused by heavy safes falling through the wood flooring as it burned away, upon the arch beneath, letting the safes fall through, with the blocks, to the floor below. In most every instance collapsed arches were in the 6-ft. span. I believe in no case were there any 4 ft. 6 in. spans collapsed except where falling safes or printing presses caused damage. The cast-iron columns were still standing and appeared in perfect condition. The column covering is intact, except where injured by falling material. Two sections of the building have collapsed. One from roof to the cellar and one from the 7th to the 11th floor. One of these collapses was caused by failure of a column, carrying with it the surrounding bay. The cause of the failure of this column is not known. The other failure was apparently caused by the falling in of the pent house on the roof, which was supported on unprotected columns, and when it fell carried several floors below. The openings caused by these failures provided a flue for the flames and created intense heat on the surrounding arches. The girders being unprotected were exposed to the direct heat and in many cases deflected, causing failure of arches and falling of partitions which rested upon them.

SUMMARY.—The building was in no sense a type of modern first-class fireproof construction. The hollow tile arches were of good material, but 8-in. arches should not have been used in 6-ft. and 7-ft. spans. The present building code requires 12 ins. Girders should have been protected by at least 2 ins. of fireproof material. Partitions in the high stories should have been at least 4 ins. thick, and should have had steel bucks instead of wood around the elevator and stairway. Many of the subdividing partitions were of wooden boards, others of wooden studs and metal lath, and some of plaster blocks, which are all down. Cinder concrete should have been of better quality. More attention should have been paid to the fireproofing of steel members carrying the roof construction.

It is entirely possible to so incase structural steel members of a building that they will not be affected by heat, but the fact that this work is slighted in certain instances does not prove that skyscrapers are dangerous, or that proper fireproofing fails to do its work when fire comes.

This building with all its faults is an example of the value of fireproof construction. Had it been built in any other way the floors and walls would have collapsed and spread the fire to the surrounding buildings, and perhaps caused a disastrous conflagration.

As it is, however, in spite of lack of water, the fire did not spread beyond the building in which it originated, and the building itself is not so damaged but that it can be readily repaired and put in proper condition.

FOUR IMPORTANT ESSENTIALS.

Alfred G. Patton, C. E., after a survey of the ruins, has made a preliminary report to the New York Fire Insurance Exchange, a copy of which is before us. After giving a close description of the construction of the building, particularly of the floors, he says:

"It is quite evident that when the fire broke out, apparently amongst some packing material at the rear of the sixth floor, it readily found its way to the lofts above and communicated to the contents of each loft through the poorly protected floor openings which existed in the northeast corner of the building."

In conclusion the report says:

"A hasty glance at the results of the fire in this building lead to several conclusions:

"First, that great care should be exercised in all buildings not to permit floors to be overloaded, or, in other words, the city should in no case permit a building to be occupied for other than the purposes for which it was designed.

"Second, that in all buildings of so-called fireproof construction the absolute enclosure of all floor openings in fireproof material with standard fire doors at all openings is imperative. This should be done to prevent the fire on one floor communicating to other floors of building; also to prevent smoke and water damaging such floors and contents of the building not directly affected by the fire.

"Third, that it is asolutely essential that stand-pipes of ample size and well located should be provided, together with proper hose appliances and having such initial water supply as to warrant that they may be used by occupants of building in fires at their inception and later by fire department with flexible couplings from engines.

"Fourth, that all steel work should be protected from the heat action in the most careful and approved manner."

Recommendations for Fire Protection.

In a public lecture on Fire Protection delivered at the School of Applied Science of New York University yesterday morning (Friday) Hugh T. Wreaks, assistant secretary of the National Fire Protection Association, pointed out the necessity of a law limiting the combustible material permitted in any type of building, according to the capacity of the building to resist fire. He said:

"Fire danger is not a danger from flame, as is commonly supposed, but from heat. It is also true that every known substance will lose its strength or disintegrate under some degree of heat, the only difference being that some substances will carry flame readily and others will not, and that it takes much higher flame to affect some materials than others.

"This, then, brings us to the relative importance of preventing intense heat in case of fire, limiting the amount of inflammable material in a given building proportionate to the way in which this building is divided off into areas separated from each other and from outside exposure by proper cut-offs and equipped with sprinklers and other extinguishing devices and, also, constructed from a fire resistant point of view. Or, in other words, it would seem that public safety required more limitation of combustible material permitted in any given type of building, according to the capacity of the building to resist fire and retard the spread of fire from one section to another; and that this limitation, on account of public safety, should be recognized by law.

"This would make a law analogous to the building law, limiting the carrying capacity of each floor according to its strength, and, as a measure of public safety, it would certainly prove of value in retarding the spread of fire and in preventing conflagrations."

An application of such a law would, in the speaker's opinion, unquestionably have made the recent Parker fire more possible of handling and controlling.

In taking up in detail the types of construction and the fire retardant devices calculated to heighten a building's power of resistance to fire, Mr. Wreaks said:

"To complete the so-called fireproof building, all openings must be protected by retardants which are self-closing in case of fire, such as fireproof doors, windows and shutters, and equipped with extinguishing devices such as automatic sprinklers, fire hose and chemical extinguishers, also such signaling devices as may sound proper alarms either locally or to fire headquarters, or both, in case of fire. And similar extinguishing and signaling apparatus would be even more necessary in non-fire resistant buildings. And, on these latter, the addition of non-inflammable or, better yet, non-combustible roofs, would seem to be of interest, as important protection against fires from other buildings. We would then have the following devices:

a. Fire Doors.
b. Fire Shutters.
c. Wire-Glass Windows.
d. Automatic Sprinklers.
e. Fire Hose, Cotton Rubber Lined.
f. Fire Hose, Linen.
g. Chemical Extinguishers.
h. Non-Inflammable or Non-Combustible Roofs.

Product and Appliance.

The largest single order yet given in New York for elevator door-hangers, which was awarded to the Reliance Ball-Bearing Door-Hanging Company, for 658 hangers, has just been completed. Mr. H. L. Balch, of this company, reports a continuation of busy times with him. The company now has its own private factory in Brooklyn.

The Reliance hanger consists of two stationary steel tracks and one steel sliding track, between which the door is attached. Between the stationary and movable tracks, so placed that they cannot get out of order, are steel balls fitting into a groove in both tracks and upon which the movable track slides back and forth with a minimum amount of friction. These hangers are carrying doors weighing anywhere from 50 to 2,000 pounds. By virtue of the hanger's construction the heavy doors move just as easily as the light doors—this is a feature uncommon in hanger construction. An indication of the great success of this hanger can be readily seen from the fact that it was specified and is now in use in the following buildings: Plaza Hotel, Knickerbocker Hotel, N. Y. Tribune, N. Y. World, Mills Hotel No. 3, Gorham Building, Tiffany Building, Silversmiths' Building, Apthorpe Apartments, Engineers' Club, United Engineering Building, Hamburg-American Building, Metropolitan Life Insurance Building and Tower, Trust Co. of America, Title Guarantee and Trust Building, U. S. Realty Building, U. S. Express Building, Trinity Building, U. S. Custom House, McAdoo Terminal Buildings, Acker, Merrall & Condit Building, as well as many of the modern skyscrapers of other cities of the country.

The great success achieved by this hanger has led to a demand for an elevator door lock which will be in a class with it, and to the development of such a lock the company has been for some time giving its attention, with the result that it now has a lock known as the "Reliance" Gravity Lock, which is made in two sizes to fit different widths of door stiles.

Building Operations.

Statistics of Plans Filed.

The following is a table of the new buildings and alterations projected for Manhattan and the Bronx, with the estimated cost, for the past week and also for the corresponding week of 1907:

	1908.	1907.
No. of the new buildings in Manhattan and the Bronx.....	24	41
Estimated cost of new buildings..	$568,600	$328,325
Total estimated cost of alterations for Manhattan and the Bronx....	$127,000	$360,748

Particulars of Times Square Restaurant Building.

TIMES SQUARE.—So far as could be learned the past week, no plans have yet been drawn or architect commissioned, and the Record and Guide is unable to substantiate the recent report in the daily press, with reference to the restaurant and roof garden which it is said will be erected over the entire block on the west side of Broadway, from 43d to 44th sts, immediately south of the Hotel Astor, Times Square. The plans, it is stated, have been drawn, and practically all the leases signed for what is to be the largest restaurant in the world, having a seating capacity of 8,000 persons, and containing a roof garden that is to be an exact reproduction in miniature of the gardens of the Trianon at Versailles. The garden will contain a lake fifty feet square and the floor will be sodded, and there will be shrubbery and trees about, while the decorations of the main restaurant are to be on a grand scale, and the entire structure a plan of beauty never before attempted in this country. Henry M. Erkins, of the Erkins Studios, who designed the Murray restaurant in 42d st, is named interested, while a group of Pennsylvania capitalists, whose personnel has not been revealed, will back the project. In issue of Aug. 25, 1906, the Record and Guide announced the possible improvement of this site by William Waldorf Astor, with another hotel similar to the Hotel Astor, also the proposed enlargement of the Astor at 44th and 45th sts, to nearly twice its present size, adding 100 ft. in both streets, increasing the building from 200x160 ft. to 200x260 ft., representing an investment of approximately another $3,000,000. The plans for this have already been drawn by Messrs. Clinton & Russell, but up to the present no contracts have yet been awarded.

Rotary Machine Company Contemplate Building.

The Rotary Composing Machine Company, 261 Broadway, Manhattan, newly organized with a capital stock of $2,000,000, contemplates the construction of a large plant for the manufacture of printing machinery. At present the company has a small plant in Kent av, Brooklyn, where machines have been constructed, but plans will be prepared for the erection of one of the largest plants of the kind in the country. George Wishart, care of the company, has charge of the mechanical details. William G. McGrath, William C. Evans and William H. Webb are directors. No building contracts have yet been awarded.

Nine-Story Building for Thompson St.

THOMPSON ST.—The Ronalds estate has sold a building site covering a plot 82x25 ft., situated at the southwest corner of Thompson and Grand sts, on which a 9-sty loft building will be erected. No contracts have been awarded.

Apartments, Flats and Tenements.

111TH ST.—Messrs. Blumenstein & McGlashan, 28 East 23d st, are preparing plans for a 3-sty brick tenement, 20x78 ft., for H. Delattre, to be erected at No. 21 East 111th st, and to cost about $8,000.

PRINCE ST.—Pasquale Lauria, 244 Mott st, will soon erect at No. 161 Prince st a 6-sty brick flat building, 25x82 ft., to cost about $20,000. Architect Chas. M. Straub, 122 Bowery, is preparing the plans.

Alterations.

8TH AV.—M. M. Loinger, 30 East 12th st, is making plans for alterations to the 5-sty flat building No. 2266 8th av, owned by Geo. Kitt, of 270 West 123d st.

116TH ST.—Messrs. Neville & Bagge, 217 West 125th st, are preparing plans for extensive alterations to the building No. 123 East 116th st for J. J. McQuaide, 253 West 61st st, to cost about $7,000.

Miscellaneous.

Messrs. McKim, Mead & White, 160 5th av, Manhattan, have plans prepared for remodeling the building purchased for a city hall at New Britain, Conn.

Plans by Edward L Tilton, 32 Broadway, Manhattan, have been adopted by the Carnegie Library Committee for the proposed library to be erected at Little Rock, Ark.

Hering Rudolph, civil engineer, 170 Broadway, Manhattan, and C. F. Drake, Pittsburgh, Pa., have prepared plans for a number of garbage and rubbish disposal plants for the city of Pittsburgh.

The Senate at Washington, D. C., this week passed a bill appropriating $3,000,000 for a site on the south side of Pennsylvania av, opposite the grounds of the White House, for a building for the Departments of State, Justice and Commerce and Labor.

The State Arsenal and Armory Comn. and the Library Comn., Hartford, Conn., is considering plans for a central heating plant for the Capitol, Armory and State Library Building, and have appointed as a committee Benj. W. Morris, 5 West 31st st, Manhattan, architect of the armory, and Donn Barber, 24 East 23d st, Manhattan, architect of the library, to look into the matter and report. They are to choose as a third member of the committee some eminent engineer.

Estimates Receivable.

Contracts Awarded.

5TH AV.—Roth & Co., 1st av and 23d st, southeast corner, have the contract for improvements to the 4-sty store building southeast corner of 5th av and 16th st for Rudolph Gernsheimer, 444 Broome st.

MADISON AV.—The Andrew J. Robinson Co., 123 East 23d st, has received the contract for improvements to the 4-sty residence of Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, 89 Madison av, from plans by Stockton B. Colt, 287 4th av.

23D ST.—John C. Gabler Co., 339 West 18th st, has obtained the contract for alterations to the 6-sty store and loft building, 154 West 23d st, for the estate of Ann Yard, 66 Broadway, from plans by G. A. Schellenger, 27 East 21st st.

Commercial Construction Co., 114 East 28th st, Manhattan, has obtained the contract for construction, heating, plumbing and electric work, in connection with the tuberculosis pavilion at the Central Islip State Hospital, Islip, Long Island.

The Grand Trunk Pacific has awarded to Foley Bros. & Larson, of Winnipeg, a $5,000,000 contract for building 126 miles of the system from a point six miles east of Edmonton to Wolf Creek, 120 miles west of Alberta's capital. The work is more expensive than any part of the main line yet under contract.

AV A.—John McKiernan, 89th st and Broadway, has obtained the contract for installing an electric elevator, fireproof shaft, and fire escapes to the 3-sty factory building northwest corner of Av A and 22d st, for Henry Erkins, 2187 Broadway, to cost about $16,000. John Wise, 21 East 21st st, prepared the plans.

Plans Wanted.

The Latrobe Hospital, Latrobe, Pa., will commission an architect in the spring to prepare plans for a brick hospital building to be erected in that city.

Plans are wanted by Jesse T. Bonney, who is to build a home for young girls at the corner of Bossevain and Colby av, Norfolk, Va. This will be in the nature of a memorial, and will probably cost about $30,000.

The city of Saginaw, Mich., will build an auditorium, to cost $100,000. Money has been partly donated by W. R. Burt and T. E. Dorr, of that city. The Board of Trustees are now looking for plans. W. S. Linton is chairman.

Drawing of plans for the new buildings of the Western University of Pennsylvania, Pittsburgh, Pa., will probably be reserved by the trustees for competition by the most prominent architectural firms of Pittsburgh. It is said that local firms will be selected, and only a limited number will be asked to submit plans.

BUILDING NOTES

A man who makes no pretensions has an impregnable position. It is he that claims a title who must defend it.

The New York Civil Service Commission will hold examinations Feb. 1 of candidates for positions as bridge designer and civil engineering draughtsman.

A real big fire makes as much of a sensation in New York as in any other town—even though metropolitan horses don't take fright at passing fire-engines.

The annual entertainment and reception of the Associated Employers of the Bureaus of Buildings will be held on Tuesday evening, January 21, at the Lexington av Opera House.

At the annual meeting of the Municipal Art Commission Robert W. De Forest was re-elected president for the fourth time; Frank D. Millet was elected vice-president and Howard Mansfield secretary.

The quick business recovery prophesied is coming true. Because men's minds are better poised than they were in 1893. "The thing that I feared came upon me," said an ancient philosopher. The modern philosopher doesn't think about it.

Adam Happel, the well-known iron manufacturer whose factory at 93d st and 1st av was recently damaged by fire, informs us that he has opened a temporary office at 408 East 93d st, and that all orders on his books will be filled according to contract and on time.

The Wheeling Corrugating Company recently erected for the Realty Associates, 562-568 Fulton st, Brooklyn, over 11,000 sq. ft. of metal ceiling complete in 4½ successive days. We believe such speed in erecting steel ceilings makes a record in this line, as a job of this size usually takes from ten days to two weeks.

Mr. F. K. Rhines, engineer, has become assistant to the treasurer and general manager of the General Fireproofing Co., assuming the new position Jan. 1. Mr. Rhines formerly was engineer with the East Iron & Machine Co., bridge builders, at Lima, Ohio, and more recently has been chief engineer and general manager of the Dixon Engineering and Construction Co., of Toledo, Ohio.

The chairman of the entertainment committee at the recent banquet of the Employing Plasterers was F. C. Lamont, whose career since coming to this country from Italy, in 1890, is an illustration of how well some of our adopted citizens get on. During the years 1905 and 1906 Mr. Lamont carried out over three hundred thousand dollars' worth of plastering contracts. He is one of the most helpful members of the Employing Plasterers' Association.

A black-bordered engraved note from Messrs. Warren and A. Spencer Webster, of the Warren-Webster Company, of Camden, N. J., advises us formally of the death in a crash of railroad trains at Camden, N. J., of Mr. Theodore L. Webster, their brother, and secretary of the company, on Friday, Dec. 27, 1907. Mr. Theodore Webster had been connected with this company since its establishment in the heating trade, twenty years ago, and his personality had peculiarly endeared him to all his business associates.

Weisberg-Mark Co., manufacturers of window frames, doors and trim for apartment houses, etc., are now installed in their model plant at the corner of the Boulevard and Orchard st, Astoria, a short distance from the 92d st ferry. Occupying a plot 100x600, with water frontage and with the erection of all the buildings requisite to carry on business on a large scale, they are prepared to furnish estimates on all classes of work, and are offering special inducements to those who will place their orders with them now.

Walter Janes Studios, No. 138 West 42d st, have just completed a large window in opalescent glass for the Spiegelberg mausoleum in a Brooklyn cemetery, the architect of which was H. Van Buren Magonigle, and the builder the C. E. Tayntor Granite Co; and they are also finishing a large figure window for Mrs. Charles Thorley for a city church, made in antique glass, designed by and the glass painted by Mr. Janes' sister, Frances White. This is a large and beautiful window, the work of a woman from beginning to end.

The exhibition of the Architectural League, 25 West 57th st, to open Feb. 2, will consist of drawings in plan, elevation, section, perspective and detail, illustrative of structural decoration and architecture, photographs of executed or proposed work, sketches and paintings of decorative subjects and executed works in the applied arts. Portrait busts and other sculpture and paintings not architectural in character will not be eligible. The competition will be for gold and silver medals, the president's prize, the Henry O. Avery prize and a special prize of $300.

John A. Murray, of 625-627 6th av, Manhattan, manufacturer of plumbers', steam and gasfitters' supplies, is beginning the tenth year in business. Ten years ago he opened a small place in 34th st and to-day he has one of the largest and most up-to-date establishments in that line. A steady and healthy progress has been based upon an efficient working force, and long experience in the business, coupled with the fact that he has always sold to and protected the trade, furnishing material of reliable quality. The house handles the products of the best manufacturers and guarantees every article sold or money refunded if not satisfactory. The machinery and equipment for prompt execution of pipe, cut to sketch, fire lines, etc., is of the latest pattern, and the great amount of stock carried in his large warehouse in 37th st and the 6th av store, enables him to deliver or ship orders complete on the day received.

The Week.

THE week just past in the real estate field showed a decided tendency toward greater activity. The market was broader than for some months past. There was also an increase in the number of sales reported. While the market cannot be said to be active, at the present time, still indications point to a fairly good spring season from a broker's standpoint. Last January the market was boiling; the record period, however, had passed. A large number of sales were being put through, and some reaching big proportions. For instance, in the week ending January 19, 1907, the Hotel Empire, on Broadway and 63d st, was sold for about $700,000; a large trade on Lenox av and 136th st, two 6-sty apartment houses, in part payment for which five apartment houses and a plot 150x110 in Brooklyn were given. This deal involved about $500,000. About 50 lots at Mott av and the Harlem River were sold to the Edgewater Realty Co. for about $500,000. Besides these a number of smaller ones were completed, which brought the figures up in the millions.

During the week just past 358 Washington st was sold to Woodbury G. Langdon. This is a 6-sty mercantile building, 22x75. The structure is leased for a term of years. In part payment the seller, Mrs. Nora M. Hannon, received 121 and 123 West 134th st, two 5-sty tenements, 50x78x100. The modern 4-sty American basement dwelling, 311 West 77th st, was purchased from Dr. James V. S. Woolley by a Mrs. Hornbostel. The block bounded by Broadway, St. Nicholas av, 171st and 172d sts, was resold. This property was taken in trade by the Jermyn Realty Co. in the latter part of last November.

The Bronx came in for its share of the glory in the sale of the new law house, 215 West 148th st. This house is 5 stys in height and has a frontage of 37.6 feet. The purchaser is Sigmund Hauser.

The mortgage market was fairly active considering the state of the money market. Mrs. Russell Sage was again a lender on real estate. Thomas J. Shanley borrowed from her on his Broadway holdings $244,000 at 5½ per cent., for 3 years. This property is directly north of the plot on which the Dillingham Theatre is to be erected. The Metropolitan Trust Company loaned $100,000 for 3 years at 6 per cent. to Harley T. Proctor on the property 11 East 52d st, and Mathias Rock borrowed from the Equitable Life Assurance Society $100,000 for 3 years at 6 per cent on the property on the north side of 27th st, 125 ft. west of 5th av. There were many leases reported, but none was of special significance.

What the brokers most desire is the return of confidence on the part of the investing public. Few of them think that a very active market would be a good thing at the present time.

What is most needed, in their opinion, is the easing up of the money market. The mortgage situation must first straighten itself out before large operations can be consummated. When the class of men who invest their money on bond and mortgage thoroughly realizes that this form of security is on the bargain shelf there will be a quick absorption and business will again be normal.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week was 172, against 208 last week, and in the Bronx 105, as against 166 last week. The total amount involved is $3,409,018, as against $5,643,717 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 38, of which 9 were below 59th st, 20 above and 9 in the Bronx. The sales reported for the corresponding week last year was 139, of which 65 were below 59th st, 58 above and 16 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

For the first time in several weeks there were offerings in the auction market other than legal sales. Voluntary sales took place at the stand of Joseph P. Day on both Wednesday and Thursday. The bidding in most cases was brisk. A notable feature was the large number of new faces in the crowd. People who were looking for investment parcels were "among those present." The Marseille apartment house, 2689 to 2695 Broadway, a 9 and 10-sty structure, went to the plaintiff for $656,119. The amount due was $66,150, subject to two mortgages amounting to $638,716. The plot that this building occupies is 100.11x120 ft. Mr. Joseph P. Day also sold 520 West 39th st, a 5-sty tenement, with stores, 25x98.9, to Charles B. Snow for $18,900. No. 419 West 56th st, a 5-sty tenement, 25x100, was knocked down to William J. Leonard for $23,700. Charles Reilly was the purchaser of 157 West 62d st, 25x100.5, another 5-sty tenement, with stores. He paid $28,000 for the property.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day on Thursday, 38 Leroy st, southeast corner of Bedford st, 45x20, a 3-sty building, with store, and 36 Leroy st, adjoining, a 3-sty dwelling, 15x30, were sold to Cyrus W. Horton, Jr., for $12,000, and 34 Leroy st, a 3-sty dwelling, 18x60, was also purchased by Mr. Horton for $6,000. This property was put up again as one parcel and the same purchaser had to pay $18,900, and advance of $900. There were a number of other interesting parcels sold.

The total amount involved in the auction sales up to Thursday night was $1,476,236, and since January 1, $4,061,685. Last year the total for the week was $365,085, and from January 1, $1,572,257.

Fire Insurance Companies and Mortgage Investments.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I would like to call your attention to the steady and pronounced discrimination of the New York fire insurance companies against real estate mortgages. I have before me the annual statements of several of these companies and find that from 40 to 70 per cent. of their assets are invested in stocks and bonds, and only from 1 to 3 per cent. of assets in real estate mortgages. It seems to me that since their business is insurance on real estate they should take more interest in this commodity. If real estate owners and operators would require of their fire insurance agents the last printed statement of that particular company whose policy he offers and then reject the policy in favor of another company which invests a reasonable amount of assets in mortgages, things could be improved. Perhaps your valuable journal will publish a few such statements and call attention to companies who favor mortgage investments.

JOSEPH E. MARX.

Civic Associations' Conference.

A conference of civic associations was held under the auspices of the Bronx Board of Real Estate Brokers, at the Real Estate Auction rooms, at 149th st and 3d av, on last Tuesday evening. The purpose of the meeting was to urge the building of a subway through the East Side of Manhattan to the Bronx and to object to the 4th av, Brooklyn, subway project. To this end a set of resolutions was drawn up by a committee, appointed by the chairman, Mr. Edward Polak, consisting of Frank Moss, M. J. Mack, W. I. Brown, P. H. McDonough and L. S. Bedford.

The gist of the resolutions is as follows: Whereas, There is a public demand for the construction of two principal routes, one on the East Side and the other on the West Side; and, Whereas, Over a million dollars has been expended on such plans; Therefore, be it resolved, That nineteen civic organizations of Manhattan and the Bronx protest against the abandonment of these routes under any pretext; that the organizations are not against the building of the 4th av, Brooklyn, subway, they protest against a pretended exhaustion of the city's resources in the construction of this extension of the present system. They protest against franchises being granted for the construction of subways by private capital, the same being a complete reversal of the popular vote of 1894, when the people voted by a majority of 70,000, "for Municipal Construction of Rapid Transit Road."

The resolutions were sent to the Public Service Commission in the Tribune Building. Among the associations represented at the conference were Bronx Board of Real Estate Brokers, 23d Ward Property Owners' Association, Mapes Estate Protective Association, South Bronx Property Owners' Association, Harlem Property Owners' Association, Van Nest Property Owners' Association, Edenwald Taxpayers' Association, Kingsbridge Heights Association, United East Bronx Improvement Association, Fox Estate Association, 44th Aldermanic Improvement Association, W. Morrisania Property Owners' Association, Irving Realty Co., West Side Henry George Club, Bedford Park Taxpayers' Association, Bronxwood Park Improvement League, and the House and Real Estate Owners' Association of the 12th and 19th Wards. Among those who spoke in favor of an additional Bronx subway were Edward Polak, chairman; Frank Moss, L. S. Bedford, John Behrmann, S. Feust, M. J. Mack and P. H. McDonough.

Allan Robinson on Rapid Transit.

Allan Robinson, President of the Allied Real Estate Interests, in reply to an inquiry from the Record and Guide, made the following statement relative to the position of that association on the rapid transit situation:

"The Allied Real Estate Interests has taken up the matter of rapid transit and it purposes to carry on as effective a campaign for rapid transit in New York City as it conducted for the repeal of the annual mortgage tax law. There is no doubt in any one's mind as to the need of more subways in this city. As matters stand, however, at the present time there are several things in the way that prevent the construction of new subways. The lack of money and the inability of the city to raise additional funds, due to the fact that it is near the debt limit, is one. Another and very serious obstacle in the way is the twenty-year limit on franchises set by the Elsberg law. No private corporation is willing to equip a subway and operate the same with the chance that it will revert to the city at the end of so short a period as twenty years.

"A method of solving these problems should be immediately found, and the association has already begun work along these lines. It is expected that a general committee will be appointed consisting of prominent men who have the confidence of the public. This committee will be sub-divided into three committees: (1) on Construction; (2) on Operation, and (3) on Routes.

"The first committee's duties will embrace all matters pertaining to the construction of subways and will co-operate with officials of the city which, under the law as it now stands, must construct the subway.

"The second committee would have in its charge the matter of a change in the Elsberg law and enactment of such legislation as might be necessary to enable the city to offer to private capital an attractive proposition for the operation of the subway when built.

"The third committee will deal with the matter of routes suggested, and will probably hold public hearings for the purpose of ascertaining what routes are desired and most needed by the city."

Mr. Robinson stated to a representative of the Record and Guide that the above were his own personal views as to the manner in which the subway problem should be handled by the Allied Real Estate Interests. The directors of that organization will pass upon these questions in the near future, and a public announcement of their decision will be made through the public press.

Taxpayers Want Trolley Line Extended.

If the movement now on foot to secure the extension of the Morris av trolley line northward from 161st st is successful much real estate will be benefited thereby. At this moment the Claremont Heights Taxpayers' Association is doing much toward enlisting active aid in this direction, and it is believed that their efforts will be crowned with success. Those interested in the improvement take the stand that the trolley road should be built the entire distance permitted by the franchise, and point to the fact that until this is accomplished a considerable residential area will be hindered in its development by the lack of adequate transit accommodations. It is thought likely that the matter will be acted upon at the February meeting of the Taxpayers' Alliance. In the meantime effective missionary work is being done to further the project.

Henry Harmon Neill on "News and Advertising."

Henry Harmon Neill delivered a lecture at the Young Men's Christian Association, in West 57th st, last Tuesday, on "News and Advertising." He spoke of the necessity of real estate brokers advertising their sales in the papers, saying that the majority of men in this business who fail to do this "disappear from the real estate market." He spoke of the value of the Record and Guide to men in this business. He said that the publishing of the transfers of realty and recorded mortgages was indispensable to the real estate man. In speaking of advertising Mr. Neill said "the benefits derived from advertising are, first, getting a market for property, and, secondly, placing the broker's name before the public."

Annual Report of the LAWYERS MORTGAGE COMPANY, Jan. 1st, 1908

To the Board of Directors:

Gentlemen: The earnings of the company for the year 1907 have largely exceeded those of any previous year. The gross earnings have amounted to $503,811.83 and the net earnings to $401,189.36, the comparative figures for recent years being as follows:

EARNINGS.

Premiums	$74,350	$110,853	$166,325	$234,909	$296,310
Interest	174,011	184,290	202,382	183,025	199,372
Rent, Commissions, etc.	9,202	5,897	6,194	4,054	8,130
Earnings	$257,565	$301,017	$374,902	$421,989	$503,812

EXPENSES.

	1903.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.
Rent	$5,912	$5,954	$6,343	$6,053	$8,562
Salaries	38,221	42,377	46,670	53,788	64,889
Advertising	3,988	4,104	5,462	8,894	8,595
Stationery	2,081	1,394	3,238	2,768	2,944
Taxes and General Expenses	35,591	39,436	31,522	17,095	17,631
Expenses	$85,794	$93,267	$93,237	$88,599	$102,622
Net Earnings	$171,770	$207,780	$281,665	$333,389	$401,190

The earnings and dividends for recent years on the capital stock of $2,500,000 have been as follows:

	Earnings.	Dividends.
1903	7 per cent.	5 per cent.
1901	8 per cent.	6 per cent.
1905	11 per cent.	7 per cent.
1906	13 per cent.	8 per cent.
1907	16 per cent.	10 per cent.

The net increase in outstanding guaranteed mortgages of over $9,000,000 during the past year is but little reflected in the earnings for 1907, but will show in the earnings for 1908 and succeeding years. No commissions are earned when mortgages are sold, the company's half per cent. annual profit accruing only as time elapses. With outstanding guaranteed mortgages of $63,679,725 it may be figured that the net earnings of the company for the year 1908 should amount to about 18 per cent.

UNEARNED PREMIUMS.

In addition to the cash earnings are the unearned premiums which consist of the company's contract profit of one-half per cent. per annum on outstanding mortgages from the date of this statement to the maturity of the mortgages. These future profits—which are not carried as assets—amount to $701,204.

ASSETS AND LIABILITIES.

ASSETS:
New York City Mortgages	$3,653,521.97
Company's Brooklyn Bldg., cost.	175,000.00
Cash	700,232.44
LIABILITIES:

Surplus	1,750,000.00
Undivided Profits	179,370.11
Mortgages Sold, not delivered..	99,384.30
		$4,528,754.41

Since the increase in the company's capital in March, 1903, dividends have been paid to stockholders amounting to $900,000; also $496,370 has been added to surplus or undivided profits, making total net earnings of $1,396,370. In addition to these earnings, the net increase in unearned premiums from January 1st, 1903, to January 1st, 1908, amounts to $597,000.

The assets and liabilities of the company were verified and its accounts were examined as of December 31st, 1907, by THE AUDIT COMPANY OF NEW YORK, the latter certifying to the correctness of the statement of assets and liabilities and to the earnings, expenses and dividends for the year 1907 as reported herein.

The total sales of guaranteed mortgages by the Lawyers Mortgage Company during the past year amount to $20,316,677, the net increase in outstanding guaranteed mortgages being $9,225,575, and the present amount of outstanding guaranteed mortgages is $63,679,725.

The comparative figures for recent years are as follows:

OUTSTANDING GUARANTEED MORTGAGES.

January 1st, 1904	17,677,748
January 1st, 1905	28,110,397
January 1st, 1906	40,876,781
January 1st, 1907	54,454,150
January 1st, 1908	63,679,725

	Mortgages Sold.	Mortgages Paid Off.	Net Gain in Outstanding Guaranteed Mortgages.
1902	$4,105,575	$2,065,083	$2,040,492

1906	22,959,085	9,381,716	13,577,369
1907	20,316,677	11,091,102	9,225,575

There are 4,761 loans outstanding, the average loan in Manhattan amounting to $30,000; in Brooklyn to $5,800, and in The Bronx to $11,000.

An analysis of the guaranteed mortgages sold during the past year shows the following facts:

INCREASE IN CUSTOMERS.

Number of customers January 1st, 1907	1,925
New customers gained	360
Total customers January 1st, 1908	2,285
Mortgages sold to old customers	$10,301,230
Mortgages sold to new customers	4,553,745
Mortgages renewed by old customers..	5,155,275

Mortgages sold to net 5½ per cent.	52,000
Mortgage certificates	306,427
	$20,316,677

While the policy long adopted by the company of making a uniform charge of one-half per cent. per annum for its guarantee and services relieves the company of any direct concern in changes in interest rates, it is interesting to note that the average interest rate netted by the investor on all mortgages sold by the company during the year advances but slowly, this average rate being in 1903, 4.30 per cent.; in 1904, 4.40 per cent.; in 1905, 4.40 per cent.; in 1906, 4.45 per cent. and in 1907, 4.68 per cent.

DISTRIBUTION BY AMOUNTS.

NEW YORK:
Mortgages sold under $25,000	$4,161,350
Mortgages sold from $25,000-$50,000..	4,507,000

Mortgages sold from $25,000-$50,000..	357,000
	$807,900

It is worthy of note that 67 per cent. of the company's mortgages are on Manhattan Island (all below 155th Street, except as to $64,000); 29 per cent. are in Brooklyn and 4 per cent. in The Bronx, all loans being confined to established and built-up sections.

VALUATIONS OF LAND AND BUILDINGS.

Value of Land.	Value of Buildings.	Total.	Mortgage Loans.
Manhattan $35,634,050	$29,562,500	$65,196,550	$41,615,200

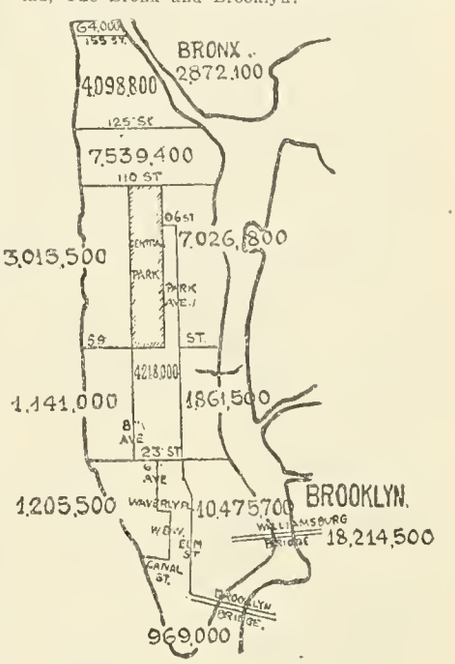
	$63,679,725	$59,084,690

The company continues to rigidly adhere to the limitations which it has imposed to safeguard its business.

These limitations—enforced only by the Lawyers Mortgage Company—are as follows:

First: THE TOTAL OUTSTANDING GUARANTEED MORTGAGES ARE LIMITED TO TWENTY TIMES THE CAPITAL AND SURPLUS OF THE COMPANY. To render this limitation practically irrevocable, the following amendment to By-Law VIII. providing as above, has been passed: "This Article shall not be amended or repealed except with the written consent duly acknowledged, of the holders of all the policies of mortgage insurance then outstanding issued by the Company." (This is the accepted European standard, whose safety has been demonstrated by 140 years of successful mortgage experience.)

Second: THE PROFITS OF THE COMPANY ON GUARANTEED MORTGAGES ARE LIMITED TO ONE-HALF PER CENT. PER ANNUM. (A similar limitation is required by law of European Mortgage Companies and removes the temptation to accept doubtful loans for the sake of larger profits.)



Third: THE LOANS OF THE COMPANY ARE LIMITED TO THE BOROUGHS OF MANHATTAN, BROOKLYN, AND THE BRONX. (No loans are made in adjoining suburban territory.)

Fourth: THE LOANS OF THE COMPANY ARE LIMITED TO SELECTED AND WELL-BUILT-UP DISTRICTS IN THESE BOROUGHS. (No loans made in undeveloped districts or near nuisances.)

Fifth: THE LOANS OF THE COMPANY ARE LIMITED TO INCOME-PRODUCING BUSINESS OR RESIDENCE PROPERTY. (No loans made on vacant land, churches, factories, theatres, or on any special utilization.*)

The effectiveness of these limitations in safeguarding the Company's investments is clearly evidenced by the remarkably clean record maintained by the company as to delinquent interest and foreclosures. During the year one mortgage has been foreclosed (amount $8,000), the property securing which sold for $11,050, and the company now has one mortgage under foreclosure (amount $15,000), which is in process of adjustment. The Company owns no foreclosed real estate and has interest more than one month delinquent of $5,824.

The following map shows the distribution of the total outstanding guaranteed mortgages of the company on January 1st, 1908, in Manhattan, The Bronx and Brooklyn:

During the past year the Company has purchased from The Mortgage-Bond Company of New York the remaining half-interest in the property 186 Montague Street, Brooklyn. In view of the growing business of the Company in Brooklyn it was deemed wise to acquire this property in order to insure the permanency of the present location of the Company's Brooklyn office.

The recent financial panic has brought into clear relief the fact that as to stocks and bonds there are three sources of loss as against one source of loss as to mortgages.

The first source of loss in stocks and bonds is that derived from a drop in the market value of the principal due to a general rise in interest levels. It is entirely possible to lose large fortunes on the safest and highest grade long-time bonds, as, for example, on New York City bonds, which sold ten years ago on a 2.90 basis, and since the same bonds now sell on a 4.30 basis, owners have lost about one-third of the market value of their bonds. In the case of real estate mortgages the opportunity for loss due to price fluctuations is eliminated by the short time they run.

The second source of loss in stocks and bonds is from the prevalent belief that both railroads and public service corporations are heavily overcapitalized and that rates maintained at high figures to earn dividends on watered stock should be reduced. The effect of lower rates on railroads and public service corporations would obviously be unfavorable to their earnings and to the market value of their securities. No such danger confronts the holders of real estate mortgages.

The third source of loss, which is one that may occur in any form of investment, is that from shrinkage of the security back of the investment, which normally would follow a diminution of earning power. In the long run the value of real estate, as of securities, consists solely of the capitalization of the net income. In judging the intrinsic security behind real estate mortgages, the stability of rents and the correct rates of capitalization, experience, knowledge, and care are necessary, as in other forms of finance, and adherence to sound limitations, such as those which have long been adopted by this Company, is vital.

The stability of well-selected New York guaranteed mortgages is based on the fact that the great mass of the inhabitants of New York must be housed and must have places in which to transact their business, so that centrally located property devoted to these purposes cannot cease to have value.

The real test of an investment comes in times of panic and depression, and the securities which show NO losses to investors may fairly claim first place for safety.

President.

Fifth Avenue Rental Values During 1907.

WHAT are the actual rents paid for stores and lofts on 5th av? Is the rent demanded by owners exorbitant? Unquestionably, it takes a man of some means to rent a place on that thoroughfare. Before a prospective tenant decides on locating in that neighborhood he has looked into the possibilities of the situation pretty thoroughly. On the other hand, landlords are particular who they rent their premises to. The references must in each instance be "gilt-edged."

The most important lease closed during the last year was that of the Brunswick Building, 5th av, between 26th and 27th sts. This structure occupies a frontage of 197 feet on the avenue and a depth of 157 feet on the side streets. It is built on the site of the old Brunswick Hotel, hence its name. There is a graduating lease which runs for 21 years on this property. The first year of the term calls for a payment of $150,000. There is a jump to $230,000 the next year. The object of this was to give the lessees a chance of getting the building occupied. The last seven years call for $260,000 a year. Added to these figures are the taxes, insurance and all other charges.

There are several interesting leases of leasehold property on the Columbia College property. A careful study of the annexed table will give a fairly good idea of prices actually obtained by property owners in this section. There has been a large demand for property on this avenue and the property owners are well satisfied with the result of the year's work. A number of new structures were erected and they have rented well. People seem inclined to stick to the "avenue." Efforts are under way to turn lower Madison av into a business street. As yet they have not met with much success. The apartment houses built on Madison av are all well occupied, but store keepers have not become interested to any extent. Those who feel that they cannot afford 5th av prices are renting stores in the side streets, in the Murray Hill section.

Lawyers Mortgage Company Earnings.

The statement of Lawyers Mortgage Company as of Jan. 1, 1908, shows the following record of earnings and dividends for five years:

1903	$171,770	7%	5%	2%
1904	207,780	8%	6%	2%
1905	281,665	11%	7%	4%
1906	333,389	13%	8%	5%
1907	401,190	16%	10%	6%

Its present capital, surplus and undivided profits as shown by statement are as follows: Capital, $2,500,000; surplus, $1,750,000; undivided profits, $179,370; total, $4,429,370. The stock accordingly has a present book value of 177%.

Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust.

The annual statement of the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company shows assets of $15,464,777. The company's two office buildings, one at 37 Liberty st, Manhattan, and the other at 188 Montague st, Brooklyn, are valued in the statement at $1,477,743. Other real estate, $785,687. Bonds and mortgages, $8,510,061; stocks and bonds (market value), $1,321,150. Loans on collateral, $1,690,856. Interest accrued receivable, $170,335. Accounts receivable for search and title fees, $214,468. Cash on hand in banks, $1,292,091. The capital stock amounts to $4,000,000. Surplus, $5,500,000. Undivided profits, $384,439. Deposits, $4,967,576. Deposits in trust, $538,144. This strong condition is due to the conservative policy which has always been pursued.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

BROOME ST.—Clifford N. Shurman sold for the estate of L. Leypoldt 528 Broome st, 20x78x irreg, vacant, to Ira H. Bennett. This property is situated 80 ft. east of Sullivan st. There is an old frame house on the lot. This property was sold at auction with 526½ Broome st at the stand of Byran L. Kennelly on Nov. 20, 1907, and was purchased by Alfred L. M. Bullowa for $25,100.

BROOME ST.—Clifford N. Shurman sold for the estate of Mary McFarland and Josephine Cutler 526½ Broome st, a 2½-sty brk building, 20x40x78, to Ira H. Bennett. A right of way to West Broadway goes with this lot.

New York Life Sells Holdings.

CENTRE ST.—Charles B. Walker sold for the New York Life Insurance Co. 81, 83 and 85 Centre st. These are 6-sty buildings, 65x70, between Worth and Leonard sts. This plot was acquired by the life insurance company about four years ago. Their intention at that time was to erect a large building on the site to accommodate the clerical force of the company. In this way much space in the company's main building, it was thought, would be available for rental to outsiders. This sale, however, indicates the abandonment of this plan. R. H. Thomas and George H. Walker are the new owners. The purchase price was $80,000.

GROVE ST.—Clifford N. Shurman sold for the estate of E. C. Hazard 36 Grove st, a 3-sty and basement brk building, 21x60x100, 152 ft. west of Bleecker st. The purchaser is Ira H. Bennett.

Mercantile Building Changes Hands.

WASHINGTON ST.—William Cruikshank's Sons and William D. Kilpatrick sold for Nora M. Hannon 358 Washington st, a new 6-sty mercantile building, 22x75. The building is at present occupied by Stein, Hirsh & Co., who have leased it for a term of years. Last May Mr. Kilpatrick offered the lot to an operator who stood ready to purchase and erect a building, provided a suitable lease could be effected. The lease and contract for sale to operator, the contract for resale to the builder and contract for construction of the building were all executed simultaneously. The purchaser, Woodbury G. Langdon, gave in part payment 121 and 123 West 134th st.

5TH ST.—S. Becker and S. Bergman sold for S. Schnee to H. Shapiro, 343 and 345 East 5th st, two 6-sty double flats, 55x97. In exchange 326 to 330 East 49th st was given.

$21,500. The assessed valuation of each of the properties is $19,000, of which $7,000 is on each lot. Some years ago this property was the cause of a law suit with the New York Central Railroad. This suit has been settled.

5TH AV.—Arnold, Byrne & Baumann sold for Salo Cohn to Leopold Yesky the southwest cor of 5th av and 118th st, a 5-sty flat, 26x100.

Eighth Avenue Flat Disposed Of.

8TH AV.—Herman Knobloch and Anne E. Haas, of 144 West 133d st, sold to Sarah Kitt 2914 8th av, a 5-sty flat, 25x100, adjoining the northwest cor of 154th st. The building runs to a depth of 95 ft. It will be remembered that the viaduct connecting Washington Heights and the Central Bridge is at 155th st. This property is also located near the terminal of the elevated railroad and the Putnam Division of the New York Central.

WASHINGTON HEIGHTS.

HAMILTON PL.—H. D. Baker & Brother sold for the Realty Transfer Company the northwest cor of Hamilton pl and 143d st. This is a 6-sty elevator apartment house with one of the best sites on Washington Heights. There is a square in front of the building which greatly enhances its value, as light and air are assured. This building is on part of the old Colored Orphan Asylum tract. John V. Signell purchased the block front between 143d and 144th sts and some lots on the side streets and built four buildings. The house involved in the present deal occupies a plot 108x182x100x90. A building loan of $105,000 was placed on this property due Feb. 15, 1906, at 6 per cent, and the day following a certificate as to consent of stockholders to mortgage the premises for $105,000 was filed. This house and those adjoining were sold at foreclosure by Joseph P. Day last week and bought in by the plaintiff, the present seller, for $821,510.

137TH ST.—Henry W. Fedden & Co. sold for an investor 350 East 137th st, a 4-sty double flat, 25x100, to Joseph Kruppenbacher.

The Jermyn Company acquired these lots in the latter part of November, 1907, in a trade for their 12-sty apartment house with stores on the southwest cor of Broadway and 61st st. Elizabeth S. Potter is the new owner.

ST. NICHOLAS AV.—W. D. Morgan sold for Mrs. Katherine Reilly, the widow of Registrar Reilly, the northwest cor of St. Nicholas av and 181st st, 25x100, on the avenue, vacant. This property is in a very choice location. It is considered to have great prospective value. The Subway station is close at hand. The purchaser, Thomas Smith, has just completed and sold the 50-ft. apartment house on 183d st, between St. Nicholas and Audubon avs.

Jennings Street Apartment Sold.

JENNINGS ST.—Loeb & Kaufman sold for William T. Hookey to a Mr. Malino 809 Jennings st, a 5-sty brk apartment house, 37½x100, 4 families on a floor. These floors are divided into two apartments of four rooms and two apartments of five rooms each, making 90 rooms in the house. It has also all improvements, including steam heat and hot water supply.

140TH ST.—N. Mayer, of 1476 3d av, sold to M. Sugarman 591 East 140th st, a 5½-sty new law tenement, 40x95.

A. M. Baumann, formerly of 116th st and 5th av, has joined the firm of Arnold & Byrne. Hereafter the business will be carried on under the name of Arnold, Byrne & Baumann. The offices of the firm are located at 41 Liberty st.

Loeb & Kauffman were the brokers in the sale reported in the Record and Guide last week of 1566 and 1568 Washington av, by Samuel Grodinsky to Abram G. Abramson. This is a 6-family new-law house, steam heat and hot water supply, with 22 rooms on a floor, 50x100.

G. Raymond Harkness, formerly of 2 West 125th st, announces that he has removed his office to 31 West 125th st. His present quarters are considerably larger and more spacious than those he formerly occupied. He will continue to conduct a general real estate business and will handle insurance in all its branches.

Maxine Elliot Goodwin, the wife of Nathaniel Goodwin, an actor, purchased from the City Real Estate Company 3 East 81st st, a 4-sty stone front dwelling. This house and lot is assessed at $60,000. The sellers took title to this property on April 22, 1907. They purchased it from Martin Le Brun Cooper, subject to a mortgage of $60,000.

Nathan Fernbacher was appointed by Justice Newburger receiver of rents of the property on the south side of 124th st, 200 feet west of Amsterdam av, 100x100, pending an action brought by Eliza Guggenheimer, executrix of the estate of Randolph Guggenheimer, against Reinhold M. F. Bruge and others to foreclose a third mortgage of $45,000.

The New York Mortgage and Security Company, 135 Broadway, has declared a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent. For the year 1907 the earnings were 10 per cent. over those for 1906. The company has never had a loss of any kind. The sales of guaranteed mortgages during the year amounted to $5,404,765. Edgar J. Levey is the president. The company has assets of $1,889,762.

The Legal Sales Bill, which provides that all legal sales of real estate situated in the Bronx shall be held in that borough, has again made its appearance in the Legislature. The bill was passed by both houses in 1907, but was finally vetoed by the Governor.

PROPERTY OWNERS' SECTION.

Owners' Protective Association.

THE Real Estate Owners' Protective Association of the 12th and 22d Wards, which has been duly incorporated under the Membership Corporation Law of this State, and which meets on the first Monday evening of every month at Colonial Hall, corner 101st st and Columbus av, consists of many prominent residents of the West Side of our city. It was founded in the year 1895 by Mr. Gustav T. Lawrence, who was its president for many years, and who succeeded in building up a powerful organization of real estate owners and taxpayers. Mr. Lawrence felt that it was necessary for real estate owners to unite for their mutual protection, and to resist excessive taxation, and to use every effort to secure an economical and efficient administration of all the city departments.

The association has a large number of victories to its credit, having served the taxpayers faithfully and well during the many years of its existence.

It has lent its aid to other civic organizations in the successful attempt to compel the removal of the two unused car tracks on Amsterdam av; it has successfully fought the Chinatown Park project before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; also the proposed Columbia College Park, which it deemed absolutely unnecessary in that section of the city; it has appeared, by large committees, in public hearings at Albany on bills pending in the Legislature, and has succeeded in defeating, among others, the so-called Licensed Engineers' bill, which required a licensed engineer in practically every tenement house in the City of New York having a steam heating plant; the City Marshal's bill, providing for a fixed salary for city marshals, and the Municipal Court bill, increasing the powers of the Clerks of Municipal Courts to an unwarranted extent. It has also, in co-operation with the United Real Estate Owners' Associations of the City of New York, fought the many thousands of orders issued by the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity for the installation of water meters in tenement houses, and has limited the authority of said Commissioner to install meters only in places where water is furnished for business consumption.

Mr. Lawrence, who had surrounded himself with very capable officers, including Mr. James L. Conway, First Vice-President; Philip G. Dux, Second Vice-President; August Hassemer, Treasurer; was succeeded about two years ago in the presidency by Mr. James J. Phelan, who formerly occupied high municipal office. The counsel of the organization for many years past have been Ira J. Ettinger, Edward Miehlang and William Hauser.

It is proposed to be even more active in the future than in the past, and to make every effort to advance the interests of taxpayers generally throughout the City of New York.

LEO STRAUSS.

Upheaval of Sidewalks on Washington Ave.

It is contended by residents of Washington av, between 161st and 167th sts, that the sidewalks in that thoroughfare have been left in bad condition as a result of the tree planting which was done by the Department of Parks. At short intervals holes averaging 10x4 feet in size have been dug and the flags and walks disturbed, and in a number of instances broken. This condition has become dangerous, particularly as no lights have shown at night upon these upheavals. Censure for this state of affairs has been centered upon the Borough President's office, and recently President Haffen addressed a communication to Comptroller Metz, insisting that payment for the planting of the trees be deferred awaiting the restoration of the curbs and sidewalks. Authorities on horticulture affirm that as a result of the escape of gases through the openings referred to the trees will not live, such being the case, the planting of them is an unwarranted expense.

It is said to be the intention of the borough authorities in the future to put a stop to the disturbance of highways for any purpose without a regular permit from that body.

Movement to Abolish Unsightly Pulley Poles.

It is understood that a petition is being numerously signed having for its object the creation of a new city ordinance that will curtail the further erection of unsightly pulley poles in the rear areas of the better residential districts. These objectionable poles, leaning at many angles, from which pulley lines are strung in all directions, are an eyesore that give a neighborhood a cheap, tenement-house appearance, lessen values of abutting residences, and are features of the city that have long been a subject of ridicule by visitors from other cities. Moreover, they are a menace to lives, as is frequently attested by the alarming number of accidents due to their presence.

Riverside and Morningside Heights Association.

This association was organized in the fall of 1899, and incorporated in December of that year. The purpose for which it was formed was the general improvement and the advancement of the social, material and other interests of the district in New York City, between West 96th st on the south, and West 123d st on the north, Central and Morningside parks on the east, and the Hudson River on the west.

Its first important work was done in cleaning up the objectionable saloons and other nuisances, which had won for West 110th st and its neighborhood the name of "Little Coney Island." The fight with these places continued through several years, but was finally successful.

The association has taken an influential part in securing the parking of portions of its district, and the improvement and proper policing of existing parks. It has been active, also, in the agitation for the removal of the unused tracks on Amsterdam av, as well as for the protection of the public along the New York Central tracks. In short, every important scheme for the benefit of the upper West Side of our city has had the hearty support of this association.

Through its Committee on Local Improvements, of which Mr. Vincent Loeser, 320 West 108th st, is chairman, the association has done much to advance the material interests of this part of the city. It invites the residents of this district to send suggestions and requests for action to Mr. Loeser.

Its Committee on Taxation and Legislation, of which J. Aspinwall Hodge, Esq., 316 West 108th st, keeps a close watch of all measures presented to the Legislature or the City Council affecting this region.

Perhaps the largest share of the association's work has fallen to the lot of the Committee on Grievances, of which William F. Clare, Esq., of 318 West 108th st, is the efficient chairman. Any complaints of serious breaches of law, harmful to the social, material or other interests of this locality, will be welcomed by this committee, and will receive careful attention.

The work of the association during the coming year will be along the lines of its former efforts. It has in hand the cases of several saloons, which have made themselves especially obnoxious to churches in whose vicinity they are located, or to their immediate neighbors. It will spare no effort to compel these places to observe all legal regulations, especially on Sundays. In the prosecution of its work, it invites the co-operation of all good citizens within its district.

Officers: President, F. M. Burdick; First Vice-President, Rev. Dr. John P. Peters; Second Vice-President, Rev. Edwin M. Sweeney; Treasurer, Charles Buek; Secretary, Charles E. Schuyler; Ward Brower, William F. Clare, Eugene Frayer, J. Aspinwall Hodge, Jr., W. W. Perrine, Vincent Loeser, Samuel J. Clarke, Myles Tierney, Alexander Walker, Rev. Dr. A. Edwin Keigwin. Honorary members: Seth Low, John D. Crimmins, Bishop Potter.

25 BROAD STREET, NEW YORK, October 9, 1907.

DEAR SIRS: Since I have been a subscriber in your company am pleased to state the monthly reports received from you show a reduction of over ONE-HALF of former bills; and, furthermore, your prompt detection of any leak or waste solves the problem of avoiding former extortionate bills. Not an owner of property having a meter can afford to be without your services.

Yours very truly, WILLIAM I. FOX.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

Key to abbreviations:

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, t. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1907.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagees. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Registers office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

"SNOW WHITE"

A true Portland of PURE WHITE COLOR, combining the essential qualities of great tensile strength and imperviousness to a rigorous climate.

"SNOW WHITE"
Portland Cement

"SNOW WHITE" Portland Cement is not approached by any known product for the following purposes, viz.: Facing for concrete construction and stucco, ornamental and architectural forms, superior substitute for terra cotta work, white ground for terrazza and mosaic work, base for all artificial stone, floor and other tile, special sanitary plastering of all kinds, architectural landscape work, for setting marble and light stones or brick, plastering elevator and light shafts.

Its pure white color, strength and close grained hardness, together with its hydraulic properties and its ability to withstand the elements, place it in a class by itself, unique in all its qualities, and indispensable at any price.

JUDGMENTS.

In these lists of Judgments the names alphabetically arranged and which are first on each line, are those of the judgment debtor. The letter (D) means judgment for deficiency. (*) means not summoned. (†) Signifies that the first name is fictitious, real name being unknown. Judgments entered during the week and satisfied before day of publication, do not appear in this column, but in list of Satisfied Judgments.

The Judgments filed against corporations, etc., will be found at the end of the list.

A DISPUTE between the associated master carpenters and their journeymen, as yet unsettled, illustrates the difficulty connected with maintaining a high wage scale in those metropolitan trades which must compete with the labor of the interior towns. Most of the wood trim utilized in normal times for buildings in New York is manufactured in towns where costs are from a third to one-half less, even where a semblance of unionism prevails, and the problem presented for solution to the trades in New York is how to reconcile the difference. They have never succeeded in doing this with entire satisfaction, for there are inequalities which cannot be planed down, no matter how much one's sympathies go out to those who attempt it. We have seen large planing mills grow up in adjacent towns devoted almost exclusively to metropolitan work, and latterly they have been seen to shrink up or quite disappear as they in turn have gradually surrendered to superior facilities or lower costs elsewhere. Parallel circumstances have occurred in other trades until only the fittest survive, or those qualified for special and higher grades of work. The thoughtful article in last week's paper by the President of the Building Trades Employers' Association has an indirect application here. It is difficult to maintain an artificial state of affairs as we must do in New York and be entirely consistent. That the trade agreements existing here do produce an artificial condition is admitted, but how else may journeymen meet the larger expenditure required for the household and for the performance of their common duty as good citizens? A large proportion of our really skilled mechanics received their training in smaller cities, where the opportunities for apprentices are or were better than in New York, and so have found by personal experience the impossibility of making incomes and wages go as far here as in most other places. Not only must the wage be higher, but the working day must be shorter, in order that there shall be a reasonable allowance of time for the long interurban journeys between homes and places of work. Modern freight charges do not constitute a sufficient protective tariff against outside competition in the products of the carpenter shop, and, after all, the question is, as President Hopper intimated, very much like the old issue of Free Trade and Protection. When isolation gave protection the producers of this and the adjoining counties had the full benefit of the New York market, but first the Erie Canal and next the railroads, which brought us commerce, also brought competition for local industries, some of which succumbed years ago. For several years the master carpenters that are under the arbitration plan have had an understanding with the unions in regard to "non-union" or imported trim, which they feel disinclined to renew under existing circumstances, especially as it is alleged that independent contractors are not restricted in the same degree; and hence a new convention has not yet been signed. In this case, as it has in others, arbitration is doing its perfect work and giving an assurance of another year of peace in the building trades.

WHEN the scheme of the Charter Revision Commission is passed upon by the Legislature, there is one respect in which we trust it will be supplemented. The whole object of the proposed charter is to make the powers of the municipal government of New York City adequate to its responsibilities; and to this end the local officials are emancipated as far as possible from alien control and are given the authority to administer our local affairs efficiently. Under its provisions they could not escape responsibility for inefficiency or extravagance, and they are empowered to carry out any plan that in their opinion will conduce to the welfare of its inhabitants. To this end it is proposed to modify the constitutional provision respecting municipal debt limits, so that the city will not be hampered in making necessary and profitable improvements, such as subways. But before the municipal government of New York will possess powers fully adequate to its responsibilities, there is, also, another constitutional provision which requires modification. Under existing conditions New York is practically unable to carry out certain necessary street improvements. The cost of the land required for such improvements is so considerable that no administration can afford to undertake them; and the existing method of condemnation and assessment works so much loss to property-owners that they frequently oppose street openings and widenings from which they might well benefit. The only method whereby needed alterations can be made in the street system of New York City is to arrange so that these improvements will in large measure pay for themselves; and the best way to accomplish such a result is to enable the City to condemn more land than it needs in the neighborhood of the improvement—land which after the improvement is completed can be sold at a handsome profit. At present the City is, in the opinion of the majority of lawyers, prevented by the State constitution from adopting such a course; and its government will never be able to meet one of its most serious responsibilities unless this additional power is bestowed upon it. We do not hesitate to say that a proper revision of the street system of Manhattan will constitute in the long run a work every bit as necessary to the welfare of the city as will the new subways or new aqueducts, and every year in which this work is postponed makes its ultimate consummation more difficult and expensive. There is no man in New York who understands the importance of street improvements better than does the Corporation Counsel, and it is to be hoped that he will use his influence on behalf of the submission of a constitutional amendment for the purpose of giving the local authorities the necessary additional power, but careful at the same time to propose a system for assessing damages and benefits that will restrict the proceedings to a scientific and economical basis.

PUBLIC opinion is being expressed with effective power in behalf of an equitable distribution of public utilities,—at least more equitable than the official program for subway construction seemed to contemplate a short time ago. The citizens of Manhattan have joined with those of the Bronx in making strong representations through influential civic bodies,—not opposing the construction of another road in Brooklyn, but asking that similar traffic facilities be granted at the same time to parts of the city where the need is more pressing and a sufficient financial return more probable. They have pointed out that new subways are possible in Manhattan and the Bronx, as well as in Brooklyn, if the City and State will protect investors against looters; that the City can command the capital for the construction of a tri-borough system and need not wait for exploitation by private syndicates; and that if the city does not equalize transportation by constructing transit lines to the north as well as to the east and south, she will lose population rapidly to the west. While general opinion would now favor any financial plan able to produce the results hoped for, there is an undercurrent of belief, which has been voiced by both the Association of Bronx Real Estate Brokers and the Municipal Art Society, that it is unnecessary for the City to surrender control of its future subways to private parties on long-term grants, and that with the means available now and forthcoming in the future the roads can be built in sections, several each year; and with the natural annual increase in the debt limit, they can be completed in due course, but through a constitutional amendment enlarging the limit of bonded indebtedness the completion could be hastened. In the singularly able communication of the Municipal Art Society, through its City Plan Committee, it is unreservedly predicted that the City will itself in all probability be obliged to operate the Fourth avenue Brooklyn line, and unless this line is tied to such a Manhattan subway as the Puhlic Service Commission now proposes to have constructed, its operation will be attended by serious loss. Thus, reasons multiply to urge the governmental authorities to decide in favor of constructing sections of another line for Manhattan and the Bronx concurrently with sections of the new one that has been scheduled for Brooklyn. The route which the Public Service Commission has laid out for an East Side subway, with branches into the Bronx, is generally approved, as almost any route would be, and presently a recommendation for an appropriation of funds for constructing the road will be transmitted by the Public Service Commission to the Board of Estimate, which body will then have to decide whether the means can be provided or not. But much will depend upon the form of the question and how it is presented, and for this the Public Service Commission will be responsible and will be held accountable by the people of New York.

Real Estate Mortgages and Bonds.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

The country is slowly recovering from its financial scare and the bond and mortgage market is again visible. From a plethora of money to loan on mortgages at 4 and 4½ per cent. only three years ago we have gone to 6 per cent. interest, and very little money to be had even at that. Wall street money market and ways do not directly concern real estate interests, but we can take a lesson from them and use it to our own advantage.

With the growth of population and the increase of wealth has come demands for larger financial undertakings which exceed the ability of individuals to finance. In railroad and industrial enterprises the corporations have adapted themselves to their larger needs and arranged a system of bonds and mortgages to meet the demands.

Loans on real estate are still practically carried on to-day as they were a century ago. But the magnitude of real estate improvements and increase of values have kept pace with the times. From mortgage loans of a few hundred or a few thousand dollars each we have gone to making single improvements which call for mortgages of a hundred thousand and five hundred thousand each, and they are often so made that they call for no comment. In 1907 two mortgages were placed of five millions each and several of over a million each, and all in the same old way, "by single lenders."

Why not take a leaf from the corporations and adapt our real estate business to the new demands? Why not interest numerous investors in such real estate loans instead of being dependent upon a single loaner? Why not issue a mortgage, as now, but instead of a single bond issue a number of bonds, as is done by the railroads and industrial enterprises?

Over thirty years ago I used coupon bonds with real estate mortgages and found them very acceptable to investors. The proposed bonds could be issued as coupon or registered and would find a ready sale among a large number of individual investors now shut out from such direct investments, and would thus largely increase the amount of available money for real estate mortgage investment.

Broadway and Lexington Avenue Subway.

The detailed plans for the Broadway and Lexington av subway are being pushed as rapidly as possible at the office of the Public Service Commission, 154 Nassau st. These plans were approved by the commission on the last day of 1907 and have been referred to the chief engineer, who is working out the details. After these plans are submitted to the commission, a form of contract will be adopted and under the law a public hearing will be held on the form of contract. Then the matter will be placed before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment for approval. If it meets with the approval of the board, contracts and bids for the work will be advertised. In all probability alternative bids for construction and operation will be asked for under the amended Elsberg law.

It will be remembered that the route goes under private property after leaving Broadway at 10th st until it finally joins Irving pl at 14th st. The number of feet to the track level and also to the mean high water mark are given below:

Location.	Feet to base of rail.	Feet to mean high water.
East 9th st	27	38
East 10th st	30	38
East 11th st	40	..
East 12th st	37	38
East 13th st	25	38
East 14th st	25	38

East 11th st is the point which the proposed subway crosses under the present underground road.

These figures are only tentative and subject to change, as conditions are apt to arise which might make such modification desirable. While there has been no decision reached regarding the exact location of stations in this section, Broadway and 10th st and Irving pl and 14th st are both being considered seriously.

The Mechanics Institute.

DEMAND for industrial training is sweeping over this country and is becoming so urgent and pronounced as to even affect the sensibilities of State and municipal educational officials. The recently effected organization of The National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education, with its active committees in thirty-four States, is tending to give definite and efficient direction to this demand. The Commission on Industrial Education, appointed by the Legislature of Massachusetts, is a noteworthy example of the arousing of the social consciousness to its appreciation. On every hand is heard reiterated this demand for the specific training of the mechanic for higher industrial efficiency. Though not answering to the current demand, but rather anticipating it, there exists throughout the country a number of technical evening schools whose laudable purpose is the imparting to the mechanic instruction in those subjects that tend towards a more intelligent and efficient comprehension of his trade, aside from its technique.

LOUIS ROUILLION,
School Director.

It is the purpose of this article to describe briefly a school that represents the highest achievement thus far reached in this direction; a school which in the adaptability of its equipment, the completeness of its arrangements, the comprehensive thoroughness of its instruction and its definiteness of purpose, commends itself to the attention of those interested in the education of the mechanic, from either the viewpoint of the employer or employee.

The Mechanics Institute is centrally located at 16-24 West 44th st. It occupies a building which, with the land, is valued at $750,000. The Institute is conducted by the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen. This Society was instituted in 1785 and has had a continuous and active career from that date to the present. Its original building, built in 1804, occupied the northwest corner of Broadway and Park Pl. The Varick Building, now occupying the site, is the property of the Society, as is also the building, on a later school site, at 472 Broadway, running through to 30-36 Crosby st. The rentals from these properties form the major part of the revenue for maintaining the activities of the Society.

These activities consist in the maintaining of a free library of about 100,000 volumes (formally known as the Apprentices' Library), a museum, a technical evening school, 40 free scholarships in the New York Trade School and a pension fund for the widows and orphans of members.

The school comprises 1,700 students and 27 instructors and administrative officers. No charge is made for instruction. The school is in session from 7.30 to 9.30 P. M. from September to the middle of April. Instruction is given in

Architectural Drafting,
Plan Reading and Estimating,
Mechanical Drafting,
Drafting for Cornice Makers and Sheet Metal Workers, Carriage Drafting,
Drafting in connection with the Electrical Industries,
Patent Office Drafting,
Yacht and Ship Drafting,
Topographical Drafting,

Applied Mechanics,

Applied Electricity.

The building trades being the chief industries of New York City, architectural drafting is in greatest demand. The enrollment of students, mostly carpenters, masons, bricklayers and plumbers, in this subject alone is 546. The classes in Plan Reading and Estimating are very popular and are crowded to their limit. The work this year includes the making of complete estimates for each trade for a business building on 5th av. A complete set of the architect's plans are in the hands of each student. The student is also made familiar with the building laws of the city.

The second largest classes are those in the various lines of mechanical drafting, made up largely of machinists and those employed in manufacturing industries. The work in carriage drafting is conducted under the auspices of the Carriage Builders' National Association. Another instance of the co-operation of employers' associations are the classes in applied electricity, which are carried on under the auspices of the Electrical Contractors' Association.

There are seven classes in free-hand drawing, composed largely of those connected with artistic crafts, and classes in

Building Records of Principal Cities.

In many cities of the United States, exclusive of New York, there was a decided gain in the amount of money appropriated for new buildings in the year 1907 over 1906, and probably in most of the cities and towns of the country, if all could be reported upon, there was fully as good a state of affairs for builders last year as in any year of this decade. Cambridge, Mass., did 87 per cent. more than in the previous twelvemonth, Cleveland 22, Milwaukee 18, Fall River 32, Paterson 39, Salt Lake City 86, Tacoma 228, Cincinnati 11, Minneapolis 6, Mobile 15 and St. Joseph 55.

Large cities which did less building last year than in 1906 are Philadelphia, 10 per cent. less, Pittsburgh 13, St. Louis 27, San Francisco 38, New Orleans 15, Washington 21, Louisville 47, Los Angeles 26, Syracuse and Kansas City.

In New York City the official reports of the five building bureaus, as published in the Record and Guide heretofore, gave the following statistics of plans for new buildings planned:

GREATER NEW YORK.

	1906.	1907.	Decrease.
Manhattan	$107,977,515	$74,939,900	$33,037,615
Brooklyn	65,066,276	64,150,107	916,169
Bronx	27,622,730	20,784,699	6,838,031
Queens	17,003,216	16,132,505	870,711
Richmond	3,055,490	2,223,218	832,272
	$220,725,227	$178,230,429	$42,494,798

The loss over 1906 for Greater New York is therefore about 19 per cent. Reports to the American Contractor from principal cities other than New York are found arranged there as follows:

—The largest daily output by Panama steam shovels in the Culebra Division since work has commenced by the United States was 46,732 cubic yards on December 31, 1907. Forty-three shovels were at work on that day, of which two were 45-ton, ten 70-ton, and thirty-one 95-ton shovels. The average output per shovel for all shovels on the work for the eight-hour day was 1,086½ cubic yards. In handling this material the following cars were loaded: 1,451 Lidgerwood flats, 1,104 Western dumps (small), 248 Western dumps (large), a total of 2,803 car loads. The total number of trains handled on this day was 347, and the total number of locomotives in use for all purposes was 130.

Building Department Employees' Ball.

The associated employees of the Building Department had a happy time at their annual ball on Tuesday evening in Terrace Garden, at Lexington av and 58th st, and kept the merriment going unflagged until nearly daylight. Members came from all five boroughs and with their friends crowded the Garden. The ballroom was beautifully decorated in white and gold, intertwined with garlands of greenery, amid which sparkled myriads of tiny emerald lights, a new and pretty decorative effect that was an artistic fancy of Orlando C. Flynn, of the Manhattan division. The evening opened with a vaudeville entertainment of eight excellent numbers, presented by professionals from the city theatres, and it proved a treat. The reception that followed was attended by a number of the city and borough officials and by former heads of the Building Department. A noteworthy incident at the reception was the arrival of Messenger "Eddie" McEvoy, of Manhattan, whose coming, in his famous "Beau Brummell" high hat with a bell crown, was hailed by an ovation that attested the popularity of this veteran Gotham civil service attache.

The ball began just before midnight under the direction of Herbert W. Smith, a Seventy-first Regiment veteran connected with the Manhattan bureau, and opened with a grand march led by eight selected couples, who evolved new and picturesque figure evolutions. The ladies all wore similar bouquets of large American beauty roses and gold badges that were miniature replicas of the official department insignia. This group of expert dancers comprised Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Lexutt, and Mr. Thomas F. Walsh, whose partner was the beauty of the Manhattan bureau before her marriage; James Costigan and Miss Mabel Collins, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Amouroux, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Kerwin and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Breen.

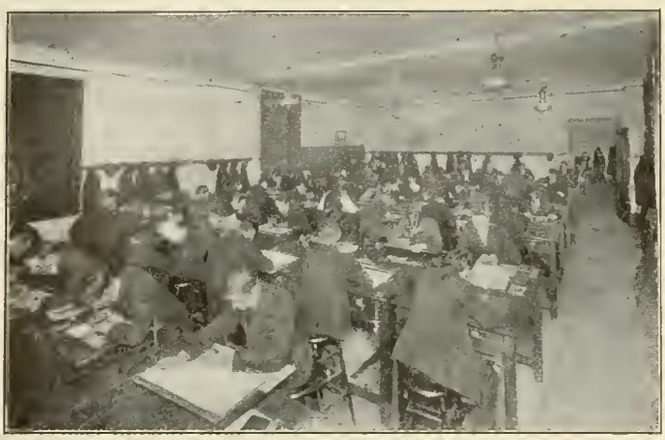
The Manhattan employees had as their special guests Superintendent Edward S. Murphy, Chief Inspector Bernard J. Gorman, Assistant Superintendent Joseph Gordon, Department Secretary Gustav J. Paul and Secretary William J. Colihan and Daniel J. O'Dair, known as "the Right and Left Bowers" of Superintendent Murphy's staff. It was the best attended of the series of receptions held by the associated employees, and its success reflects credit upon the committee of arrangements, of which Jas. H. Flynn was the efficient chairman, and with whom these members were associated: Manhattan—Engineers' Division, Archibald Schwartz; Construction Division, Messrs. Cole, Garvey, Flynn and Kerwin; Elevator Division, M. Wilson; Plumbing Division, C. Breen and T. Donoghue; Iron Division, Messrs. Ryan and Dunneand; Clerical Division, James W. Spencer, statistician of the Manhattan bureau. Bronx Borough—Messrs. Lalor and Boyle. Richmond Borough—Dinnan and Silles. The association's general officers for 1908 are: President, Thomas Linehan; vice-president, Thomas Montague; recording secretary, Albert A. Lexutt; financial secretary, Lewis F. Soich; treasurer, Timothy E. Deegan; sergeant-at-arms, William F. McEntee; and trustees, H. O. Cole, William Goldin and Richard Dunne.

Objections to the Mechanics Lien Law.

Dissatisfaction among builders and material dealers with the mechanics lien law is becoming more pronounced. Some, considering it in the nature of a delusion and a snare, would have it repealed altogether. A movement favored in other quarters would so amend as to make the New York statute conform to the essential principles of the New Jersey law. Mr. E. J. McLaughlin, dealer in masons' building materials, at 2d av and 46th st, Brooklyn, believing that such an amendment is desirable, would like to hear the views of others regarding it. A legislative bill is in preparation.

In a letter to the Record and Guide, January 11, Mr. Thomas J. Crombie, of the East River Mill and Lumber Co., 92d st and East River, expressed the opinion that it would be better for all concerned in the building material line if the mechanics lien law were entirely abolished. "It is at best a very doubtful security," he said, "and it has been proven often to have been a very dangerous remedy, for the filing of one or two liens on one day, followed by others right after, have often been the cause of a total loss to all interested, in operations which would have paid out in full but for the confusion and embarrassment precipitated by the indiscriminate filing of liens."

Mr. Crombie has heard objections even to the New Jersey law, and this is why he has come to the conclusion that it would be better to simply repeal our law and not try to amend it, as too much confidence is placed in the security afforded by the filing of a lien.



The Mechanics Institute.

clay modeling, made up of ornamental plasterers, silversmiths, sculptors' assistants, wood-carvers and journeymen in various plastic clay crafts.

There exists a large demand for elementary mathematics, in which subjects instruction is given to 230 students. The work in science is now limited to physics and applied electricity, but it is proposed to introduce industrial chemistry in the near future.

A visitor to the school is impressed by the high standard of intelligence of the students. They comprise, by a kind of selective affinity, the cream of the young mechanic class. These are the boys who possess ambition, and who are willing to sacrifice the gratification of their pleasure seeking instincts to the attainment of a larger intelligence and greater efficiency. In age they range from fifteen to forty years. They are all employed at their various trades during the day. Those who live in or near the city may find time to rush home for a hurried meal and then back to school promptly at 7.30. But the large number of students resident in the suburbs have not sufficient time after their day's labor to reach home and return to the city. These take their supper at a restaurant and crowd the reading-room and library of the Institute, awaiting the opening hour of seven. The reading-room is well supplied with trade journals, as well as magazines and other periodicals, so this hour of waiting has also an educationl result. The extent of the radius from which the school draws is surprising. There are students from Perth Amboy, Elizabeth, Newark, the Oranges, Tarrytown, New Rochelle, Mt. Vernon, Jamaica, Far Rockaway and the more adjacent suburbs. When one considers the late hour at which a student at one of the more distant points reaches home at night, and the hour at which he must arise in the morning in order to report for duty at his work, the incident sacrifice is impressive.

CLASS IN MECHANICAL DRAWING.

One is also impressed by the personnel of the teaching staff. Three of the instructors in architectural drafting are members of firms of architects, the instructor in sheet-metal drafting is the author of the standard, authoritative book on this subject, there are a number of chief draftsmen, and also three of the staff of Columbia University. At a recent exhibition of the National Arts Society each one of the teachers in free-hand drawing had one or more paintings displayed.

MODELING CLASS.

The Executive Committee is composed of the officers and the chairmen of the various committees, with the first vice-president as chairman. Each committee has charge of one of the activities of the Society and meets monthly. The School Committee has full charge of the entire work of the school. It appoints a school director, who is held responsible for the successful conduct of the school. He carries on the active administration and submits to the committee all recommendations for the appointment of instructors, the equipment of classes, the extension of the work, etc., for approval.

Any one who has, at any time of his career, been a mechanic or tradesman is eligible for membership. There is an initation fee of one hundred dollars, and no dues. The present membership, about 450 in number, is composed largely of men prominent in the building trades of the city. The officers for the year 1907 are: Hugh Getty, president; Frederick R. Usher, vice-president; William J. Hoe, second vice-president; Richard T. Davies, secretary-treasurer. The members of the executive committee are, in addition to the above officers, Charles T. Galloway, Robert Christie, William C. Smith, William S. Miller, Thomas J. Drummond, John H. MacDonald, Robert Christie, Jr., John H. McCullagh, John M. Mossman, William B. Hand.

The revenue of the Society is quite definite and limited, and is fully utilized in conducting its various interests. An added endowment would permit of a considerable extension of its practical philanthropy, especially in the line of its school work, in which alone it could give instruction to from 2,000 to 2,500 students instead of 1,700, its present limit. This limit is set by the present revenue and not by the size of the building, as there are still a number of vacant class rooms that cannot be used owing to lack of sufficient funds to pay the salaries of additional instructors.

New Building Code Up Again.

REFERRED BACK TO THE BUILDING COMMITTEE WITH AUTHORITY TO APPOINT A NEW COMMISSION.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen, January 21, the following resolution (No. 98) was presented:

By Alderman Kenneally—

Resolved, That in pursuance of section 407 of the Greater New York Charter, the Building Committee of this Board be, and hereby is, directed to prepare and report to this Board, a building code in amended and revised form, providing therein for all matters concerning, affecting or relating to the construction, alteration and removal of buildings or structures erected or to be erected in the City of New York; and be it further

Resolved, That, for the purpose of properly preparing the building code, the said committee be and hereby is, authorized to appoint experts as follows: Four architects, four engineers, one of whom shall be recommended by the New York Board of Fire Underwriters; five builders, one mechanic, two plumbers and one legal expert, each of whom shall be a resident of the City of New York, and shall have been engaged not less than five years in his respective calling. The said Commission to revise the building code shall consist further of the several Borough Presidents or their respective Superintendents of Buildings, when so formally named, and the Chief of the Fire Department of the City of New York; and it is further

Resolved, That the said committee be and it hereby is, authorized to appoint a clerical force necessary to the proper conduct of the business of said Commission; and it is further

Resolved, That any and all resolutions or ordinances or parts thereof, inconsistent or conflicting with the provisions of this resolution be, and they are hereby repealed.

The Vice-Chairman moved that the third paragraph be stricken from the above resolution.

Which motion was adopted.

The resolution was then adopted as amended.

Then by resolution (No. 103), offered by Alderman Brown, the building code reported to the Board of Aldermen at its meeting on December 2 was referred to the Committee on Buildings for its favorable consideration.

It will be observed that a number of the members of the old commission are reappointed under the resolution. The other members are expected to be named in a report to the Board of Aldermen at its next meeting.

Points on the Material Market.

Soil pipe is from five to ten per cent higher.

Staple lines in tinware have been reduced in prices to dealers from five to eight per cent.

Sash weights are quoted at $25 to $28 per ton, which is considered a fair market at this time.

The Seahoard Cement Company, of Catskill, N. Y., is about to break ground for a new cement mill near the village.

Milliken Bros. have obtained the sub-contract for the steel work for the reconstruction of the old Custom House for the National City Bank, some 3,100 tons.

This present year resembles 1904 in its building conditions; and 1904 began softly, you remember, just after the great strikes of 1903—and ended in a roar.

The Jersey shore will take exceptional quantities of building material this season. At Bayonne alone it is estimated that fully five hundred buildings will be erected.

The twenty-second convention of the National Brick Manufacturers' Association will be held at Columbus, O., Feb. 5 to 8, 1908, with headquarters at the Southern Hotel.

This is remarkable weather for winter, so mild and bright. Outside mechanics have rarely seen better working weather at this season—and if they only had plenty to do. P. S.: This was true when it was written.

Manufacturers' prices on building hardware are in for a general reduction of about ten per cent., with but few lines excepted. It is understood that the associated factories have so decided.

Bankers say that money for real estate loans will be more plentiful in the spring, on a basis of fifty per cent. of assessed valuation; and then gradually easier. Savings banks will give small borrowers the preference.

Reports from 22,398 lumber manufacturers show 37,550,736,000 feet of lumber cut during 1906. The mill value was $621,151,338. This does not include 11,858,260,000 shingles valued at $24,154,555 and 3,812,807,000 laths valued at $11,490,570. Total increase for 1906 over 1899 was 7.9 per cent.

A second-hand building material dealer in Manhattan has sold to John M. Hughes & Sons, of Jersey City, and Waddington & Son, of Hoboken, 1,500,000 common brick for delivery during the next month. This will mean about fifteen hundred cartloads going over the ferry. The Hughes firm, who are house movers, are to build about thirty houses in Jersey City.

It is doubtful if any of the laboratories maintained by the government for scientific research are more unique in character, and yet bear promise of more important results, than one which has just been established in Washington by the United States Forest Service for investigating the structure of commercially important woods. Laymen will not understand the significance of the proposed investigations carried on in this laboratory so quickly as architects, builders and other wood users, who in these days of growing scarcity of the more valuable woods are sometimes perplexed in indentifying substitutes. A work of this character has long been in demand by architects, builders and other users of lumber. It will, in most cases, enable even a non-technically trained man to determine quite readily the wood he deals with by means of an ordinary hand lens and by comparing the wood in question with the photographs of cross and long sections to be given out by the laboratory.

Building Operations.

Statistics of Plans Filed.

The following is a table of the new buildings and alterations projected for Manhattan and the Bronx, with the estimated cost, for the past week and also for the corresponding week of 1907:

	1908.	1907.
No. of the new buildings in Manhattan and the Bronx	29	47
Estimated cost of new buildings	$483,100	$1,354,500
Total estimated cost of alterations for Manhattan and the Bronx	$109,925	$992,575

Plans for the New Post Office Building.

8TH AV.—Plans for the new post office building which the United States Government is soon to erect on the easterly side of 8th av, between 31st and 33d sts, near the Pennsylvania station, will probably be selected by April 1. The height of the structure has not yet been stated, but it is understood that it will overtop the surrounding buildings in the immediate vicinity. The estimated cost of the building is placed at about $3,500,000, which has already been appropriated. For the building site the Government is said to have paid the Pennsylvania, N. Y. & L. I. R. R. the sum of $1,660,085, so that for both land and building the project will mean an expenditure of $5,160,085. Estimates, it is thought, will not be called for before the fall of 1908. Assistant Secretary Winthrop, of the Treasury Department, Washington, has selected the following New York architects to submit competitive plans under the act of Feb. 20, 1893, to be opened on March 25, 1908: Carrere & Hastings, Heins & LaFarge, McKim, Mead & White, George B. Post & Sons, H. Van Buren, Magonigle, Whitfield & King, Kenneth M. Murchison and Cass Gilbert. The names of the judges to pass on the plans are James G. Hill, of Washington; Henry F. Hornbostel, of Manhattan; E. Wheelwright, of Boston, and Frank Miles Day, of Philadelphia.

W. L. Rouse Plans Another Large Apartment House.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Another large high-class elevator apartment house will soon be erected on Riverside drive, the southeast corner of 98th st, on a plot measuring 100x108 ft. It will contain twelve stories, three electric passenger elevators, and will be of the best steel frame fireproof construction with every up-to-date improvement. There will be four apartments on a floor, containing six, seven and eight rooms, with two baths in each apartment. The total estimated cost will be in the neighborhood of half a million dollars. Excavating will be started as soon as the weather will permit and all other branches of the work will be pushed immediately. The owner and builder is the Century Holding Co. (Lee & Fleischmann, lawyers), No. 141 Broadway. William L. Rouse, 11 East 43d st, is the architect.

Particulars of the Parker Building

4TH AV.—Operations were started on Tuesday last at the Parker Building, 4th av, southeast corner 19th st, for the erection of a high scaffold and chute on the 19th st side to be used in the lowering of the damaged brick walls and materials to the street below. Although no plans have yet been prepared for rebuilding and renovating the structure, it is considered probable that portions of the present brick walls on all the four sides of the building and the floor arches can be saved. No contracts for rebuilding have yet been made. E. & J. Marrin, No. 520 East 18th st, have the contract for removing the debris.

Schwarzschild & Sulzberger to Build at Bridgeport.

Plans are being prepared by Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, 1st av and 45th st, Manhattan, through their own force, for a large beef house, which they will erect at Bridgeport, Conn. All the details of the plant have not yet been decided upon, but it will be of fireproof brick and steel construction, with cold-storage facilities, steam heat, electric power and gravel roof. Estimates will be received in about six weeks, and work will be started some time in April. Mr. David Ervin is the Bridgeport manager.

Coney Island & Brooklyn Railroad Improvements.

Plans by Messrs. Ford, Bacon & Davis, engineers, No. 115 Broadway, are now ready for two of the six power houses which the Coney Island & Brooklyn R. R. Co. is about to erect at King's Highway, Coney Island av, Av Q and in the west side of Sanford st, 100 ft. north of DeKalb av. The buildings will be thoroughly fireproof, two stories, of brick and steel construction.

Hudson Structural Steel Co. to Enlarge Plant.

SOUTHERN BOULEVARD.—The Hudson Structural Steel Co., 136th st and Southern Boulevard, Bronx, will erect immediately a large addition to its plant on the Southern boulevard. The plans are being prepared by the company's own force and the construction will also be done by the owners.

Apartments, Flats and Tenements.

123D ST.—Nathan Langer, 81 East 125th st, has plans for the erection of an 8-sty apartment house in 123d st, west of Mt. Morris Park, to cost about $60,000.

111TH ST.—M. Zipkes, 147 4th av, is preparing plans for a 6-sty flat building, 39.10x87.11 ft., for L. E. Kleban, 1572 Washington av, to be erected on 111th st, south side, 25 ft. west of Lexington av, to cost $40,000.

PARK AV.—F. M. Mellert, 1692 Monroe av, will soon begin the erection of two 4-sty brick flat buildings on the east side of Park av, near 183d st, to cost about $40,000. Chas. Schaefer, Jr., 1 Madison av, is the architect.

RIVERSIDE DRIVE.—Plans are being prepared by Wm. L. Rouse, 11 East 43d st, for the erection of a high-class apartment house for owner and builder, Harry Matz, 137th st, southeast corner of Riverside drive, to be situated on Riverside drive, the northeast corner of 136th st, on a plot measuring 100x145 ft. The cost will be $200,000, and operations will be started immediately. Excavations have been completed. The owner will award all sub-contracts.

Churches.

EASTERN PARKWAY.—H. B. Upjohn, 96 5th av, Manhattan, has completed plans for the new church building for St. Mark's Roman Catholics to be erected at Eastern Parkway and Brooklyn av, Brooklyn. Rev. J. Kennedy is pastor.

FLATBUSH.—R. T. Stokes, one of the most active members of the Wells Memorial Presbyterian Church of Flatbush, has presented to the church society a plot of ground at Glenwood road and East 12th st, on which a new church will be erected. The new site has a frontage of 100 ft. in Glenwood road and runs back 100 ft. in East 12th st.

Alterations.

LUDLOW ST.—O. Reissmann, 30 1st st, has plans for $6,000 worth of alterations to No. 28 Ludlow st for Esther May, 350 East 124th st.

PITT ST.—Chas. Singer, 157 Clinton st, will improve No. 55 Pitt st, from plans by O. L. Spannhake, 233 East 78th st. Estimated cost, $3,000.

1ST AV.—Chas. Gens, Jr., 210 East 56th st, is preparing plans for alterations to Nos. 1060-1062 1st av, owned by G. M. Kornarens, of Alameda, Cal.

LENOX AV.—Plans are being drawn by E. A. Meyers, 1 Union sq, for alterations to No. 95 Lenox av. Albert E. Lowe, 230 Grand st, is the owner.

ELDRIDGE ST.—Bernstein & Bernstein, 24 East 23d st, are architects for extensive changes to No. 43 Eldridge st, owned by S. Lefkowitz, 74 Spring st.

5TH AV.—The Hampden Realty Company, 15 William st, will improve Nos. 2227-2233 5th av from plans by Johnson & Morris, 30 West 13th st. Cost about $6,500.

125TH ST.—Chas. Stegmayer, 168 East 91st st, is planning for $6,000 worth of changes to No. 383 West 125th st, owned by Peter Doelger, 407 East 55th st.

AV B.—Anna M. Alby, 169 Stuyvesant av, Brooklyn, will make improvements to No. 3 Av B, to cost about $3,000. Henry Klein, 505 East 15th st, is planning.

14TH ST.—J. Hamburger, 73 Nassau st, will make $5,000 worth of alterations to Nos. 526-528 East 14th st. O. L. Spannhake, 233 East 78th st, is making plans.

CHERRY ST.—Mandel & Finkelstein, 40 Bowery, will make $3,500 worth of alterations to No. 244 Cherry st for which Bernstein & Bernstein, 24 East 23d st, are planning.

CORNELIA ST.—Messrs. Sommerfeld & Steckler, 19 Union sq, are preparing plans for $10,000 worth of improvements to Nos. 18-20 Cornelia st for J. Carneval, 254 Washington st.

Miscellaneous.

Frank Marion Wright, 489 5th av, Manhattan, is preparing plans for a 3-sty residence, to be erected at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., for Mrs. H. F. Bender, to cost $10,000.

Messrs. Howells & Stokes, 100 William st, Manhattan, have completed plans for the addition to the Yale gymnasium at New Haven, Conn. Bids will soon be called for, and it is expected that work will be started early in April.

Theo. C. Visscher, 425 5th av, Manhattan, has prepared plans for a 2-sty bank building for the First National Bank, Union City, Pa., to cost about $30,000. Bids will be received by Hoggson Bros., 7 East 44th st, about Feb. 15.

The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company has appropriated $1,500,000 for a new passenger station to be erected at Rochester, N. Y. A. W. Carpenter, Grand Central Station, 42d st, Manhattan, is the engineer of structures.

BUILDING NOTES

The Engineers' Club, at the annual meeting in West 40th st, elected as trustees William H. White, Jr., George E. Weed, George W. McNulty, Alexander C. Humphreys and Alfred W. Kiddle.

For the construction of two dams on the Des Moines River, Keosauqua, Ia., J. W. Anderson, of No. 7 Pine st, Manhattan, has been appointed engineer. The work will cost about $500,000.

The Consolidated Gas Co. has sold the balance of the $5,000,000 of one year 6 per cent. notes which the directors authorized last week. The purpose of this gas issue, it was officially stated, is to provide for new construction at the company's Astoria plant and the extension of its electrical service.

The city of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., desires the services of a city engineer at a salary of $2,250 a year. The applicant must be a hydraulic and civil engineer. Communications can be made direct to the Board of Public Works, Poughkeepsie, with recommendation, or to Messrs. Hazen & Whipple, engineers, St. Paul Building, 220 Broadway, Manhattan.

On Thursday a bill was introduced at Albany authorizing the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the city of New York to appropriate $1,000,000 for the erection and maintenance of an additional public hospital in Manhattan. The bill provides that the site shall be between 20th and 70th sts. The new institution is to be under the control of the Board of Trustees of Bellevue and allied hospitals.

The initiation fee for resident members in the new Machinery Club is fifty dollars, with fifty more as annual dues. While primarily a lunching club, it is anticipated that its convenient location and appointments will make it a general headquarters. F. H. Stillman, of the Watson-Stillman Company, is president; R. C. McKinney, of the Niles-Bement-Pond Company, is vice-president; Walter L. Pierce, of the Lidgerwood Mfg. Company, is treasurer; Theodore Waters is secretary.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers was held at the Engineers' Building on Jan. 21. Architect C. B. J. Snyder, 500 Park av, delivered the principal address. The following officers were elected: President, James Mackay, Chicago; first vice-president, James D. Hoffman, Lafayette, Ind.; second vice-president, B. F. Stangland, New York; secretary, William M. Mackay, New York, treasurer, U. G. Scollay, Brooklyn. Board of Governors: C. B. J. Snyder, New York; R. C. Carpenter, Ithaca, N. Y.; August Kehm, Chicago; Frank K. Chew, New York, and John F. Hale, Chicago.

At the plant of Harris H. Uris, manufacturer of iron work for buildings, situated at Nos. 525 to 535 West 26th st, may be seen up-to-date business methods and thorough organization in every department. With this system and all the time-saving devices installed, they have been enabled to produce more work in 1907 than any preceding year. Their contracts included work on the following buildings: New York County National Bank, 14th st and 8th av, Philip Herrman's Son, contractor; R. L. Daus, architect. Colonial Studio, 67th st, west of Columbus av, Wm. J. Taylor, contractor; Pollard & Steinman, architects. Studio Building, 86th st, west of Broadway, Wm. J. Taylor, contractor; Pollard & Steinman, architects. Engineer's Club, 42 West 40th st, Wm. L. Crow Const. Co., contractors; Whitfield & King, architects. The Monolith, 43 West 34th st, Samuel Green, contractor; Howells & Stokes and Samuel Sass, architects. Some of the contracts on hand are: Williamsburgh power house, Kent and Division avs, Brooklyn, P. J. Carlin Const. Co., contractors. New York Law School, 172-4 Fulton st, Chas. A. SCHENECTADY.—A new county building will be built during the present year on the site already purchased on State st, facing Crescent Park.

FT. MONTGOMERY.—The building of the new prison will require about three years. Hundreds of workmen from all over the State, masons, carpenters, iron workers, laborers, etc., will be employed, and the cost will probably reach three million dollars. All the buildings with the exception of the Warden's house, will be inside the walls. The buildings for the most part will be of brick, as quarrying stone will be tedious and costly, although many cargoes of stone will be cut and shipped from Sing Sing by the convict stonecutters, to build the Prison Hall which must be of stone. Address State Architect Franklin B. Ware, Albany.

BUFFALO.—The New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Co. has filed plans with the Bureau of Buildings for remodeling, extending and improving its depot building on Exchange st, at a cost of $150,000. D. L. Somerville, Div. Engr., Buffalo, has charge of work.

ALBANY.—Chas. H. Gaus, Mayor, recommends the erection of a new station house for the Third Precinct.

BUFFALO.—Buffalo Hahneman Hospital has not yet selected architect for the proposed homeopathic hospital, for which site was recently purchased.

SCHENECTADY.—Plans for a 2-sty club house, 40x108, for the Schenectady Boat Club have been submitted by Architect Oren Finch and have been accepted by the club.

CORNWALL.—Work for the New York aqueduct borings under the Hudson has been suspended owing to slow payments from the city.

PEEKSKILL.—Sheriff Lane has levied on 20 flat cars and 3 locomotives belonging to McNally Bros., the contractors building the dam near Peekskill.

WHITE PLAINS.—Francis A. Stratton, "the trolley king" of Westchester County, will apply for a franchise for a trolley line from Ossining to White Plains.

TOMKINS COVE.—The first of the series of road contracts, in addition to the Tomkins Cove-Highland Lake road, that is intended to make a boulevard on the west bank of the Hudson River between New York City, West Point and Cornwall, was awarded by the state board to the contracting firm of Elmore & Hamilton, of Schenectady, N. Y. This section of the road is to connect West Point with Cornwall-on-the-Hill, piercing the Storm King mountain with a tunnel, coming out near where the old West Point quarry once was. The road will follow the Clove and thence around the side of Crow Hill. Practically an even grade will be maintained the entire length of the highway. This is one of the most extensive pieces of public road ever contracted for since the inauguration of the good roads movement. Bids for the section of state road that is to be built from West Point to Central Valley were received on January 22 by the State Engineer.

New Jersey.

ELIZABETH.—Mayor Ryan has recommended the reconstruction of the building purchased for an armory.

PALISADE.—Ernest Sibley, architect, of Grantwood, will receive bids in February for the Board of Education of the Borough of Palisade Park for the erection of the 2-sty brk school, to cost about $40,000.

ELIZABETH.—Mayor Ryan recommends the erection of a high school at a cost of $150,000.

ORANGE.—Miss Bertha Levy will erect a 3-sty frame apartment house from plans by Hyman Rosensohn, at Mt. Vernon and Lakeside avs, Orange. The structure will have all modern improvements except steam heat. It will have a slag roof and station-house plumbing. The estimated cost is $9,000.

NEWARK.—Hyman Rosensohn has drawn plans for three 6-family frame apartment houses that Maxman, Cohen & Friedman will erect at 442 to 448 South 13th st. The estimated cost of each is $8,500.

NEWARK.—The Union Building Co. has had plans drawn by Peter Charles for three 3-sty frame detached six-family apartment buildings, on which they will soon start work at 323 to 327 Sussex av. The cost of the buildings will be about $24,000. Charles L. Steinbrunner has just completed plans for a frame two-family dwelling to be built at 31 Munn av, for Henry Sommerrock. The owner will be the builder.

BAYONNE.—The outlook is bright for the establishment in Bayonne of a branch of the Young Men's Christian Association and the erection of a building which will provide numerous attractive and helpful amusements for the young men of the city. It is estimated that a building such as is desired will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000, and a committee, of which Mr. Frank W. Edwards, superintendent of the Tidewater Oil Company, is chairman, will endeavor to raise this amount. The plan is to erect the building in the central section of the city.

NEWARK.—Robert Sellick is drawing plans for a 4-sty brick store and tenement building, which Kaspar Hufnagel will erect on Belmont av, near 17th av, at a cost of about $16,000. The store will have large plate glass windows, and the ceiling will be of metal. Estimates will be taken soon. Schoenig & Son have drawn plans for a 3-sty frame six-family flat which James Smith is to build at 130 17th av. The plans call for a building to measure 25x55 ft. The estimated cost is about $7,000.

The Week.

The week just past, from a sales standpoint, shows a tendency toward broadening. While the number reported was small, still there was considerable variety in the offerings disposed of. Investors are getting back their courage. A great deal of money that was hoarded a few months ago is coming back into use again. Where a few months ago the savings banks were not making any loans, that were not already contracted for, to-day they stand ready to take fifty per cent. mortgages on desirable property. Manifestly, this is a step in the right direction. The banks and institutions can hardly be blamed for looking carefully at the propositions into which they are requested to invest their depositors' savings. To-day they are more conservative, and they can hardly be blamed, when one considers the trying period they have just passed through.

Washington Heights has contributed its share toward the sales market of late. Considerable vacant property has fallen into good hands and a number of new projects are under way in that section. The lesson has been learned by builders, and an expensive one it was for them, that the residents of the Heights demand good accommodations. They are not willing any longer to put up with any makeshift.

Mrs. Russell Sage purchased 604 5th av, a 4-sty brownstone high stoop dwelling, 30x100. This is the second time during the past few years that business has driven Mrs. Sage from her home. Mr. Henry Clews, who was a neighbor of Mrs. Sage, is also going to move. He purchased a home, as reported some weeks ago, in a side street to get away from a business thoroughfare. Charles Kays bought two 4-sty brownstone dwellings, 22 and 24 West 26th st, 50x98.9, from Lachman & Goldsmith. Benjamin Stern, the dry goods merchant, sold to the Palisade Realty Co. 339 West 71st st, a 4½-sty American basement dwelling, 16x102. Seymour L. Cromwell sold his private residence 8 East 53d st for a price reported to be in the neighborhood of $200,000. This is a particulary fine house, designed by C. P. H. Gilbert, and is a 5-sty American basement dwelling. The entrance hall is of Caen stone, the library and middle hall of Circassian walnut, the dining-room has a high wainscoting of cypress and the principal bedroom is of the Marie Antoinette period. There is an electric elevator in this house and it is modern in every detail. The Howe estate sold a couple of properties during the week just past. The 4-sty flat 1442 3d av, 25x100, changed hands, as did the 3-sty dwelling 1192 Lexington av, 17x55.

The block front on the east side of Broadway, between 160th and 161st sts, was purchased by the Crystal Realty Co., who will improve the plot with five 40-foot 6-sty apartment houses.

Among the loans put through during the past week was one made by Henry Siegel to Ernest Rosemund of $70,000, due date and rate as per bond, on the property 1313 Broadway, at the northwest corner of 34th st. There is a prior mortgage of $300,000 on this holding. The Century Realty Holding Company received a building loan of $475,000 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. on the property situated at the southeast corner of Riverside drive and 98th st. They are going to erect a 12-sty apartment house. Mrs. Nellie Flake, the widow of Albert Flake, borrowed $200,000 on the Majestic Theatre and Pabst Grand Circle restaurant from the United States Trust Co. The loan carries five per cent interest.

There were only a small number of leases reported during the week. Miss Helen Gould rented her house 1 East 47th st, on the northeast corner of 5th av. This property has been vacant for some time, and adjoins her city residence. The lessees are going to use the premises for their ladies' tailoring establishment. A company which is going to engage in the bootblacking business rented a large amount of space in the Hudson and Manhattan terminal building. The aggregate rental amounts to $124,000. The southeast corner of Broadway and 101st st was leased to David Gutlohn for a period of 20 years at $19,000 per annum.

The total number of mortgages recorded for Manhattan this week was 143, against 172 last week, and in the Bronx 94, as against 105 last week. The total amount involved is $2,999,264, as against $3,409,018 last week.

The total number of sales reported is 53, of which 12 were below 59th st, 23 above, and 18 in the Bronx. The sales reported for the corresponding week last year were 149, of which 61 were below 59th st, 66 above, and 22 in the Bronx.

THE AUCTION MARKET

The sales in the auction market last week were all forced sales. The consensus of opinion is that the present time is not propitious for sales of this character on account of the stringency in the money market. Last week there were several parcels put up at voluntary auction, but one of the terms of sale was that 80 per cent. of the purchase price could remain on mortgage, at the option of the purchaser. As a result fair prices were obtained. About half of the offerings advertised to take place this past week were adjourned to a future date.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day, 156 East 100th st, a 5-sty tenement, 25x100.11, was knocked down to Max Cohen for $16,500. At the stand of Samuel Goldsticker, the Batavia and New York Woodworking Co., parties in interest, purchased 200 Claremont av, southeast corner of 127th st, a 6-sty apartment house, 119.8x100. The sum due was about $20,500, subject to a prior mortgage of $175,000. This action was brought against the John V. Signell Co. et al. Two other houses, one on the northwest corner of 143d st and Hamilton pl and the other on the southwest corner of 144th st and Hamilton pl, were adjourned to April 20 next. These actions were brought by the Germania Life Insurance Co. against the John V. Signell Co. The former of these houses was sold at auction on January 9 last; action 2. It was purchased by the plaintiff, the Realty Transfer Company. This house was reported sold last week to an investor by H. D. Baker & Brother. There was a building loan of $105,000 at 6 per cent. placed on this house Feb. 15, 1906. At the stand of Samuel Goldsticker on Wednesday the vacant plot on the east side of Southern boulevard, 177 feet south of 141st st, was knocked down to G. Kuhne for $3,300. The amount due was $3,269.84; taxes and other charges amounting to about $178.37. The 6-sty flat 515 West 117th st, 36x100.11, was sold by Joseph P. Day to the plaintiff, Harris Mandelbaum and another, for $30,592.

Last year the total for the corresponding week was $635,002, and from Jan. 1, $2,587,566.

Trades in the Bronx.

Most of the sales put through in the Bronx during the past few weeks have been in the form of trades. The condition of the money market has interfered to a certain extent with cash sales. Many of the prospective purchasers have a small amount of ready money. The difficulty encountered in placing mortgages has stopped a number of transactions altogether or postponed them to a future date, when money will be more readily obtainable. Charles A. Weber, of 660 East 149th st, referring to the outlook in that section, said:

"At present there is not much demand for the renting of flats and apartments, but stores, business property and lofts for manufacturing purposes are more easily rented. I note that there are a few cash investors again in the market who desire to invest from five to fifteen thousand dollars. About 80 per cent. of the present Bronx business done consists of trades, where little cash is required. Small amounts of money, say under twelve thousand dollars, are obtainable, but difficulty is experienced in getting larger amounts."

Mr. Shatzkin, of A. Shatzin & Sons, 3d av and 149th st, said: "About six weeks ago business stopped altogether. We had a good fall and put through a satisfactory number of sales. We are in position to know as well as any broker the local conditions. The truth is, business is bad. We look for a picking up, however, in the spring."

Savings Banks and Mortgage Money.

GILT-EDGE MORTGAGES BEING ACCEPTED—FORTY MILLION IN CASH NEEDED TO CLEAR THE SITUATION—SMALL LOANS FAVORED.

THERE has been much speculation lately as to what the interest rate on real estate mortgages will be during the next few months. Certainly conditions are better than they were during November and the early part of December. Money could not be obtained during those months at any price. Only those engagements which had been previously contracted for were concluded.

A great deal depends upon the attitude taken by the various corporations which make a practice of loaning on bond and mortgage. Conditions have arisen and they must be met, each in its own way. For example, the life insurance companies have been in the habit of loaning vast sums on realty. At the present time and for some months past they have been virtually out of the market. One reason is, they are lending cash to their policyholders. In many policies a clause is inserted to the effect that they have a certain cash loaning value at the end of a given period. Thousands of people who needed money have taken advantage of this clause.

In looking over the statistics of recorded mortgages from the first of the year it will be found that the number of mortgages to banks, trust and insurance companies for Manhattan amount to 43, involving $2,326,500, while in the Bronx 13 were recorded, amounting to $70,890. During the corresponding period last year 221 were recorded for Manhattan, representing $9,329,600, while 22 were placed in the Bronx, aggregating $245,850. This shows quite clearly how institutions have stopped, to a large extent, lending money on property.

William M. Slackman, vice-president of the Bowery Savings Bank, when asked by a representative of the Record and Guide for an expression of opinion as to the probable condition of the mortgage market during the spring of 1908, said: "Conditions are improved. We made no loans on realty two months ago. At the present time we are accepting gilt-edge mortgages at 5 and 5½ per cent. The latter rate prevails and I cannot see any indication that it will be reduced for some time to come. At present we pick and choose our loans."

Gustav F. Amthor, treasurer of the German Savings Bank, said: "We cannot see any possibility of an immediate reduction in the interest rates on mortgages. Possibly in six months or a year. We have been loaning all winter, but only on 'preferred' mortgages. Large amounts at the present time are harder to get than smaller sums. The expense of getting a mortgage from us is the same as the title companies charge plus one-half per cent. recording tax."

W. F. Patterson, assistant secretary of the Dry Dock Savings Bank, said: "To clear the situation, between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 is needed. The minimum rate will be 5 per cent. for some time to come. We have any amount of applications for loans at 5½ and 6 per cent. In the course of time things will right themselves, as they always have in the past. All things being even, we prefer to loan in small amounts, as we consider it right to benefit the greatest number of people."

Frank M. Hulbert, president of the Union Square Savings Bank, said: "The savings banks, undoubtedly, have considerable money on hand, a certain portion of which will find its way into real estate mortgages. The rate will probably be unchanged during 1908."

Daniel Barnes, president of the Seaman's Savings Bank, said: "We are not making many real estate loans. Nothing worse than 50 per cent. mortgages are taken, and the rate paid varies from 5½ to 6 per cent. I do not think that conditions will improve for some months to come. There is more demand than supply."

Henry Sayler, secretary of the Citizens' Savings Bank, said: "We have not raised the interest rate as yet. If, however, the money market does not improve shortly we will do so. All new loans are based on a 40 to 50 per cent. valuation and 5 per cent interest is charged. We confine ourselves to small amounts and leave the larger institutions to lend the larger amounts."

Charles A. Whitney, secretary of the East River Savings Bank, said: "We are not making any new loans on realty. We are charging 5 per cent. on Manhattan mortgages that formerly paid 4½ per cent. In Brooklyn and the Bronx we are getting 5½ and 6 per cent. on mortgages that formerly were 5 and 5½ per cent. In my opinion conditions are but little improved."

The Index to Volume LXXX. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between July 1 to December 30, is now ready for delivery. Price, $1. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to everyone engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

Annual Report of the Title Guarantee and Trust Co.

The report of the trustees of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, presented to the stockholders by President Clarence H. Kelsey, at the annual meeting of the company yesterday, while stating that as a result of the panic, the last half year showed less activity in the real estate market, and that the mortgage market shrunk very fast, shows on the whole a very healthy outlook for these broad fields of financial activity as well as for the company itself. Naturally, the year just ended showed a reduction in title insurance and search fees for 1907 as compared with the previous year, a record of deeds and mortgages in Greater New York showing a similar reaction. The company's mortgage business for the first six months of 1907 showing a slight increase over the corresponding period of the previous year.

The report cites the development of a national market for New York City mortgages, a work started in 1906 with the issuance of mortgage certificates by the New York Investors' Corporation, organized for this purpose, payment of the mortgages being guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company, and while conditions have not favored the rapid development of the plan, the outlook is considered satisfactory.

The company added to undivided profits from earnings $303,000 for the year, and for the past eight years has added to surplus and undivided profits from earnings $5,580,930.

The proposed "Torrens" law is referred to as follows: "There has been much discussion of the so-called Torrens law for State registration and guarantee of titles and a commission was appointed by the Governor in the last session of the Legislature to consider and report upon the advisability of the adoption by the State of some such method. The attitude of the company towards the proposition has been very much misinterpreted and the effect of such a law, if passed, upon its business, misunderstood. We are charged with strenuously opposing the measure on the ground that it would hurt our business. As a matter of fact, we have confined our action to a statement of the practical bearings of the proposition on the business of New York as it has to be conducted to-day. We are of the opinion that the State would be very unwise to enter upon the business and that conditions here are such that it cannot possibly handle the business. If the legislators do not agree with us, we have nothing further to say. We shall look with perfect unconcern upon the passage of such a law because we are satisfied that we shall not feel its competition with our business, that it cannot serve the community as we are serving it and that it will be more useless here than in any community in which it has been tried."

During the year the company completed its great Brooklyn equipment which, by the opening of the tunnel under the East River, is only 12 minutes from the New York office, this fact being indicative, adds the report, of how great the effect will be upon all kinds of real estate conditions in Brooklyn when the other tunnels and additional bridges which are fast approaching completion are actually thrown open to the public.

The practical completion of a complete locality plant for the records of Richmond County, embracing all of Staten Island, is mentioned, as well as similar work in Westchester County. The banking department has 9,370 depositors, an increase of 1,437 for the year, and a branch of the banking business was opened in Long Island City.

William A. Nash, president of the Corn Exchange Bank, was the only addition to the board of trustees. All of the officers were re-elected.

Centre Street Leases and Conveyances.

There has been considerable activity in Centre st property during 1907. A number of holdings have changed hands and several important leases have been consummated. The sale of the most importance in this thoroughfare was 2 and 4 Centre st, which includes 72 and 74 Park row. This building occupies a plot 50x132x irreg. It was owned and occupied by the Staats-Zeitung for several years and was sold to the City of New York for $1,650,000 and interest amounting to $55,687. Nos. 62 and 64, 3-sty brick, front and rear tenements, 35x91x irreg., changed hands for $60,000. The 3-sty frame building 36 Centre st, 20x65, brought $16,000. This property is assessed for $12,500. The New York Life Insurance Company was the seller of 81, 83 and 85 Centre st. The first two named houses went to Richard H. Thomas for $80,000. These structures have a frontage of 42 feet and irregular depth, while 85 Centre st was sold to George H. Walker for $40,000. This latter plot is 21x67x irreg.

Among the leases put through was one to Charles G. Burgoyne from Peter R. Weiler, 146 to 150 Centre st, on the corner of Walker st. This lease is for 5 years at $21,000 annually. The basement, store and first and second lofts were immediately sub-let for the same term at $12,000 a year. All of No. 112 and the rear part of No. 114 was leased by John H. Voege for 5 years from May 1, 1909, at a graduated rental of $4,800 to $5,100. Eliza V. Swift rented 58 Centre st to M. J. Fitzgerald Co., a corporation, for 5 years from May 1, 1908, at $5,000 per annum; and the northeast corner of White and Centre sts was leased by Henry Schillingmann from Henry Knabe for 10 years and 1 month, from April 1, 1907, at $3,000 annually.

PRIVATE SALES MARKET

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

WHITE ST.—George F. Patton sold for John E. Brennan 126 White st, a 3-sty brk dwelling, 19.7x85.5x irreg, between Centre and Baxter sts, for $14,000.

14TH ST.—Bernard Smyth & Sons sold for the Kip estate to Jacob Mayers 426 West 14th st, 25x103.3, 50 ft. east of Washington st. This property has been in the Kip family for over 50 years.

39TH ST.—Weil & Mayer bought through H. G. Sergansky from Moses Valenstein 534 to 538 West 39th st, three 5-sty flats, 75x98.9.

53D ST.—Agnes Cromwell sold through Henry D. Winans & May 8 East 53d st, a 5-sty American basement dwelling, 25x100.5. This property was transferred to Mrs. Cromwell by her husband on June 20, 1903. The present selling price is reported as $200,000. There are 17 bedrooms and 4 baths, besides 7 servants' rooms. Special attention was given to the woodwork, which is of superior quality.

Dwellings Sold in West 26th Street.

26TH ST.—Julius Friend sold for Lachman & Goldsmith, of 35 Nassau st, to Charles Kays, 22 and 24 West 26th st, two 4-sty brownstone high-stoop dwellings, 50x98.9. On July 15, 1905, the sellers acquired title from Frederick Robert, of 97 Water st, to No. 22, and last year this property was assessed at $48,000. On July 11, 1903, title to No. 24 was recorded in the names of the present sellers. This house was purchased from the Circle Francais de L'Harmonie, subject to a mortgage of $30,000. The price paid was $51,000.

42D ST.—Otis A. Mygatt, of 15 East 32d st, sold through Hopkins & Boyd, 202 East 42d st, a 5-sty factory, 25x77.9x irreg, 80 ft. east of 3d av. Mr. Mygatt purchased this house from James Murtaugh on Juue 6, 1907. He paid at that time $36,750 for the property. It is assessed at $22,000, the building being valued at $4,000 and the lot at $18,000. He also owns 311 West 74th st.

50TH ST.—The Delaplaine estate sold to a Mr. Peabody, 64 West 50th st, a 3-sty and basement dwelling, 18x100.5, Columbia College leasehold.

OF THE

For 1907

Will be ready February 15th

As a guide to present values and future possibilities in real estate it is as necessary as the stock ticker to a broker.

READ CAREFULLY

This number will contain the improved order of arranging records. By combining all records relating to any given property (conveyances, mortgages, leases, alterations, projected buildings or wills filed), a much clearer idea may be obtained of their relation to each other. The order followed is first GEOGRAPHICAL, and then CHRONOLOGICAL. Thus a recorded lease may precede a conveyance which may be followed by a mortgage, and that in turn by a subsequent conveyance, a building loan and plans filed.

The various records may readily be determined at a glance by their typographical differences, thus:
